Editor's Column

STUART R. PADDOCK

Charleston, S. C.—

Do readers of this column like history? This editor does, and he is going to pass on to readers in the next two weeks some occurrences that took place 100 years ago, but which are not found in some national histories.

The secession of 100 years ago is ancient history, but the people of South Carolina, where the civil war first started, are recognizing the part played by its plantation owners and residents.

Gen. Mark Clark, president of the Citadel, and its students will take a major part in the Centennial observance the coming weekend. The celebration will start Saturday morning with a parade at the Citadel, followed by a program in the armory. A Confederate ball takes place that evening.

The big day is Monday when there will be a parade through the business district by the Citadel Corps of Cadets, ending at the battery adjoining the Fort Sumter hotel. So of course, we'll be there.

Gen. Mark W. Clark will play the role of Major Anderson, the Fort Sumter defender. Citadel cadets will fire on a U. S. ship in Charleston harbor, rolling back the calendar 100 years.

The Navy ship selected for a starring role in the drama is a mine sweeper support ship disguised with mast, sails and paddle wheels; looking as much like the old federal steamer, "Star of the West" as possible.

That unarmed steamer carried supplies for Major Anderson at Fort Sumter, but due to shell fire from a Confederate battery turned back without delivering them.

A company of Citadel cadets have been growing long sideburns this fall to lend authenticity to their parts in the firing. They will wear the uniforms modeled after those of 100 years ago, drill with muskets and follow a 100 year drill manual.

It will be an authentic reenactment of the stirring events of Jan. 9, 1860 that followed the secession of South Carolina on Dec. 20, 1860.

According to the Charleston News and Courier, the secession started Dec. 6 when Carolinians elected delegates to the secession convention.

Dec. 6 a delegation in Congress called upon President Buchanan to ascertain his intentions toward the forts in Charleston harbor. The understanding was that no reinforcement would be seen. Buchanan did nothing and promised nothing.

Dec. 18 the convention opened at Columbia, but because of smallpox it was moved to Charleston.

Dec. 20 the secession ordinance was adopted by 169 delegates, which was followed by expressions of great joy by the people of Charleston.

Note: Next week we will tell about Major Anderson's removal of his forces of 100 men to Fort Sumter which was not surrendered by him until three months later.

We do not blame the post office for the stamping of "please advise correspondents of your address."

PTA PLANS SPLIT INTO NINE UNITS

Operates Now As One Unit

PTA PRESIDENT Mrs. Nathalie Wallace, of 120 S. Kennicott, has spearheaded the reorganization of the 4500-member Parent-Teacher association in Arlington Heights. Now serving her second term as president, Mrs. Wallace will oversee the eventual establishment of nine separate PTA units in school district 25.

Another step in the reorganization of the 4500-member Arlington Heights Parent-Teacher association is expected to be taken next Tuesday night, it was announced this week by Mrs. Nathalie Wallace, PTA president.

By-laws committees for six of the nine schools in school district 25 will submit proposed by-laws to their memberships Tuesday. Adoption of the by-laws will permit each school to apply for individual PTA charters Mrs. Wallace explained.

BY-LAWS committees for the district's two junior high schools — South and Miner — will present their by-law recommendations Tuesday, Jan. 24. The district's new Kensington school, opened this month, is not involved in the PTA reorganization.

"The adoption of by-laws by the individual schools will allow them to take on real independence," Mrs. Wallace said. "The school organizations can then apply to the state congress for charters and elect their own officers."

Mrs. Wallace said the PTA executive board voted in November to recommend that the association undertake a reorganization to form separate units within each school.

THE PTA has been operating as a combined unit on a village-wide plan since 1953. The executive board felt the rapid growth of the school district had caused the single body to become cumbersome and unwieldy, Mrs. Wallace pointed out.

She said the board feels the establishment of nine separate PTA units will increase efficiency and operation, better serve school children and the community, and promote better program coordination.

The PTA planning committee has suggested the eventual establishment of an Arlington Heights Parent-Teacher council comprised of representatives of the individual school PTAs. This body would coordinate efforts of the separate units.

IT HAS been proposed that the council hold its first annual meeting in late April or early May to organize and discuss workshops and schools of instruction. The nine new PTA units would technically begin separate activity in September, according to the planning committee.

Ralph E. Clabaugh, superintendent of district 25, said he is extremely pleased the executive board has recommended the reorganization. He noted the reorganization will greatly simplify the PTA's operation.

"I am convinced that the school administration will be able to operate more effectively when each school principal can work directly with the PTA leadership in his own school," Clabaugh said.

MRS. WALLACE and Superintendent Clabaugh both stressed that the present PTA setup will remain intact until the end of the school year in June, thereby not disrupting current programs and ways and means events.

When the separate PTA units begin to function, parents with children in the district's nine attendance centers will join the individual school units.

Ice Carnival Is Set by Rotarians

The third annual Rotary Ice Carnival is scheduled for Saturday, Jan. 21, at Pioneer Park rink. Skating competition for boys and girls of all ages will be held beginning at 10 a.m.

The Carnival is sponsored by the Arlington Heights Rotary club and held under the direction of the park district. The Rotarians will award trophies and ribbons to event winners, and any youngster in Arlington Heights can enter by attending the preliminary events at 9 a.m. on January 21.

EVENTS IN the carnvial include midget boys and midget girls, 110-yard races for skaters nine-years-old and under; intermediate boys and girls, 220-yard races for 10-12-year-olds; Junior boys and girls, 440-yard races for 13 and 14-year-olds; Senior boys and girls, 80-yard races for skaters aged 15 and over, plus open competition in figure skating for both boys and girls.

In case the ice is not suitable for skating on January 21, the Rotary Carnival will be held on Saturday, Jan. 28, park officials announced this week.

DEDICATION CEREMONIES are planned for 3 p. m. Sunday at the new $1 million Northwest Suburban YMCA building, located on Northwest hwy. between Des Plaines and Mount Prospect. Designed to serve all area suburbs, the new YMCA includes a swimming pool, gymnasium, game and meeting rooms, lounges, handball and squash courts, and other facilities for family recreation.

Burglars Imprison Couple in Bedroom

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kervick, of 619 E. Grove st., were awakened last Thursday morning by strange noises and found themselves imprisoned in a second floor bedroom of their Arlington Heights home.

As Kervick struggled to open the bedroom door, he and his wife heard footsteps running down a stairway and out the front door. The bedroom door had been held shut by a clothes line tied to a towel rack in another room.

THE KERVICKS found the prowler had entered the room of their two teenage daughters and ransacked dresser drawers. The bedroom of their 20-year-old son had been barricaded with a telephone table.

The prowler, apparently scared away before taking anything, entered through the front door, police theorize. A teenage suspect was questioned by police, but it was determined he had not been in the vicinity of the Kervick home.

Police said they have received several other complaints of prowlers in recent weeks.

FIREMEN ENTER home of Raymond Burke to fight blaze which caused an estimated $10,000 damage Friday. The fire is believed to have been caused by faulty wiring in Christmas tree lights.

Yule Fire Damage $10,000 Estimate

A fire, believed to have been started by faulty wiring in lights to a Christmas tree, caused an estimated $10,000 damage last Friday at the home of Raymond Burke, 1310 Sunset ter., in southwest Arlington Heights.

Firemen doused the blaze quickly, but not before flames severely damaged the walls and furnishings of one room and heat and smoke damaged three others.

FIRE CHIEF Harvey Carothers reported the Burkes' 13-year-old son, Timothy, said he was home alone when he turned on spotlights to a flocked Christmas tree. Shortly after, the chief recounted, the boy said he smelled smoke and discovered the tree in flames.

Chief Carothers theorizes a short in wiring to the trees lights ignited the highly combustible tree. Young Burke was unable to remove the tree from the house and phoned the fire department.

All three village fire units answered the 3 p.m. call. No injuries were reported.

Catholic Schools

Second Registration Day for High Schools

A second registration day has been set for both the new boys and girls Catholic high schools slated to open in September.

Registration for freshman and sophomore boys for the new St. Viator high school, Arlington Heights, will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 14, at St. James grade school, 821 N. State rd., Arlington Heights.

Freshman girls enrolling in the new Sacred Heart of Mary high school, Rolling Meadows, will register at 9 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 14, at Our Lady of the Wayside school, 420 S. Walnut, Arlington Heights.

IN THE FIRST registration last Saturday there were 300 boys and 141 girls registered.

Details regarding bus transportation will be worked out when registration is completed.

School officials have indicated tuition will be $200 per year.

At the first-day registration girls who will attend Sacred Heart of Mary high school chose their uniforms. These will be Asia-blue tailored suits with school crest on jacket pocket, white ankle socks, navy-and-white saddle shoes, white blouses, navy-blue hats and white gloves. An alternate pleated blue-and-white plaid skirt will be worn in the fall and spring.

A $10 FEE is payable at registration for both schools. The fee is refunded if a student does not attend the school. A placement test is given following registration.

The $3 million St. Viator high school building on Oakton st., Arlington Heights, will be completed in September. The boys school will be conducted by the Clerics of St. Viator.

Classes for the Sacred Heart of Mary high school will be held during the 1961-62 and 1962-63 school years in rooms leased from St. Viator high school. In September, 1963 the school will move to its own new building on Central rd., Rolling Meadows.

The girls school will be conducted by the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary. Provincial house for the order, new to the midwest, is at Marymount college, Tarrytown, N. Y.

Robert F. Hall, 107 S. Burton, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol Saturday by Arlington Heights police after he was observed driving erratically on Northwest hwy. near Pine st.

District 25 Caucus

School Nominating Committee to Meet

The first meeting of delegates to the Nominating Committee for selection of candidates to fill three vacancies on the Arlington Heights school board of district 25 will be held Monday, Jan. 16, at 8 p.m. in South Junior high school cafeteria.

Lambert W. Bredehoft, president of the school board, will review the duties of school board members and outline qualifications desirable for board candidates. The purpose of the committee and delegates' duties will also be discussed.

Three vacancies on district 25's board will be filed in April. The terms of Bredehoft, 201 Wilshire blvd.; William F. Hannum, 1020 N. Fernandez, and J. Brooks Smith, 112 N. Yale, will expire this Spring.

SMITH, WHO resigned his office last December 1, has been succeeded on the board by Victor L. Bedingfield, 612 N. Dunton. Board members serve three-year terms.

At a delegates' meeting January 30, candidates will be nominated and an interviewing committee will be appointed to interview prospective candidates. At the final meeting of delegates February 20, the three candidates will be finally recommended.

The public is invited to attend the meeting January 16, it was pointed out by Harold E. Sortor, 1405 N. Harvard rd., committee chairman. He added, however, that in keeping with the committee's by-laws, non-delegates are not permitted to vote.

ORGANIZATIONS sending delegates to committee proceedings last year were the Arlington Heights PTA, Arlington Heights Nurses club, American Association of University Women, Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club, Arlington Heights Woman's club.

Also the Campfire Girls association, Arlington Heights chamber of commerce, Community Concerts, Garden club, Jaycees, Lions club, Newcomers club, Village theatre, and several property owners associations.

Organizations may be represented on the committee if they are non-political, non-religious, civic or educational in interest, have elected officers and have been in operation for two years.

Inquiries in regard to the work of the committee may be directed to chairman Sortor or to Mrs. Sam W. Cullison Jr., 511 N. Hickory, vice chairman.

Installation Slated For Dinner-Dance

Rev. George B. Roth, assistant priest at St. James Catholic church in Arlington Heights, will give the invocation Wednesday, Feb. 1, at the annual dinner-dance of the Arlington Heights chamber of commerce.

The announcement was made this week by Don Hartman, toastmaster for the dinner. The dinner-dance will be staged at the Rolling Green country club.

Hartman said the installation of new chamber officers will take place between the dinner, which begins at 7:30 p.m., and dancing. New officers include Robert Y. Paddock, president; W. C. Wolf, vice president, and Roy Benson, secretary - treasurer.

INVITATIONS to the dance were sent this week to village officials and chambers of commerce in Des Plaines, Mt. Prospect and Palatine. Tickets sales have been very good, according to Hartman.

Tickets may be obtained from chamber officers, directors or at the chamber office, CL 3-1703.

2 Teens Held for Larceny

Two 14-year-old Arlington Heights youths were being held in the Kane county detention home this week after a stolen auto spree which took them into four Illinois counties.

The youths, reportedly angry at their parents, decided to run away from home late Saturday night, according to Arlington Heights police. They stole the auto of Frank Eaton Jr., 824 N. Ridge, for transportation.

UPON ARRIVING in St. Charles, Kane county, the boys smashed up the Eaton car, stole another, and proceeded through DeKalb county to Rochelle in Ogle county. Rochelle police arrested the pair after a routine drivers license check.

The youths admitted they were "casing" a Rochelle barber shop for a possible burglary when arrested. They were returned to St. Charles, where police charged them with auto larceny.

One of the two youths was involved last month in a stolen car episode which ended in Bardwell, Ky. He also has admitted a recent burglary in Arlington Heights, police said.

AUTHORITIES here said they will charge the youths with auto larceny after Kane county charges have been settled. (AF

Two Zoning Variations Are Sought

The Arlington Heights zoning board of appeals last week scheduled a hearing for 10 a.m. this Saturday to deal with two requests for zoning variations.

To be considered are the petitions of Dr. Robert C. Kloempken, owner of the medical building at Evergreen and Central rds., and Eugene W. Pilawski, part owner of 10 lots on the west side of Fernandez st. between Grove and George sts.

DR. KLOEMPKEN has requested a variation in zoning to allow him to construct an addition to the medical building. Pilawski is asking for variations in frontage measurements.

The hearing will be held in the village hall council room. All those wishing to be heard are advised to attend, according to Victor Beisler, board chairman.

Tree Burning Slated Friday

Residents wishing to dispose of Christmas trees may bring them to diamond two at Pioneer park by Friday, Jan. 13, it was announced this week by Tom Thornton, director of the Arlington Heights park district.

The park district will burn the trees Friday afternoon, Thornton said. Diamond two is located at the corner of Fairview and Fernandez sts.

Meeting Date Set By Caucus

Edward Huster, chairman of the Arlington Heights Caucus, announced this week the organization will hold a public meeting for the election of candidates on Monday, Feb. 13, in the Arlington high school cafeteria.

At this meeting, Huster explained, the candidate recommendation committee will make at least two recommendations for each of five village offices. Persons attending the meeting will then elect candidates to represent the Caucus in April's election.

THOSE SEEING their terms expire are village president Edward G. Carlisle, trustees Robert Bukowski, Melvin Kurtz and Wendell Prunty, and village clerk Mildred Pearson.

The Caucus has mailed 88 questionnaires to date, according to Donald Whiting, candidate recommendation committee chairman. Seven candidates have been interviewed so far and interviews will continue up until the February 13 meeting, Whiting said.

At the time the Herald went to press, no announcements of slates organizing in opposition to the Caucus had been made. (AF

Plan Social Activities For Jaycees

An organization to promote social contact among local Jaycee members was formed by a group of Jaycee wives at a meeting on January 5.

The group will meet monthly to aid their husbands, members of the Arlington Heights chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, in various civic projects and to plan functions to bring the Jaycees closer together in a social atmosphere.

ELECTED president of the Jaycee Wives was Mrs. Jean Hanlon. Other officers are Mrs. Judy LaLieke, vice-president, and Mrs. Joan Backaff, secretary-treasurer.

Planned for February is the first affair sponsored by the group, a get-acquainted party for all Jaycee members and their wives.

2 Teens Held for Larceny

Two 14-year-old Arlington Heights youths were being held in the Kane county detention home this week after a stolen auto spree which took them into four Illinois counties.

The youths, reportedly angry at their parents, decided to run away from home late Saturday night, according to Arlington Heights police. They stole the auto of Frank Eaton Jr., 824 N. Ridge, for transportation.

UPON ARRIVING in St. Charles, Kane county, the boys smashed up the Eaton car, stole another, and proceeded through DeKalb county to Rochelle in Ogle county. Rochelle police arrested the pair after a routine drivers license check.

The youths admitted they were "casing" a Rochelle barber shop for a possible burglary when arrested. They were returned to St. Charles, where police charged them with auto larceny.

One of the two youths was involved last month in a stolen car episode which ended in Bardwell, Ky. He also has admitted a recent burglary in Arlington Heights, police said.

AUTHORITIES here said they will charge the youths with auto larceny after Kane county charges have been settled. (AF

Two Zoning Variations Are Sought

The Arlington Heights zoning board of appeals last week scheduled a hearing for 10 a.m. this Saturday to deal with two requests for zoning variations.

To be considered are the petitions of Dr. Robert C. Kloempken, owner of the medical building at Evergreen and Central rds., and Eugene W. Pilawski, part owner of 10 lots on the west side of Fernandez st. between Grove and George sts.

DR. KLOEMPKEN has requested a variation in zoning to allow him to construct an addition to the medical building. Pilawski is asking for variations in frontage measurements.

The hearing will be held in the village hall council room. All those wishing to be heard are advised to attend, according to Victor Beisler, board chairman.

Tree Burning Slated Friday

Residents wishing to dispose of Christmas trees may bring them to diamond two at Pioneer park by Friday, Jan. 13, it was announced this week by Tom Thornton, director of the Arlington Heights park district.

The park district will burn the trees Friday afternoon, Thornton said. Diamond two is located at the corner of Fairview and Fernandez sts.

Meeting Date Set By Caucus

Edward Huster, chairman of the Arlington Heights Caucus, announced this week the organization will hold a public meeting for the election of candidates on Monday, Feb. 13, in the Arlington high school cafeteria.

At this meeting, Huster explained, the candidate recommendation committee will make at least two recommendations for each of five village offices. Persons attending the meeting will then elect candidates to represent the Caucus in April's election.

THOSE SEEING their terms expire are village president Edward G. Carlisle, trustees Robert Bukowski, Melvin Kurtz and Wendell Prunty, and village clerk Mildred Pearson.

The Caucus has mailed 88 questionnaires to date, according to Donald Whiting, candidate recommendation committee chairman. Seven candidates have been interviewed so far and interviews will continue up until the February 13 meeting, Whiting said.

At the time the Herald went to press, no announcements of slates organizing in opposition to the Caucus had been made. (AF

Plan Social Activities For Jaycees

An organization to promote social contact among local Jaycee members was formed by a group of Jaycee wives at a meeting on January 5.

The group will meet monthly to aid their husbands, members of the Arlington Heights chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, in various civic projects and to plan functions to bring the Jaycees closer together in a social atmosphere.

ELECTED president of the Jaycee Wives was Mrs. Jean Hanlon. Other officers are Mrs. Judy LaLieke, vice-president, and Mrs. Joan Backaff, secretary-treasurer.

Planned for February is the first affair sponsored by the group, a get-acquainted party for all Jaycee members and their wives.

Regulations Protect Suburbanites' Pets

By BRUCE LADD

Man's best friend - the dog - is regulated, inoculated, licensed, chased and sometimes cursed by village officials and police in the northwest suburbs.

But it's all for the dog's own good, authorities maintain. They are quick to point out that dogs need supervision, quick to defend the need for dog control programs.

The communities of Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Mt. Prospect, Palatine and Wheeling all carry out some form of dog control program. Most are identical.

REPRESENTATIVE of an efficient program is that administered by Policeman Eugene Korn, animal wlefare officer for the village of Arlington Heights. The 26-year-old officer has made a science of dog control.

Korn can refer to a file cabinet which orderly lists every known dog in the village. In a matter of minutes he can determine a dog's owner, name, sex, color and whether or not it has been inoculated against rabies.

Both Cook county and suburban ordinances require that dogs be shot for rabies once a year, Korn points out. Proof of rabies inocculation must be presented at the time annual dog licenses are applied for. All northwest suburban villages require that dogs be licensed yearly.

"Once the deadline for licensing is past," Korn said, "the tough part of the job, enforcing the ordinances, begins. Most area villages have a very efficient means of determining which residents own dogs."

Though declining to reveal the villages' method of earmarking dog homes, Korn does admit that the continuing dog census enables him to keep track of those who have not purchased licenses. He said the failure to have a dog licnesed can result in fines from $5 to $200.

KORN AND policemen in other villages are supported by ordinances which prohibit dogs from running at large. Loose dogs are apprehended by police, who notify the owners. Fines may result from these infractions too.

Residents who find their dogs have escaped the house or backyard are encouraged to report to Arlington Heights police, Korn notes. He said police will attempt to locate the missing dog, most generally waving the fine when owners report the escapee. Chronic violators are fined regardless.

INSPECTING DOGS for rabies tags is one of the duties of 26-year-old Eugene Korn, animal welfare officer of the Arlington Heights police department. Officer Korn is known for administering one of the most efficient dog control programs in the northwest suburban area. (B9

Korn, who operates a police panel truck equipped for carrying animals, also is responsible for animals other than dogs. He's dealt with snakes, skunks, squirrels, rats, mice, rabbits, cats, horses, cows, sheep and deer.

He located two deer strolling in Arlington Heights one morning last summer and quietly escorted them out of town. His most unusual case involved a mouse which bit a boy. A cat ate the mouse, the cat bit another boy, and—well, the cat was destroyed.

KORN HAS been known to chase a dog for more than a week. Some say he keeps records on squirrels and pigeons. The modest officer denies his administrative methods are beyond the norm.

"The village decided some time ago it wanted a good animal control program. I've been on the job since July, 1959, and have only attempted to follow through on the suggestions of the village manager and police chief," Korn said.

Handling an average of 10 complaints a week, Korn often is called in the middle of the night to cope with a particularly trying situation. He takes it all in stride though, reasoning his is a service that animal owners' sorely need and sincerely appreciate.

HE WORKS hard to convince dog owners that the rabies inocculation is as much a protection for the dog as it is for those who might be bit by the dog. He compares the rabies shot to the Salk polio shot.

"There was a day when the cry 'mad dog' brought fear to residents' eyes," Korn explained. "Today it is different. We like to think the fear disappeared with the removal of mad dogs."

Negro a Vital Factor

Must Rehabilitate To Reduce Relief Roll

A critical need for more health and welfare services to reduce spiraling costs of the Aid to Dependent Children program in Cook County was disclosed in the fourth report of a series on ADC problems released by a citizen's committee.

Nearly half of the families could be removed from ADC rolls, the third report reveals, if they were "rehabilitated."

Increased out-patient clinics, more patient and medical staff privileges for Negroes, more and better day care facilities for children of mothers who could work, and more home management classes are needed to help mothers become self-supporting.

ALSO needed are greatly expanded services for vocational counseling, training and placement, further improvement in court services, and additional social workers, the study found.

"There is a serious absence of skilled family casework to help families deal with difficult conditions associated with marital discord, separation, desertion, unmarried parenthood and personality disorders," the survey found, and there is a "serious shortage of skilled child welfare services to deal with problems of children in their own homes.

"The shortage of professional child welfare, psychiatric, and family casework consultation services within the Department of Public Aid is a handicap to the staff in recognizing problems in ADC families causing dependency and in helping to resolve them."

WITHOUT these services, according to the report, the cycle of pregnancy, desertion and dependency can be expected to repeat itself in the same families and start in others.

The report is made from a year-long study by an independent health and welfare consulting organization, Greenleigh Associates, of New York City. The study was initiated by Daniel Ryan, president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, through the Committee to Study the ADC Program in Cook County. C. Virgil Martin president of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., is chairman of the blue ribbon committee, which Ryan appointed.

In regard to health services, it was reported that the shortage on the south side of Chicago, where most of the ADC population lives, has only "partly" been offset by the use of panel physicians by DPA.

"CLINICS on the south side report that about 50 per cent of their patients are public assistance clients," it was stated. One clinic turns more applicants away than it accepts because of "capacity reached," according to the study.

The study also disclosed that "the shortage of clinic services available to ADC families outside Chicago in other areas of Cook County are more serious than in Chicago itself." It added:

"Hospital care for Negroes is limited, because few voluntary hospitals will admit Negroes for in-patient cases. This discrimination is also felt by Negro physicians.

"WITH few notable exceptions, voluntary hospitals have not granted staff privileges, courtesy or other privileges to Negro physicians," the report said.

The observations of Dr. Philip Hauser, professor and chairman, Department of Sociology, University of Chicago, and a member of the committee, are pertinent in this regard.

"The ADC program may be viewed as our generation's response to a problem which we have largely inherited from the past.

"NO ONE planned it this way, but the reasons for the size and composition of the present ADC load in Cook County, as in other areas in the United States, are in large measure to be found in the history of the Negro in the United States. The ADC caseload in Cook County today is directly traceable to the lack of educational, economic and social opportunity for the Negro in this country.

As the Negro community achieves increased educational, economic and social opportunity, he will increasingly disappear from public welfare and assistance rolls, including ADC rolls—just as his white immigrant predecessors before him did."

A shortage of funds and doctors to provide periodic health examinations inpedes the public health program, and Chicago's limited public health program can take care of only a small portion of the dental problems, the report stated.

"AS A RESULT," it points out, "most ADC children have to go without dental care."

Two points enter the day care picture, according to the report:

1) The shortage "interferes" with employment plans of mothers for whom employment might be the best plan."

2) "Undue pressure on ADC mothers to take employment frequently results in unsuitable plans for the care of the children through placement under conditions that do not meet minimum legal standards for day care."

The report revealed that "there are no public day care facilities, and those of non-profit organizations can accommodate a total of some 1,800 children when several times that number need to be placed."

ALTHOUGH the survey found that some home management classes "are now in the developmental stages and have had considerable success," it disclosed that these and other services to groups of ADC mothers covering child care and problems of family living "are too few to meet a fraction of the need."

The shortage of vocational services is "glaring," the study reported. It is "especially acute for youth and for unskilled adults," it said.

As was pointed out in the section dealing with illegitimacy, "the absence of a marketable skill, which enables one to have steady work and earn a living, leads to desertion by fathers, non-support of children and unmarried parenthood," and is causing the upsurge in the number of ADC rolls.

THE STUDY found that family and psychiatric casework services in voluntary agencies "are unable to meet the demands for service, because of limited budgets and understaffing." This also was found to be true for child welfare agencies engaged in foster home and adoption placements, and for those providing protective services for children in their own homes. "These services are limited for the general population, but they are more acutely limited for Negro children," it was stated.

Declaring that many public aid departments consider school social workers as "the first line of defense in preventing dependency," the study said the absence of school social workers is "a serious lack in Chicago."

JP Candidates In Barrington Township

The Citizens Nonpartisan party of Barrington township filed a full slate of candidates with the Cook County Clerk's office Monday for the April 4 election. Two justices of the peace and two constables are to be elected for four year terms.

Nominating petitions were filed for its candidates, all incumbents. They are:

For Justices of the Peace: Arthur J. Haggenjos, 110 Coolidge ave., Barrington, and Caleb H. Canby III, 135 Tower rd., Barrington.

FOR CONSTABLE: Carleton A. Beckhart, Rt. 2, Box 290, Stover rd., Barrington, and Reynold Emil Smith, 203 S. Dundee ave., Barrington.

From Hanover township, where two JPs and two constables also are to be elected, nominating petitions were filed by four independents. They are:

For Justices of the Peace: Ronald E. Lange, 1130 Hiawatha dr., Elgin, incumbent, and Roy Schneider, Center and Walnut sts., Hanover Park, P.O. Box 87, Ontarioville.

For Constable: Walter J. Schultz, 247 S. Hickory ave., Bartlett, incumbent, and Walter H. Cliff, 1765 Evergreen st., Hanover Park, P.O. Box 212, Ontarioville. (B8

Negro a Vital Factor

Must Rehabilitate To Reduce Relief Roll

A critical need for more health and welfare services to reduce spiraling costs of the Aid to Dependent Children program in Cook County was disclosed in the fourth report of a series on ADC problems released by a citizen's committee.

Nearly half of the families could be removed from ADC rolls, the third report reveals, if they were "rehabilitated."

Increased out-patient clinics, more patient and medical staff privileges for Negroes, more and better day care facilities for children of mothers who could work, and more home management classes are needed to help mothers become self-supporting.

ALSO needed are greatly expanded services for vocational counseling, training and placement, further improvement in court services, and additional social workers, the study found.

"There is a serious absence of skilled family casework to help families deal with difficult conditions associated with marital discord, separation, desertion, unmarried parenthood and personality disorders," the survey found, and there is a "serious shortage of skilled child welfare services to deal with problems of children in their own homes.

"The shortage of professional child welfare, psychiatric, and family casework consultation services within the Department of Public Aid is a handicap to the staff in recognizing problems in ADC families causing dependency and in helping to resolve them."

WITHOUT these services, according to the report, the cycle of pregnancy, desertion and dependency can be expected to repeat itself in the same families and start in others.

The report is made from a year-long study by an independent health and welfare consulting organization, Greenleigh Associates, of New York City. The study was initiated by Daniel Ryan, president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, through the Committee to Study the ADC Program in Cook County. C. Virgil Martin president of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., is chairman of the blue ribbon committee, which Ryan appointed.

In regard to health services, it was reported that the shortage on the south side of Chicago, where most of the ADC population lives, has only "partly" been offset by the use of panel physicians by DPA.

"CLINICS on the south side report that about 50 per cent of their patients are public assistance clients," it was stated. One clinic turns more applicants away than it accepts because of "capacity reached," according to the study.

The study also disclosed that "the shortage of clinic services available to ADC families outside Chicago in other areas of Cook County are more serious than in Chicago itself." It added:

"Hospital care for Negroes is limited, because few voluntary hospitals will admit Negroes for in-patient cases. This discrimination is also felt by Negro physicians.

"WITH few notable exceptions, voluntary hospitals have not granted staff privileges, courtesy or other privileges to Negro physicians," the report said.

The observations of Dr. Philip Hauser, professor and chairman, Department of Sociology, University of Chicago, and a member of the committee, are pertinent in this regard.

"The ADC program may be viewed as our generation's response to a problem which we have largely inherited from the past.

"NO ONE planned it this way, but the reasons for the size and composition of the present ADC load in Cook County, as in other areas in the United States, are in large measure to be found in the history of the Negro in the United States. The ADC caseload in Cook County today is directly traceable to the lack of educational, economic and social opportunity for the Negro in this country.

As the Negro community achieves increased educational, economic and social opportunity, he will increasingly disappear from public welfare and assistance rolls, including ADC rolls—just as his white immigrant predecessors before him did."

A shortage of funds and doctors to provide periodic health examinations inpedes the public health program, and Chicago's limited public health program can take care of only a small portion of the dental problems, the report stated.

"AS A RESULT," it points out, "most ADC children have to go without dental care."

Two points enter the day care picture, according to the report:

1) The shortage "interferes" with employment plans of mothers for whom employment might be the best plan."

2) "Undue pressure on ADC mothers to take employment frequently results in unsuitable plans for the care of the children through placement under conditions that do not meet minimum legal standards for day care."

The report revealed that "there are no public day care facilities, and those of non-profit organizations can accommodate a total of some 1,800 children when several times that number need to be placed."

ALTHOUGH the survey found that some home management classes "are now in the developmental stages and have had considerable success," it disclosed that these and other services to groups of ADC mothers covering child care and problems of family living "are too few to meet a fraction of the need."

The shortage of vocational services is "glaring," the study reported. It is "especially acute for youth and for unskilled adults," it said.

As was pointed out in the section dealing with illegitimacy, "the absence of a marketable skill, which enables one to have steady work and earn a living, leads to desertion by fathers, nonsupport of children and unmarried parenthood," and is causing the upsurge in the number of ADC rolls.

THE STUDY found that family and psychiatric casework services in voluntary agencies "are unable to meet the demands for service, because of limited budgets and understaffing." This also was found to be true for child welfare agencies engaged in foster home and adoption placements, and for those providing protective services for children in their own homes. "These services are limited for the general population, but they are more acutely limited for Negro children," it was stated.

Declaring that many public aid departments consider school social workers as "the first line of defense in preventing dependency," the study said the absence of school social workers is "a serious lack in Chicago."

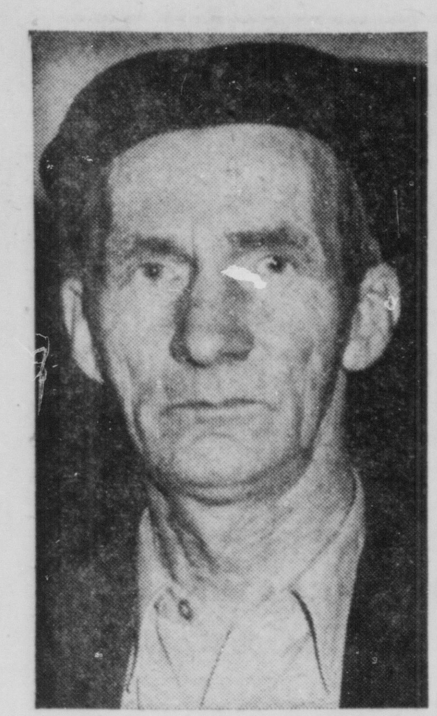
Slayer of In-Law Is Set for Court



CARL A. LINDBERG

Carl A. Lindberg, 56-year-old Wheeling township resident who fatally shotgunned his son-in-law last week, is scheduled to appear in justice of the peace court Friday before Judge Walter P. Dahl to answer a manslaughter charge.

Lindberg told Cook county police last Thursday night he fired a single shotgun blast at his son-in-law, George Meredith, 26, after Meredith forcibly entered his house on Vista ln., near State and Hintz rds.

MEREDITH, WOUNDED in the chest, died on the operating table at Northwest Community hospital an hour after the 9:50 p.m. shooting. Lindberg was booked for manslaughter by county police and released on $5,000 bond.

A coroner's jury Tuesday rendered a verdict of justifiable homicide in the case. The jury's finding was not, however, expected to affect the manslaughter charge, according to police.

Meredith was reportedly attempting to enter the Lindberg home to converse with his estranged wife, Evelyn, who had been living there with the couple's two children.

When refused entrance by Lindberg, he broke in through a kitchen door and was met by the waiting shotgun.

(B9

SHERIFF'S DEPUTY Ed Maydack questions Mrs. Evelyn Meredith Thursday night, a short time after her husband was fatally wounded by her father, Carl A. Lindberg, in Lindberg's Wheeling township home. Lindberg, 56, will face manslaughter charges Friday in Arlington Heights justice of the peace court. (B9

Crime Up in Cook County: Sheriff

Sheriff Frank G. Sain reports crime increased 7.5 per cent last year in the 467 square miles of unincorporated territory in Cook County.

His deputies investigated 1,937 crimes, compared with 1,802 in 1959.

Thefts again formed the largest single category of reported crime.

SAIN'S deputies investigated 567 burglaries (mostly of gas stations), 206 grand larceny complaints and 355 on petty larceny. This compares with 501 burglaries, 239 grand larceny a 284 petty larceny cases in 1959.

Here's how other types of crime compared for the two year period:

Murder, up, from 2 in 1959 to 5 in 1960; rape and attempted rape, down from 10 in 1959 to 8 in 1960; robbery, down, from 68 to 38; assault and battery complaints, down from 96 to 136; assault with a deadly weapon, down from 33 to 19; aggravated assault, down, from 12 to 10; and assault with intent to commit malicious mischief, down, from 8 to 6.

The sheriff's police arrested 562 persons for disorderly conduct last year, compared with 465 in the previous year.

In addition, his force last year investigated 3,650 traffic accidents, 1,154 dog bite complaints, and conducted 48 gambling and 24 vice raids.

Water Drainage Needs Are Topic For Conference

Where to get the money to pay for water drainage improvements in the suburbs will be examined at a state commission subcommittee meeting Friday in Chicago.

The session will open at 10 a.m. in the 13th floor conference room of the county highway department at 130 N. Wells, with William J. Mortimer, county highway superintendent, presiding.

"The people want this problem solved, but won't vote taxes against themselves to pay for it," says Mortimer, who is chairman of the drainage subcommittee of a state commission studying problems of northeastern Illinois metropolitan area local governmental services.

"How to get a solution for the very serious drainage problem in the suburbs will be discussed at the meeting," Mortimer said.

ONE PROPOSAL on the agenda is to assess suburban property owners for water drainage improvements without a voter referendum. It was advanced at a commission meeting in Springfield last month.

Some Cook county committees have by-passed a referendum by financing drainage projects under the local improvements act which allows the cost of the improvement to be attached to regular tax bills for a number of years, Mortimer has said

He noted that some suburbs put drainage bond issue programs to their taxpayers after the flooding seasons in recent years. But such elections usually were held long after the floods and when the basements were dry, a combination resulting in the defeat of the referendums at the polls.

"When you ask the taxpayers to pay for these drainage projects, they just never seem to get off the ground," Mortimer said.

HOFFMAN ESTATES

Joanne Kretz is the first scout in Hoffman Estates to receive her curved bar pin. Joanne earned 16 badges mainly in the fields of outdoors and homemaking over a period of five years. She is 15 and a freshman in high school.

Troop 561 held its Christmas party December 19 and the following girls were presented with badges by the leader, Mrs. Shirley Kretz, Joyce Altmeier, Cathy Gunderson, Kris Matheis, Pam Swangren and Karaline Kretz. Joyce Altmeier and Cathy Gunderson also received first class badges.

ROLLING MEADOWS

Brownie troop 633, under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Winsell and Mrs. John Little, held its Christmas party December 17. The party was completely planned by the Brownies, including games, prizes, the making of cookies and cocoa, and serving. After the party each Brownie took home a gift which she had made for her parents.

Troop 633 sent a pine cone centerpiece to its sponsor, Trinity Lutheran church.

PALATINE

Brownie troop 700 invested five new girls, Patricia Davidson, Linden Finegan, Mary Jean Lynch, Carol Moncek, and Linda Morrow, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 8, in Winston Park school.

Brownie troop 368 made Christmas gift remembrances for their parents and also gift enclosure cards. They also made cloth books and sewed them together. Tuesday, Dec. 20, 14 Brownies, leaders and chaperons visited the Countryside Farm school for retraded children, where they sang Christmas carols and presented the books to the school. The troop then returned to the Methodist church and enjoyed a Christmas party where each girl received a World association pin. (B9

Newton Is Chosen For Scout Event

Frank B. Newton of Mt. Prospect, scout executive of the Northwest Suburban Scout council, has been selected to serve on the staff of a national level scout leader "Wood Badge" training experience which is to be held August 5 through August 13 at the Region 7 Canoe base located near Boulder Junction, Wis.

Adult scout leaders are selected to attend this outdoor skills and camping techniques eight-day training experience from Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Only 36 men from these five states will be invited to attend the "Wood Badge" training event.

NEWTON ALSO has been named director of the "Explorer-Rama" which will be the highlight activity of a midwest region scout activity. It will involve 4,000 Explorer Scouts during a two-day training conclave to be held at the Great Lakes Naval Training base May 5 and 6.

The Explorer-Rama will be staged in the largest drill hall on the Naval base and will be a booth type exposition of the various avocational and vocational skills Explorer Scouts are exposed to while participating in the Explorer program.

Two hundred individual booths will be set up for this event and several large portable swimming pools will be installed to provide the opportunity for Explorers to demonstrate life saving and skin diving techniques. (B8

Pipeline Easement Approved by Board

An easement for a crude oil pipeline on one of the Arlington-Prospect high school district 214 building sites was approved by the board of education last week.

The easement for the West Shore Pipe Line company will be adjacent to a high voltage line now in existence across the 66-acre Carnehl property. The site is located on Hintz rd. one quarter mile east of Wolf rd., Wheeling.

Purchase price for the easement is estimated at $900.

THE granting of the easement was held up by the school board until an investigation of possible dangers was completed. School insurance brokers stated no objection would be found insurance-wise to the pipeline. It was suggested a "hold harmless" agreement be given the school district by the pipeline concern as a condition of sale.

No storage tanks or pumping station will be constructed by the pipeline concern on or near the Carnehl site. The nearest storage tank is located in Elmhurst and the pumping station is south of the Sag Channel.

The 66-acre Carnehl school site was purchased by the school district in 1958. Only 40 acres will be used for the high school, with the balance of the property to be sold at a later date. (ACM

DAR Meet Is Scheduled In Chicago

The Ex-Regents' club, fourth division of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet in the Veranda party room, Marshall Field and co., Friday, Jan. 20, at 12:30 p.m.

After a luncheon, Bernard Wax, field representative of the Illinois State Historical library, will give a talk on Lincoln's Inaugural Address. Wax has chosen a topic particularly appropriate to the day and to the centennial year. There will be a short business meeting.

MRS. L. W. Kester, 801 S. Elmhurst rd., Mt. Prospect, of Eli Skinner chapter, is vice president of the Ex-Regents' club.

Other members from this area include Mrs. Harold Lussow of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Marion Grigsby, formerly of Arlington Heights but now residing in Deerfield Beach, Fla., and Mrs. A. H. Schutt of Mt. Prospect. (B8

Natl. Music Association Sets Review

The National Music association announced that the first production of the group would be a follies-type review scripted by Don Wilson, radio and television announcer.

A zany comedy with music, the show has particular parts for 20 people with chorus.

Anthony Citroni of Forest Lake will direct. The assistant director has not been chosen as yet. Rose Pfieffer of Palatine is the business manager.

REHEARSALS start Friday, Jan. 13, in the community room of the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association at 8 p.m.

Actors as well as singers are needed for the production and are invited to attend. Anyone interested in further information should call CL 9-3257. (B8

Post-Yule Returnees Now Plague Stores

"It's unusual for us if it doesn't come back," a sales woman laughed at the Crawford department store in Rolling Meadows, recounting her harried experiences with the breed worse than Christmas shoppers — the Christmas returners.

Now that Christmas trees are down and Christmas carols have been put in mothballs for another year, stores of every kind are pulling themselves together after the avalanche of Christmas returns.

"It's a real study in people," most respond. "First of all there's the excuses people come up with for returning something. Their tales are better than those in 'Believe it or not.' "

"For example, we had one woman come in with a pair of pajamas," another Crawford's clerk said. "You know what her reason was for returning them? She wore them one night and they were wrinkled!"

ANOTHER KIND most annoying to the Bounty Fair gift shop in Palatine is the person who has examined the gift with a magnifying glass and found a manufacturer's flaw that the store can't even locate.

That people are funny and characters to boot is demonstrated by descriptions made either while shopping or returning.

Take the high school girl. According to Sundberg's store for men in Mt. Prospect, boyfriends are always six feet tall, built like Atlas with the looks of Apollo. Home the teenage female conqueror of hearts goes with her Greek god's sweater. After Christmas the Greek god returns with sweater under arm. It seems the girl friend has misjudged his height by half a foot and his build by several sizes. Boy friend is just a short average guy.

One woman went so overboard for her husband this Christmas that he called the store to say, "I just hope I can live long enough to wear out all the presents my wife bought me." He closed the charge account and asked them to please ignore his wife's gargantuan buying instincts in the future.

The trait that sticks most in the mind of saleswomen at Strass' Ladies Apparel shop in Mt. Prospect, is the coldheartedness of women.

"If women knew how much time and thoughtfulness husbands spend over their wives' Christmas gifts, they might think twice about their return trip," one clerk said. "Men usually have a good eye for color and they spend time making sure things match. They also spare no expense on frilly lingerie."

NINE TIMES out of 10 the frills come back to be exchanged for an ordinary flannel nightgown. Or the more expensive gift is returned for two or three cheaper ones in its place. "Men like their women in frills," the sales girls at Strass' feel. "But the women rebel against them."

The cautious thoughtful shopper was not one specimen who walked into Crawford's two minutes before closing time one night to buy his wife's Christmas gift.

He spotted the item on the counter, stepped back two paces as if contemplating the kill, then lunged at the salesgirl saying, "Size 18; wrap it up. That's good enough for her!"

"That poor wife probably doesn't have the nerve to return the gift," the sales clerk surmised.

HANSEN'S Hardware store in Palatine had some interesting Christmas shoppers aand a couple of returns that merited remembering.

One woman came in and bought just what she wanted because she never got it from her family. She wrapped the gift and inscribed it to herself—"from the cat!"

Another woman bought herself a frying pan at Hansen's, because her husband always gave her personal gifts, and she wanted that pan. Guess who didn't buy a personal gift this Christmas? And guess who had to bring her frying pan gift to herself back?

One mother received a gift from her little children that was similar to something she had. Hansen's was impressed when she returned the gift and bought toys for the children instead.

STORES ARE always on the alert for the conniving gift returner. At the Benj. Allen store in Arlington Heights, one woman returned a gift worth $34 that her company had given. "It's the most impractical thing in the world," she said. "I'll take its value in other merchandise."

"She took $2 worth of merchandise," the sales woman recalls. "The rest was solid cash."

All stores are bothered by the person who puts cheaper items in their boxes and tries to pawn the article off for more money at the wrong store. "We know our merchandise," merchants said. "They don't get away with it."

Sometimes some do get away with what happened Friday at Crawford. A woman returned a pair of gloves because they were too small. She wanted cash. The identical style gloves by then were on sale. She got her cash for the gloves at regular price. You can write the ending to the episode.

THEN THERE'S the story of the merchant who has been trying to move an item for months. At Soucie Jewelry in Palatine, the item was a necklace. At last a man bought it before Christmas.

"I got something I like better," the woman explained, returning the piece Mr. Soucie thought he had seen the last of. (B8

WSCS Thank Offering Service Set for Sunday

Dr. Flemmie P. Kittrell, who has just returned from making a nutrition survey in India for the United Nations, will speak at both the 9 and 11 a.m. worship services Sunday, Jan. 15, when the Woman's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights, sponsors its annual Thank Offering service.

DR. FLEMMIE KITTRELL

Dr. Kittrell, a dean at Howard university, Washington, D.C., is a graduate of Hampton institute and Cornell university. She is a Fellow, member of American Association for the Advancement of Science; American Association of University Women; and the American Teachers association.

Prior to her India survey last November and December, she had made a nutrition survey in 1947 in Liberia, West Africa and also observed food practices in neighboring countries. In 1953 India invited her to return and continue with the organization of the college program; she remained until 1955.

In 1949, Dr. Kittrell attended the International Congress of Women's International League for Peace and Freedom in Copenhagen and in 1950 she served at Baroda university as a delegate to help with the organization of a college of home economics.

HER TRAVELS also included a visit to Japan and Hawaii for the state department as leader of 22 Indian women to study home problems.

Officers of the WSCS to take part in the services will include Mrs. Robert Schultheis, Mrs. John Holdeman, Mrs. R. Beckman, Mrs. Eugene Deckart, Mrs. Walter Dill, Mrs. William Gardner, Mrs. F. Keller and Mrs. R. Robinson. (A ATTENDING SHOW sponsored by the Arlington Heights police department during the Christmas holidays were some 1,500 village youngsters. Assisting police in sponsoring the free show were the Arlington Milk company, Meyer Brothers dairy, Rodewald Farms dairy and management of the Arlington theatre. The kids' interest in the show is illustrated in the above photo. (A

Children's Emotional Problems

The Wilson school PTA will meet Tuesday, Jan. 17, at 8 p.m. to hear a panel discussion concerning the emotional problems of grade school children and how these problems affect children through grade school and in later life.

Members of the panel will be Miss A. Waits, child counselor at Wilson school; B. Glicken, moderator and a member of the Wilson faculty, and Valjean Cashen, director of testing and research at Arlington high school.

Cashen is extensively trained in the field of emotional problems, having a doctor's degree in the field from Colorado university. The public is welcome to attend the meeting. (A

Dunlop to Head Presbyterian Men

The Arlington Heights Chapter of the National Council of Presbyterian Men has elected Richard Dunlop, 1115 Mayfair rd., president.

Other new officers are Ralph B. Elsner, 819 N. Kaspar ave., vice president; Donald E. Hartung, 2601 Sigwalt st., Rolling Meadows, secretary; Gene K. Baughman, 15 N. Forrest ave., treasurer.

Dunlop, who is a magazine writer and the author of several books, succeeds Robert Vanek, formerly of 636 S. Chestnut. Vanek, of Pan-American World Airways, who has been transferred to the mid-Pacific island of Guam.

Appointed chairmen of the standing committees of the club are: membership, Thomas O. Grisell, 620 N. Highland ave.; program, Melvin M. Born, 1007 E. Olive st.; publicity, Charles C. Parvin, 307 S. Wilke road; Boy Scout work, Louis H. Ritzma, 641 S. Chestnut.

The Arlington Heights chapter is the official agency of the Presbyterian Church for men's work in this area. All men who are members of the Arlington Heights Presbyterian Church are eligible for membership.

"This year we intend to explore the problems of making Christianity effective in our work-a-day lives," said Dunlop. "We will hear from doctors, lawyers, labor union leaders, businessmen, politicians and factory workers as to how they make Christianity square with the demands of the job. We hope to learn insight into our own problems. We're weary of the complacent approach to living in which our Sunday Christianity is divorced from our daily lives." (A

Arlington Greens

The January games of the Arlington Greens round robin bridge tournament were played last Friday evening. Hosting for the month were the Gary Waffles, George Robys, John Cowards, Pete Bunnelles, Howard Schicks and the Don Helblings. The top three scores were earned by the Don Helblings, 4750; George Robys, 4300; and the William Lebsocks, 3830. At the half way mark in the season's games, the top three high scorers are the John Mundells with William Lebsocks and the Howard Wolfmeyers.

A late train last week Monday ended the Christmas vacation for Karen McLean of 1104 N. Belmont and her house guests, Karl Kimbrel of Peoria and Betty Parker of Centralia. The trio returned to classes at Southern Illinois university at Carbondale.

Stephen Sedlak, 610 E. Clarendon, left last Wednesday to return to classes at the Case institute in Cleveland, after a 2-week holiday vacation at home.

Miss Janice Smolz, 807 E. Olive made the "back to school" trip Sunday to Eastern Illinois university at Charleston. She joined her family for a Christmas weekend visit with relatives in Edwardsville, their former home. Making the return trip with them for a week's visit were Richard Wiedey, a student at Illinois Wesleyan, and a cousin, Gary Forshaw.

EIGHT-year-old Janet Saflarski of 647 E. Clarendon and Joseph Danna, 624 E. Clarendon, returned to school last Tuesday with something in common. Each was wearing a leg cast. Falls while ice skating sent Janet to St. Elizabeth hospital in Chicago for treatment and a cast, and an ambulance trip to Columbus hospital, also in Chicago, was in store for Joseph after he fell. Both are getting along fine with the aid of crutches and having fun getting the casts autographed.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smits and daughter, Susan, returned home to 1137 N. Douglas Sunday, after spending the 2-week holiday season visiting grandparents, the senior William Smits in Green Bay, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Testa, 1115 N. Beverly lane, and their children, Terry Jo, Tom, DeeDee and Donna, visited grandparents, the senior Henry Testas in Orlando, Fla., and aunts, Alice, home for the holiday from the University of Florida in Gainesville and Kathy. With perfect weather, they enjoyed the visit to Daytona Beach for swimming, sunning, golfing and just getting away from the cold north. Returning home last Thursday, they enjoyed a happy reunion with year-old Bobby who had visited with grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo McLennan in Park Ridge, while they were gone.

THE NORMAN Sterner family, 1130 N. Dryden, were homeward bound last week Tuesday after spending several days, including the New Year's weekend, in Detroit. They visited grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Burton, and numerous friends in the area.

Mrs. Ann Kushner, 1103 N. Haddow, hosted the Haddow ct. ladies club meeting last Wednesday evening. Joining her for dessert and the evening were Marge Bengal, Nancy Jenkins, Marilyn Gardner, Doris Pressney, Joy Hauskey and Mary Ann Laseke.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Helbling, 601 E. Clarendon, hosted a midnight dinner party last Saturday evening. Attending the annual "first Saturday after New Year's" get-together were fraternity brothers and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Breisch of Des Plaines, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Lenox of Oak Park, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Churan of Oak Lawn and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Donkers of N. Gibbons ave.

Seven-year-old Scott Wolfmeyer celebrated his birthday January 7 at a luncheon party in his home at 1103 N. Belmont. Guests included Billy Bunnelle, Gregg Oster, Scott Stier, Sandy Jahnke Maureen Shawhan, Glenn Warman, Gary Brosseit and Scott's brother, Tom. (A

IS ANY POSSIBLE SAVING WORTH THE RISK?

Insurance actuaries estimate the average person spends about $15 per year on prescriptions.

Sometimes far away mail order firms promise reduced prices on prescriptions. No possible saving could be worth the personal attention we give. For the few who are unable to afford medication, we co-operate at their physician's request.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

If you love luxury and hate gas pumps

...then you'll love the Buick Special! You get Buick comfort, ride and go—plus real gas savings to boot!

The Buick Special is 100% Buick—with everything that means. Like Buick go, for example. A new 155-h.p. aluminum V-8 and aluminum transmission* give you more sizzle than many a big car. And, because aluminum turns dead weight into live action, the miles per gallon figures are most delightful. Then there's Buick comfort—big roomy comfort for heads, hips and legs. And a Buick "all-day" ride—thanks to the same type Control Arm suspension as the full size Buicks and coil springs at all four wheels.

And priced under most low-price models. There's also Buick's Clean Look of Action and long-lasting Body by Fisher—all priced less than most models of the low-price field! Come guest-test the Special at your Buick dealer's—but come prepared to lose your heart!

*Aluminum Dual-Path Turbine Drive—optional at extra cost

Hospital Emergency Staff Handles Unusual Cases

Children who tried to put unusual objects in unusual places were among two of the emergency cases treated last week at Northwest Community hospital.

Sandra Wresch, 3, of Wheeling, was brought to the hospital to have crepe paper removed from both nostrils. The same day, January 4, Christine Hawkins, 2, of Arlington Heights, was treated for superficial cuts after she had broken a Christmas tree ornament in her mouth.

MANY PERSONS were treated for cuts during the week. Linda Eck, 9, of Roselle, was hit above the right eyebrow by a thrown object. A one-inch cut was stitched. Edward Janke, 60, of Mount Prospect, fell on ice suffering a three-inch laceration of the scalp.

Hospital reports show that James Gaughin, 45, of Chicago, was severly cut when he was hit on the head by a falling object at work. Stitches were taken. Michael Moore, 5, of Mt. Prospect, fell from a kitchen cabinet and cut his chin.

Two patients are still being observed for possible head injuries resulting from falls. They are Valentine Nelson, 50, of Palatine, who suffered a wound requiring 12 stitches, and Thomas Moore, 18, of Arlington Heights, who fell while ice skating.

DANIEL COTTIN, 36, of Chicago, was treated for a four-inch wound he suffered when he hit his head working in a crawl space. Mary Ellen Thomas, 4, of Roselle, fell out of a top bunk and suffered a head cut.

Persons treated for fractures include Mrs. Mary Buettner, Mt. Prospect, who suffered a brokena arm when she tripped over a wire; Mrs. Beatrice Birginal, Arlington Heights, broken left wrist suffered in an ice skating fall; Richard Newport, 6, of Mt. Prospect, right collar bone broken from a fall on a basement floor.

Others treated for fractures are Michael Angeloff, 83, of Arlington Heights, who dropped a heavy board on his foot and broke the big toe; John Lee, 12, of Clarendon Hills, fractured right arm in skating fall; Mrs. Vernie Rue, Mt. Prospect, fractured right wrist in a fall on the driveway.

JOHN KEARNEY, 39, of Arlington Heights, was treated at Northwest Community after he dropped a bowling ball on his right hand. He suffered cuts and two crushed fingers.

John Loos, 3, of Mt. Prospect, had his stomach pumped after he swallowed an unknown amount of pills.

Set Geological Society Meet

The Des Plaines Valley Geological society will hold its monthly meeting Thursday, Jan. 19, at 8 p.m. in the Rand Park fieldhouse, Des Plaines.

Speaker will be Sam Bartlett of Chicago, an expert in the use of hand tools for jewelry making. Guests are welcome. (B8

Hospital Emergency Staff Handles Unusual Cases

Children who tried to put unusual objects in unusual places were among two of the emergency cases treated last week at Northwest Community hospital.

Sandra Wresch, 3, of Wheeling, was brought to the hospital to have crepe paper removed from both nostrils. The same day, January 4, Christine Hawkins, 2, of Arlington Heights, was treated for superficial cuts after she had broken a Christmas tree ornament in her mouth.

MANY PERSONS were treated for cuts during the week. Linda Eck, 9, of Roselle, was hit above the right eyebrow by a thrown object. A one-inch cut was stitched. Edward Janke, 60, of Mount Prospect, fell on ice suffering a three-inch laceration of the scalp.

Hospital reports show that James Gaughin, 45, of Chicago, was severly cut when he was hit on the head by a falling object at work. Stitches were taken. Michael Moore, 5, of Mt. Prospect, fell from a kitchen cabinet and cut his chin.

Two patients are still being observed for possible head injuries resulting from falls. They are Valentine Nelson, 50, of Palatine, who suffered a wound requiring 12 stitches, and Thomas Moore, 18, of Arlington Heights, who fell while ice skating.

DANIEL COTTIN, 36, of Chicago, was treated for a four-inch wound he suffered when he hit his head working in a crawl space. Mary Ellen Thomas, 4, of Roselle, fell out of a top bunk and suffered a head cut.

Persons treated for fractures include Mrs. Mary Buettner, Mt. Prospect, who suffered a brokena arm when she tripped over a wire; Mrs. Beatrice Birginal, Arlington Heights, broken left wrist suffered in an ice skating fall; Richard Newport, 6, of Mt. Prospect, right collar bone broken from a fall on a basement floor.

Others treated for fractures are Michael Angeloff, 83, of Arlington Heights, who dropped a heavy board on his foot and broke the big toe; John Lee, 12, of Clarendon Hills, fractured right arm in skating fall; Mrs. Vernie Rue, Mt. Prospect, fractured right wrist in a fall on the driveway.

JOHN KEARNEY, 39, of Arlington Heights, was treated at Northwest Community after he dropped a bowling ball on his right hand. He suffered cuts and two crushed fingers.

John Loos, 3, of Mt. Prospect, had his stomach pumped after he swallowed an unknown amount of pills.

Set Geological Society Meet

The Des Plaines Valley Geological society will hold its monthly meeting Thursday, Jan. 19, at 8 p.m. in the Rand Park fieldhouse, Des Plaines.

Speaker will be Sam Bartlett of Chicago, an expert in the use of hand tools for jewelry making. Guests are welcome. (B8

Seek Articles For Goodwill

Mrs. Frank J. Krettler, 114 N. Fairview, Mt. Prospect, local representative for Goodwill Industries of Chicago, has asked northwest suburban resident to donate repair-articles of clothing and household items to Goodwill.

The restriction on overstuffed furniture and small refrigerators has been temporarily removed.

Any area resident who can donate items to Goodwill Industries should contact Mrs. Krettler at CL 5-6664. (B8

GEORGE HARRIS

Many times when you get ready to go out for lunch you think, "Where will I eat today; I get tired of the same old thing." If this thought occurs to you, why don't you give Harris Pharmacy Luncheonette a try.

We actually serve you the proverbial, "Home - Cookin' "; and, man, you'll find that these tasty morsels will whet that jaded appetite. Those taste-tempting hot meals that are served at lunch time really are delectable, and you'll find that you have satisfied your appetite without spending a lot of money. Naturally, we have most all the popular sandwiches if you are not so hungry — and then those Sundaes, Shakes and Malts are the everlovin' end.

Chances are, when you drop into Harris Pharmacy for lunch, you'll be rubbing elbows with some of your friends and that helps to pass the lunch hour. You'll find our meals satisfing and at prices that all can afford.

SPECIAL THIS MONTH—$189.95
Hamilton Gas Dryer. Price includes delivery, normal installation and one-year service. Only $5 down . . . 24 months to pay.

Gas Dryers save money every step of the way!

SAVE ON INSTALLATION. Gas dryers are easy and inexpensive to install. There's no costly heavy-duty wiring to pay for.

SAVE ON FUEL. Gas dries your clothes for about a penny a load, one-fifth the cost of drying with electricity. A family of five using a gas dryer an average of 30 hours a month would save nearly $35 in a year.

SAVE ON CLOTHES. Gas dries with the gentle warmth of the friendly gas flame. No bone-dry baking action to make fabrics harsh. Your clothes come out of a gas dryer clean, soft and sweet-smelling.

SAVE YOUR TIME. Gas gives you instant heat. No warm-up period to add hours every month to the time you have clothes in the dryer. Whenever you want a needed garment in a hurry, you'll be glad that gas is on the job saving your valuable time.

MANY FAMOUS BRANDS to choose from: Hamilton, Philco-Bendix, RCA-Whirlpool, Norge and others. Call your local appliance dealer or the Northern Illinois Gas Company office near you for full information about the many convenient features of the new gas dryers. There's a wide choice of models.

How Hospital Keeps Young Patients Happy

Children who have to go to the hospital for operations or for special medical care are, in most cases, far happier than their parents might ever guess.

This is the comment of Mrs. Ann Mayfield, charge nurse in the pediatrics department of Northwest Community hospital, Arlington Heights, where more than 100 young patients (under 12 years of age) are registered every month.

"For the most part," Mrs. Mayfield says, "parents can leave their children with us and have the greatest confidence that they will not only be well-cared for medically but kept quite happy as well. It should be remembered that this is an adventure for most children. When the children experience the friendliness of the volunteers and nurses and find out some of the pleasant things they can do in the hospital, the stay with us turns out to be far from the grim experience their parents have envisioned.

"IN FACT, there are occasions," Mrs. Mayfield adds. "when parents can be an unsettling influence if they stay with the children. Parental fears and concerns are deep—while a child's natural curiosity will often overcome his own tendency toward fear. So, the child may settle down under preliminary treatment, only to have the parents' expression of worry and concern upset the situation.

"There are exceptions, of course," said Mrs. Mayfield," and at certain ages the parents exert a comforting influence. This is most noticeable between the ages of 18 and 24 months."

Warm steam has long been one of the most used treatments for respiratory difficulty, but Mrs. Mayfield reports a new "cold steam" vaporizing treatment which is used at the hospital with equal effectiveness. Steam is generated but it is cooled before expulsion into the room.

"Nurses like it better than hot steam for another reason," Mrs. Mayfield notes. "It isn't so rough on their permanents."

NEXT TO CROUP, correctly referred to as laryngeal-tracheal bronchitis—fractures tonsillectomies and adenoidectomies are the most frequent cases in the Northwest Community pediatrics ward.

"The best treatment of all for our children is diplomacy," Mrs. Mayfield points out. "We can get children interested in their neighbors and in the volunteers who come to visit with them, and even in the syringes with which they get shots. They know that if they are good patients they can take the little plastic syringes home with them, after the needles have been removed and the syringes are washed thoroughly. They make excellent squirt guns.

"Of course, we can't say too much for the pink ladies from the volunteer service department. They send someone to our ward every day. Sometimes the volunteers will spend the entire day with some of the children, often accompanying them as they do down to X-ray, await their turn, come back and then perhaps go down again for more X-rays. These volunteers stay with them every minute and keep the youngsters' minds off their troubles. They are just simply wonderful. It's a real treat for most of the children when the volunteers give them rides on the stretcher carts and in the wheel chairs."

The Northwest Community hospital pediatrics department is operated with a staff made up of four permanent, full-time nurses, three part-time nurses, eight full-time nurses aides, plus volunteer help. The four permanent nurses, in addition to Mrs. Mayfield, are Mrs. Mary Schnyder of Mt. Prospect. Mrs. Lucy Mallon, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Phyllis Hartman of Bensenville. Mrs. Mayfield, who resides in Hoffman Estates, came to Northwest Community from St. Mary of Nazareth in Chicago.

Check Passer Pleads Guilty

Edwin Jacobi, indicted by the county grand jury last month for passing fraudulent checks in the northwest suburbs, pleaded guilty in County court Monday and was sentenced to four months in the House of Correction.

Jacobi was named in three complaints signed by Arlington Heights residents and faced similar charges by residents in Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Northbrook.

He was credited with serving two months of his sentence for time served while awaiting trial. (B9

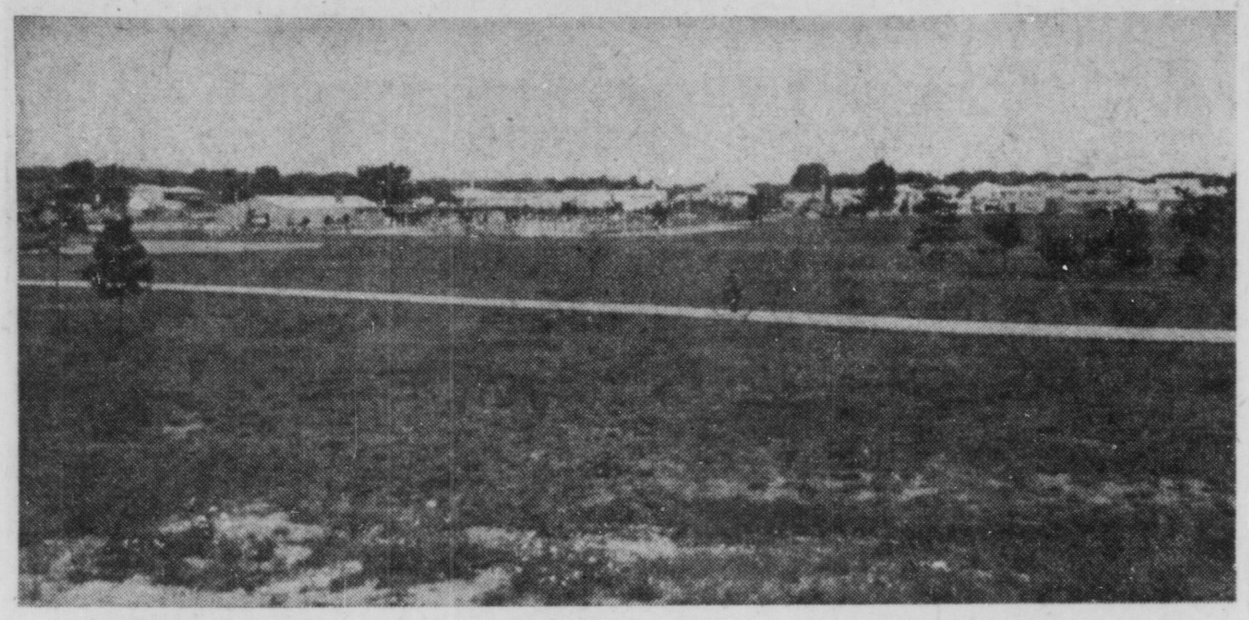
Suburbs Create Problems for Youth



THE SUBURBS: Overorganized, from basket weaving to Little League.

Placid Facade Is Deceptive

by DICK HOFFMANN

(Second in a Series)

The placid pools of Suburbia are deceptively calm; they mirror a narcissistic face that is all sweetness and light.

This attitude of admiring its own perfections extends to its young. Nothing can crack the glacial confidence most parents and educators have in the suburbs as a combination of Shangri-La, Wonderland and Paradise Regained.

Statistically, the way the tide is running is expressed by the fact that 60 million citizens are housed in Suburbia. This gigantic migration has thinned the prairies to the extent that only 36 per cent of Americans now live in rural areas, 60 per cent did in 1900.

But in discussing the problems of Suburbia's Children, through these conversations run undercurrents of concern.

THE MINTING of such new sociological terms as "filtered experience" and "tunnel vision" has accompanied the thousands of new "one-class" communities springing up. The coinage is applied to the young who—from the shelter of Mom's protective wingspread—learn only that which is cushioned, see only that which is pleasant.

This is obviously an overstating of the case, but it does contain a disquieting element of truth. In the mechanics of the suburbs, everything meshes to "work in favor" of the youngsters, observes the Rev. Dr. Martin E. Marty, associate editor of the Christian Century magazine and pastor of the Elk Grove Lutheran church of the Holy Spirit.

"There is no contact with those in real need," he continues, "and the problems of these people are kept alive by imaginative stories which have become fairy tales. These children are not equipped for tragedy, and a Saturday trip to Maxwell st. does not solve the problem."

While children are viewed as compassionate, where there are no examples to kindle concern, it leads to a condition of possessing knowledge that is not related.

Len Pecilunas, a social counselor at the Chicago Parental School, and a member of the Schaumburg school board and Hoffman Estates youth commission, sees it as "knowledge without feeling," and, consequently, a matter of what is meaningful.

HOW CAN you separate the faculties of knowledge and compassion? Pecilunas asks. "If you had polled people in Deerfield two years before they attempted to build homes for Negroes there, I think you would have heard a lot about the brotherhood of man. But when they actually planned to move Negroes in, the residents' true feelings came out: integration became meaningful to them," he said, answering his own question.

"Even the toys nowadays require more intellectual activity but less imagination," commented a northwest suburban psychologist. "There is a lack of balance between the two, yet it is imagination that is related to creative activities."

The suburbs—from Little League to basket-weaving—he sees as over-organized for children. "We try to make little men out of them; they are not little men, they are children," the psychologist declared.

"You can shorten the fence and ball diamond, but this doesn't make it a child's game," he said of Little League. When children organize their own baseball games and make up their own rules "this is real learning and group interaction."

"Kids used to know instinctively when to play marbles. Sometime in the spring, you dug a hole with your heel and knew it was time to play marbles; no one told you the time had come."

SUBURBAN children, he said, are put on a time schedule, and once they are off it, they're lost. To organize their activities along adult lines only tends to stifle learning, he feels. "Kids seem to be getting more proficient at doing things and more superficial at the same time.

"The focus should not be on what the child is doing but what is he like. Adults tend to view their children mechanically. If he doesn't seem to be functioning right, they want to repair him. They've lost their respect for children, their respect for the child's dignity."

"Birthday parties are often more for the parents than the kids," notes Dr. Marty. This vicarious type of pleasure, some experts feel, is due to a generation of parents raised during the Depression who now enjoy things they didn't have through their children.

John Strong, Prospect high school counselor, views parental indulgence another way. "A liberal philosophy developed out of World War II with 10 million servicemen in the ranks. Being exposed to a military caste system created a sympathetic climate for all types of underdogs. You can see this in the accelerated advance of "civil rights." The military services rank-conscious, hide-bound aristocracy actually acted as the Devil's Advocate in promoting democratic practices which now spill over into parents' dealings with their children, he thinks.

BUT IF the suburbs' antiseptic environment seems to be producing a sterile outlook among the young, in which intelligence and technology are not guided by concern and commitment, there are other historical forces in motion which modify this concept.

Suburban children no longer are isolated in a particular religious or ethnic group. This historic pattern of Suburbia has been broken, Rev. Marty points out, and has lowered the traditional barriers of religious bigotry and intolerance. The newer so-called "one-class" or "tract development" communities have a representative cross-section of religious persuasion, with the percentage of Catholics and Jews tipping the scales from what was once a preponderance of Protestants.

An unprecedented improvement in the economic condition of blue-collar workers finds them occupying homes next to rising junior executives in such communities as Rolling Meadows to further mix the melting pot of attitudes.

"If you mean by insulation that suburban children are not exposed to gaudy, immoral scenes or drunks on public transportation facilities, then I'm not sorry that my children are not exposed to this type of thing," said a Palatine mother of four. "I don't know if it makes them any less of a person when they have to cope with these things.

"Children out here do see contrasts; there are the migratory children in the classrooms, and there are neighborhood islands in Chicago where children are not exposed to the jungle. Farm life is even more insulated and has fewer contacts.

"But there should be parental concern. Oh, I don't mean the smothering kind, but you should be watchful of your children's hours and companionships," she explained.

REV. MARTY remarked: "In the city, the child may learn certain ways of survival but he is often unequipped for college."

In terms of toughness, Counselor Pecilunas, who sees the hard veneer of delinquency every day at his job at the Chicago Parental School, puts it this way:

"These kids have seen the seamy side of life. Children from these marginal areas come into contact with pimps, addicts, pushers—people the average Chicago kid does not run into. You have to ask yourself, does this fortify or cripple these children for life? Most of the time it cripples them."

He allows that the suburban youngster who is coddled and forever cradled from responsibility will probably also need emotional crutches to lean upon.

But the transition from city asphalt to suburban greenery is not so abrupt a rupture in relationships as one might suppose. One northwest suburban educator related the example of the girl in his school who had come from a more lawless area of the city. She stopped a class bully's oppressive attentiveness with a roundhouse right.

"You know, in another month I believe she would have taken his abuse. She would have adapted to more lady-like standards of behavior," he thought.

This is, indeed, pliable clay of which we speak.

"But there should be parental concern. Oh, I don't mean the smothering kind, but you should be watchful of your children's hours and companionships," she explained.

REV. MARTY remarked: "In the city, the child may learn certain ways of survival but he is often unequipped for college."

In terms of toughness, Counselor Pecilunas, who sees the hard veneer of delinquency every day at his job at the Chicago Parental School, puts it this way:

"These kids have seen the seamy side of life. Children from these marginal areas come into contact with pimps, addicts, pushers—people the average Chicago kid does not run into. You have to ask yourself, does this fortify or cripple these children for life? Most of the time it cripples them."

He allows that the suburban youngster who is coddled and forever cradled from responsibility will probably also need emotional crutches to lean upon.

But the transition from city asphalt to suburban greenery is not so abrupt a rupture in relationships as one might suppose. One northwest suburban educator related the example of the girl in his school who had come from a more lawless area of the city. She stopped a class bully's oppressive attentiveness with a roundhouse right.

"You know, in another month I believe she would have taken his abuse. She would have adapted to more lady-like standards of behavior," he thought.

This is, indeed, pliable clay of which we speak.

Guilfoil to Head Easter Seal Fund

Dwight D. Guilfoil, Jr. 633 S. Burton place, Arlington Heights, president of Paraplegics Manufacturing Company, Inc., Bensenville, has been named Cook county north suburban chairman for the Chicago Easter Seal society, Howard L. Willett, Sr., general chairman of the society's 1961 campaign announced this week.

In addition to his many honors, Guilfoil was awarded the President's Trophy as "Handicapped American of the Year" in 1960.

Guilfoil, a paraplegic himself, and co-founder of his firm which specializes in contract assembly work, electrical, electronic and mechanical work, will supervise the individual chairmen of all north suburban areas including Arlington Heights, Golf, Mount Prospect, Park Ridge, Buffalo Grove, Inverness, Countryside, Niles, Prospect Heights, Des Plaines, Lincolnwood, Northbrook, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Morton Grove, Palatine, Skokie, Glenview, and Wheeling.

DWIGHT GUILFOIL

THE EASTER Seal campaign will be from March 2 through April 2 of this year. In 1961, the Easter Seal Society (Chicago Metropolitan Unit, Illinois Association for the Crippled) will observe its 25th year of continuing service to Chicago-Area crippled children and adults.

Trained therapists give physical, occupational, and speech therapy to handicapped children and adults at the society's rehabilitation centers.

OTHER major functions of the society include industrial and homecrafts employment for homebound adults, and summer day camps for crippled children in the Chicago area. In addition, orthopedic equipment owned by the society is loaned to disabled children and adults under the equipment loan program.

The Chicago Easter Seal Society is a member of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults. Offices are 116 S. Michigan avenue.

Bill Rentschler To Speak January 24

William H. Rentschler, one of the bright stars of the Republican Party in Illinois, will address members of the Wheeling Township Women's Republican club at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 24, in the community room of the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association building, 25 E. Campbell st.

Mrs. George Marshall, speaking for the club, said this week that all area residents interested in the future of Illinois Republicanism are invited to attend the club's January 24 meeting.

"Bill Rentschler has indicated his interest in revitalizing the party from top to bottom," Mrs. Marshall pointed out, "and club members felt they would like to hear reorganization suggestions from an authority."

RENTSCHLER, 35, ran for U. S. Senator in last April's primary election and headed the state's Win With Nixon-Lodge committee. He has served as president of the Young Republican Organization of Illinois, as vice president - director of the United Republican Fund of Illinois, and as a member of President Eisenhower's 40-man committee of Program and Progress.

Now president of Stevens Candy Kitchens, Inc., Rentschler was named one of Chicago's Ten Outstanding Young Men in 1959. His services are in great demand as a speaker for political, fraternal, and civic meetings.

INVITATIONS to hear the young GOP leader January 24 have been issued to Republican organizations in Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships. Those wishing further information regarding the meeting may phone Mrs. Marshall at CL 3-8028.

Young GOP Group To Get Charter

The credentials committee of the Cook County Young Republican organization indicated last week its acceptance and approval of the constitution and bylaws submitted by the Wheeling Township Young Republican club.

The constitution and bylaws, ratified at a meeting January 4 by club members, were presented to the credentials committee last Thursday by Tom Houser, club president, and Bill Cunnyngham, treasurer.

It is expected the Wheeling club will officially receive its charter this month, Houser pointed out. He said the chartering of the club enables it to cast three votes at the county organization's annual meeting in February.

"We feel the club has come a long way since its reorganization last October," Houser said. "The hard work of chairmen Paul Knott and Jack Curtin of the constitution committee has resulted in a durable constitution and fine set of by-laws."

AT THE CLUB'S regular meeting Wednesday, Jan. 4, members heard a letter read from Henry Cabot Lodge, GOP candidate for vice president, thanking the club for its support and congratulating it for its desire to improve the Republican party.

In other business, social committee chairman Jerry Moe reported the Arlington Heights VFW hall has been rented for the club's annual dance on Saturday, March 25. Moe said tickets, costing $3 per couple, will be ready for distribution by February 1.

Club members voted unanimously to delegate the next meeting night, Wednesday, Feb. 1, as Membership Night. President Houser will present a film and brief lecture concerning the Communist threat to the United States, and all members will bring guests.

MEMBERS ALSO heard reports from the education and publicity committees, elected Sally Lollar corresponding secretary, and approved an installation committee recommendation.

Curtin was appointed to attend the January 19 meeting of the Cook County Young Republican organization and Moe was appointed to represent the club at a National Workshop session in Arlington Heights on January 16.

At the February 1 meeting, club members will hear a report from Wayne Serben and Bill Moore outlining the candidates running for township and village office. A Candidate Night in March is being contemplated by the club.

BEFORE adjournment, president Houser urged members to make it clear to their friends that membership in the club is not limited to those between the ages of 18 and 36. Only members in this age bracket are eligible to vote, Houser explained, but those over 36 can participate in all business and social functions.

The Wheeling Township Young Republican club meets the first Wednesday evening of each month in the basement of the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association building, 25 E. Campbell st. Recording secretary of the club is Judy Heinrich, CL 9-3666.

Waikiki Is Hub of 'Hawaiian Holiday'

Relaxing at Waikiki Beach at Honolulu will be a highlight of Paddock Publications' "Hawaiian Holiday."

If there's one word or place synonymous with Hawaii in the mind's eye it's "Waikiki."

The curving stretch of surf and sand flanked by Diamond Head and the Honolulu yacht harbor is not the biggest beach in the world -- or even in Hawaii, for that matter. Its allure is made up of other more subtle ingredients that will delight members of the two week tour leaving March 12 under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Paddock Jr.

Along its two-mile ribbon of sand some of the finest sun-basking in the world is to be had. Air temperatures range from the mid-70s to mid-80s the year round. Water temperatures are approximately the same. The lazy pillows of surf that roll up to the sand provide some of the best surfriding in the world. There is a scent of tropical flowers in the air.

TODAY, the Waikiki area, including lovely Kapiolani Park, is the hub of most vacations in Hawaii. Beach hotels hug the sand and face Kalakaua Avenue, main thoroughfare of the beach area. Smart shops and restaurants line the palm-fringed boulevard.

Waikiki was the favorite seaside resort of Hawaiian kings. During their reigns the area also was known for its coconut groves, fish ponds and taro patches. Former royal estate lands are still held in trust along the beach.

Captain George Vancouver landed at Waikiki in 1792. Kamehameha, the great chief who united the islands under his rule, sailed a flotilla of 16,000 men to Waikiki in 1795 to invade and conquer the island of Oahu.

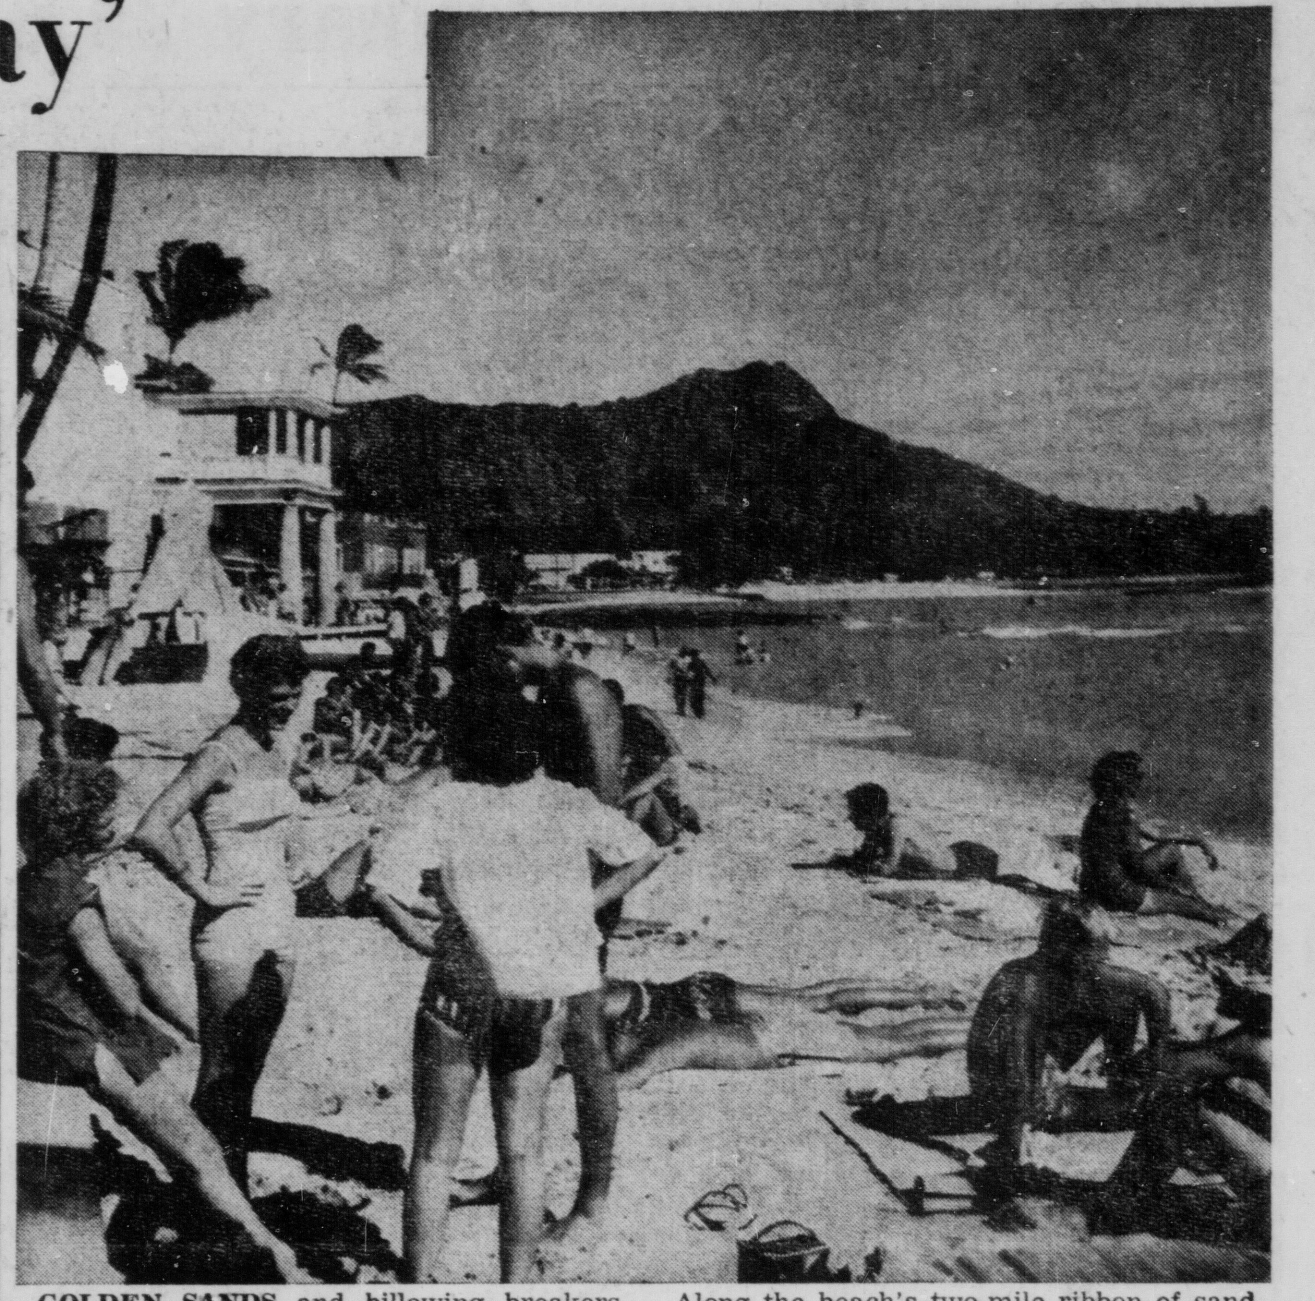
DURING THE latter half of the nineteenth century, Waikiki was a good day's outing by horse or carriage from the growing town of Honolulu. It was a vacation resort for commoners as well as kings. King Lunalilo had a residence there. So did King Kalakaua.

A "Tourists' Guide Through the Hawaiian Islands" published in 1890, reports that one-way carriage fare to Waikiki was $1. It stated: "There are a number of private residences, picturesque looking bungalows, unpretentious cottages, but all very airy and comfortable close to the murmuring sea. A very fine coconut grove is one of the features of the place. The southern portion of this used to be the favorite abode of the kinds of Oahu."

It was in 1866 that Mark Twain came, saw and was conquered by Hawaii's charms. During his visit he planted a Banyan tree for little Princess Kaiulani that for many years was a landmark of the beach area. In 1907, Jack London was another convert to Hawaii. "These people don't know what they have here," he commented.

OVER THE years Waikiki developed as Honolulu grew. Today, in addition to the facade of hotels, parks and shops, the beach area contains many homes and apartments. It combines the languor and scenery of Polynesia and the South Seas with the cosmopolitanism of modern America.

For further details concerning the tour write "Hawaiian Holiday," c/o Paddock Publications, 217 W. Campbell st., Arlington Heights, Ill.



GOLDEN SANDS and billowing breakers make Waikiki the playground of the Pacific. Business and everyday problems are forgotten under the shadow of Diamond Head.

Northwest 'Y' Is Open For Tours on Jan. 15

There are a good many youngsters and quite a few oldsters too impatiently waiting for Sunday, January 15th, when the YMCA building on Northwest hwy., east of Mt. Prospect will be opened for the first time for guided tours of the facilities. Let us take a premilinary tour and preview some of the things that families will see as they go through their new YMCA building.

The best place to start is at the front door. Just inside is a spacious lobby tastefully decorated. The east wall consists of panels of glass looking directly into the swimming pool. The pool is L shaped, 75 feet long with the shallow end designed as a teaching area. At the far end of the pool are two diving boards. The entire south wall of the swimming pool is constructed of thermopane glass doors which will be opened in the summer to a patio and sun deck. In addition to overhead lights the pool is equipped with underwater lighting which provides additional safety as well as atmosphere.

THE YOUTH lobby occupies the western end of the building and can be seen looking northward from the adult lobby. This area will be equipped with ping-pong tables and other game equipment. It is designed also so that it may be utilized in the evenings for classrooms in the adult education program.

At the north end of the youth lobby is a snack bar which will be used to serve refreshments and light lunches.

At the back of the building on the first floor is located a large all purpose room that can be divided into three ample meeting rooms. The all purpose room is for social activities, club meetings and many other social program activities. It is tastefully decorated with wood paneling and is conveniently located adjacent to the kitchen.

AT THE OPPOSITE side of the hallway from the all purpose room is the entrance to the men's and to the boys' locker rooms and showers.

There is also a locker room for women and girls and a business men's club locker room on this floor.

Included in the business men's club facilities will be a small lounge, a steam room, an electric heat dabinet, ulltra violet ray, and massage facilities.

THE GYMNASIUM is equipped for basketball, volleyball and badminton. Special back boards have been installed which are adjustable and can be used to teach small boys the game of basketball.

Included in the equipment for the gymnasium are parallel bars, flying rings, horizontal bars, Trampoline, safety belts, spring boards, and other modern equipment.

The floor of the gymnasium has been laid especially to provide ideal conditions for roller skating. On the same floor with the gymnasium is the office of the Physical Director and a large meeting room.

FROM THE gymnasium a stairway leads down to the basement of the building. An L shaped room provides the best equipped weight lifting, wrestling and exercise room in the area.

In addition to racks of iron dumbbells and barbells are various contraptions with odd names such as wall parallel bars, latissimus machine, inclined boards, and leg press machines. This room will also be the center for physical fitness testing, as well as wrestling and judo.

Down the hall from the exercise room are four regulation handball courts. Adjacent to the handball courts is a room with a punching bag and heavy training bag.

Located in another section of the basement is a well equipped craft room which will be used for activities in the youth program such as air rifle range, and archery.

OUTSIDE OF the building is a large parking area, and several acres of ground which in the future could provide space for outdoor athletic activities. (Y (B8

HOW TO TAKE OFF A few pounds is demonstrated in the exercise room of the new Northwest Suburban YMCA by Thomas M. Blake, board chairman of the YMCA from 1953 to 1960.

For New High School

Seek to Hold Down Costs on Building

Topping the list of New Year's resolutions for members of Arlington - Prospect district 214 school board is a vow to "hold the line" in the budget for the new Forest View high school now under construction.

Originally a maximum budget of $4,425,000 for a "completely equipped" high school was adopted by the board. Of this amount $3,900,000 came from a bond issue approved by district voters, with an additional $525,000 to come from the regular school building fund budget. This was to be achieved in a three year period with $175,000 set aside each year through strict budgeting of available funds.

Slowly, building variations, increased costs and construction changes have started pushing the building budget higher.

LAST WEEK school board members renewed their pledge to district taxpayers to build a fully-equipped high school for 2,500 students on the Goebbert rd. site for no more than $4,400,000. The board adopted a finance committee budget to this amount as the basis for all future planning and negotiations with architects and contractors.

The school is slated to open in September, 1962.

Board members stressed the original contracts for the school were within the building budget. Some extra expenses have necessarily arisen such as the need for underground electrical service and the drilling of a shallow well to provide water during the construction period. A $100,000 contingency fund will cover all such items, the board indicated, "if we are careful."

Cost of bringing water to the school site from Arlington Heights was estimated at $18,200 at the time the original budget was drawn. This cost is now estimated at $75,400, with the possibility of the village paying half the installation cost. No definite action has been taken by the village board, necessitating the sinking of a shallow well at the school construction site. The well will be used after the school is completed for lawn watering.

WITH WATER cost from Arlington far in excess of original plans, the board now is considering an offer by the DiMucci subdivision east of the school site.

The subdividers agree to provide an 8-inch water main connnected with their deep well to the corner of the school site. They also would install a 12-inch sanitary sewer from the school site across their subdivision to a connection with the Metropolitan Sanitary District interceptor sewer near Busse rd. Total cost of both lines to the school district would be only $18,000.

To be sure the $175,000 set aside in this year's budget for Forest View construction is used before the end of the fiscal year, the board voted to pay the next $175,000 in construction bills from this money. (ACM

Youth Activities Cover Wide Range

The new YMCA will be opening its doors to northwest suburban youth shortly. Program is scheduled to begin on Monday, Jan. 23, with appetizing activities for every boy and girl. Now is the time to obtain information on the fine variety of programs available.

Full privilege youth members will have access weekly to the following activities: swimming class at the level of the ability of the child; gym class; recreational swim period following gym; instructional roller skating period; recreational roller skating period; several family swim periods; craft class; club membership.

MANY BOYS and girls will want to enroll in one of the Junior Skill School courses. These short term special interest skill classes are available to full privilege members at a reduced rate. The classes are also open to non-members.

Included in the Junior Skill School activities are: springboard diving; junior Frogmen; a variety of bowling leagues; beginning tumbling; beginning Judo; beginners air rifle; special dance classes including novice tap, novice ballet, novice acrobatic, intermediate tap, intermediate ballet, intermediate acrobatic and modern jazz.

Activities are available for the small fry. These include swimming instruction and beginning ballet.

TINY TOTS, which are boys and girls ages three to five, may also enroll in swimming instruction classes and beginning ballet classes. (B8

Professional Staff Offers Experience

The program staff of the Northwest Suburban YMCA is well qualified to plan and direct the activities of a new YMCA. In addition to the executive secretary, Charles McClellan, who was instrumental in the organization of the local YMCA, there are Clifford Lothery, Boys Secretary; Arthur Holland, Physical Director; and Helen Coryell, Women's and Girls' Secretary.

Clifford Lothery graduated from Bradley University with a major in Physical Education. He has been on the staff of the Northwest Suburban YMCA since 1957. Prior to that he served two years in the U.S. Army. Cliff and his wife, Donna, have two small daughters—Kim, age 4, and Jody Ellen, age 2.

ARTHUR HOLLAND came to the Northwest Suburban YMCA from the Oak Park YMCA where he was first the Assistant Physical Director and later the Physical Director. He graduated from Northwestern University in 1952 with his Bachelor of Science degree and from George Williams College in 1954 with an MA degree.

Art has a long backlog of experience as a member of the Y and as a volunteer leader. He has been a member of the Oak Park YMCA for over 20 years. His particular interest is aquatics, and at present he is the Aquatics Editor for the Journal of Physical Education.

Helen Coryell has had extensive experience in directing program activities for women and girls. Previous to coming on the local Y staff she had been the Women's and Girls' Secretary at the Lincoln-Belmont YMCA in Chicago for a period of ten years.

JEANNETTE Carlson, who has been the Y "Business Secretary" since 1953, will continue in this capacity in the new Y building. (B8

Forest View News

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Moore and Connie have returned home after spending 10 days visiting relatives and friends in Louisville, Miss., over the holiday season.

A birthday coffee party was given by Mrs. Neal O'Donnell for Phyllis Elliott Friday, in celebration of her birthday January 5. Guests were her mother, Mrs. Wallace Nelson, Mrs. Lynn Huffman and her children, Dickie and Doug.

'Y' Grades Swimming Classes

One of the activities boys and girls will be joining at the Northwest Suburban YMCA will be the graded swim classes. New youngsters will be tested and orientated each Saturday morning. After testing they will be placed in a class, meeting weekly, with children of the same ability.

The graded YMCA equatic program is unique in that a child is taught to swim 75 feet, the elementary back stroke, under water swimming, object recovery and diving before he is allowed free swim in the deep water.

YOUNGSTERS wishing to earn all the YMCA aquatic emblems can look forward to years of YMCA teaching. Upon completion of the Shark test the children will be skilled in a large variety of strokes including back crawl, breast, butterfly and triple back dolphin. They will be able to recognize dangerous situations and cope with them. The new method of drownproofing is part of the program.

Diving and life saving are classes that will appeal to those youngsters who advance through the YMCA aquatic program. Complete information on class times and YMCA rates may be secured by calling the YMCA at Cypress 6-3376 or dropping in at the new building at 300 E. Northwest hwy. (B8

FULLY EQUIPPED gymnasium is ready to serve varied sports at Northwest Suburban YMCA. Program for "Y" opens January 23. Building is located on Northwest hwy., just east of Mt. Prospect.

Facilities for Women Are Featured by 'Y'

Yes, gals, there is program and activity for you at the new Northwest Suburban YMCA whether you're married or single or whether your free time is plentiful or limited. Whatever your interests you're sure to find it at the "Y."

The new "Y" facilities will be available for use by women every day and evening Monday through Saturday.

There will be badminton, volleyball, Danish Gymnastics and conditioning exercises; recreational and instructional swim periods; health service such as massage, heat cabinet, steam room, ultra-violet ray and infra-red heat lamp.

FOR MORNING activities mothers will be glad to know that there will be a Tiny Tot nursery service available to care for pre-school age children, and there are also swim and dance classes for these youngsters in the morning.

In addition to regular women's classes there will be an opportunity for women to participate in co-ed activities such as gymnastics, badminton, volleyball and swim; plus open swim on Saturdays and family swims on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening.

THE SPECIAL short-term courses will also provide interesting and diversified program for women such as: diving, golf, judo and self defense, crafts, life saving, lose weight, bridge, skin diving and scuba, dance (social, square and modern jazz) and painting. (Y (B8

The official flower for the month of January is the delicate and graceful carnation.

The carnation as we know it today is the result of centuries of breeding and selection. It is a native of southern Europe. The wild carnation is small, and has only five petals, resembling the garden pink to which it is closely related.

Carnations have been used for hundreds of years for decoration, but it was not until the sixteenth century that they came into general use and hybridization of the species began.

The large, double, perpetual flowering carnations of the commercial trade were originated by the French botanist, Dalmais, about 1840 and were introduced into the United States about 15 years later. Since that time, intensive hybridization and selection in this country have produced many excellent varieties and strains.

Since carnations are hybrids, each variety has arisen from a single seed. In order to increase the number of plants of a variety it is necessary to use cuttings or slips. Occasionally, a plant will mutate and produce a flower of a different color, larger size, or an exceptionally strong plant. Greenhouse men are always watching for these mutations or as they call them, sports. When a sport occurs, the florist saves the plant and takes cuttings. The new mutation then becomes known as a selection and is sent to universities to be tested. If it is superior to varieties being grown, it is propagated and sent to commercial greenhouses where it replaces older varieties.

The two most common varieties grown in America today are the Littlefields, which all originated from a salmon-colored variety, Sidney Littlefield; and the Sims which originated from a bright red, William Sim.

Through selection of sports from these two original seedlings, have come a multitude of colors ranging from white and light pink through reds and salmons, and even yellows and a new, orange colored variety.

Each selection carries in its name an indication of which variety it originally came from. Examples are Tangerine Sim and light pink Littlefields.

Littlefield carnations are exceptionally well adapted to growing conditions around Chicago. The Chicago produced Littlefields are known throughout the country for their strong stems, large size, and bright color.

Groups interested in learning more about carnations can secure a free film showing the production of these lovely flowers. Contact my office at the Cook county Farm bureau, CLearbrook 3-6441, or the Illinois Allied Florists, Chicago, for information. (BB

Many homes have been brightened during the past holiday season by a beautiful azalea plant. If purchased with many buds and a few open flowers, the plant should still be in bloom at this time.

After the holidays each year, many people call my office for information on proper care of azaleas and how the plants can be made to flower again.

Azaleas hold up remarkably well in the warm dry atmosphere of our homes. However, these conditions cause the plants to bloom out too quickly and the blossoms last only a short time.

IF POSSIBLE, the plants should be kept in a cool place while they flower. This is especially important at night. A 55 to 60 degree night temperature is ideal. During the day keep the plant in a south window where it will get plenty of light. Never let the soil dry out. When the soil becomes quite dry, water the plant thoroughly and allow the excess water to drain away. Do not keep the plant standing in water.

Azaleas can be re-bloomed if proper conditions are provided. Keep the plant growing in a cool location and remove blooms as they wither. If leaves turn yellow, fertilize with ½ teaspoon of ammonium sulfate and ½ teaspoon of iron sulfate in a quart of water.

In mid-May, plunge the pot in a semi-shaded, somewhat protected spot outside. Surrounding the pot with moist peat will help hold moisture in the soil ball. Don't neglect the plant during the summer. Water and fertilize it regularly, and watch for pests such as red spiders, mealy-bugs, aphids, and slugs.

Before mid-summer (by July 1), carefully shape your azalea by removing the tips of all rapidly growing shoots. Keep the plant outdoors in the fall as long as you can. But before frost, bring it inside to full sun in a very cool room. Aim at a temperature of 40 degrees to 50 degrees from November until the first of the year. An unheated sunroom or enclosed porch is ideal. Or the plant may be given some protection outside in a coldframe until quite cold weather arrives. Continue to give good care during this cool period when flower buds are developing, but withhold fertilizer and reduce watering. Without the cold treatment, no flowers can form.

As the buds continue to swell in January or early February, move the plant to a sunny window in a somewhat warmer room and apply liquid fertilizer. The temperature for forcing should be near 60 degrees at night (10 to 12 degrees warmer during the day), with plenty of humidity in the air. In a few weeks, flowering begins—and your efforts will be lavishly rewarded. At excessive temperatures, buds may "blast." To prolong flowering, remove green shoots as they develop around the flower buds.

PALATINE SQUARES

The New Years eve dance of the Palatine club was noisy and hilarious, littered with serpentine, balloons and paper hats, and happily interrupted in the middle with a midnight buffet. In short, it was everything a square dancer's New Years eve should be. Twenty - five squares were formed by the club's members and guests who danced the old year out to the holiday-special calls of Ed Hempel and Art Mathews in the Paddock school, Palatine. At midnight a netful of balloons was dropped from the ceiling, the noisemakers sent into action and shouts of "Happy New Year" filled the hall.

A grand march was formed when the hubbub died down and the procession to the midnight buffet began. Many calories later the dancing started again and the first three hours of the new year were whirled away.

OFFICIAL club thank-you's go to One Hoss Shay of Palatine for its donation of two of the prizes. Prize winners were Paul Lattner, S. Cheberg, E. Knudtson of Chicago, Jerousek and Daniels of Des Plaines, Chuck Renfro of Elgin and Ohes of Dundee.

The next regular dance of the Palatine club is January 14 in the Paddock school, Palatine, with Art Mathews calling. Guests are invited to join club members, no reservations necessary.

Northwest 'Y' Is Open For Tours on Jan. 15

There are a good many youngsters and quite a few oldsters too impatiently waiting for Sunday, January 15th, when the YMCA building on Northwest hwy., east of Mt. Prospect will be opened for the first time for guided tours of the facilities. Let us take a premilinary tour and preview some of the things that families will see as they go through their new YMCA building.

The best place to start is at the front door. Just inside is a spacious lobby tastefully decorated. The east wall consists of panels of glass looking directly into the swimming pool. The pool is L shaped, 75 feet long with the shallow end designed as a teaching area. At the far end of the pool are two diving boards. The entire south wall of the swimming pool is constructed of thermopane glass doors which will be opened in the summer to a patio and sun deck. In addition to overhead lights the pool is equipped with underwater lighting which provides additional safety as well as atmosphere.

THE YOUTH lobby occupies the western end of the building and can be seen looking northward from the adult lobby. This area will be equipped with ping-pong tables and other game equipment. It is designed also so that it may be utilized in the evenings for classrooms in the adult education program.

At the north end of the youth lobby is a snack bar which will be used to serve refreshments and light lunches.

At the back of the building on the first floor is located a large all purpose room that can be divided into three ample meeting rooms. The all purpose room is for social activities, club meetings and many other social program activities. It is tastefully decorated with wood paneling and is conveniently located adjacent to the kitchen.

AT THE OPPOSITE side of the hallway from the all purpose room is the entrance to the men's and to the boys' locker rooms and showers.

There is also a locker room for women and girls and a business men's club locker room on this floor.

Included in the business men's club facilities will be a small lounge, a steam room, an electric heat dabinet, ulltra violet ray, and massage facilities.

THE GYMNASIUM is equipped for basketball, volleyball and badminton. Special back boards have been installed which are adjustable and can be used to teach small boys the game of basketball.

Included in the equipment for the gymnasium are parallel bars, flying rings, horizontal bars, Trampoline, safety belts, spring boards, and other modern equipment.

The floor of the gymnasium has been laid especially to provide ideal conditions for roller skating. On the same floor with the gymnasium is the office of the Physical Director and a large meeting room.

FROM THE gymnasium a stairway leads down to the basement of the building. An L shaped room provides the best equipped weight lifting, wrestling and exercise room in the area.

In addition to racks of iron dumbbells and barbells are various contraptions with odd names such as wall parallel bars, latissimus machine, inclined boards, and leg press machines. This room will also be the center for physical fitness testing, as well as wrestling and judo.

Down the hall from the exercise room are four regulation handball courts. Adjacent to the handball courts is a room with a punching bag and heavy training bag.

Located in another section of the basement is a well equipped craft room which will be used for activities in the youth program such as air rifle range, and archery.

OUTSIDE OF the building is a large parking area, and several acres of ground which in the future could provide space for outdoor athletic activities. (Y (B8

For New High School

Seek to Hold Down Costs on Building

Topping the list of New Year's resolutions for members of Arlington - Prospect district 214 school board is a vow to "hold the line" in the budget for the new Forest View high school now under construction.

Originally a maximum budget of $4,425,000 for a "completely equipped" high school was adopted by the board. Of this amount $3,900,000 came from a bond issue approved by district voters, with an additional $525,000 to come from the regular school building fund budget. This was to be achieved in a three year period with $175,000 set aside each year through strict budgeting of available funds.

Slowly, building variations, increased costs and construction changes have started pushing the building budget higher.

LAST WEEK school board members renewed their pledge to district taxpayers to build a fully-equipped high school for 2,500 students on the Goebbert rd. site for no more than $4,400,000. The board adopted a finance committee budget to this amount as the basis for all future planning and negotiations with architects and contractors.

The school is slated to open in September, 1962.

Board members stressed the original contracts for the school were within the building budget. Some extra expenses have necessarily arisen such as the need for underground electrical service and the drilling of a shallow well to provide water during the construction period. A $100,000 contingency fund will cover all such items, the board indicated, "if we are careful."

Cost of bringing water to the school site from Arlington Heights was estimated at $18,200 at the time the original budget was drawn. This cost is now estimated at $75,400, with the possibility of the village paying half the installation cost. No definite action has been taken by the village board, necessitating the sinking of a shallow well at the school construction site. The well will be used after the school is completed for lawn watering.

WITH WATER cost from Arlington far in excess of original plans, the board now is considering an offer by the DiMucci subdivision east of the school site.

The subdividers agree to provide an 8-inch water main connnected with their deep well to the corner of the school site. They also would install a 12-inch sanitary sewer from the school site across their subdivision to a connection with the Metropolitan Sanitary District interceptor sewer near Busse rd. Total cost of both lines to the school district would be only $18,000.

To be sure the $175,000 set aside in this year's budget for Forest View construction is used before the end of the fiscal year, the board voted to pay the next $175,000 in construction bills from this money. (ACM

Youth Activities Cover Wide Range

The new YMCA will be opening its doors to northwest suburban youth shortly. Program is scheduled to begin on Monday, Jan. 23, with appetizing activities for every boy and girl. Now is the time to obtain information on the fine variety of programs available.

Full privilege youth members will have access weekly to the following activities: swimming class at the level of the ability of the child; gym class; recreational swim period following gym; instructional roller skating period; recreational roller skating period; several family swim periods; craft class; club membership.

MANY BOYS and girls will want to enroll in one of the Junior Skill School courses. These short term special interest skill classes are available to full privilege members at a reduced rate. The classes are also open to non-members.

Included in the Junior Skill School activities are: springboard diving; junior Frogmen; a variety of bowling leagues; beginning tumbling; beginning Judo; beginners air rifle; special dance classes including novice tap, novice ballet, novice acrobatic, intermediate tap, intermediate ballet, intermediate acrobatic and modern jazz.

Activities are available for the small fry. These include swimming instruction and beginning ballet.

TINY TOTS, which are boys and girls ages three to five, may also enroll in swimming instruction classes and beginning ballet classes. (B8

Professional Staff Offers Experience

The program staff of the Northwest Suburban YMCA is well qualified to plan and direct the activities of a new YMCA. In addition to the executive secretary, Charles McClellan, who was instrumental in the organization of the local YMCA, there are Clifford Lothery, Boys Secretary; Arthur Holland, Physical Director; and Helen Coryell, Women's and Girls' Secretary.

Clifford Lothery graduated from Bradley University with a major in Physical Education. He has been on the staff of the Northwest Suburban YMCA since 1957. Prior to that he served two years in the U.S. Army. Cliff and his wife, Donna, have two small daughters—Kim, age 4, and Jody Ellen, age 2.

ARTHUR HOLLAND came to the Northwest Suburban YMCA from the Oak Park YMCA where he was first the Assistant Physical Director and later the Physical Director. He graduated from Northwestern University in 1952 with his Bachelor of Science degree and from George Williams College in 1954 with an MA degree.

Art has a long backlog of experience as a member of the Y and as a volunteer leader. He has been a member of the Oak Park YMCA for over 20 years. His particular interest is aquatics, and at present he is the Aquatics Editor for the Journal of Physical Education.

Helen Coryell has had extensive experience in directing program activities for women and girls. Previous to coming on the local Y staff she had been the Women's and Girls' Secretary at the Lincoln-Belmont YMCA in Chicago for a period of ten years.

JEANNETTE Carlson, who has been the Y "Business Secretary" since 1953, will continue in this capacity in the new Y building. (B8

50 Years Ago, Jan. 13, 1911

PALATINE: All kinds of sickness with which to start the New Year.

Corporations seem very short sighted at times. The C.&N.W. railway doing a business of several thousand dollars a month in Palatine, do not think a telephone a necessity in the transaction of their affairs.

Honor Roll, Grades 5 and 6: Lawrence Frye, Raymond Pohlman, Florence Thurnau, Margaret Stroker and Frances Daniels; Miss Bollman, Teacher. Grades 7 and 8: Fred Harmening, Frank Thurnau and Mary Allard; Miss Hurst, Teacher.

High School: Very much interest is taken in geometry by the second year pupils. The second year commercial class has begun typewriting and stenography. Members of the fourth year are preparing to take the teachers' examination.

ROSELLE: Martha Haberkamp met with an accident Sunday morning on her way to church; the wagon was overthrown by the wind throwing the occupants out and breaking her collar bone.

Adolph Nitche, H. Botterman, Wm. Benhart and Frank Meyer harvested ice last week.

Anxiety is felt for the whereabouts of Mayor R. F. Sherring, who left December 8 for Texas. The last heard from him was Dec. 14. Geo. E. Franzen left Tuesday evening for Houston, Texas, and the west to look up his partner, Mayor Scherring.

On a recent discussion between certain parties about Testing Cows it has proved that Injections affects more on men than on Cattle. It was impossible for 2 prominent gentlemen to find their way home on account of the stuff they took in, which re-acted; so they called twice on farmers who showed them their way north.

SCHAUMBURG: Sleighing is fine in Schaumburg.

E. H. Eichman enjoys the mule driving very much.

Ralph surely won't make a mistake with his new glasses, taking a boy instead of a girl.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS: Lots of serious sickness. Gilbert Klehm, Helen Collins and Richard Runge are enrolled in grade 6 at the public school.

First come, first served, hence we give that church top column whose minister favors us by bringing in his items first.

The people should enjoy the privileges their taxes pay for, so trot out that snow plow after each snow storm and let's have all the walks clear.

Hugo J. Thal, attorney at law, is one of the new citizens of Arlington Heights. We hear him well spoken of as a gentleman. Anyone having legal business will do well to make his acquaintance.

The Mutual Aid Society of the Peter & Volz employees at the Arlington Heights foundry (now Arlington Seating Co.) will give their first annual ball in Kelling's Hall Saturday evening, Jan. 14. PALATINE: Miss Adeline Senne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Senne, and Mr. Clarence Gregerson were married at the bride's home Saturday evening by Rev. Poellot.

Deer Grove lake has been providing lots of winter sport for those who appreciate it. The greatest toboggan ever made in these parts gives a "coast" from the top of the hill clear across the lake. Mr. W. P. Schierding and August Hackbarth were the first ones to discover the possibilities for sport there and rigged up a coaster sled that will hold a dozen or more. Mr. Renner prescribes Deer Grove to many of his patients and he himself can often be found enjoying a skate around the lake. City people are coming out too; many of them with skis. There is plenty of room up there to accommodate the whole of Palatine. Let's go.

SCHAUMBURG: The telephone company have raised their rates again. This increase seems very unreasonable, especially for rural communities.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS: Only 10 above zero Wednesday morning.

The streets are getting almost dusty where there are no pavements. Sap is coming up in the trees and buds are swelling. Yet a long winter is yet to come. Weather man told us, rising temperature to follow "the end of a perfect day," Tuesday; and "look at," bang it went down to near zero.

Mrs. F. W. Lorenzen (Sophia Roehl) died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Albert Stitz, at Everett, Wash., Dec. 20, 1920. She was born in Altona, Hanover, Germany, August 15, 1849, and came here as a bride many years ago. Her husband, Mr. F. W. Lorenzen, known as "the tailor" died several years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzen had two children, Fred H. Lorenzen, and Therese, now Mrs. Albert Stitz.

WHEELING: The Fire Department was called out about 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, when the parsonage caught fire. By the quick work of the people who arrived on the scene, they were able to save the house before much damage was done. The upstairs was ruined and the carpenters were called at once to repair it.

30 Years Ago, Jan. 16, 1931.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS: Chief Skoog of the Arlington Heights police department has hooked up his radio in the police station so that it is tuned in constantly with the police radio system of Chicago. This is the first town in this part of the county to cooperate with the county wide police protection plan as was suggested ten days ago by prominent fighters of crime. The next step in Arlington Heights would be in installation of radio sets in the police cars. In less than a minute from the time that a call was sent to the Chicago police department, the message came over the wire. There is no expense to this service except the telephone toll message.

The opening of the new Karstens Funeral Home, the first complete institution of its kind in Arlington Heights, is to be Saturday and Sunday afternoons and evenings, Jan. 17 and 18. The beautiful home at the northeast corner of Northwest Highway and Vail Avenue, formerly known as the Volz residence, has been found to lend itself admirably to the purposes of a funeral home.

The Peoples State Bank of Arlington Heights held their annual meeting Saturday afternoon, Jan. 10, 1931. The excellent showing the bank has made the past year and its strong financial condition today called for a vote of confidence in the directors and officers, on the part of the stockholders. While many banking institutions have reduced or passed the usual stock dividend this year, Peoples Bank paid eight per cent dividend. The present officers were re-elected, that is: F. W. Gieseke, Pres., Otto Landmeier, V. P., Wm. C. Kreft, Cashier. The directors elected are Fred A. Rathje, Fred W. Gieseke, Otto Landmeier, Waldemar Krause, John Schoenbeck, W. C. Kreft, and Walter Krause, Jr.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS: Railroad Detective blames boys and girls; they blame the grownups: Fifteen Arlington Heights boys and girls are alive today and will probably grow to man and womanhood if they profit from a lecture given them in the office of Supt. Baker by a Chicago Railroad detective, Tuesday. They have scared more than one railroad engineer by their dares to each other to see who could face the oncoming train the longest. One boy admitted that he threw stones at a passing train. These young people had a rather good alibi. Because the grownups of Arlington Heights, a city of 6000 people are too busy to provide a skating pond they were forced to find their own place to skate. They found it near the railroad track back of Scarsdale. Walking down the track, the temptation to "dare the engineer to hit them" was too great.

The youngsters appear to have profited from the lecture—but that skating pond is still missing.

A second advisory board to aid draftees has been appointed for Cook County District No. 1. The new board will hold weekly meetings at Arlington Heights. The members of the new board are Mr. Peter B. Atwood, Mr. Paul E. Collins, and Mr. Hugo J. Thal, all residents of Arlington Heights.

Mr. Fred W. Gieseke Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Gieseke, Arlington Heights, has opened a law office at 134 N. LaSalle St. Chicago, after having been admitted to the bar by the Supreme Court Dec. 12, 1940.

Mayor J. D. Flentie and Supervisor Gilbert Klehm, accompanied by their wives, took in the Governor Green inauguration at Springfield Monday evening.

Hot election battles of 10, 20, 30, 40 and 50 years ago were lived over again in the recreation room of the Volz family, when they played host to friends of County Commissioner Wm. Busse who recently completed fifty years public service. The official celebration of those 50 years occurred last month and received considerable publicity.

The dinner last Thursday was "off the record." Gathered round the festive board were "old political warhorses" some of whom were in the rank and file two to three decades ago, and have now retired from the political battlefield after long and faithful service. Others are younger men bearing scars of battles of the twenties. All walks of life, all faiths and nationalities were represented. The cause of Republicanism was the magnet which brought them together during fat and lean political years in the past, and it seemed like old times to answer "yes" to fellow comrade Albert F. Volz, who directed the G.O.P. campaign so many years in the country towns of Cook County.

Dick Lyons delivered the headliner speech of the evening. The patriarch of all guests was Wm. H. Weber, 83, of Blue Island, whose years of service exceed those of Mr. Busse. Another old timer was Chas. V. Julian, 82, Palatine, who first entered politics 50 years ago and became deputy coroner in 1892, serving 38 years in county service.

Others present who have many years to their credit were Judge Matchette, Judge Oscar Hebel, Judge Daniel Trude and Judge Hugo Friend. Among those present still in public service were Werner Schroeder, National Republican committeeman; Geo. A. Miller, county commissioner; General John V. Clinnin; Richard Lyons, Arthur Bidwill, state senator; Arthur Sprague, legislator; L. A. Westcott, master in chancery; business men and former officials: O. W. Schmidt, Wilmette; Carl J. Carlson, Blue Island; Frank Kriz, Western Springs; Fred B. Roos, Forest Park; Edwin A. Robson, Wilmette; Henry Fowler, Wilmette; Albert C. Conn, Evanston; Earl F. Kistner, Blue Island; John Mackler, Chicago Heights; Hugh Donnelly, Oak Park; Geo. C. Novotny, LaGrange; Geo. Pyott, Oak Park; Leonard Reid, Chicago; Bruce Benson, Maywood; Wm. Busse Jr., Mt. Prospect.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS: Bids for the construction of a new dial telephone exchange at Eastman st. and Vail Ave. in Arlington Heights were requested this week by the Illinois Bell Telephone co. If acceptable bids are obtained, the company will proceed with the construction of the building as soon as the contractor can begin work, W. C. Lathen, telephone manager, said this week. The building will house the telephone business office and dial equipment to serve Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights and subdivisions in this area.

1951 is a municipal election year and there is a group of over 60 persons comprising the Arlington Heights Citizens Committee who intend to do something about that fact. They intend to find solutions to municipal problems, as well as to find qualified candidates for the municipal offices.

The Illinois Bell Telephone co. will change its coin telephones Jan. 11 and 12 to operate under the new 10-cent charge for local calls.

PALATINE: From Tom Hart's "Tales of the Street"—Whose Job? The C&NW railway does a good job of keeping the platform free of snow, but what's the use of a clean platform if you can't get to it? The paths from the streets near the platforms, particularly Slade Street, haven't been anything to crow about this winter—in fact, they've been pretty much left alone. Whose job is it to do a little shoveling there? We can't ask Doc Moore, the station agent, to do it. Doc has got more than any one man should be asked to handle without shoveling snow. Just why the C&NW should make this a one man station with the present population of Palatine several times greater than it was many years ago when they always had two men on the job, is a mystery, but then there are a lot of things about the operation of the C&NW that are mysteries and always have been.

WHEELING: William F. Laurence was installed as worshipful master of Vitruvius lodge at the Wheeling Masonic temple last Saturday night.

There was a joint meeting of the Wheeling Firemen and the officers of the Wheeling Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night, and the joint decision was to work together and run one carnival for the benefit of both organizations, as has been done in the past. Wheeling Days will be held for three days however, instead of the usual two, on July 20, 21 and 22. The Wheeling school news this week is definitely good. The long awaited day of single sessions arrived Jan. 8.

BENSENVILLE: Former classmates of Churchville school are invited to attend the next PTA meeting to be held at the school Feb. 1. A Founders' Day program will be presented featuring a story of the history of the school which is over 100 years old. Guests of honor will be those who had a part in the early years of the school and will tell about it.

Bensenville fire fighters answered 91 calls in 1950. Forty-eight of these calls were answered by the village fire men, and 43 by the rural volunteers. (A-14

$200 Fine Levied on Soldier

A 23-year-old soldier, appearing in Police Magistrate's court January 4 to answer five charges stemming from an auto collision here, was fined the maximum of $200 by Judge Robert C. Buckley.

Entering pleas of guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated and damaging public property was Steven Oman, who is stationed at Ft. Sheridan, Ill.

HE WAS arrested by Arlington Heights police December 31 after crashing into a parked car, driving a half block down the sidewalk and leaving the scene of the accident. He admitted drinking, police said.

Judge Buckley also ordered Oman's commanding officer be advised of his conviction and that the secretary of state be notified for purposes of drivers license revocation. (AF

Shortest Auto Theft Recorded

Arlington Heights police who recovered a stolen auto here Sunday said it was one of the "shortest" thefts on record.

Upon receiving a stolen auto report from William Lasher, 1104 N. Douglas, police located the missing car a few blocks away in a service station at Northwest hwy. and Pine st.

The car was apparently abandoned by the thief when it ran out of gas. (AF

DEEP IN CONCENTRATION during rehearsal for the popular musical "Damn Yankees," Prospect high school students are led by Sterling Mische, school choral director and director of the show. Mische, with script in hand runs through some of the dialogue with Dick Cook, John Bannister and Susan Marie Weiss. The musical will be presented by the school at 8 p. m. Thursday, Feb. 9, in the school Little Theatre.

Ceramic Reliefs

Ancient Art Revived By Wheeling Couple

An ancient art form—which died centuries ago in the early Mediterranean world—is being brought to life in Wheeling by an ex-psychology student and her broker husband.

"I make 'em and Dave markets 'em," said Audre Owen with a wave of her hand toward objects on two walls.

In the blue and white frame house at 211 E. Wayne the objects are mounted on polished slabs of rich woods.

Audre (pronounced "Audrey") calls them ceramic reliefs. Dave calls them ceramic wall sculptures.

"ACTUALLY, they're two-dimensional carvings in clay of three-dimensional subjects.

"One inch of clay is rolled onto wooden forms and carved. The clay is then placed in a kiln and fired to 2,400 degrees over 24 hours," Audre said.

The art form was popular among the early Greeks, Etruscans, Egyptians and Romans. Then it died, although there was a brief revival in ceramic reliefs during the Renaissance.

But these early people would hardly recognize the form of the new sculpture.

AN Egyptian Wise Man is faintly suggestive of the ancient Hamitic culture, but with fresh clean lines.

An unnamed piece is clearly modern.

"It's way out, I know," Audre laughed easily. "A real commercial name might be 'Metaphysical Reflections 402.' They sell with names like that."

Selling is one thing the young artist need not worry about. Dave, a floor broker at the Midwest Stock Exchange, is also broker and business manager of Owen Studios.

Married and out of school only two years, Audre's success "amazes" her husband.

He reported no difficulty in lining up 10 showings of her works in the past year, including a one-man show at the Merchandise Mart.

A SPECIAL three-week showing of her ceramic reliefs and pottery begins March 19 at Rockford college.

The couple report Audre's earnings are comparable to a teacher's income, a profession she once considered.

She became interested in art at Lake Forest college where she studied art therapy as a psychology major. She later studied fine art in Italy and took her master's degree through a joint program of the University of Chicago and the Art Institute.

It was at the Art Institute that the couple met.

Audre's art ranges from her specialty, ceramics, to painting and free-standing sculpture. She designs her reliefs for homes and for commercial buildings using larger pieces.

WHAT WILL it all lead to? "We hope one day to work up to our own gallery somewhere here in the northwest suburbs," she said.

Audre could then spend full days in the garage-like workroom in back of their home . .

"Maybe within two years," she said. "It might even be sooner." (B8

'WAY BACK WHEN'

Compiled by Mrs. G. Rex Volz Phone CLearbrook 5-9078

50 Years Ago, Jan. 13, 1911

PALATINE: All kinds of sickness with which to start the New Year.

Corporations seem very short sighted at times. The C.&N.W. railway doing a business of several thousand dollars a month in Palatine, do not think a telephone a necessity in the transaction of their affairs.

Honor Roll, Grades 5 and 6: Lawrence Frye, Raymond Pohlman, Florence Thurnau, Margaret Stroker and Frances Daniels; Miss Bollman, Teacher. Grades 7 and 8: Fred Harmening, Frank Thurnau and Mary Allard; Miss Hurst, Teacher.

High School: Very much interest is taken in geometry by the second year pupils. The second year commercial class has begun typewriting and stenography. Members of the fourth year are preparing to take the teachers' examination.

ROSELLE: Martha Haberkamp met with an accident Sunday morning on her way to church; the wagon was overthrown by the wind throwing the occupants out and breaking her collar bone.

Adolph Nitche, H. Botterman, Wm. Benhart and Frank Meyer harvested ice last week.

Anxiety is felt for the whereabouts of Mayor R. F. Sherring, who left December 8 for Texas. The last heard from him was Dec. 14. Geo. E. Franzen left Tuesday evening for Houston, Texas, and the west to look up his partner, Mayor Scherring.

On a recent discussion between certain parties about Testing Cows it has proved that Injections affects more on men than on Cattle. It was impossible for 2 prominent gentlemen to find their way home on account of the stuff they took in, which re-acted; so they called twice on farmers who showed them their way north.

SCHAUMBURG: Sleighing is fine in Schaumburg.

E. H. Eichman enjoys the mule driving very much.

Ralph surely won't make a mistake with his new glasses, taking a boy instead of a girl.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS: Lots of serious sickness. Gilbert Klehm, Helen Collins and Richard Runge are enrolled in grade 6 at the public school.

First come, first served, hence we give that church top column whose minister favors us by bringing in his items first.

The people should enjoy the privileges their taxes pay for, so trot out that snow plow after each snow storm and let's have all the walks clear.

Hugo J. Thal, attorney at law, is one of the new citizens of Arlington Heights. We hear him well spoken of as a gentleman. Anyone having legal business will do well to make his acquaintance.

The Mutual Aid Society of the Peter & Volz employees at the Arlington Heights foundry (now Arlington Seating Co.) will give their first annual ball in Kelling's Hall Saturday evening, Jan. 14. The Illinois Bell Telephone co. will change its coin telephones Jan. 11 and 12 to operate under the new 10-cent charge for local calls.

PALATINE: From Tom Hart's "Tales of the Street" —Whose Job? The C&NW railway does a good job of keeping the platform free of snow, but what's the use of a clean platform if you can't get to it? The paths from the streets near the platforms, particularly Slade Street, haven't been anything to crow about this winter—in fact, they've been pretty much left alone. Whose job is it to do a little shoveling there? We can't ask Doc Moore, the station agent, to do it. Doc has got more than any one man should be asked to handle without shoveling snow. Just why the C&NW should make this a one man station with the present population of Palatine several times greater than it was many years ago when they always had two men on the job, is a mystery, but then there are a lot of things about the operation of the C&NW that are mysteries and always have been.

WHEELING: William F. Laurence was installed as worshipful master of Vitruvius lodge at the Wheeling Masonic temple last Saturday night.

There was a joint meeting of the Wheeling Firemen and the officers of the Wheeling Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night, and the joint decision was to work together and run one carnival for the benefit of both organizations, as has been done in the past. Wheeling Days will be held for three days however, instead of the usual two, on July 20, 21 and 22. The Wheeling school news this week is definitely good. The long awaited day of single sessions arrived Jan. 8.

BENSENVILLE: Former classmates of Churchville school are invited to attend the next PTA meeting to be held at the school Feb. 1. A Founders' Day program will be presented featuring a story of the history of the school which is over 100 years old. Guests of honor will be those who had a part in the early years of the school and will tell about it.

Bensenville fire fighters answered 91 calls in 1950. Forty-eight of these calls were answered by the village fire men, and 43 by the rural volunteers. (A-14

$200 Fine Levied on Soldier

A 23-year-old soldier, appearing in Police Magistrate's court January 4 to answer five charges stemming from an auto collision here, was fined the maximum of $200 by Judge Robert C. Buckley.

Entering pleas of guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated and damaging public property was Steven Oman, who is stationed at Ft. Sheridan, Ill.

HE WAS arrested by Arlington Heights police December 31 after crashing into a parked car, driving a half block down the sidewalk and leaving the scene of the accident. He admitted drinking, police said.

Judge Buckley also ordered Oman's commanding officer be advised of his conviction and that the secretary of state be notified for purposes of drivers license revocation. (AF

Shortest Auto Theft Recorded

Arlington Heights police who recovered a stolen auto here Sunday said it was one of the "shortest" thefts on record.

Upon receiving a stolen auto report from William Lasher, 1104 N. Douglas, police located the missing car a few blocks away in a service station at Northwest hwy. and Pine st.

The car was apparently abandoned by the thief when it ran out of gas. (AF

DEEP IN CONCENTRATION during rehearsal for the popular musical "Damn Yankees," Prospect high school students are led by Sterling Mische, school choral director and director of the show. Mische, with script in hand, runs through some of the dialogue with Dick Cook, John Bannister and Susan Marie Weiss. The musical will be presented by the school at 8 p. m. Thursday, Feb. 9, in the school Little Theatre.

Ceramic Reliefs

Ancient Art Revived By Wheeling Couple

An ancient art form—which died centuries ago in the early Mediterranean world—is being brought to life in Wheeling by an ex-psychology student and her broker husband.

"I make 'em and Dave markets 'em," said Audre Owen with a wave of her hand toward objects on two walls.

In the blue and white frame house at 211 E. Wayne the objects are mounted on polished slabs of rich woods.

Audre (pronounced "Audrey") calls them ceramic reliefs. Dave calls them ceramic wall sculptures.

"ACTUALLY, they're two-dimensional carvings in clay of three-dimensional subjects.

"One inch of clay is rolled onto wooden forms and carved. The clay is then placed in a kiln and fired to 2,400 degrees over 24 hours," Audre said.

The art form was popular among the early Greeks, Etruscans, Egyptians and Romans. Then it died, although there was a brief revival in ceramic reliefs during the Renaissance.

But these early people would hardly recognize the form of the new sculpture.

AN Egyptian Wise Man is faintly suggestive of the ancient Hamitic culture, but with fresh clean lines.

An unnamed piece is clearly modern.

"It's way out, I know," Audre laughed easily. "A real commercial name might be 'Metaphysical Reflections 402.' They sell with names like that."

Selling is one thing the young artist need not worry about. Dave, a floor broker at the Midwest Stock Exchange, is also broker and business manager of Owen Studios.

Married and out of school only two years, Audre's success "amazes" her husband.

He reported no difficulty in lining up 10 showings of her works in the past year, including a one-man show at the Merchandise Mart.

A SPECIAL three-week showing of her ceramic reliefs and pottery begins March 19 at Rockford college.

The couple report Audre's earnings are comparable to a teacher's income, a profession she once considered.

She became interested in art at Lake Forest college where she studied art therapy as a psychology major. She later studied fine art in Italy and took her master's degree through a joint program of the University of Chicago and the Art Institute.

It was at the Art Institute that the couple met.

Audre's art ranges from her specialty, ceramics, to painting and free-standing sculpture. She designs her reliefs for homes and for commercial buildings using larger pieces.

WHAT WILL it all lead to? "We hope one day to work up to our own gallery somewhere here in the northwest suburbs," she said.

Audre could then spend full days in the garage-like workroom in back of their home . .

"Maybe within two years," she said. "It might even be sooner." (B8

Her husband, George preceded her in death. B9

Tuberculosis Is Detailed in Area

In a search to find unknown cases of tuberculosis during the summer of 1960, over 100,000 persons were X-rayed at mobile X-ray units in suburban communities.

It was found that there was an increase of 39.6 per cent of tuberculosis. Most of this increase is believed to be credited to better case-detection methods. In spite of the free chest X-ray service it is still true that two out of every three cases discovered are either moderately advanced or far advanced when discovered.

AS EXAMPLES of the number of TB suspects found in the area, several communities are listed. Out of the 829 people in Hoffman Estates that were X-rayed, 11 were TB suspects. Thirty-one of the 1,169 people X-rayed in Arlington Heights were found to be suspects.

Twenty-three TB suspects were found in the 508 that were X-rayed in Elk Grove while out of 1,331 X-rayed in Mt. Prospect, 31 people were suspected. Palatine had 30 suspects out of the 1.569 persons X-rayed, while only seven were found in Prospect Heights out of 576. Twenty-four people were suspected from Rolling Meadows out of 1,125, and 12 out of the 734 from Wheeling.

THE "DETECTIVE work" is getting better, but the cooperation of an informed public is needed to control tuberculosis and eventually eradicate the disease. Every citizen is urged to get an annual chest X-ray from his private physician or at a mobile unit. (B8

Christian Church Elects '61 Officers

Guy McCord, 306 N. Maple, Mt. Prospect, has been reelected chairman of the official board of the Christian Church of Arlington Heights for the coming year. The announcement was made by Rev. Don L. Jones at the regular Sunday service.

Also re-elected to the board were I. B. Franklin, Palatine, vice-chairman; Jack R. Warring, Elk Grove Village, treasurer; Mrs. E. D. Phillips, church clerk; W. L. Milliren, financial secretary; and Mrs. C. E. Parson, secretary. Mrs. A. E. Peterson of Mt. Prospect was elected church historian.

OTHER OFFICERS elected are: board of elders, Guy McCord, James J. Teachey and Joe Jones; board of deacons, Ronald Augsburger, Richard Burke, Matthew Cockrell, Donald Walsh, John Wirth, Edison Lyle, A. E. Peterson, John Faklaris and Lowell Derry; board of trustees, Mrs. Guy McCord; board of deaconesses, Mrs. Joseph Bryson, Mrs. John Wirth, Mrs. A. E. Peterson, Mrs. I. B. Franklin, Mrs. John Faklaris, Mrs. Thomas Fennell, Mrs. Lowell Derry and Mrs. C. E. Parson.

NOW IN ITS third year and with a membership of over 170, the church serves the entire northwest area. Worship service is held each Sunday at Miner Junior high school, Arlington Heights, at 10:45 a.m. Church school begins at 9:45. Child care is provided.

Her husband, George preceded her in death. B9

Tuberculosis Is Detailed in Area

In a search to find unknown cases of tuberculosis during the summer of 1960, over 100,000 persons were X-rayed at mobile X-ray units in suburban communities.

It was found that there was an increase of 39.6 per cent of tuberculosis. Most of this increase is believed to be credited to better case-detection methods. In spite of the free chest X-ray service it is still true that two out of every three cases discovered are either moderately advanced or far advanced when discovered.

AS EXAMPLES of the number of TB suspects found in the area, several communities are listed. Out of the 829 people in Hoffman Estates that were X-rayed, 11 were TB suspects. Thirty-one of the 1,169 people X-rayed in Arlington Heights were found to be suspects.

Twenty-three TB suspects were found in the 508 that were X-rayed in Elk Grove while out of 1,331 X-rayed in Mt. Prospect, 31 people were suspected. Palatine had 30 suspects out of the 1.569 persons X-rayed, while only seven were found in Prospect Heights out of 576. Twenty-four people were suspected from Rolling Meadows out of 1,125, and 12 out of the 734 from Wheeling.

THE "DETECTIVE work" is getting better, but the cooperation of an informed public is needed to control tuberculosis and eventually eradicate the disease. Every citizen is urged to get an annual chest X-ray from his private physician or at a mobile unit. (B8

Guy McCord, 306 N. Maple, Mt. Prospect, has been re-elected chairman of the official board of the Christian Church of Arlington Heights for the coming year. The announcement was made by Rev. Don L. Jones at the regular Sunday service.

Also re-elected to the board were I. B. Franklin, Palatine, vice-chairman; Jack R. Warring, Elk Grove Village, treasurer; Mrs. E. D. Phillips, church clerk; W. L. Milliren, financial secretary; and Mrs. C. E. Parson, secretary. Mrs. A. E. Peterson of Mt. Prospect was elected church historian.

OTHER OFFICERS elected are: board of elders, Guy McCord, James J. Teachey and Joe Jones; board of deacons, Ronald Augsburger, Richard Burke, Matthew Cockrell, Donald Walsh, John Wirth, Edison Lyle, A. E. Peterson, John Faklaris and Lowell Derry; board of trustees, Mrs. Guy McCord; board of deaconesses, Mrs. Joseph Bryson, Mrs. John Wirth, Mrs. A. E. Peterson, Mrs. I. B. Franklin, Mrs. John Faklaris, Mrs. Thomas Fennell, Mrs. Lowell Derry and Mrs. C. E. Parson.

NOW IN ITS third year and with a membership of over 170, the church serves the entire northwest area. Worship service is held each Sunday at Miner Junior high school, Arlington Heights, at 10:45 a.m. Church school begins at 9:45. Child care is provided.

Mr. Jones announced that anyone wishing further information may contact him at the church parsonage, 306 North Stratford, Arlington Heights, or telephone him at CLearbrook 9-4155. (B9

Persons in Show Business Featured in New Books

A surprising number of autobiographies and biographies about persons in show business are included among books published in recent months, according to Mrs. Evelyn Stadelman, Arlington Heights librarian.

Famous actresses, actors, TV performers, movie directors, comedians, and dancers have all told their life stories.

Among the biographies of well-known actresses published recently is the best selling "Zsa Zsa," which is the story of Hungarian-born movie and TV star Zsa Zsa Gabor as told to Gerold Frank. The actress tells of her family, marriages, work, and loves with the frankness that has made her a sensation wherever she goes.

OTHER RECENT autobiographies of movie and stage actresses include "Marilyn Monroe," by Maurice Zolotow; "Ava," by David Hanna, which is the story of Ava Gardner; "My Story," by Mary Astor, and "Goodness Had Nothing To Do With It," by Mae West.

Prominent actors are also represented among recent personal histories. Some of the frequently-requested titles are Fred Astaire's "Steps In Time," Leslie Ruth Howard's "A Quite Remarkable Father," which is the life story of actor Leslie Howard; Keenan Wynn's "Ed Wynn's Son," Groucho Marx's "Groucho and Me," Charles Chaplin Jr.'s "My Father, Charlie Chaplin," Buster Keaton's "My Wonderful World of Slapstick," and Eddie Cantor's "The Way I See It."

Two well-known TV performers have penned best-selling autobiographies in recent months. Steve Allen writes frankly and humorously of his early life and rise to the top in "Mark It and Strike It," while Jack Paar tells his life story in "I Kid You Not."

SINGERS ARE among the prominent persons who have written books or have been written about. Kate Smith describes her life and views in "Upon My Lips a Song," of the most recent titles. Other books include "Subway to the Met," by Kyle Crichton, the life of Rise Stevens, and "St. Louis Woman," by Helen Traubel.

"Ezio Pinza" is the autobiography of the late opera singer and star of "South Pacific," while Arnold Shaw's "Belafonte" is a biography of the popular ballad singer.

Books about several famous directors and producers are also represented, including "Hollywood Rajah," by Bosley Crowther, the life of Louis B. Mayer; "Act One," the autobiography of Moss Hart, and "The Autobiography of Cecil B. DeMille."

Final Week Of Furniture Store Sale

Restano Furniture Mart, 202 Irving Park rd., Bensenville, which began a closeout sale of its $110,000 stock before Christmas runs its final page ad this week in Paddock Publications. The store closes January 16.

Tony Volpe and Connie Graff who head the business point out that they will be at their other store at 7115 West Grand after the closeout here.

HUNDREDS OF buyers have responded to the store's announcements and have taken advantage of the unusual values on standard furniture and household items offered, according to the store owners.

This week's final page announcement in this paper lists furniture for every room.

"We wish everyone would read our ad," says Mr. Graff. "We want them to come in and see for themselves that the money-saving values are as we have stated them. Some of these prices we are sure can't be beat anywhere."

Suburb Growth

Final Census Figures Out

Final 1960 federal census figures supplied by the U.S. census bureau give Rolling Meadows a population of 10,879. That's 10,879 more than lived there in 1950, for the village didn't exist then.

The final figures are population in April, 1960.

Arlington Heights added 19,110 people in 10 years, placing it fourth among northwest Chicago suburbs, according to the Census Bureau's report. Mt. Prospect ranked ninth in this category with 14,897 added.

POPULATION of suburbs which didn't exist in 1950, besides Rolling Meadows, are Elk Grove Village, 6,608; Schaumburg Center, 986, and Hanover Park, 451.

Percentage increase of northwest suburban villages incorporated before 1950 are Wheeling, 683 per cent (from 916 to 7, 69; Mt. Prospect, 372 per cent (4,009 to 18,906); Arlington Heights, 218 per cent (8,768 to 27,878); Palatine, 182 per cent (4,079 to 11,504); Bensenville, which straddles the DuPage-Cook county line, 146.2 per cent (3,754 to 9,141); Barrington, 29.1 per cent (4,209 to 5,434), and Bartlett, 87 per cent (716 to 1,340).

Indication of the explosive growth of all Chicago suburbs is the fact that 55 of the 101 suburbs incorporated in 1950 -- over half -- increased their population more than 100 per cent.

Twenty-seven of them, more than one-fourth, experienced population growth of more than 200 per cent. Fourteen more than quadrupled their population.

THE STATE of Illinois' population rose 15.7 per cent (1,368,982 people), from 8,712,176 in 1950 to 10,081,158 in April, 1960.

Chicago, on the other hand, lost 70,558 residents. April, 1960, population was 3,550,404.

As for North DuPage county municipalities, besides Bensenville, official population increases during the decade were: Addison, from 813 in 1950 to 6,741 in 1960; Wood Dale, from 1,857 to 3,071; Itasca, 1,274 to 3,564; Roselle, 1,038 to 3,581, and Bloomingdale, 339 to 1,262. (A14

Adult Group For Single People Set

A new group to help those who have lost a wife or husband through death or divorce in adjusting to a defferent type of existence has been organized by the YMCA and the Ministerial association of Park Ridge.

The Northwest Suburban Adult Group, as it is called, will hold its first meeting January 24 at 8 p.m. and every Tuesday thereafter in the Mary Wilson house, 306 S. Prospect, Park Ridge.

It will provide opportunities for all widowers, widows, divorced or single persons to widen their circle of friendships and to enlarge the sphere of their interests. All interested persons are welcome to attend the first meeting and program. (A14

Restano Furniture Mart, 202 Irving Park rd., Bensenville, which began a closeout sale of its $110,000 stock before Christmas runs its final page ad this week in Paddock Publications. The store closes January 16.

Tony Volpe and Connie Graff who head the business point out that they will be at their other store at 7115 West Grand after the closeout here.

HUNDREDS OF buyers have responded to the store's announcements and have taken advantage of the unusual values on standard furniture and household items offered, according to the store owners.

This week's final page announcement in this paper lists furniture for every room.

"We wish everyone would read our ad," says Mr. Graff. "We want them to come in and see for themselves that the money-saving values are as we have stated them. Some of these prices we are sure can't be beat anywhere." (A-14

Suburb Growth

Final Census Figures Out

Final 1960 federal census figures supplied by the U.S. census bureau give Rolling Meadows a population of 10,879. That's 10,879 more than lived there in 1950, for the village didn't exist then.

The final figures are population in April, 1960.

Arlington Heights added 19,110 people in 10 years, placing it fourth among northwest Chicago suburbs, according to the Census Bureau's report. Mt. Prospect ranked ninth in this category with 14,897 added.

POPULATION of suburbs which didn't exist in 1950, besides Rolling Meadows, are Elk Grove Village, 6,608; Schaumburg Center, 986, and Hanover Park, 451.

Speech Experiment

'Team Teaching' Plan Success at Prospect

If one teacher is good, then three teachers should be three times as good!

Advocates of the new "team teaching" technique don't claim such startling results, but a three-member team in speech instruction at Prospect high school do feel the three-teacher class is "better," has made "more progress" and developed "increased interest" among students.

The experimental teaching program assigned three teachers to a class group of 90 in place of the standard one teacher to a class of 30 students.

Heart of the team-teaching plan is a series of lectures by the individual teachers before the entire 90-member class. These lectures are undertaken according to the specialization of the teacher, giving the students the benefit of the best teaching available for a particular phase of the curriculum.

IN THE experimental speech class, LeRoy W. Hollenbeck specializes in drama, Mrs. Rebecca Sickels is regarded as best in speech interpretation while Robert Goldman is known for his work in persuasive techniques.

In addition to the large class lectures, the plan also emphasizes small discussion groups under the leadership of individual teachers. These groups of 15 to 20 students are smaller than the normal class, giving students more opportunity for expression. While the three teachers work with smaller groups, the balance of students are engaged in preparation for future speeches, either at the school library or in a special study hall set aside for this work.

Among the major advantages stressed by the three teachers is the benefit to students in having three teacher viewpoints. Hollenbeck emphasized while teachers agree on basic theory, each has their own "strong point" on particular subjects. By rotating lectures and small group leadership, each of the 90 students has the chance to gain a broader interpretation of the subject material.

ANOTHER BIG "plus" in the plan is the opportunity for teachers to gain additional time for lectures. While one teacher leads the large group the other two are busy preparing material for their next lecture. All three stress their presentation of material to the class is far better under this plan than would be the case normally. Special demonstration materials are used more, records, movies and readings are included and even some experimental material never used by the three teachers has been tested and found suitable for class use.

To further aid the teachers in their team-teaching program a special clerical worker, Mrs. Jean Jones, has been assigned to aid them when requested during the class period. Mrs. Jones takes attendance, keeps grade records, marks objective tests and prepares some class written materials.

Known nationally as the "Trump Plan" developed by Dr. J. Lloyd Trump of the University of Illinois, the team-teaching program is designed to improve teaching techniques and make the fullest possible use of teaching skills through better utilization of present teachers.

THE THREE Prospect teachers stress their program is still an experiment. All three pointed out the standing of the class at the start of the semester had been slightly lower than their comparable regular classes of 30 members. They report the class now has a higher standing than their other classes, offering firm proof of the advantages of the program.

Both Hollenbeck and Goldman report inquiries regarding the Prospect experiment have been received from other schools throughout the country.

All three teachers demonstrate their faith in the experiment by enthusiastically planning its continuation next year. When asked their personal preference in teaching standard or "team" classes, the three instructors said "We'd like to have all our classes on the team plan" but pointed out the plan was only practical where sufficient numbers of students were enrolled in a course.

Bad Check Case To Grand Jury

George Hedges, arrested in Mt. Prospect last week and charged with passing bad checks in the northwest suburbs and Chicago, was bound over to the county grand jury January 4 following his appearance in county court.

Hedges, who gave his address as 62 Golfview, Mt. Prospect, was booked in Arlington Heights December 31 for cashing worthless checks at the Red Owl food store. He is being held in county jail under $500 bond. (A TYPICAL OF THE almost 90 students assigned to a special Prospect high school "team teaching" experiment, Donna Foxworthy has the advice, instruction and help of three top-flight teachers in her sophomore speech course. The "team teachers" assisting Donna are Robert Goldman, LeRoy W. Hollenbeck and Mrs. Rebecca Sickels. The experimental project varies between large lecture classes and small discussion groups. Donna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foxworthy, 14 Kenilworth, Mount Prospect. (B8

First Aid Is Subject of Area Boy Scout Meeting

Boy scouting first aid will take on a modern note in the twenty-sixth annual First Aid-O-Ree of the Blackhawk District, northwest suburban council on January 20 at Miner Junior high school in Arlington Heights.

Fifty patrols, winners of twenty-two troop first aid meets in the district (Mt. Prospect, Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights, and Elk Grove Village) involving over 900 Boy Scouts will vie for top honors, according to Dr. Robert C. Kloempken, Arlington Heights, Blackhawk district health and safety chairman.

BRONZE MEDALS will be awarded to the top team of experts. The top twenty-five per cent of the patrols will receive blue ribbons, fifty per cent will receive red ribbons, and the bottom twenty-five per cent will receive yellow ribbons.

Ralph Elwart, vice chairman of the event and also from Arlington Heights, pointed out that even a yellow ribbon patrol in the First Aid-O-Ree is an outstanding first aid team due to having won a troop contest before competing in the district event.

The modern note will be added by tough examples of practical modern day problems, including automobile accidents—one of the nation's top first aid challenges.

COUNCIL President Walter Craigle of Niles will present the medals to the top patrol with the assistance of Frank B. Newton, council executive, of Mt. Prospect.

Kurt Kenyon, Arlington Heights insurance company representative and former professional ventriloquist who has turned his talents toward safety instruction, will entertain with the aid of his assistant "Sandy Safety."

George Moudry, Arlington Heights, will serve as chief judge for the first aid meet and plans to meet with all of his judges for preliminary briefing and training on Sunday, Jan. 15 at 2:00 p. m. These judges will meet at Miner junior high in the gymnasium.

THE NORTHWEST suburban council is an active, participating member of both the Mt. Prospect Combined Appeal and the Prospect Heights Annual Appeal.

Slates, Independents Work for Elections

They're off and running for justice of the peace and constable offices in Wheeling township.

Four candidates filed petitions of candidacy for the $5,500-a-year justice of the peace jobs in the county clerk's office Monday — the first day for filing. Four township residents filed for the $3-a-writ constable jobs too.

THE HERALD learned this week that at least three others are circulating petitions and intend to file for the JP jobs. Two others are about ready to file for the constable spots.

The BGP's constable candidates are Samuel J. Abbinanti, 308 N. Windsor dr., Arlington Heights, and Arnold F. Krause, 343 E. Center ave., Wheeling.

ALSO FILING early Monday was the Representative Party. Its JP candidates are Carl M. Behrens, 525 W. Kirchoff rd., Arlington Heights, and Walter P. Dahl, 1111 N. Belmont, Arlington Heights, both incumbents.

Running on the Representative ticket for constable are Joseph M. Remsing, 110 Brookfield ave., Mt. Prospect, and Carl H. Skoog, 208 W. Fremont st., Arlington Heights.

Tom Ackerman, 603 W. Henry, Mt. Prospect, said Tuesday night he is "about ready" to file as a JP candidate. He identified his running mate as John T. Garrity, 615 E. Grove, Arlington Heights.

To complete his ticket, Ackerman said, the names of Arthur E. Braband, 11 N. Pine, Mt. Prospect, and Joseph S. Good, 1236 N. Walnut, Arlington Heights, will be filed for constable jobs. All were expected to file this week.

AN Independent candidate for justice of the peace has also circulated his petitions and will file before the deadline Monday. He is Thomas H. Hanlon, 610 N. Wilshire ln., Arlington Heights. He is reported to have turned down an offer to run on a full ticket.

Township residents will elect two JPs and two constables in a Tuesday, April 4, election. Elected the same day will be a township supervisor, clerk, assessor, collector, highway comissioner and three auditors.

According to Dorothy Hauff, township clerk, the Representative Party filed candidates Monday for the eight township offices. As of Wednesday night, the Representative Party was the only one to file.

ITS candidates are as follows: Albert C. Peters, 403 N. Belmont ave., Arlington Heights, supervisor; Dorothy Helm Hauff, 8 E. Euclid st., Arlington Heights, clerk; Theodor Studtmann, 628 N. Highland, Arlington Heights, assessor; William M. Weber, 738 N. Pine, Arlington Heights, tax collector.

Also Herbert W. Grandt, Hintz rd., Wheeling, highway commissioner; W. Edward Fritz, 301 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights, auditor; Arthur Clesen, 611 S. Wolf rd., Wheeling, auditor, and John P. McGivney, 624 Bunting ln., Mt. Prospect, auditor.

Representative Party candidates include many incumbents. Conspicuous by its absence, however, is the name of Barney Runge, currently highway commissioner, who has been under heavy fire recently for high budget proposals and spotty highway maintenance.

JP CANDIDATE Norman, an Arlington Heights attorney, told the Herald Tuesday that he is "near the end" of compiling a slate for the township offices. He said the candidates will all be Republicans.

"If they're not all Republicans, I'll be the first to resign my candidacy," Norman said. He attributed the one-party slate partially to coincidence and partially to design.

Norman said he wasn't sure when his slate would be filed. He also said he wasn't sure if the "All Republican" status would be used by his party as a campaign issue against the Representative Party, which is a coalition ticket composed of both Republicans and Democrats.

Deadline for filing for township offices is Tuesday, Feb. 13. (ACM

Throws Rocks, 'Self Defense'

Arlington Heights police booked Joseph Alaimo, 1634 Lincoln, Des Plaines, on a disorderly conduct charge Saturday after he was accused of throwing rocks at a motorist at Northwest hwy. and Pine st.

Alaimo, who said he was acting in self defense, was scheduled to appear in Police Magistrate's court Wednesday before Judge Robert C. Buckley. (AF

They're off and running for justice of the peace and constable offices in Wheeling township.

Four candidates filed petitions of candidacy for the $5,500-a-year justice of the peace jobs in the county clerk's office Monday — the first day for filing. Four township residents filed for the $3-a-writ constable jobs too.

THE HERALD learned this week that at least three others are circulating petitions and intend to file for the JP jobs. Two others are about ready to file for the constable spots.

The BGP's constable candidates are Samuel J. Abbinanti, 308 N. Windsor dr., Arlington Heights, and Arnold F. Krause, 343 E. Center ave., Wheeling.

ALSO FILING early Monday was the Representative Party. Its JP candidates are Carl M. Behrens, 525 W. Kirchoff rd., Arlington Heights, and Walter P. Dahl, 1111 N. Belmont, Arlington Heights, both incumbents.

Running on the Representative ticket for constable are Joseph M. Remsing, 110 Brookfield ave., Mt. Prospect, and Carl H. Skoog, 208 W. Fremont st., Arlington Heights.

Tom Ackerman, 603 W. Henry, Mt. Prospect, said Tuesday night he is "about ready" to file as a JP candidate. He identified his running mate as John T. Garrity, 615 E. Grove, Arlington Heights.

To complete his ticket, Ackerman said, the names of Arthur E. Braband, 11 N. Pine, Mt. Prospect, and Joseph S. Good, 1236 N. Walnut, Arlington Heights, will be filed for constable jobs. All were expected to file this week.

AN Independent candidate for justice of the peace has also circulated his petitions and will file before the deadline Monday. He is Thomas H. Hanlon, 610 N. Wilshire ln., Arlington Heights. He is reported to have turned down an offer to run on a full ticket.

Township residents will elect two JPs and two constables in a Tuesday, April 4, election. Elected the same day will be a township supervisor, clerk, assessor, collector, highway comissioner and three auditors.

According to Dorothy Hauff, township clerk, the Representative Party filed candidates Monday for the eight township offices. As of Wednesday night, the Representative Party was the only one to file.

ITS candidates are as follows: Albert C. Peters, 403 N. Belmont ave., Arlington Heights, supervisor; Dorothy Helm Hauff, 8 E. Euclid st., Arlington Heights, clerk; Theodor Studtmann, 628 N. Highland, Arlington Heights, assessor; William M. Weber, 738 N. Pine, Arlington Heights, tax collector.

Also Herbert W. Grandt, Hintz rd., Wheeling, highway commissioner; W. Edward Fritz, 301 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights, auditor; Arthur Clesen, 611 S. Wolf rd., Wheeling, auditor, and John P. McGivney, 624 Bunting ln., Mt. Prospect, auditor.

Representative Party candidates include many incumbents. Conspicuous by its absence, however, is the name of Barney Runge, currently highway commissioner, who has been under heavy fire recently for high budget proposals and spotty highway maintenance.

JP CANDIDATE Norman, an Arlington Heights attorney, told the Herald Tuesday that he is "near the end" of compiling a slate for the township offices. He said the candidates will all be Republicans.

"If they're not all Republicans, I'll be the first to resign my candidacy," Norman said. He attributed the one-party slate partially to coincidence and partially to design.

Norman said he wasn't sure when his slate would be filed. He also said he wasn't sure if the "All Republican" status would be used by his party as a campaign issue against the Representative Party, which is a coalition ticket composed of both Republicans and Democrats.

Bad Check Case To Grand Jury

George Hedges, arrested in Mt. Prospect last week and charged with passing bad checks in the northwest suburbs and Chicago, was bound over to the county grand jury January 4 following his appearance in county court.

Hedges, who gave his address as 62 Golfview, Mt. Prospect, was booked in Arlington Heights December 31 for cashing worthless checks at the Red Owl food store. He is being held in county jail under $500 bond. (A

Throws Rocks, 'Self Defense'

Arlington Heights police booked Joseph Alaimo, 1634 Lincoln, Des Plaines, on a disorderly conduct charge Saturday after he was accused of throwing rocks at a motorist at Northwest hwy. and Pine st.

Alaimo, who said he was acting in self defense, was scheduled to appear in Police Magistrate's court Wednesday before Judge Robert C. Buckley. (AF

Post Holiday Let-Down Is a Little Late This Year

Sidelights
Of Arlington Heights

Arlington Heights Scarsdale & Estates, Stonegate

Dorothy Meyer, CL 3-2298 Elsie Jedd, CL 3-5982

It appears that the usual post-holiday letdown, due right about now, is going to be a little late this season. Parties that simply wouldn't fit into the old year were enjoyed to the fullest last week as holiday hospitality continued. Many local families are just returning from or leaving for vacations in more summery claimes than ours. The mid-winter lull may be on the way, but according to reports it isn't here yet.

The Erwin Clausings, 913 S. Vail, returned Sunday from a 3-week holiday season reunion with Mrs. Clausing's sisters and their families. In Phoenix they had a 2-day visit with the Clarence Hiller family before completing a westward route to the suburban Los Angeles home of the Julian Krolczyks.

Mrs. Clausing and her sister in Arizona have not seen each other in several years and it was a first meeting for the Hiller children and their aunt, uncle and cousins from Arlington Heights. Christmas was celebrated with the Krolczyk family, and New Year's day brought the Clausings the unforgettable experience of watching the Tournament of Roses for the first time.

ALSO AMONG the hundreds of thousands of parade spectators was the Carl Weinrich family, 125 S. Chestnut, and the inevitable "It's a small world" coincidence placed the two Arlington Heights families in the same place at the same time. Seeing a familiar face among the mass of strangers was remarkable of course, but for both families their first view of the spectacular parade was more than remarkable.

The Weinrichs flew to California December 23 for a 10-day Christmas reunion with uncles, aunts and cousins of Mr. Weinrich's in Orange. They returned home by plane last Tuesday, bringing with them greetings to old friends here from the Dr. Edgar Flentie family of Altadena, Cal. The Flenties were long-time Arlington Heights residents before their move west several years ago, and the Weinrichs made a special point of seeing them before the west coast visit was over.

A WARM and sunny Christmas was also the choice of the James Dalton family, 522 S. Dunton, home again early this week after three weeks in Florida. They had a week in Vero Beach where they celebrated Christmas, a second week in Pompano Beach, then wound up their Florida stay in Islamorada, on the Keys. Between one stop and another they enjoyed a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burfischer of Mt. Prospect in the Burfischers' winter home in Leesburg.

Mrs. Dalton's sister and brother-in-law, the R. Spencer Davises, 421 S. Dunton, Christmas-vacationed in Florida, too; so did Mr. Dalton's brother, Kevin, and his family, also of Arlington Heights, and they all greeted the New Year together in Pompano Beach. The Davises returned Sunday from Pompano Beach where they spent all of their 3-week vacation and the Kevin Daltons returned Monday after one week in Palmetto and two in Pompano Beach.

All of the families enjoyed all of the vacations, but for Marguerite, daughter of the James Daltons, the best day was when she went deep-sea fishing. She caught a fish; no one else did and Dad is still hearing about how his 15-year-old daughter out-fished him on her very first try.

ACCORDING to the Arthur Komarek family, 802 S. Evergreen, Tucson is the place for celebrating Christmas if you like flawless weather. They do. Most important to Christmas is family of course, and with Mr. Komarek's parents and a brother, Howard, and his family all residing in Tucson, the 2-week holiday stay there was merely perfect. The local branch of the family returned here early last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mathews and Lynne, 711 N. Dunton, are home again after two weeks in Miami Beach and join the growing ranks of those who think warm, sunny Christmases are fine. Christmas day they celebrated the holiday with long-time friends and former N. Dunton st. neighbors, the Veo Pearsons, now of Coral Gables, who asked to be remembered to friends here.

Linda Johnson's sweet-16 birthday came on the first day of school in the new year and she chose to wait till Saturday evening to celebrate. Thus her birthday wishes came a bit belatedly but nonetheless gaily at a dinner party in the Johnson home, 836 N. Mitchell. Her guests were Kathy Curtis, Dan Bedford and John Latta.

AMONG LOCAL homes needing more of the new year to accommodate its superabundance of holiday hospitality was the one at 608 S. Walnut. The Sam Clarks Saturday night hosted at a buffet supper party for 28 Chicago and suburban friends before concluding the season's festivities.

Also prolonging the merry holiday whirl were the John Hruskas, 635 S. Ridge, whose cocktail party Saturday night extended the fun season for their 40 local guests.

A progressive dinner for the 13 couples along the 1100 block of N. Walnut was so successful last Monday night that plans for next year were talked of before the night was over. It was a cooperative enterprise with specific couples helping at each of the five host homes along the sociable route.

Cocktails were served in the Dr. E. J. Jacobs home, 1116 N. Walnut, and appetizers in the Eugene St. John home, 1126 N. Walnut. At the Frank Regulas, 1111 N. Walnut, everyone settled down for the main course and when it was coffee-and-dessert time they resettled in the Arthur Schulz home, 1115 N. Walnut.

The party relocated for the last time in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Church, 1122 N. Walnut, to round out the fun with dancing and toasts to a friendly year in a friendly neighborhood. No one couple proposed a repeat for next year; the idea, like this year's party, was the product of mutual effort and agreement.

FOR PAULETTE Graczyk, 9-year-old daughter of the Richard Graczyks, 718 S. Chestnut, the holidays were fine; it was the time between that could have been better. She spent three days in the University of Illinois research hospital where she underwent foot surgery, came home on crutches the day before New Years eve and is now waiting for her foot to heal completely before returning to school. In her better moments Paulette admits, when recalling the seriously ill children in the hospital, that her holidays were pretty good at that. Part of the pre-hospital fun was Christmas eve in Chicago and wishing her great grandfather, John Patulski, a happy 81st birthday.

A December bride, the former Myra Clausing, now Mrs. Eldon Anderson, is beginning the new year wishing she could use every one of the gifts showered upon her at the several pre-nuptial parties given in her honor. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are temporarily residing with Mrs. Anderson's parents, the Walter Clausings, 406 S. Evergreen, where storage space is currently at a premium.

The first shower, reported here in September, was purposely given very early to insure surprising the bride-elect who, at the time of her engagement, claimed that no one would be able to surprise her with a shower. The September party put the first dent in that claim and succeeding let's-fool-Myra affairs completely demolished it.

Friends of the then bride-elect, Mrs. Dennis Dormann and Mrs. Roger Niemeyer were co-hostesses at the second party, given in the Rolling Meadows home of Mrs. Dormann. Twenty other friends can attest to Myra's surprise when she arrived in Rolling Meadows to find them waiting to shower her with miscellaneous gifts.

THIRTY RELATIVES of the bride's family put the next dent in Myra's claim at another miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. William Stade and Mrs. Ted Clausing in the Stade home on N. State rd. Twenty of the groom's relatives then furthered the surprise-Myra project, showering her with miscellaneous gifts at a party given by Mrs. Donald Olson and Mrs. Roger Anderson in the home of Mrs. Olson in Geneva.

The last pre-nuptial party was given by Wisconsin aunts of the bride-elect, Mrs. Elroy Meier and Mrs. Willard Meier, and Myra's grandmother, Mrs. William Meier of Mount Prospect. This final claim-denting was aided by 32 members of the bride's family who gathered at the Meier home in Mt. Prospect.

A surprise miscellaneous wedding shower and dinner last Thursday evening honored Mrs. Marge Langos, 751 S. Belmont. The affair, given in the home of Mrs. Herb Tallitsch, 1015 W. Miner, was attended by women from Paddock Publications' classified department, where Mrs. Langos has been employed. Mrs. Langos and Stan Wilkins of Prospect Heights will be married January 21.

MR. AND MRS. Donald Conley, 417 S. Lincoln, returned last week after a 2-week vacation spent at pier 66 in Ft. Lauderdale. Golfing, swimming, fishing and attending the Jai-a-lai games filled this sport loving family's days. They visited Mrs. Conley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Koeppe Sr. of Tarpon Springs on Christmas day, and spent several days in Ft. Walton Beach visiting her brother and family, the junior Fred Koeppes.

A gala New Year's eve formal dinner dance at the Hotel Diplomat in Hollywood brought a pleasant vacation to an end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Brown Hardison, 347 Burton, and their daughters, Gail and Linda, spent the holidays in Florida, stopping in Tallahassee first to visit Mr. Hardison's brother and sister-in-law, the Richard Hardisons, and then went on to spend a week at Pompano Beach. They returned home in time to plan a New Year's eve party Linda and Gail gave for 30 of their young school friends.

MR. AND MRS. Arthur L. Anderson, 635 S. Beverly, and their children, Judy, Andy and Harry, returned home January 4 from Lake Worth, Fla., where they spent the Christmas holidays at North Redding Beach spending several days with their Scarsdale neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Reese Hubbard.

While in Florida, Andy celebrated his birthday and to mark the occasion, he and all the family went deep sea fishing. Everone had good luck fishing bringing back 32 fish.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Swanson, 528 Bristol, are home from a 3-week motor trip to Pensacola, Fla. They were joined in Pensacola by Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Bruner, who flew down from ther home in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Wells of Shaker Heights, Ohio, spent 10 days in Arlington Heights visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Donchess, 518 S. Belmont.

Miss Diane Burger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Burger, 446 Banbury, left Saturday for Denver to spend the remainder of her sophomore year at Loretto Heights college, studying and doing practical nursing in St. Anthony hospital.

BEFORE MISS Linda Christy returned to her studies at the State University of Iowa, she had as houseguests for three days, Miss Susan Hansow of West Chicago and Allen Cherveny and Gary Ewaldt of Clutier, Iowa.

Mrs. Harry L. Wicks[illegible], 527 S. Dryden, gave a coffee last Friday for board members of Alpha Delta Pi Countryside alumnae at which business plans for the year were completed. Friday evening the Wickstroms attended a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lodal in Skokie.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Jurco entertained at a large dinner party in their home at 217 S. Windsor, Sunday, to announce the engagement of her cousin, S. Pighini of Chicago to Miss Mary Soti. Miss Soti is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Soti of Chicago, who until recently, made their home in Italy.

Mr .and Mrs. Robert E. Mitchell, 330 S. Gibbons, and their children, Jacqueline and Scott, spent the past week in Chippewa Falls, Wis., visiting her parents, Mr .and Mrs. A. M. Howe.

MRS. GEORGE W. Fraley arrived in Arlington Heights Saturday from Fargo, N. D., to spend several weeks visiting her daughter and family, the junior Edward O. McKowns, 206 S. Gibbons. During her stay, Mrs. Fraley plans to attend the Home Furniture show at the Chicago Furniture Mart.

Out-of-town houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Schreiber, 123 S. Brighton, was her brother, Lester B. Shafland, who stopped here for a brief visit while enroute from Ames, Iowa to his home in Bath, N. Y.

Mrs. Harry W. Colburn, 535 S. Burton, entertained at a coffee Wednesday for Mrs. Russell Bill, who recently moved from Scarsdale to Glenview, and for Mrs. Charles Dickman, who with her family have moved into the Bill home.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Garrity, 615 E. Grove, joined friends from Freeport, the George Shirmers, for a weekend at the Wagon Wheel.

Lynne Johnson, daughter of Mr .and Mrs. N. E. Johnson, 624 Banbury, celebrated her 10th birthday Sunday and marked the occasion by taking 10 friends to a performance of Village Theatre's "Rapunzel and the Witch."

FROM SHERWOOD

There was a bit of shop talk Wednesday night when Amy and Paul Fellingham, 1145 N. Patton, entertained Lawrence Prouty of Dalton, Ga. for dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rust of Hinsdale were with them for the evening, too, so the conversation naturally drifted to what is uppermost in their minds right now: the home furnishing market.

The G. A. Martins, 1409 N. Yale, are back from a winter vacation to Texas and Mexico. They left the day after Christmas and when they arrived in Austin, looked up friends for a short visit. For three days they camped along the Texas-Mexico border, but it was so rainy and cold they had to break camp and use motels for the balance of their trip. They were in Mexico only briefly, because the roads were impassable due to the heavy rains.

Heading back toward home, they stopped in Baton Rouge and visited the Louisianna House of Representatives while they were debating raising the state sales taxes for new private schools to combat integration. Probably the highlight of their trip was their stopover in Vicksburg, Miss., now a national park. Markers showed where each assualt took place during the Civil War and everything had been preserved since that time. CS (Confederate States) could still be seen imprinted in the canons and the guns still stood overlooking the Mississippi river where General Grant tried to bring his forces down the river. Mrs. Martin says it was so real, one could almost hear the drums beating in the distance. They found the old museum there offered a great deal too, with its taped talk on the siege of Vicksburg. Reluctantly they left Vicksburg, heading north to Tennessee and home after two weeks of traveling.

FROM RIDGE PARK

It took two parties to celebrate Cary Howes' fourth birthday. The son of Bette and Ray Howes, 945 N. Kaspar, celebrated with his family January 3, the day of his birthday. However, the party he remembers best is the one he had the following Saturday to which he invited his brother, Chipper, Stevie and Larry Kay, Steve Snap, David Petersen, Janet Broadfoot, Debbie and Diane Ostrowski, Eileen McNamara, Jimmy Kedrow, Jerry Sorensen and Eliot Morris.

When the last guest had arrived, a real live clown made her appearance and took complete charge of entertaining the children. There were squeals of delight when she played games with them and passed out the prizes. Her pockets were bulging with trinkets for the children which she passed out generously, making the boys delighted with their sheriff's badges and the girls just as pleased with their gifts. Even the refreshments had a clown theme.

Bette had made a bozo the clown cake and each child had an upside down ice cream cone with a clown face. All during the party, dozens of balloons were bobbing along the ceiling, but when it was time to go home each child picked out his favorite colored balloon to take with him.

A SECOND family celebration at the Elmer Carlsons', 1711 Oakton, over the New Year's eve weekend gave Grandma Carlson a chance to see all her children over the holidays. Mr. Carlson's sister and her family, the T. H. Pecks, came down from Detroit.

Get well wishes go to Bob Brud, 1705 W. Oakton, who has been hospitalized in St. Joseph hospital for a week. He is expected home this week.

Saturday evening Bea and Mick Danes, 725 N. Harvard, went into Park Ridge to visit her nephew and his family, the James T. Callahans, who have just moved into a new home there. The Herbert Foxes joined them for the evening, and when the conversation ran low, they listened to the hi-fi and danced.

When the John Hauris, 930 N. Harvard, left for Palm Beach, Fla. the day before Christmas the temperature was below zero, but by the time they reached [illegible]tination they had shed their winter clothes for lightweight cottons, slacks and sport shirts. The first week of their vacation they just loafed in Palm Beach, swimming in the pool and sunbathing. Ft. Meyers offered deep sea fishing, so they left Palm Beach to try their luck and were quite successful.

Because David hadn't seen some of the interesting things Florida has to offer, they took him to Marineland and Silver Springs, where they went out in the famous glass bottom boats that enable tourists to study fish swimming several feet below the surface. Sarasota and Ringling Brothers museum was also on their list of things to see, as well as Andersonville, with its prison and relics of the Civil War. Coming back to colder climes, they all agreed a southern vacation is perfect this time of year.

MARIE AND AL Kluesing, 905 N. Salem, made a day of it Saturday. They began by attending the wedding of her cousin, Elsa Grein, to George Gibson at St. Benedict church in Chicago. They attended the reception afterward at the Sheraton-Blackstone hotel until 5, when they left with Fred and Eleanor Nast, Arnold and Doris Lund to pick up Terry and Dale at Al's sister's home to go bowling in Niles.

The John A. Millers, 915 N. Fernandez, expect a visit from his mother, Mrs. Mae Miller, before she returns to California. Mrs. Miller plans to be with her daughter and her family for about a month and with the Millers for awhile too before she leaves for the coast.

Jean and Jerry Lindeman, 922 N. Princeton, and their two children are back from a 2½-week trip to Florida. On the way down they stopped at her aunt's home atop Lookout mountain and liked it so much they came back that way for another visit. Christmas eve they crossed the state line into Florida in time to spend Christmas with her parents. They couldn't look out their windows Christmas day and see snow, but they did take a boat ride in Jean's father's boat. In fact, they spent a week in Venice and New Year's eve day they left the children with her parents and took off for Pompano to visit other relatives. From Pompano they went to Miami to take in the sights. Before heading back to Venice, they took a drive through the Everglades. Back in Venice again, they went down to the beach looking for shark's teeth that had been washed ashore. Jean is collecting them and has all sizes, enough to mount them in a design something akin to seed painting. Jeff was the only one brave enough to go swimming.

Venice is the new home of the Ringling Brothers Circus and the day the Lindemans left rehearsals were just beginning. They did manage a short visit to the headquarters and looked around a bit. Because the temperature was rather warm, they learned the gorillas' cages were air conditioned. That seemed logical to them, but when they heard the attendant reading to the gorillas in Spanish they were surprised to say the least. Jean says that every order, every reprimand directed to the gorillas is given in Spanish and the gorillas respond in short order.

THE WALTER Nissens, 820 N. Fernandez, are still reading cards and letters congratulating him on his 25 years with the Prudential Life Insurance company. Mr. Nissen works out of the Palatine office, with his territory covering Mt. Prospect, and 50 of his co-workers, some from that office, and some as far away as Evanston, gave him a luncheon last month commemorating his 25 years with the company. To show their appreciation for his many years with Prudential, he was also given flowers and a pen and pencil set along with congratulations from the president of the company right on down. The Nissens held open house over the holidays and Mr. Nissen was still receiving congratulations.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Edward Wos, 915 N. Chicago, who died last Wednesday afternoon.

The E. N. Reeses, 930 N. Chicago, received Nick's basic address Monday: Pvt. Nicholas E. Rees, RA 1668-2984, COB First BN Second PRB, Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. Nick enlisted in the army for three years and left for Ft. Leonard Wood December 27.

When the John Schippers, 1007 N. Kaspar, heard that son John had accepted the position of senior physicist with AVCO in Boston, they drove to Detroit to see John, Maria and the baby once more before they left for the east. The family is proud of John and along with this promotion John and Maria will be close to her family.

Glenn, son of the Ed Seamans, 919 N. Fernandez, 3 January 7, had a party in his aunt and uncle's house in Chicago. Twelve cousins, plus aunts, uncles and grandparents were there to help make it a memorable day. After a buffet supper, there was ice cream and a cake with three candles on top, which Glenn blew out amid cheers and happy birthdays from everyone.

ALTHOUGH Jerry Bebber was 12 Wednesday, he had a party Sunday to which the following boys were invited: Pat Martin, Eddie Seaman, Greg Thieman, Steve Zeisler and Jerry's two brothers. The boys went to the movies first and came back for supper. Jerry is the son of Jean and Ed Bebber, 911 N. Fernandez.

Along with all the hustle and bustle of the holidays, the J. E. Wilmottes, 729 N. Fernandez, got word from son Robert in San Mateo, Cal. that he and his wife made the Wilmottes grandparents with the birth of Lisa Marie December 10. Robert sent pictures of her so the Wilmottes would have them to show Valerie and Ed Maata when they came home from Columbus, Ind. and Jim when he came home from Yale.

When Ronnie was home on leave from the navy in October, his parents, the Werner Beckers, 1004 N. Ridge, felt like that was their Christmas present. However, when he returned to his ship in Bremerton, Wash., he received new orders for shore duty and with those orders came a 15-day leave. There is no place like home to spend a leave, and that's just what he did. On his 21st birthday, December 31, his folks met him at Midway airport and they have been rejoicing ever since. He will leave Friday for shore duty at Whidbey Island out of Seattle, and will do personnel work in the admiral's office for the balance of the 18 months he serves in the navy.

The other day Rita and Bill Burns, 721 N. Patton, received another letter from his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burns from Levelland, Texas, telling them what a wonderful time they had while they were with them during the holidays. The house was bulging with company, which even included the Jack Burn's son, James, and his family from West Allis, Wis. The Burns side of the family was well represented, but there were others to help celebrate, too. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Murphy of Chicago and their children were there. The Murphys have a special place in their hearts for Patty, as she is their godchild.

Rita's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Ostrihan visited them along with their daughter, Evelyn, and their son, Ralph, who is stationed at the Naval Air station at Lakehurst, N. J. Ralph brought his fiance, Lorna Bieber of Connecticut, to introduce to the family and found it a perfect time to do just that. With everyone together, including Rita's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Soukup, they celebrated two birthdays in one. Billy was 6 January 1 and Patty was 5 January 11, and with so many there to help celebrate, it was a birthday neither child will forget for a long time. Their sister, Barbara, had a birthday in November, but with all the excitement of the holidays they included hers with Billy's and Patty's celebration. (A

Sidelights
Of Arlington Heights

Dorothy Meyer, CL 3-2298 Elsie Jedd, CL 3-5982

It appears that the usual post-holiday letdown, due right about now, is going to be a little late this season. Parties that simply wouldn't fit into the old year were enjoyed to the fullest last week as holiday hospitality continued. Many local families are just returning from or leaving for vacations in more summery claimes than ours. The mid-winter lull may be on the way, but according to reports it isn't here yet.

The Erwin Clausings, 913 S. Vail, returned Sunday from a 3-week holiday season reunion with Mrs. Clausing's sisters and their families. In Phoenix they had a 2-day visit with the Clarence Hiller family before completing a westward route to the suburban Los Angeles home of the Julian Krolczyks.

Mrs. Clausing and her sister in Arizona have not seen each other in several years and it was a first meeting for the Hiller children and their aunt, uncle and cousins from Arlington Heights. Christmas was celebrated with the Krolczyk family, and New Year's day brought the Clausings the unforgettable experience of watching the Tournament of Roses for the first time.

ALSO AMONG the hundreds of thousands of parade spectators was the Carl Weinrich family, 125 S. Chestnut, and the inevitable "It's a small world" coincidence placed the two Arlington Heights families in the same place at the same time. Seeing a familiar face among the mass of strangers was remarkable of course, but for both families their first view of the spectacular parade was more than remarkable.

The Weinrichs flew to California December 23 for a 10-day Christmas reunion with uncles, aunts and cousins of Mr. Weinrich's in Orange. They returned home by plane last Tuesday, bringing with them greetings to old friends here from the Dr. Edgar Flentie family of Altadena, Cal. The Flenties were long-time Arlington Heights residents before their move west several years ago, and the Weinrichs made a special point of seeing them before the west coast visit was over.

A WARM and sunny Christmas was also the choice of the James Dalton family, 522 S. Dunton, home again early this week after three weeks in Florida. They had a week in Vero Beach where they celebrated Christmas, a second week in Pompano Beach, then wound up their Florida stay in Islamorada, on the Keys. Between one stop and another they enjoyed a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burfischer of Mt. Prospect in the Burfischers' winter home in Leesburg.

Mrs. Dalton's sister and brother-in-law, the R. Spencer Davises, 421 S. Dunton, Christmas-vacationed in Florida, too; so did Mr. Dalton's brother, Kevin, and his family, also of Arlington Heights, and they all greeted the New Year together in Pompano Beach. The Davises returned Sunday from Pompano Beach where they spent all of their 3-week vacation and the Kevin Daltons returned Monday after one week in Palmetto and two in Pompano Beach.

All of the families enjoyed all of the vacations, but for Marguerite, daughter of the James Daltons, the best day was when she went deep-sea fishing. She caught a fish; no one else did and Dad is still hearing about how his 15-year-old daughter out-fished him on her very first try.

ACCORDING to the Arthur Komarek family, 802 S. Evergreen, Tucson is the place for celebrating Christmas if you like flawless weather. They do. Most important to Christmas is family of course, and with Mr. Komarek's parents and a brother, Howard, and his family all residing in Tucson, the 2-week holiday stay there was merely perfect. The local branch of the family returned here early last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mathews and Lynne, 711 N. Dunton, are home again after two weeks in Miami Beach and join the growing ranks of those who think warm, sunny Christmases are fine. Christmas day they celebrated the holiday with long-time friends and former N. Dunton st. neighbors, the Veo Pearsons, now of Coral Gables, who asked to be remembered to friends here.

Linda Johnson's sweet-16 birthday came on the first day of school in the new year and she chose to wait till Saturday evening to celebrate. Thus her birthday wishes came a bit belatedly but nonetheless gaily at a dinner party in the Johnson home, 836 N. Mitchell. Her guests were Kathy Curtis, Dan Bedford and John Latta.

AMONG LOCAL homes needing more of the new year to accommodate its superabundance of holiday hospitality was the one at 608 S. Walnut. The Sam Clarks Saturday night hosted at a buffet supper party for 28 Chicago and suburban friends before concluding the season's festivities.

Also prolonging the merry holiday whirl were the John Hruskas, 635 S. Ridge, whose cocktail party Saturday night extended the fun season for their 40 local guests.

A progressive dinner for the 13 couples along the 1100 block of N. Walnut was so successful last Monday night that plans for next year were talked of before the night was over. It was a cooperative enterprise with specific couples helping at each of the five host homes along the sociable route.

Cocktails were served in the Dr. E. J. Jacobs home, 1116 N. Walnut, and appetizers in the Eugene St. John home, 1126 N. Walnut. At the Frank Regulas, 1111 N. Walnut, everyone settled down for the main course and when it was coffee-and-dessert time they resettled in the Arthur Schulz home, 1115 N. Walnut.

The party relocated for the last time in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Church, 1122 N. Walnut, to round out the fun with dancing and toasts to a friendly year in a friendly neighborhood. No one couple proposed a repeat for next year; the idea, like this year's party, was the product of mutual effort and agreement.

FOR PAULETTE Graczyk, 9-year-old daughter of the Richard Graczyks, 718 S. Chestnut, the holidays were fine; it was the time between that could have been better. She spent three days in the University of Illinois research hospital where she underwent foot surgery, came home on crutches the day before New Years eve and is now waiting for her foot to heal completely before returning to school. In her better moments Paulette admits, when recalling the seriously ill children in the hospital, that her holidays were pretty good at that. Part of the pre-hospital fun was Christmas eve in Chicago and wishing her great grandfather, John Patulski, a happy 81st birthday.

A December bride, the former Myra Clausing, now Mrs. Eldon Anderson, is beginning the new year wishing she could use every one of the gifts showered upon her at the several pre-nuptial parties given in her honor. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are temporarily residing with Mrs. Anderson's parents, the Walter Clausings, 406 S. Evergreen, where storage space is currently at a premium.

The first shower, reported here in September, was purposely given very early to insure surprising the bride-elect who, at the time of her engagement, claimed that no one would be able to surprise her with a shower. The September party put the first dent in that claim and succeeding let's-fool-Myra affairs completely demolished it.

Friends of the then bride-elect, Mrs. Dennis Dormann and Mrs. Roger Niemeyer were co-hostesses at the second party, given in the Rolling Meadows home of Mrs. Dormann. Twenty other friends can attest to Myra's surprise when she arrived in Rolling Meadows to find them waiting to shower her with miscellaneous gifts.

THIRTY RELATIVES of the bride's family put the next dent in Myra's claim at another miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. William Stade and Mrs. Ted Clausing in the Stade home on N. State rd. Twenty of the groom's relatives then furthered the surprise-Myra project, showering her with miscellaneous gifts at a party given by Mrs. Donald Olson and Mrs. Roger Anderson in the home of Mrs. Olson in Geneva.

The last pre-nuptial party was given by Wisconsin aunts of the bride-elect, Mrs. Elroy Meier and Mrs. Willard Meier, and Myra's grandmother, Mrs. William Meier of Mount Prospect. This final claim-denting was aided by 32 members of the bride's family who gathered at the Meier home in Mt. Prospect.

A surprise miscellaneous wedding shower and dinner last Thursday evening honored Mrs. Marge Langos, 751 S. Belmont. The affair, given in the home of Mrs. Herb Tallitsch, 1015 W. Miner, was attended by women from Paddock Publications' classified department, where Mrs. Langos has been employed. Mrs. Langos and Stan Wilkins of Prospect Heights will be married January 21.

MR. AND MRS. Donald Conley, 417 S. Lincoln, returned last week after a 2-week vacation spent at pier 66 in Ft. Lauderdale. Golfing, swimming, fishing and attending the Jai-a-lai games filled this sport loving family's days. They visited Mrs. Conley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Koeppe Sr. of Tarpon Springs on Christmas day, and spent several days in Ft. Walton Beach visiting her brother and family, the junior Fred Koeppes.

A gala New Year's eve formal dinner dance at the Hotel Diplomat in Hollywood brought a pleasant vacation to an end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Brown Hardison, 347 Burton, and their daughters, Gail and Linda, spent the holidays in Florida, stopping in Tallahassee first to visit Mr. Hardison's brother and sister-in-law, the Richard Hardisons, and then went on to spend a week at Pompano Beach. They returned home in time to plan a New Year's eve party Linda and Gail gave for 30 of their young school friends.

MR. AND MRS. Arthur L. Anderson, 635 S. Beverly, and their children, Judy, Andy and Harry, returned home January 4 from Lake Worth, Fla., where they spent the Christmas holidays at North Redding Beach spending several days with their Scarsdale neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Reese Hubbard.

While in Florida, Andy celebrated his birthday and to mark the occasion, he and all the family went deep sea fishing. Everone had good luck fishing bringing back 32 fish.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Swanson, 528 Bristol, are home from a 3-week motor trip to Pensacola, Fla. They were joined in Pensacola by Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Bruner, who flew down from ther home in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Wells of Shaker Heights, Ohio, spent 10 days in Arlington Heights visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Donchess, 518 S. Belmont.

Miss Diane Burger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Burger, 446 Banbury, left Saturday for Denver to spend the remainder of her sophomore year at Loretto Heights college, studying and doing practical nursing in St. Anthony hospital.

BEFORE MISS Linda Christy returned to her studies at the State University of Iowa, she had as houseguests for three days, Miss Susan Hansow of West Chicago and Allen Cherveny and Gary Ewaldt of Clutier, Iowa.

Mrs. Harry L. Wick[illegible], 527 S. Dryden, gave a coffee last Friday for board members of Alpha Delta Pi Countryside alumnae at which business plans for the year were completed. Friday evening the Wickstroms attended a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lodal in Skokie.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Jurco entertained at a large dinner party in their home at 217 S. Windsor, Sunday, to announce the engagement of her cousin, S. Pighini of Chicago to Miss Mary Soti. Miss Soti is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Soti of Chicago, who until recently, made their home in Italy.

Mr .and Mrs. Robert E. Mitchell, 330 S. Gibbons, and their children, Jacqueline and Scott, spent the past week in Chippewa Falls, Wis., visiting her parents, Mr .and Mrs. A. M. Howe.

MRS. GEORGE W. Fraley arrived in Arlington Heights Saturday from Fargo, N. D., to spend several weeks visiting her daughter and family, the junior Edward O. McKowns, 206 S. Gibbons. During her stay, Mrs. Fraley plans to attend the Home Furniture show at the Chicago Furniture Mart.

Out-of-town houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Schreiber, 123 S. Brighton, was her brother, Lester B. Shafland, who stopped here for a brief visit while enroute from Ames, Iowa to his home in Bath, N. Y.

Mrs. Harry W. Colburn, 535 S. Burton, entertained at a coffee Wednesday for Mrs. Russell Bill, who recently moved from Scarsdale to Glenview, and for Mrs. Charles Dickman, who with her family have moved into the Bill home.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Garrity, 615 E. Grove, joined friends from Freeport, the George Shirmers, for a weekend at the Wagon Wheel.

Lynne Johnson, daughter of Mr .and Mrs. N. E. Johnson, 624 Banbury, celebrated her 10th birthday Sunday and marked the occasion by taking 10 friends to a performance of Village Theatre's "Rapunzel and the Witch."

FROM SHERWOOD

There was a bit of shop talk Wednesday night when Amy and Paul Fellingham, 1145 N. Patton, entertained Lawrence Prouty of Dalton, Ga. for dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rust of Hinsdale were with them for the evening, too, so the conversation naturally drifted to what is uppermost in their minds right now: the home furnishing market.

The G. A. Martins, 1409 N. Yale, are back from a winter vacation to Texas and Mexico. They left the day after Christmas and when they arrived in Austin, looked up friends for a short visit. For three days they camped along the Texas-Mexico border, but it was so rainy and cold they had to break camp and use motels for the balance of their trip. They were in Mexico only briefly, because the roads were impassable due to the heavy rains.

Heading back toward home, they stopped in Baton Rouge and visited the Louisianna House of Representatives while they were debating raising the state sales taxes for new private schools to combat integration. Probably the highlight of their trip was their stopover in Vicksburg, Miss., now a national park. Markers showed where each assualt took place during the Civil War and everything had been preserved since that time. CS (Confederate States) could still be seen imprinted in the canons and the guns still stood overlooking the Mississippi river where General Grant tried to bring his forces down the river. Mrs. Martin says it was so real, one could almost hear the drums beating in the distance. They found the old museum there offered a great deal too, with its taped talk on the siege of Vicksburg. Reluctantly they left Vicksburg, heading north to Tennessee and home after two weeks of traveling.

FROM RIDGE PARK

It took two parties to celebrate Cary Howes' fourth birthday. The son of Bette and Ray Howes, 945 N. Kaspar, celebrated with his family January 3, the day of his birthday. However, the party he remembers best is the one he had the following Saturday to which he invited his brother, Chipper, Stevie and Larry Kay, Steve Snap, David Petersen, Janet Broadfoot, Debbie and Diane Ostrowski, Eileen McNamara, Jimmy Kedrow, Jerry Sorensen and Eliot Morris.

When the last guest had arrived, a real live clown made her appearance and took complete charge of entertaining the children. There were squeals of delight when she played games with them and passed out the prizes. Her pockets were bulging with trinkets for the children which she passed out generously, making the boys delighted with their sheriff's badges and the girls just as pleased with their gifts. Even the refreshments had a clown theme.

Bette had made a bozo the clown cake and each child had an upside down ice cream cone with a clown face. All during the party, dozens of balloons were bobbing along the ceiling, but when it was time to go home each child picked out his favorite colored balloon to take with him.

A SECOND family celebration at the Elmer Carlsons', 1711 Oakton, over the New Year's eve weekend gave Grandma Carlson a chance to see all her children over the holidays. Mr. Carlson's sister and her family, the T. H. Pecks, came down from Detroit.

Get well wishes go to Bob Brud, 1705 W. Oakton, who has been hospitalized in St. Joseph hospital for a week. He is expected home this week.

Saturday evening Bea and Mick Danes, 725 N. Harvard, went into Park Ridge to visit her nephew and his family, the James T. Callahans, who have just moved into a new home there. The Herbert Foxes joined them for the evening, and when the conversation ran low, they listened to the hi-fi and danced.

When the John Hauris, 930 N. Harvard, left for Palm Beach, Fla. the day before Christmas the temperature was below zero, but by the time they reached [illegible]tination they had shed their winter clothes for lightweight cottons, slacks and sport shirts. The first week of their vacation they just loafed in Palm Beach, swimming in the pool and sunbathing. Ft. Meyers offered deep sea fishing, so they left Palm Beach to try their luck and were quite successful.

Because David hadn't seen some of the interesting things Florida has to offer, they took him to Marineland and Silver Springs, where they went out in the famous glass bottom boats that enable tourists to study fish swimming several feet below the surface. Sarasota and Ringling Brothers museum was also on their list of things to see, as well as Andersonville, with its prison and relics of the Civil War. Coming back to colder climes, they all agreed a southern vacation is perfect this time of year.

MARIE AND AL Kluesing, 905 N. Salem, made a day of it Saturday. They began by attending the wedding of her cousin, Elsa Grein, to George Gibson at St. Benedict church in Chicago. They attended the reception afterward at the Sheraton-Blackstone hotel until 5, when they left with Fred and Eleanor Nast, Arnold and Doris Lund to pick up Terry and Dale at Al's sister's home to go bowling in Niles.

The John A. Millers, 915 N. Fernandez, expect a visit from his mother, Mrs. Mae Miller, before she returns to California. Mrs. Miller plans to be with her daughter and her family for about a month and with the Millers for awhile too before she leaves for the coast.

Jean and Jerry Lindeman, 922 N. Princeton, and their two children are back from a 2½-week trip to Florida. On the way down they stopped at her aunt's home atop Lookout mountain and liked it so much they came back that way for another visit. Christmas eve they crossed the state line into Florida in time to spend Christmas with her parents. They couldn't look out their windows Christmas day and see snow, but they did take a boat ride in Jean's father's boat. In fact, they spent a week in Venice and New Year's eve day they left the children with her parents and took off for Pompano to visit other relatives. From Pompano they went to Miami to take in the sights. Before heading back to Venice, they took a drive through the Everglades. Back in Venice again, they went down to the beach looking for shark's teeth that had been washed ashore. Jean is collecting them and has all sizes, enough to mount them in a design something akin to seed painting. Jeff was the only one brave enough to go swimming.

Venice is the new home of the Ringling Brothers Circus and the day the Lindemans left rehearsals were just beginning. They did manage a short visit to the headquarters and looked around a bit. Because the temperature was rather warm, they learned the gorillas' cages were air conditioned. That seemed logical to them, but when they heard the attendant reading to the gorillas in Spanish they were surprised to say the least. Jean says that every order, every reprimand directed to the gorillas is given in Spanish and the gorillas respond in short order.

THE WALTER Nissens, 820 N. Fernandez, are still reading cards and letters congratulating him on his 25 years with the Prudential Life Insurance company. Mr. Nissen works out of the Palatine office, with his territory covering Mt. Prospect, and 50 of his co-workers, some from that office, and some as far away as Evanston, gave him a luncheon last month commemorating his 25 years with the company. To show their appreciation for his many years with Prudential, he was also given flowers and a pen and pencil set along with congratulations from the president of the company right on down. The Nissens held open house over the holidays and Mr. Nissen was still receiving congratulations.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Edward Wos, 915 N. Chicago, who died last Wednesday afternoon.

The E. N. Reeses, 930 N. Chicago, received Nick's basic address Monday: Pvt. Nicholas E. Rees, RA 1668-2984, COB First BN Second PRB, Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. Nick enlisted in the army for three years and left for Ft. Leonard Wood December 27.

When the John Schippers, 1007 N. Kaspar, heard that son John had accepted the position of senior physicist with AVCO in Boston, they drove to Detroit to see John, Maria and the baby once more before they left for the east. The family is proud of John and along with this promotion John and Maria will be close to her family.

Glenn, son of the Ed Seamans, 919 N. Fernandez, 3 January 7, had a party in his aunt and uncle's house in Chicago. Twelve cousins, plus aunts, uncles and grandparents were there to help make it a memorable day. After a buffet supper, there was ice cream and a cake with three candles on top, which Glenn blew out amid cheers and happy birthdays from everyone.

ALTHOUGH Jerry Bebber was 12 Wednesday, he had a party Sunday to which the following boys were invited: Pat Martin, Eddie Seaman, Greg Thieman, Steve Zeisler and Jerry's two brothers. The boys went to the movies first and came back for supper. Jerry is the son of Jean and Ed Bebber, 911 N. Fernandez.

Along with all the hustle and bustle of the holidays, the J. E. Wilmottes, 729 N. Fernandez, got word from son Robert in San Mateo, Cal. that he and his wife made the Wilmottes grandparents with the birth of Lisa Marie December 10. Robert sent pictures of her so the Wilmottes would have them to show Valerie and Ed Maata when they came home from Columbus, Ind. and Jim when he came home from Yale.

When Ronnie was home on leave from the navy in October, his parents, the Werner Beckers, 1004 N. Ridge, felt like that was their Christmas present. However, when he returned to his ship in Bremerton, Wash., he received new orders for shore duty and with those orders came a 15-day leave. There is no place like home to spend a leave, and that's just what he did. On his 21st birthday, December 31, his folks met him at Midway airport and they have been rejoicing ever since. He will leave Friday for shore duty at Whidbey Island out of Seattle, and will do personnel work in the admiral's office for the balance of the 18 months he serves in the navy.

The other day Rita and Bill Burns, 721 N. Patton, received another letter from his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burns from Levelland, Texas, telling them what a wonderful time they had while they were with them during the holidays. The house was bulging with company, which even included the Jack Burn's son, James, and his family from West Allis, Wis. The Burns side of the family was well represented, but there were others to help celebrate, too. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Murphy of Chicago and their children were there. The Murphys have a special place in their hearts for Patty, as she is their godchild.

Rita's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Ostrihan visited them along with their daughter, Evelyn, and their son, Ralph, who is stationed at the Naval Air station at Lakehurst, N. J. Ralph brought his fiance, Lorna Bieber of Connecticut, to introduce to the family and found it a perfect time to do just that. With everyone together, including Rita's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Soukup, they celebrated two birthdays in one. Billy was 6 January 1 and Patty was 5 January 11, and with so many there to help celebrate, it was a birthday neither child will forget for a long time. Dads Panel Discussion For Mother's Club Friday

At the regular monthly meeting of the Mothers' club of St. Peter Lutheran school, Arlington Heights, January 13 at 8 p.m., a panel discussion, "Whose Dad Am I," will be presented by a panel of fathers to the assembly of mothers, as arranged by Mrs. Richard Sorensen, program chairman.

With the emphasis being placed on the father's position and responsibility in the home and in education, this panel will concentrate on points such as, "What should I be doing," "What am I doing," and "How can I improve." Ernest Tagge, chairman, will lead the panel comprised of Eugene Hughes, Kurt Meyer, Vernon Deeke and Gilbert Deu.

ALL HUSBANDS of the members of the Mothers' club and other interested parents of the children of the school are invited. After the meeting refreshments will be served. (A

Our Saviour's Guild Lists New Officers

New officers and chairmen for the Our Savior Lutheran church guild are Mrs. James Garrison, president; Mrs. John Carson, vice president; Mrs. Edward Schneider, secretary; Mrs. Byron Fanselow, treasurer; Mrs. Walter Krueger, Christian service; and Mrs. Melvin Weeg, co-chairman.

Mrs. Gust Hermanson was elected devotional chairman; Mrs. Robert Wolff, educational; Mrs. Carl Zehner, co-chairman; Mrs. Richard Hertel, membership; Mrs. Carl Couve, publicity; and Mrs. Wendell Swenson, thank offering.

"RELIGION and the Arts" will be the educational topic for the year in the forthcoming circle meetings. The bi-monthly guild meetings will carry out this theme, with the exception of those meetings given over the annual topics.

Mrs. Philip Swanson announced that the new yearbooks are expected to be ready for distribution at the February meeting. (A

This Week with PTA

The K-5 schools will hold their January PTA meetings Tuesday, Jan. 17 at 8:15 p.m. The programs are as follows:

DRYDEN

What do children do with their free time? Are they too busy, or not busy enough with the "right" kind of activity? Does a crowded schedule of planned activity leave no time for reading and doing nothin' "? Plan to attend as you will have an opportunity to sound off on these subjects. A buzz session on "quality leisure" will attempt to evaluate time activities available to suburban children and their families.

NORTH

Mrs. Dorothy Meier will direct a buzz session on topics such as, "Should we expect our schools to perform health services which otherwise could be done by [illegible]ents?"; and similar subjects.

The by-laws for the new North School PTA will be read, discussed and presented for approval.

PARK

Those things parents have wanted to know will be explained by a panel with Philip Worland, moderator, and consisting of both teachers and consultants.

A question box has been available at every meeting and parents have been invited to submit their questions. The panel will reply to any queries submitted in advance, either in the box or at the school office.

The proposed new PTA constitution will be presented for approval.

RIDGE

A buzz session, that popular device for encouraging everyone to participate in a discussion will be the attraction.

Richard L. Hetke, principal, will moderate the buzz session. Topics that will be explored, according to Mrs. Clyde Harden, program representative, will include the roles of the home and school in development of discipline and responsibility, moral and ethical values, desirable study habits, physical fitness, understanding and acceptance of other peoples, desirable social traits and attitudes, good reading habits, courtesy and fair play and reporting pupils' progress to parents.

WESTGATE

Parents and teachers will have an opportunity to discuss ways of developing a closer working unit in order to help children learn. The topics will be based on ideas discussed in two preliminary meetings held in the school November 21 and January 9.

WINDSOR

C. Lewis Martin will talk on the financing and legislation necessary for quality education. Mr. Martin of LaGrange is the area director of special education and chairman of the legislative committee of the Lake Shore division of the Illinois Educational association.

A group of students from Windsor will entertain at the beginning of the evening's program. (A

VILLAGE LANDMARK received a face lifting recently when Arlington Realty, Inc., 535 S. State rd., took on a traditional Colonial style exterior. The firm, owned by Elmer E. Zilen, William G. Kleiner, Herbert W. Carl and Aldo Cinquini, has been established in Arlington Heights for more than 30 years. The realty building's interior has also been remodeled in keeping with the Colonial theme.

Cards Stop Dons In Frosh Battles

The unbeaten frosh cagers of Arlington high school added two more victories Monday afternoon.

Coach Rog Steingrabers' frosh "A" quintet claimed its fifth straight with a 36-31 win over Notre Dame, and Bob Rees' "Bs" picked up their fourth with a 45-25 decision over the Dons.

Arlington raced off to an 18-1 first period lead in the "A" battle, then suffered an unexpected dry spell and only dumped in one point in the second quarter.

NOTRE DAME outscored the young Cards in each of the final three periods but couldn't overcome that explosive opening segment.

Paul Splittorff registered 10 points to pace the Cards' "A" unit, and Jim Murray and Greg Buczynski collected eight and seven respectively. McMahon was high for the young Dons with 11.

Score by quarters:

Arlington....	18	1	10	7—36

Stone's 639 Paces Jeffery to Win

Jeffery Lanes of the Paddock Classic men's league registered a 3-0 victory over Steve's Restaurant of the Paddock Women's classic in a special bowling match last Saturday evening at Jeffery Lanes in Wheeling.

George Stone, Jr. rolled a 639 series with a high game of 217 to spark the winning Jeffery outfit. Delores Harris came in with a fine 604 on games of 204, 203, and 197 to head the gals.

Jeffery turned in games of 973, 921, and 917 in sweeping the trio. In addition to Stone's 639, Chuck Gibson rolled a 565 and Ed Melton collected a 550.

Mrs. Harris' 604 easily topped her teammates although Dona Reynolds fired a 502 with a high game of 182. Sis Jennings opened with a 202 but fell off to a 132 and 163 in her final two games for a 497.

Other scores for Jeffery were a 543 by Hec Healey and 514 by Bill Harris. Rounding out Steve's alignment were Janice Crovetti with a 494 and Alice Alten with a 447.

Cards Dump Cage Contest Maine in 'B'

Arlington jumped off to a 9-3 lead in the first period and never trailed last Saturday morning in recording a 38-21 frosh "B" basketball victory over Maine East.

Ray Merkel tossed in ten points and Bill Moore added eight to pace Bob Rees' Cardinals to their third straight triumph.

Ten boys broke into the scoring column for an Arlington outfit that held a 29-10 lead after three periods.

Warriors Edge Prospect High's Varsity Gymnasts

A strong Willowbrook varsity gymnastics team handed Prospect high its first loss of the young season last Friday evening when it fashioned a 68-64 decision.

The host Warriors, a unit that recently gained a tie with Arlington's defending state champions, gained their biggest advantage on the side horse with a first, second, and tie for third.

Prospect gained individual firsts on the Trampoline, parallel bars, and still rings thanks to Paul Shaw, Dave Price, and Dan Malloy.

THE KNIGHTS of Rick Farris outscored the Warriors by four on the Tramp and by five on parallel bars and picked up tight victories on both rings and in tumbling. Willowbrook dominated the side horse and high bar.

In addition to the Knights' three individual champs, Ray Strobel claimed seconds on the Tramp and in tumbling for two other high finishes among the Prospect competitors.

The varsity and frosh-soph Knights will host West Leyden Friday at 7 p.m. in their first meet of the campaign.

Notre Dame Dons, Joliet Catholic In League Game

Tomorrow night, Friday, the Notre Dame basketball Dons will face Joliet Catholic in hopes of ending a one game losing streak and bettering their present 8-3 record.

Last Friday, the Dons trounced St. Francis of Wheaton 83-60 but were upset by Immaculate Conception 63-58. The Dons' conference record now reads 2-2.

The St. Francis game showed a close first half contest as the smalled Knights hit remarkably well from the field. Only the height of the Dons enabled them to hold a 36-28 halftime advantage. St. Francis started the third quarter even hotter and soon cut the Don lead to 42-40.

HOWEVER, fine shooting by John Schramm and fast breaks featuring guards Dick Manning and Dan Odishoo revitalized the Don attack. Notre Dame scored 25 points in a row before the Knights were able to put the ball through the nets again, thus putting the game on ice.

Notre Dame started out sluggishly in the Immaculate Conception game and never did recover. IC grabbed a major share of the rebounds and kept the score close throughout the contest. Notre Dame found itself in possession of a small lead as the third quarter opened but it diminished rapidly as IC, paced by Johnson, vaulted to the front.

A rally by Notre Dame late in the fourth quarter fell short and IC captured what was probably its biggest win of the year. Again Schramm led Notre Dame scorers as he collected 18 points. Dickman and Manning each chipped in 13 points for the Notre Dame cause. (Sp

Arlington Wins Soph Mat Test

Arlington high's frosh-soph wrestlers captured their third victory of the season last Saturday afternoon with a tight 22-21 conquest of a visiting Libertyville squad.

Judo Classes Set For Park District

The Arlington Heights park district will offer Judo classes for boys and young men and self defense classes for ladies in an eight-week beginning course which will be taught at Recreation park fieldhouse by Mits Shioji, a third degree black belt Japanese champion.

The instruction will start Monday, Jan. 23, and meet each Monday through March 13. Classes for fifth through eighth grade boys will start at 7 p.m. The self defense class for ladies will begin at 8 p.m. and the class for adults and high schoolers will be at 9 p.m.

SHIOJI WILL give the Judoists an introduction to the art and teach the basic fundamentals. Those who already completed the beginners course are urged to enroll in the advanced class, as they have just scratched the surface of the fascinating art of judo.

If registrations are sufficient to warrant advanced classes, they will meet on Wednesday evenings as follows: fifth through eighth grade boys, 7 p.m.; women's self defense, 8 p.m., and adults and high schoolers at 9 p.m.

For the course no special equipment or costume is needed; old clothes will be appropriate. An instruction fee of $4 will be charged for the course. To enroll, come to the park district office at 500 S. Fernandez st. or phone CL 3-0620. (A

Eastwood Events

After three weeks of wonderful weather in the warm south, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Luedeking and their children returned home Sunday night. Most of their vacation was spent at the Surf in St. Petersburg, where the Herman Raasch family was also vacationing. On New Years day the Luedekings were in Miami for the Orange Bowl game, while Susan and Peter stayed at the Surf with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hertting, of Milwaukee, who had accompanied their daughter and family on their southern trip.

The Luedekings' homeward homeward journey was pleasantly broken by a several day stop-over in Atlanta, where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. John Bucher, Mrs. Luedeking's sister's family.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bronwell entertained at a bridge party Friday night. Their guests for a post-holiday evening were Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Van Warejcka, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goble.

Sunday, Judy Rime visited with the Bronwells. Judy, who is now in her third year of nursing at Wesley Memorial, stayed with the Bronwells while she attended Arlington High school.

MRS. GUS Anderson entertained 13 members of the Home Bureau Monday in her home at 614 N. Beverly. After lunch the ladies made corduroy pillows.

The Anderson's daughter, Suzanne, acted as timekeeper Saturday for the high school debates at Navy Pier. Suzanne, who is a freshman at Arlington, is a member of the debating team.

Visitor at the Walter Spinti home, 314 N. Lincoln lane, over the Christmas holidays was Mr. Spinti's mother, Mrs. Marie Spinti from Tomah, Wis.

Another grandmother from Wisconsin visiting in Arlington Heights is Mrs. Clara Peterson. Mrs. Peterson came from Cameron for the second birthday celebration of her granddaughter, Karen Stueber, 414 N. Beverly, on January 5.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cormier entertained both sides of the family over the recent holidays. Spending Christmas at the Cormiers' was Mrs. Cormier's mother, Mrs. Edward Gratsch, and her brother, the Rev. Edward Gratsch, and her aunt, Miss Philomena Rasche, all of Cincinnati.

New Years day entertaining was for Bill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cormier of Arlington Heights, and his sister's family, the Donald Leemings of Hoffman Estates. (A

Dads Panel Discussion For Mother's Club Friday

At the regular monthly meeting of the Mothers' club of St. Peter Lutheran school, Arlington Heights, January 13 at 8 p.m., a panel discussion, "Whose Dad Am I," will be presented by a panel of fathers to the assembly of mothers, as arranged by Mrs. Richard Sorensen, program chairman.

With the emphasis being placed on the father's position and responsibility in the home and in education, this panel will concentrate on points such as, "What should I be doing," "What am I doing," and "How can I improve." Ernest Tagge, chairman, will lead the panel comprised of Eugene Hughes, Kurt Meyer, Vernon Deeke and Gilbert Deu.

ALL HUSBANDS of the members of the Mothers' club and other interested parents of the children of the school are invited. After the meeting refreshments will be served. (A

Our Saviour's Guild Lists New Officers

New officers and chairmen for the Our Savior Lutheran church guild are Mrs. James Garrison, president; Mrs. John Carson, vice president; Mrs. Edward Schneider, secretary; Mrs. Byron Fanselow, treasurer; Mrs. Walter Krueger, Christian service; and Mrs. Melvin Weeg, co-chairman.

Mrs. Gust Hermanson was elected devotional chairman; Mrs. Robert Wolff, educational; Mrs. Carl Zehner, co-chairman; Mrs. Richard Hertel, membership; Mrs. Carl Couve, publicity; and Mrs. Wendell Swenson, thank offering.

"RELIGION and the Arts" will be the educational topic for the year in the forthcoming circle meetings. The bimonthly guild meetings will carry out this theme, with the exception of those meetings given over the annual topics.

Mrs. Philip Swanson announced that the new yearbooks are expected to be ready for distribution at the February meeting. (A

This Week with PTA

The K-5 schools will hold their January PTA meetings Tuesday, Jan. 17 at 8:15 p.m. The programs are as follows:

DRYDEN

What do children do with their free time? Are they too busy, or not busy enough with the "right" kind of activity? Does a crowded schedule of planned activity leave no time for reading and doing nothin' "? Plan to attend as you will have an opportunity to sound off on these subjects. A buzz session on "quality leisure" will attempt to evaluate time activities available to suburban children and their families.

NORTH

Mrs. Dorothy Meier will direct a buzz session on topics such as, "Should we expect our schools to perform health services which otherwise could be done by parents?"; and similar subjects.

The by-laws for the new North School PTA will be read, discussed and presented for approval.

PARK

Those things parents have wanted to know will be explained by a panel with Philip Worland, moderator, and consisting of both teachers and consultants.

A question box has been available at every meeting and parents have been invited to submit their questions. The panel will reply to any queries submitted in advance, either in the box or at the school office.

The proposed new PTA constitution will be presented for approval.

RIDGE

A buzz session, that popular device for encouraging everyone to participate in a discussion will be the attraction.

Richard L. Hetke, principal, will moderate the buzz session. Topics that will be explored, according to Mrs. Clyde Harden, program representative, will include the roles of the home and school in development of discipline and responsibility, moral and ethical values, desirable study habits, physical fitness, understanding and acceptance of other peoples, desirable social traits and attitudes, good reading habits, courtesy and fair play and reporting pupils' progress to parents.

WESTGATE

Parents and teachers will have an opportunity to discuss ways of developing a closer working unit in order to help children learn. The topics will be based on ideas discussed in two preliminary meetings held in the school November 21 and January 9.

WINDSOR

C. Lewis Martin will talk on the financing and legislation necessary for quality education. Mr. Martin of LaGrange is the area director of special education and chairman of the legislative committee of the Lake Shore division of the Illinois Educational association.

A group of students from Windsor will entertain at the beginning of the evening's program. (A

VILLAGE LANDMARK received a face lifting recently when Arlington Realty, Inc., 535 S. State rd., took on a traditional Colonial style exterior. The firm, owned by Elmer E. Zilen, William G. Kleiner, Herbert W. Carl and Aldo Cinquini, has been established in Arlington Heights for more than 30 years. The realty building's interior has also been remodeled in keeping with the Colonial theme.

Cards Stop Dons In Frosh Battles

The unbeaten frosh cagers of Arlington high school added two more victories Monday afternoon.

Coach Rog Steingrabers' frosh "A" quintet claimed its fifth straight with a 36-31 win over Notre Dame, and Bob Rees' "Bs" picked up their fourth with a 45-25 decision over the Dons.

Arlington raced off to an 18-1 first period lead in the "A" battle, then suffered an unexpected dry spell and only dumped in one point in the second quarter.

NOTRE DAME outscored the young Cards in each of the final three periods but couldn't overcome that explosive opening segment.

Paul Splittorff registered 10 points to pace the Cards' "A" unit, and Jim Murray and Greg Buczynski collected eight and seven respectively. McMahon was high for the young Dons with 11.

Stone's 639 Paces Jeffery to Win

Jeffery Lanes of the Paddock Classic men's league registered a 3-0 victory over Steve's Restaurant of the Paddock Women's classic in a special bowling match last Saturday evening at Jeffery Lanes in Wheeling.

George Stone, Jr. rolled a 639 series with a high game of 217 to spark the winning Jeffery outfit. Delores Harris came in with a fine 604 on games of 204, 203, and 197 to head the gals.

Jeffery turned in games of 973, 921, and 917 in sweeping the trio. In addition to Stone's 639, Chuck Gibson rolled a 565 and Ed Melton collected a 550.

Mrs. Harris' 604 easily topped her teammates although Dona Reynolds fired a 502 with a high game of 182. Sis Jennings opened with a 202 but fell off to a 132 and 163 in her final two games for a 497.

Other scores for Jeffery were a 543 by Hec Healey and 514 by Bill Harris. Rounding out Steve's alignment were Janice Crovetti with a 494 and Alice Alten with a 447.

Cards Dump Cage Contest Maine in 'B'

Arlington jumped off to a 9-3 lead in the first period and never trailed last Saturday morning in recording a 38-21 frosh "B" basketball victory over Maine East.

Ray Merkel tossed in ten points and Bill Moore added eight to pace Bob Rees' Cardinals to their third straight triumph.

Ten boys broke into the scoring column for an Arlington outfit that held a 29-10 lead after three periods.

Notre Dame Dons, Joliet Catholic In League Game

Tomorrow night, Friday, the Notre Dame basketball Dons will face Joliet Catholic in hopes of ending a one game losing streak and bettering their present 8-3 record.

Last Friday, the Dons trounced St. Francis of Wheaton 83-60 but were upset by Immaculate Conception 63-58. The Dons' conference record now reads 2-2.

The St. Francis game showed a close first half contest as the smalled Knights hit remarkably well from the field. Only the height of the Dons enabled them to hold a 36-28 halftime advantage. St. Francis started the third quarter even hotter and soon cut the Don lead to 42-40.

HOWEVER, fine shooting by John Schramm and fast breaks featuring guards Dick Manning and Dan Odishoo revitalized the Don attack. Notre Dame scored 25 points in a row before the Knights were able to put the ball through the nets again, thus putting the game on ice.

Notre Dame started out sluggishly in the Immaculate Conception game and never did recover. IC grabbed a major share of the rebounds and kept the score close throughout the contest. Notre Dame found itself in possession of a small lead as the third quarter opened but it diminished rapidly as IC, paced by Johnson, vaulted to the front.

A rally by Notre Dame late in the fourth quarter fell short and IC captured what was probably its biggest win of the year. Again Schramm led Notre Dame scorers as he collected 18 points. Dickman and Manning each chipped in 13 points for the Notre Dame cause. (Sp

Arlington high's frosh-soph wrestlers captured their third victory of the season last Saturday afternoon with a tight 22-21 conquest of a visiting Libertyville squad.

Warriors Edge Prospect High's Varsity Gymnasts

A strong Willowbrook varsity gymnastics team handed Prospect high its first loss of the young season last Friday evening when it fashioned a 68-64 decision.

The host Warriors, a unit that recently gained a tie with Arlington's defending state champions, gained their biggest advantage on the side horse with a first, second, and tie for third.

Prospect gained individual firsts on the Trampoline, parallel bars, and still rings thanks to Paul Shaw, Dave Price, and Dan Malloy.

THE KNIGHTS of Rick Farris outscored the Warriors by four on the Tramp and by five on parallel bars and picked up tight victories on both rings and in tumbling. Willowbrook dominated the side horse and high bar.

In addition to the Knights' three individual champs, Ray Strobel claimed seconds on the Tramp and in tumbling for two other high finishes among the Prospect competitors.

The varsity and frosh-soph Knights will host West Leyden Friday at 7 p.m. in their first meet of the campaign.

Cancer Talk At Wayside Thursday

The regular monthly meeting of Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Woman's club, Arlington Heights, will be held this evening, Jan. 12, at 8:30 p.m., in the parish hall. Mrs. Frank Kolerus, executive secretary of the northwest chapter of the American Cancer society and her assistant, Mrs. Walter Johnson, will show a cancer film, "Time and Two Women."

This film will precede the commentary of [illegible] McGill, gynecologist and obstetrician, and the chief of staff of the Northwest Community hospital. A question and answer period will follow. All women of the parish are invited and guests welcome.

TUESDAY evening, Jan. 17, at the home of Mrs. Thomas Hartnett, 714 Catino, the library and literature committee has scheduled two reviews for the evening's discussion. Mrs. Nathaniel Leighton will review "The Third Revolution" by Karl Stern and Mrs. Raymond Martindell will discuss "Night Music" by Sven Stolpe. Mrs. Guy De Giorgio will be co-hostess for the evening. Judo Classes Set For Park District

The Arlington Heights park district will offer Judo classes for boys and young men and self defense classes for ladies in an eight-week beginning course which will be taught at Recreation park fieldhouse by Mits Shioji, a third degree black belt Japanese champion.

The instruction will start Monday, Jan. 23, and meet each Monday through March 13. Classes for fifth through eighth grade boys will start at 7 p.m. The self defense class for ladies will begin at 8 p.m. and the class for adults and high schoolers will be at 9 p.m.

SHIOJI WILL give the Judoists an introduction to the art and teach the basic fundamentals. Those who already completed the beginners course are urged to enroll in the advanced class, as they have just scratched the surface of the fascinating art of judo.

If registrations are sufficient to warrant advanced classes, they will meet on Wednesday evenings as follows: fifth through eighth grade boys, 7 p.m.; women's self defense, 8 p.m., and adults and high schoolers at 9 p.m.

For the course no special equipment or costume is needed; old clothes will be appropriate. An instruction fee of $4 will be charged for the course. To enroll, come to the park district office at 500 S. Fernandez st. or phone CL 3-0620. (A

After three weeks of wonderful weather in the warm south, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Luedeking and their children returned home Sunday night. Most of their vacation was spent at the Surf in St. Petersburg, where the Herm an Raasch family was also vacationing. On New Years day the Luedekings were in Miami for the Orange Bowl game, while Susan and Peter stayed at the Surf with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hertting, of Milwaukee, who had accompanied their daughter and family on their southern trip.

The Luedekings' homeward homeward journey was pleasantly broken by a several day stop-over in Atlanta, where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. John Bucher, Mrs. Luedeking's sister's family.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bronwell entertained at a bridge party Friday night. Their guests for a post-holiday evening were Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Van Warejcka, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goble.

Sunday, Judy Rime visited with the Bronwells. Judy, who is now in her third year of nursing at Wesley Memorial, stayed with the Bronwells while she attended Arlington High school.

MRS. GUS Anderson entertained 13 members of the Home Bureau Monday in her home at 614 N. Beverly. After lunch the ladies made corduroy pillows.

The Anderson's daughter, Suzanne, acted as timekeeper Saturday for the high school debates at Navy Pier. Suzanne, who is a freshman at Arlington, is a member of the debating team.

Another grandmother from Wisconsin visiting in Arlington Heights is Mrs. Clara Peterson. Mrs. Peterson came from Cameron for the second birthday celebration of her granddaughter, Karen Stueber, 414 N. Beverly, on January 5.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cormier entertained both sides of the family over the recent holidays. Spending Christmas at the Cormiers' was Mrs. Cormier's mother, Mrs. Edward Gratsch, and her brother, the Rev. Edward Gratsch, and her aunt, Miss Philomena Rasche, all of Cincinnati.

New Years day entertaining was for Bill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cormier of Arlington Heights, and his sister's family, the Donald Leemings of Hoffman Estates. (A

New Courses Offered For Adult Education

Registrants for High School District 214's second semester adult education program will find eight new courses offered.

The new offerings will bring the total close to 100 as the grown-up scholars register January 16 and 17 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Arlington high school library.

Office practice, designed as a laboratory course in the use of machines currently used in business offices is being scheduled for the first time. A knowledge of the typewriter keyboard is the only prerequisite for this course, which meets 10 sessions for a tuition of $10.

ANOTHER business offering, notehand, features a study of the simple alphabet of Gregg shorthand to facilitate speedy note taking. The class meets 15 times for a tuition of $15.

A United States history course should appeal to persons desiring to pick up high school credit, and English for new Americans is designed to meet the needs of the foreign-born who have some knowledge of the language, but wish to improve and to enlarge both their conversational and their written English. The last five sessions would deal largely with a study of American government.

TRIGONOMETRY is being listed for the first time, as is indoor Golf for men and women. Basic mechanical design, taught to benefit the beginning draftsman or high school graduate who has had some mechanical drawing experience and would like to know the fundamentals of design, completes the list of new courses.

In cooperation with the Parent Education project at the University of Chicago, "Understanding Our Children," a 10 session course, is being offered.

A part of a nationwide program, the course features study discussion groups whose primary goal is to assist those interested in helping children to become mature, responsible citizens.

FIVE college credit courses are being offered this semester: Accounting Procedure 105; Principles of Economics 103; labor relations; professional engineer (all from the University of Illinois); and government and politics in the Soviet Union (from Northern Illinois university.

Night school director Thomas Shirley also called attention to the fact that beginning language courses will be offered this spring and that persons interested should register on the January 16 and 17 dates. (ACM

New Presbyterian Circles Will Meet

The 13 newly-organized circles of the Women's association of the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights will have their first meetings of the new year January 18. New circles are formed and new officers appointed every two years to permit all members to become better acquainted and to gain the experiences provided by the shuffling of responsibilities.

The new circle chairmen were installed in December; their co-chairmen are as follows: Mrs. H. Hutchings, Mrs. G. Williams, Mrs. T. Fonfara, Mrs. Frank DiCanio, Mrs. H. Curtis, Mrs. H. Bloss, Mrs. W. Daube, Mrs. G. Baughman, Mrs. H. Lips, Mrs. H. Peter, Mrs. W. Kenyon, Mrs. Harry Bierma and Mrs. W. Hunter.

"THE BEGINNING of a Journey," will be the title of this month's circle program to be presented by the treasurers of each circle, under the direction of Mrs. Herman L. Berthold, stewardship secretary for the association.

The new treasurers are: Mrs. William Franck, Mrs. Robert Becker, Mrs. Gordon Gullickson, Mrs. John Allen, Mrs. James Wellman, Mrs. Melvin Kurtz, Mrs. Russell Hansen, Mrs. Wendell Prunty, Mrs. Fred Siegel, Mrs. C. H. Skoog, Mrs. Virgil Hochstetler, Mrs. David Dole and Mrs. Donald Matney. (AK

Authorize Purchase

Sixth High School Site for Elk Grove

A sixth high school site in Elk Grove Village will be purchased by Arlington-Prospect district 214 as soon as final negotiations can be completed.

The 38 acre site on Arlington Heights rd. at Biesterfield rd. has been under a long-term option by the district for more than three years.

Cost of the site will be $61,880 plus $33,720.50 for utilities. Some slight additional costs for tax proration and closing fees will be added.

THE AVERAGE cost of less than $1,630 per acre, less utilities, is far lower than most land costs paid by the high school district. The 40-acre Forest View school site on Goebbert rd. south of Arlington Heights, where the third district high school is now under construction, cost $3,000 per acre without utilities.

Purchased with funds from the same $359,000 bond issue in August 1958, the 65.97-acre Carnehl farm site on Hintz rd. a quarter mile east of Wolf rd., Wheeling, cost $3,500 per acre without utilities.

The high school board expressed appreciation to Centex corporation, developers of Elk Grove Village, for their cooperation in providing the new school site at the low figure.

Negotiations with Centex for the option on the school site began in June, 1957.

ABOUT $70,000 of the total $95,600.50 cost for the site is to be paid from the current 1960-61 school building fund budget. The balance will be paid from the Goebbert rd. school building fund at the time of purchase, with these funds to be replaced from the regular building fund budget for the 1961-62 year.

The Elk Grove site will be the sixth site owned by district 214. The other sites include the grounds of Arlington and Prospect high schools, the site of the new Forest View school on Goebbert rd., the Carnehl property and a 40-acre site at Buffalo Grove and Hintz rds. in Wheeling township. (ACM

Homemaking Class Gets Meat Tips

ELIZABETH McKELLIN

Meat cookery demonstrations by an expert home economist were highlights of the Prospect high school homemaking classes this week.

The demonstration programs were arranged by Mrs. Marilyn Breiding, Prospect high homemaking instructor. The programs featured Miss Elizabeth McKellin, field home economist of the National Live Stock and Meat Board of Chicago.

PRACTICAL ideas were stressed during the demonstrations, with receipts for both popular and less-known meat cuts used.

The National Live Stock and Meat Board is a non-profit organization whose main interest is research, education and information on meat. (ACM

High School District

Administrative Aide Authorized by Board

After months of delay in reorganization of Arlington Prospect district 214 administration, school board members now are ready to give District Superintendent H. L. Slichenmyer a "double-dose" of help at the top level.

Slichenmyer is authorized to set the wheels in motion to hire a personal assistant as well as a new principal for the Forest View high school.

Action on further reorganization of the district administration has been postponed.

According to both the board and the school administration reorganization is needed because of the fast growth of the high school system, greatly increasing the burden upon the present administration setup.

THE NEW principal for the Forest View high school, slated to open in September, 1962, will be hired a year early for the 1961-62 school year. This will give the school administration an opportunity to train him in the present operation and philosophy of the district.

The new assistant to the administrative superintendent will be hired as soon as possible. Qualifications for the position will be the same as those for high school principals. The position will be considered as strictly an assistant to Supt. Slichenmyer and will not carry authority over the principals of the individual schools.

Candidates for both positions will have to hold or be working toward their doctors' degrees. They must have administrative experience. Candidates will be interviewed by both the superintendent and the school board.

Salaries will range from $12,000 to $14,000.

FURTHER HELP at the top echelon of the district administration is expected in the business manager's office. To cut down on the excessive work of John Schaff, business manager, a part-time purchasing agent is to be hired. This position is limited to someone familiar with materials and equipment used in a school system.

In studying the administration reorganization, board of education members have interviewed present administration and department heads, considered the hiring of a private evaluation firm and discussed having a study made by the University of Illinois. Despite these efforts no definite action toward complete overhaul of school administration has been taken to date. (ACM

Gymnasium Program For Teens, Alumni

In an effort to give the community and school students maximum use of facilities, the board of education of Arlington-Prospect district 214 is providing supervised gymnasium and library facilities on Saturdays and evenings.

The gymnasium program, started during Christmas vacation, is open Saturdays and vacation periods from 9 a.m. to noon at both Arlington and Prospect schools. The "open gym" plan is designed primarily for high school age youth and recent alumni.

THE SCHOOL library "after hours" plan is proposed to give students at both high schools greater opportunity for use of research and special assignment books. The library program will be initiated after January 31 at the start of the second semester.

The libraries will be open from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday and from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. two evenings each week.

TWO part-time librarians have been hired by the school board to supervise the after-school library program. They are Mrs. Sarah Baker, Arlington Heights, for Arlington high school and Mrs. Robert Schiller, Mount Prospect, for Prospect high school.

The gymnasium program at Prospect high school is supervised by the Mount Prospect park district without charge to the high school. The program at Arlington high school is supervised by one of the regular school staff. (ACM

Grace Lutheran to Move to New Location

Sunday, Jan. 15, Grace Lutheran church will move from its temporary quarters in West Park field house, Des Plaines, to larger, but still temporary quarters, in the Cumberland school, one block east of the Wolf rd. traffic circle on Golf rd.

Hours for Sunday services will remain the same with worship at 9:30 a.m. and Sunday school at 10:45 a.m. The coffee break "in-between" will continue and an added feature will be a supervised nursery during the worship service for children to age 5. Mothers of the congregation will take turns in the nursery, assisted by youth of the Luther league. Mrs. Don Wiley of Mt. Prospect is chairman of the nursery.

THE CHANGE of temporary quarters of this mission congregation of the Augustana Lutheran church, under the auspices of the National Lutheran coucil, became necessary because of the growing membership and increased number of Sunday school classes. The congregation is building its first unit on the corner of Euclid and Wolf rds., Wheeling township. It serves the north areas of Des Plaines and Mt. Prospect and the south area of Prospect Heights. Activities include a teen age youth group, a men's club and a church women's organization. Mrs. Robert Haugh of Mt. Prospect heads the Sunday school.

Mrs. Dan Johnson, also of Mt. Prospect, the church historian, is compiling a record book of the congregation's milestones. (AMPH

Dogs Banned From Park Property

Arlington Heights police announced this week the department will begin to strictly enforce a village ordinance which prohibits dogs from being on school and park property.

According to policeman Eugene Korn, animal welfare officer, the department has received many complaints from parents in regard to dogs being walked on school and park premises, chiefly at night.

Article 2, chapter 20 of the village code reads: "It shall be unlawful for any dog, even though on a leash, to go on any school premises, public playground or public park."

Forty Per Cent Earn Grades of 'A', 'B'

Forty per cent or students at Arlington and Prospect high schools are earning grades of A and B, compared to an average of 20 to 30 per cent in high schools across the country.

uQestioned as to whether teachers were "too easy" in giving top grades or whether students were earning the high standing, administrators for both schools stressed that more than 50 per cent of their students were above the national median.

While Science Research Associates have indicated students from both district 214 schools are "average in ability" for the suburban area, spokesmen for the schools are quick to point the suburban area as a whole is "considerably above the national average."

IN A TOTAL number of 8,566 grades at the end of the first quarter, 925 "A" grades and 2,551 "B" grades were given at Arlington high school for a total of 40.5 per cent.

At Prospect high there were 1,295 A's and 2,530 B's in a total of 9,703 grades. This is 39.4 per cent.

In contrast the percentage of failing grades at both schools was only 3.5.

DISTRICT 214 Superintendent H. L. Slichenmyer stressed "We believe this is as it should be since more than 50 per cent of our students are above the national median."

One major factor in considering the high grade levels is the strong college-entrance competition where high school grades are carefully considered. Both school administration and board of education members have indicated grades of district students should reflect the higher ability ratings of suburban students. (ACM

Action on further reorganization of the district administration has been postponed.

According to both the board and the school administration reorganization is needed because of the fast growth of the high school system, greatly increasing the burden upon the present administration setup.

THE NEW principal for the Forest View high school, slated to open in September, 1962, will be hired a year early for the 1961-62 school year. This will give the school administration an opportunity to train him in the present operation and philosophy of the district.

The new assistant to the administrative superintendent will be hired as soon as possible. Qualifications for the position will be the same as those for high school principals. The position will be considered as strictly an assistant to Supt. Slichenmyer and will not carry authority over the principals of the individual schools.

Candidates for both positions will have to hold or be working toward their doctors' degrees. They must have administrative experience. Candidates will be interviewed by both the superintendent and the school board.

Salaries will range from $12,000 to $14,000.

FURTHER HELP at the top echelon of the district administration is expected in the business manager's office. To cut down on the excessive work of John Schaff, business manager, a part-time purchasing agent is to be hired. This position is limited to someone familiar with materials and equipment used in a school system.

In studying the administration reorganization, board of education members have interviewed present administration and department heads, considered the hiring of a private evaluation firm and discussed having a study made by the University of Illinois. Despite these efforts no definite action toward complete overhaul of school administration has been taken to date. (ACM

In an effort to give the community and school students maximum use of facilities, the board of education of Arlington-Prospect district 214 is providing supervised gymnasium and library facilities on Saturdays and evenings.

The gymnasium program, started during Christmas vacation, is open Saturdays and vacation periods from 9 a.m. to noon at both Arlington and Prospect schools. The "open gym" plan is designed primarily for high school age youth and recent alumni.

THE SCHOOL library "after hours" plan is proposed to give students at both high schools greater opportunity for use of research and special assignment books. The library program will be initiated after January 31 at the start of the second semester.

The libraries will be open from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday and from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. two evenings each week.

TWO part-time librarians have been hired by the school board to supervise the after-school library program. They are Mrs. Sarah Baker, Arlington Heights, for Arlington high school and Mrs. Robert Schiller, Mount Prospect, for Prospect high school.

The gymnasium program at Prospect high school is supervised by the Mount Prospect park district without charge to the high school. The program at Arlington high school is supervised by one of the regular school staff. (ACM

Suburb Sailor Tells Of South Pole Visit

By KAY BLACKWOOD

HOWARD ELLIOTT

The longest day in the world has been experienced by a northwest suburban sailor who has recently spent four months at the South Pole. During this time, day was scarcely distinguishable from night.

Howard Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Elliott, 2507 Wilke, Rolling Meadows, is an engineer on the U.S.S. Arneb, a cargo ship, which supplies the five navy bases located in the Antarctic region.

In describing the South Pole, Elliott said that it is all ice with not much life except for the penguins, seals, sailors and the mascot, a Siberian Husky named Blizzard. The nearest land is at least 2000 miles away.

THE BEST part of the "expedition" is on the ship, where the routine is often varied with parties. One of the highlights of the voyage is the initiation of those who had not previously crossed the equator or the "Equatorial Ceremony." The day before crossing the Equator, the "polywogs," as these novices are called, with painted faces and clothes on backwards, are required to face the equator on bended knee chanting to all those within hearing, "I am a lowly, slimy, unworthy polywog."

It is not all fun, however, for the Arneb has run into more than one mishap. The divers were called in on one instance, recalled Elliott, when the ship collided with a glacier. It was not too serious, fortunately, and they were soon under way.

THE MAIL service is not too good on the South Pole. During the four months that Howard was there, they had two mail deliveries. These were brought by helicopter, as the landing facilities for most aircraft have not been perfected.

When asked how he liked the South Pole, Elliott answered "not especially," yet he just signed to go again. Why? "I might never get another chance. I might as well take advantage of it."

He says that this will be his last time on Operation Deep Freeze, however.

ALTHOUGH spending most of its time at the South Pole, the Arneb and its crew made stops at Cuba, Panama, New Zealand, Australia and Tasmanai. Howard is looking forward to their stop at Tahiti, where "South Pacific" and other movies were filmed.

This is on the agenda for the present trip. He says that people are amazed when he comes back from the South Pole with a sun tan

Home for Christmas for the first time since his enlistment two years ago, Elliott had only the weekend to be with his family. He is now on the east coast of the United States where he will stay until early January when they will embark on another "Operation Deep Freeze. (WUS

League to Urge Stiffer Election Laws for State

This session of the Illinois legislature will find the League of Women Voters of Illinois supporting mandatory training for election judges and centralized supervision of elections.

Mrs. R. B. Yadon, Arlington Heights League president, made this announcement this week after attending a recent meeting of presidents of all local Leagues in Illinois.

At this meeting Mrs. Gerald Almy of Champaign, who headed the statewide study of Illinois election laws and procedures, pointed out that the League's position was based on a four-year study by the 73 Leagues throughout Illinois. The presidents at their council meeting affirmed the League stand.

THE FOLLOWING is the statement of the League's position: "The League of Women Voters of Illinois favors centralized supervision of elections in Illinois. The central authority should be appointed and have jurisdiction over election machinery for the entire state. If an elections commission is established, it should be a bi-partisan commission.

"The League also supports mandatory training for judges who should be certified by examination. We question the need for payment for such training. A double shift of judges at the polls is desirable."

The League went on to state that codification of the election code is also of prime importance. The 1959 edition of the Illinois Election Laws includes 30 chapters covering 386 pages. In addition, there are paragraphs referring to elections scattered through 29 chapters of the Illinois Revised Statutes.

One of the cardinal principles of the League since its founding 40 years ago has been the protection of citizens in their right to vote. The Illinois League successfully spearheaded the drive for permanent registration in the 30's.

The current study includes a review of election laws of Illinois and other states, observation of the election process by League members serving as poll watchers and interviews with public officials.

Over 40 county clerks in Illinois have been interviewed by the League for their views on compulsory training of election officials and the extent of the present programs.

WHEN ASKED what this position would mean in terms of League action, Mrs. Harper Andrews of Kewanee, president of the Illinois League, said "The League will support bills in the 1961 session of the Legislature which implement our position. The League may also work with other citizen groups interested in election law reform."

Mrs. Yadon said the Arlington Heights League has actively participated in the state-wide study. Mrs. John Solon, Arlington Heights, was election laws chairman from 1957 to 1960, while Mrs. Ansel Schmidt, Elk Grove Village, is this year's chairman.

At November unit meetings, all Arlington Heights members discussed these matters and arrived at the agreement later incorporated into the State League's position. (B8

Row Over Speaker

Carroll Tells Background Of State House Controversy

by REP. JOHN W. CARROLL

This will be the first of another series of reports to the people of the 6th District on the actions taken in the state legislature during the 1961 session, and some comments on why some things happen the way they do by the writer who is serving his third term as one of your representatives in this body.

Many people have been surprised at the battle which developed immediately over the Speaker's post, but in the light of what effect this will have on the residents of our predominately Republican area, I feel some explanation of the actions is in order.

In the last session of the legislature, the Democrats had a majority in the House, but not in the Senate.

The House majority was spilt between the Daley faction which wanted to elect a speaker from Chicago, and the balance of the Democrats who favored Paul Powell of Vienna. At that time, enough of these men would have voted for Republican Warren Wood the former speaker, to take the post, but we believed that since the people of Illinois elected a Democratic majority, the responsibility for carrying out their program lay with them. For this reason, our GOP representatives did not attempt to force Republican domination of a Democratic House.

IN THIS SESSION, the tables were reversed; in November, the people of Illinois elected a Republican majority in both the House and the Senate. The majority was a slim one in the House, 89 Republicans and 88 Democrats, but it was, nevertheless, a majority.

When we met to discuss election of a speaker, and the establishment of Republican leadership on the vital committees, we were faced with a serious problem, one which represents a challenge to representative government. We found that four members of the House, elected as Republicans, and bearing responsibility for helping carry out the Republican program, were unwilling or unable to take part in our meetings.

One of these was John Manning of Rochelle, seriously ill in the hospital, and three from the City of Chicago, who turned out to be employees of the Democrat-controlled Chicago Sanitary District.

These men were Peter Miller, Republican Committeeman of the 36th Ward of Chicago, Walter "Babe" McAvoy, Republican Committeeman of the 15th Ward of Chicago, and Augie Ruf of Chicago's South Side. They reported ill, but it seemed very peculiar they all three were ill at this crucial time when the Democrats were able to get a 100% turn out of their members.

IN THE opening session Secretary of State, Carpentier, called the House to order and after the swearing in ceremony a motion was made by a member on the Republican side that the House recess, which was declared carried by Carpentier. This was for the purpose of allowing time to work out the problem.

In our absence from the Chamber, Representative Paul Powell, the Democrat's Speaker from the last session, took over, and declared himself speaker. As a result, the Senate refused to certify any of the State officers including the incoming Governor until this high-handed action was rescinded.

By agreement the House was reconvened Monday, Jan. 9, and once again all 88 Democrats were present, as well as one Republican, McAvoy.

AT A CAUCUS of our Republican members it was decided that we would not attend the opening of the session, thereby focusing the spot light of scorn by all Republicans upon the defectors. McAvoy was in his seat when Powell called the House to order and in spite of the pleas of the Cook County Chairman to remove himself from the Chamber, he refused to do so and rose to praise Powell when voting for him as Speaker.

After the Republican membership were convinced there was nothing we could do to stop McAvoy from voting with the Democrats, the Republican members took their seats. One other GOP member, Representative Slatnik of Chicago's 8th District on roll call voted present, which in reality was the same as voting for Powell.

THE ELECTORATE of this State voted a Republican majority and expected the Republican party to organize the House and to elect a Speaker who would appoint the Chairman of all the House Committees. When this did not take place, it is counter to all the fine traditions of public service to allow selfish personal gain to act to the detriment of the peole who have reposed their trust in their elected Representatives.

McAvoy may feel some satisfaction in his active treachery, but it is one that will not be soon forgotten, and he may rest assured that the Republican party will see to it that the expiration of his term of office will mark the end of his career in politics.

How Suburbs Stand In U.S. Auto Deaths

In 145 cities, population 50,000 to 100,000, Evanston ranked 25th in traffic deaths for November according to latest figures released last week by the National Safety Council.

Evanston had a registration death rate of 0.8 which is the number of deaths per 10,000 registered motor vehicles on an annual basis. Cities are ranked by registration death rates, from low to high. when two or more cities have exactly the same rate, ranking is by total vehicle registrations, from large to small. Its population death rate, the number of deaths per 100,000 population on an annual basis was 2.7.

IN THE NEXT classification, 213 cities, population 25,000 to 50,000, Park Ridge was 18th and Wilmette 30th in a group of 36 cities reporting no deaths for this period.

In this same category other area communities with their rank, registration death rate, and population death rate were: Des Plaines, 97th, 1.3, 6.2; Elgin, 183rd, 2.8, 13.3; and Highland Park, 207th, 5.2, 21.4.

In the next classification, 267 cities population 10,000 to 25,000, 95 cities reporting no deaths include the following north shore communities; Lombard, Glenview, Winnetka and Northbrook.

Rolling Meadows in this same group ranked 261st with two deaths which gave it a registration death rate 7.0 and a population death rate, 20.0.

BASED ON mileage death rate, November was the safest November since 1934 when the National Safety Council began keeping records of traffic deaths.

Additional facts about traffic 26 years ago and today given by the Council note 25 million motor vehicles in 1934 on the road. In 1960: 70 million.

Motorists drove 216 billion miles in 1934. In 1960 they drove 710 billion miles. The traffic death toll in 1934 was 36,101; only about 2000 fewer than in 1960. In November 1934 there were 20.1 fatalities for every million miles. Last month an estimated 5.9 deaths occurred.

However, the mileage death rate in 1960 may show only a 1 per cent decrease from 1959, while the rate has averaged an annual 4 per cent drop over the past four years.

SOME CREDIT for this decrease in the number of deaths per mile traveled in recent years must go to superhighways, which are estimated to be three times safer than conventional roads.

"We can't be satisfied as long as any deaths occur on the highways." Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council said. "But we do find today's improvement in Traffic safety, though slight, a source of some encouragement."

"We are increasingly convinced that accident prevention works. Only to the degree that all citizens everywhere are convinced of this will our safety record continue to improve.

Row Over Speaker

Carroll Tells Background Of State House Controversy

by REP. JOHN W. CARROLL

This will be the first of another series of reports to the people of the 6th District on the actions taken in the state legislature during the 1961 session, and some comments on why some things happen the way they do by the writer who is serving his third term as one of your representatives in this body.

Many people have been surprised at the battle which developed immediately over the Speaker's post, but in the light of what effect this will have on the residents of our predominately Republican area, I feel some explanation of the actions is in order.

In the last session of the legislature, the Democrats had a majority in the House, but not in the Senate.

The House majority was spilt between the Daley faction which wanted to elect a speaker from Chicago, and the balance of the Democrats who favored Paul Powell of Vienna. At that time, enough of these men would have voted for Republican Warren Wood the former speaker, to take the post, but we believed that since the people of Illinois elected a Democratic majority, the responsibility for carrying out their program lay with them. For this reason, our GOP representatives did not attempt to force Republican domination of a Democratic House.

IN THIS SESSION, the tables were reversed; in November, the people of Illinois elected a Republican majority in both the House and the Senate. The majority was a slim one in the House, 89 Republicans and 88 Democrats, but it was, nevertheless, a majority.

When we met to discuss election of a speaker, and the establishment of Republican leadership on the vital committees, we were faced with a serious problem, one which represents a challenge to representative government. We found that four members of the House, elected as Republicans, and bearing responsibility for helping carry out the Republican program, were unwilling or unable to take part in our meetings.

One of these was John Manning of Rochelle, seriously ill in the hospital, and three from the City of Chicago, who turned out to be employees of the Democrat-controlled Chicago Sanitary District.

These men were Peter Miller, Republican Committeeman of the 36th Ward of Chicago, Walter "Babe" McAvoy, Republican Committeeman of the 15th Ward of Chicago, and Augie Ruf of Chicago's South Side. They reported ill, but it seemed very peculiar they all three were ill at this crucial time when the Democrats were able to get a 100% turn out of their members.

IN THE opening session Secretary of State, Carpentier, called the House to order and after the swearing in ceremony a motion was made by a member on the Republican side that the House recess, which was declared carried by Carpentier. This was for the purpose of allowing time to work out the problem.

In our absence from the Chamber, Representative Paul Powell, the Democrat's Speaker from the last session, took over, and declared himself speaker. As a result, the Senate refused to certify any of the State officers including the incoming Governor until this high-handed action was rescinded.

By agreement the House was reconvened Monday, Jan. 9, and once again all 88 Democrats were present, as well as one Republican, McAvoy.

AT A CAUCUS of our Republican members it was decided that we would not attend the opening of the session, thereby focusing the spot light of scorn by all Republicans upon the defectors. McAvoy was in his seat when Powell called the House to order and in spite of the pleas of the Cook County Chairman to remove himself from the Chamber, he refused to do so and rose to praise Powell when voting for him as Speaker.

After the Republican membership were convinced there was nothing we could do to stop McAvoy from voting with the Democrats, the Republican members took their seats. One other GOP member, Representative Slatnik of Chicago's 8th District on roll call voted present, which in reality was the same as voting for Powell.

THE ELECTORATE of this State voted a Republican majority and expected the Republican party to organize the House and to elect a Speaker who would appoint the Chairman of all the House Committees. When this did not take place, it is counter to all the fine traditions of public service to allow selfish personal gain to act to the detriment of the peole who have reposed their trust in their elected Representatives.

McAvoy may feel some satisfaction in his active treachery, but it is one that will not be soon forgotten, and he may rest assured that the Republican party will see to it that the expiration of his term of office will mark the end of his career in politics. (B8

In 145 cities, population 50,000 to 100,000, Evanston ranked 25th in traffic deaths for November according to latest figures released last week by the National Safety Council.

Evanston had a registration death rate of 0.8 which is the number of deaths per 10,000 registered motor vehicles on an annual basis. Cities are ranked by registration death rates, from low to high. when two or more cities have exactly the same rate, ranking is by total vehicle registrations, from large to small. Its population death rate, the number of deaths per 100,000 population on an annual basis was 2.7.

IN THE NEXT classification, 213 cities, population 25,000 to 50,000, Park Ridge was 18th and Wilmette 30th in a group of 36 cities reporting no deaths for this period.

In this same category other area communities with their rank, registration death rate, and population death rate were: Des Plaines, 97th, 1.3, 6.2; Elgin, 183rd, 2.8, 13.3; and Highland Park, 207th, 5.2, 21.4.

In the next classification, 267 cities population 10,000 to 25,000, 95 cities reporting no deaths include the following north shore communities; Lombard, Glenview, Winnetka and Northbrook.

Rolling Meadows in this same group ranked 261st with two deaths which gave it a registration death rate 7.0 and a population death rate, 20.0.

BASED ON mileage death rate, November was the safest November since 1934 when the National Safety Council began keeping records of traffic deaths.

Additional facts about traffic 26 years ago and today given by the Council note 25 million motor vehicles in 1934 on the road. In 1960: 70 million.

Motorists drove 216 billion miles in 1934. In 1960 they drove 710 billion miles. The traffic death toll in 1934 was 36,101; only about 2000 fewer than in 1960. In November 1934 there were 20.1 fatalities for every million miles. Last month an estimated 5.9 deaths occurred.

However, the mileage death rate in 1960 may show only a 1 per cent decrease from 1959, while the rate has averaged an annual 4 per cent drop over the past four years.

SOME CREDIT for this decrease in the number of deaths per mile traveled in recent years must go to superhighways, which are estimated to be three times safer than conventional roads.

"We can't be satisfied as long as any deaths occur on the highways." Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council said. "But we do find today's improvement in Traffic safety, though slight, a source of some encouragement."

"We are increasingly convinced that accident prevention works. Only to the degree that all citizens everywhere are convinced of this will our safety record continue to improve. (B8

Filing for JP Posts Off to a Slow Start

Opening filing day Monday got off to a slow start in the big race for 75 salaried Justice of the Peace posts in suburban Cook county.

Petitions to get on the April 4 election ballot were filed at the office of County Clerk Edward J. Barrett by candidates from only 13 of the 30 suburban townships.

With a few independents sprinkled among them, 38 men filed their nominating petitions for Justice of the Peace and 33 for constable posts also to be filled at the April 4 election.

NOT ONE woman filed. However, the final filing day isn't until Monday, Jan. 16.

Two parties filed full slates of candidates for the races in Wheeling, Leyden, and Oak Park townships.

A full slate was submitted by one major party (each group selecting its own party name) in Barrington, Hanover, River Forest, Orland, Palos, Elk Grove, Evanston, and Niles townships.

Two independents filed for the JP offices in New Trier township and one each from Maine, Elk Grove, and River Forest townships.

THE FILINGS are based on a report issued at the close of office hours Monday by Barrett's office, but include only those nominating petitions filed up to 1:30 p.m. The report gave a breakdown of the filings by townships.

The new justices, who will be elected by townships, will draw salaries of $5,500 a year and will be paid by the County Board. A 1959 law wiped out the fee system under which justices gained their income.

Constables also will be elected by townships, with each having a number equal to the number of justices allocated. The constables will get $3 for each paper served.

In Cook County, most townships are allocated two justices and two constables. The more populated townships are allocated more under a census formula.

Proviso, the most populous township, will elect five to each office. Worth township will name four. So will Thornton township.

Those to elect three each are Bloom, Cicero, Evanston, Leyden, Lyons, Maine, Niles and Oak Park townships.

The other townships are Barrington, Berwyn, Bremen, Calumet, Elk Grove, Hanover, Lemont, New Trier, Northfield, Norwood Park, Orland, Palatine, Palos, Rich, River Forest, Riverside, Schaumburg, Stickney, and Wheeling.

UNDER THE old fee setup, each township elected five justices. They also were members of the township board.

Township officers will be elected April 4, but on separate ballots. The offices are supervisor, clerk, assessor, collector, highway commissioner, and three auditors.

The auditors are new offices named to replace the justices formerly on the board. To be elected at large in the township, as are the other officials, the auditors will serve in a capacity similar to that of a village trustee or alderman.

THE NEW JP system replaces one under which they made money only when finding defendants guilty. Some justices who were assigned sheriff's police cases for hearing, earned as much as $18,000 a year, according to court records.

Those elected in April will serve four year terms. (B8

Bowlers Prepare for Paddock Tourney

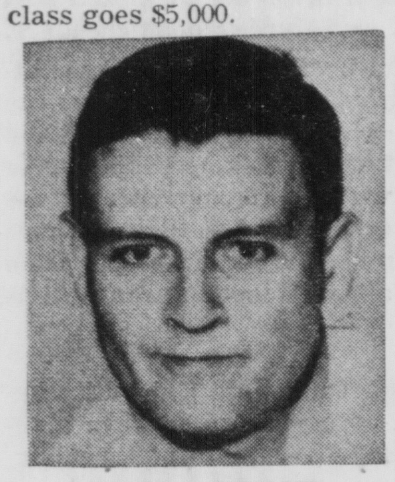
KICKIN' IT AROUND

by BOB FRISK

THE BOWLERS ARE in the news.

Last week Therman Gibson of Detroit, a veteran kegler, hit the jackpot on a television show when he won $76,000, the biggest payoff ever recorded in the history of bowling.

Today a field of 240 men and 96 women start rolling for a record $68,150 prize fund in the 20th annual BPAA All-Star tournament in San Bernardino, Calif. To the winner in the men's division goes $10,000. To the winner in the women's class goes $5,000.



RALPH KARKOW

On the area scene Bill Cook Buick, with Tom Kouros leading the way, claimed the first half prize in the high-flying Paddock Classic men's traveling league. Steve's Restaurant topped first half play in the Paddock Women's Classic with a fancy 32-16 mark.

This weekend Paddock Publications will hold its tenth annual men's tournament at Rolling Meadows Bowl with the gals' festivities slated for Jan. 21-22 at Hi-Way Recreation in Palatine.

Up Itasca way they're still buzzin' over a remarkable achievement last week by Ralph Karkow of 306 N. Cherry st. Rolling in the River Grove Classic loop, Karkow blasted the pins for a brilliant 798 series with games of 267, 254, and 277.

The Itasca standout, who carries averages of 194 and 199 in two leagues, came in with a pretty 792 last season. In addition to the River Grove league, Ralph bowls in the Schambergers-Schlitz traveling division.

The youngsters are also making some headlines around the state. An 11-year-old in Chicago who weighs just 85 pounds recently counted games of 203, 209, and 220 for a 632 series in league competition. Marseilles, Ill. boasts a 10-year-old who has a 622 series to his credit and a 172 average.

As a closing thought while we're on the bowling beat, don't feel bad if you're having trouble gaining any consistency in your game. Al Fifer of Detroit was an in-and-outer of prime grade. He bowled a 205 game and on his very next effort, came up with a score of 53 for nine frames. Al squandered eight balls down the gutters!

THIS 'N THAT

Arlington high grad Al Kruse, runnerup in the state golf test last spring and West Suburban conference medalist for two straight years, recently finished in the runnerup spot in the intramural links tourney at the University of Arizona . . . Kruse, a frosh at Arizona, lost 1-up in 36 holes to a fraternity brother . . . On the way to the finals Al dumped the California high school champion of 1960 . . . A school noted for its golf squads, Arizona will welcome Kruse to the varsity roster when the AHS grad becomes a sophomore . . . Northwestern and Illinois have released some info on their indoor track squads and some area names are prominent in the cinder outlook . . . Bob Lockwood of Arlington is being counted on for some help in the hurdles at NU, and Dick Welty of Palatine is listed as one of the Wildcats' top soph prospects . . . Welty was runnerup in the state 440 two years ago . . . Bob Mors of Arlington Heights, state quarter-mile champion in 1958, is included as a veteran "who could help" at Illinois.

The Russian men and women Olympic gymnasts, rated the world's greatest after outstanding success in Rome, will appear in exhibition with the University of Illinois team in Huff Gymnasium at 8 p. m. Wed., Jan. 18. It will mark the only appearance by the Russian gymnasts.

Maine East's Don Gebbie, a regular forward, has yet to register a free throw in West Suburban hardwood play although he has collected 25 baskets . . . When the current prep season ends, a 17-year-old West Reading, Pa., athlete undoubtedly will be the all-time high school basketball scoring champion . . . Ron Krick, a 6-9, 225-pounder, entered his senior year needing 859 points to top the 3378 recorded by Charley Vaughn of Tamms, Ill. . . . Krick carried a 32.8 average for 78 games into the 1960-61 season and rimmed 179 in his first five engagements . . . Speaking of remarkable scoring feats, did you see where a 5-11, 155-pound Camden, Tenn. prep poured in 104 points in a basketball game last weekend? . . . Danny Boyd tallied 44 field goals and 16 free throws.

Action to Open Today

Several Area Keglers Vying For Honors in All-Star Test

Earl Nichols and Bill Radunz Jr. of Arlington Heights, Al Jordan of Roselle, Shirley Garms of Palatine, and Delores Harris of Wheeling are ready to roll in the 20th annual BPAA All-Star bowling tournament that begins today (Thursday) in San Bernardino, Calif.

A record $68,150 prize fund will be at stake in the tournament running from today, Jan. 12, to Saturday, Jan. 21, at the National Orange Show Exhibit hall in San Bernardino.

The field of 240 men and 96 women from 42 states including Alaska and Hawaii are survivors of an original field of nearly 12,000 who attempted to qualify for 304 spots, 32 bowlers having been seeded through Bowling Proprietors' assn. of America tournaments.

THE PRIZE money of $68,150 is an increase of $8,150 over last year. Top money remains at $10,000 in the men's division and $5,000 in the women's.

Harry Smith of St. Louis and Sylvia Wene of St. Louis will defend the titles they won in 1960.

This marks the first appearance for both Nichols and Radunz of Arlington Heights. Radunz, only 18, shot a 300 game in the qualifying round for the All-Star, and Nichols, 37, was the Northwest Suburban Match Game champion in 1960. Both are members of the Paddock Classic Men's traveling league.

JORDAN, AN instructor at Rolling Meadows Bowl, is making his second appearance. Al placed 165th in the 1959 meet. Jordan's highest 1959-60 average is 196 with a high game of 298 and top series of 735.

Mrs. Garms is making her ninth All-Star appearance and has reached the finals six times. Her best showing was in 1952 when she finished second. She placed ninth a year ago.

One of the top women bowlers in the country, Shirley has won many honors. She was Chicago Match Game and singles champion during 1960. Twice she's been voted "Queen of Chicago Bowlers" and she recently finished fifth in the World's Invitational.

MRS. HARRIS, a housewife from Wheeling, is in her second All-Star test, finishing 83rd last year. Her highest 1959-60 average was 181 with a high game of 254 and high series of 630.

Contestants will bowl on one of the most expensive "sets" in history, 24 brand new lanes with completely automatic pinsetters and related equipment donated by Brunswick Corp. of Chicago.

DON CARTER of St. Louis, recent winner of his third World Invitational title in four tries, and the only four-time winner in All-Star history, is favored to regain the All-Star championship.

Mrs. Marion Ladewig, fabulous 45-year-old Grand Rapids, Mich. grandmother, who captured her second Invitational title, must be favored in the women's division, having won the All-Star seven times in 11 years. She won the Invitational, incidentally, over Carter's wife, LaVerne.

Miss Wene rolled the first 300 game in All-Star history enroute to the 1960 All-Star title, beating Mrs. Ladewig by less than one Petersen point.

BOOSTS IN prize money will also be evident in the men's and women's semifinal positions, representing 17th to 96th places in the men's and 17th to 48th in the women's.

The final hour of the grueling 10-day test in California will be aired over the full American Broadcasting Company television network Saturday night, Jan. 21.

CURRENTLY HOOKED up in the 20th annual BPAA All-Star bowling tourney in San Bernardino, Calif., are Earl Nichols (left) and Bill Radunz Jr., two Arlington Heights keglers who both perform in the high-flying Paddock Classic traveling league. The tournament will be held from Jan. 12-21 inclusive.

10th Annual Meet Set for Weekend

Eighty-six teams, 430 bowlers, will compete for honors Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 14 and 15, at Rolling Meadows Bowl in the tenth annual Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap tournament.

First place teams of 86 local men's leagues will bowl for the beautiful, large traveling trophy, the five individual trophies, and $604.50 in team prizes. First place money will amount to over $180 with second place money bringing $120.

Entries have been processed, bowling and prize fees have been paid, scorekeepers hired, and the lanes are all set for the big tournament this weekend with hundreds of fans expected to be on hand to watch the competition. Teams have been paired with other squads of near equal ability, with complete list of teams, leagues, starting alleys, and squad times listed in adjoining columns.

THE TOURNAMENT will climax competition since the first week in September when members of every men's league in the area had the opportunity to enter the tourney, providing their team was in first place Christmas eve.

Playoffs were necessary in several leagues to determine loop entrants.

Team captains are urged to have a spare bowler on hand in event of motor trouble, or some other cause, delaying one of the scheduled bowlers. Rules of the meet specify all bowlers must compete together as a team, with no late "catch up" bowling permitted. Any bowler missing his turn will receive a zero for that frame.

LAST MINUTE substitutions can be made, if necessary. All fees for bowling and prizes have been paid. Temporary handicaps are listed in this week's editions, with official figures to be computed after competition starts.

Unofficial results of the tournament will be posted immediately following conclusion of the event. These results will be published in detail in next week's paper, but no prize money will be paid for about three weeks, pending verification of averages and checking of scores.

The tourney will not use all of the lanes, leaving considerable room for regular open play. Slated to be used for the Paddock meet are lanes 27-36 at 1:30 Saturday, and lanes 17-36 from 1:00 Sunday until about 11 p.m. Rolling Meadows Bowl is located on Kirchhoff Road, halfway between Wilke rd. and rte. 83, in the center of Rolling Meadows.

What Does It Take to Claim Tourney Title?

What does it take to win the Paddock tournament?

That's the question on the lips of over 700 bowlers in the men's and women's tourneys, as the men's event is slated for this weekend, Jan. 14 and 15, at Rolling Meadows Bowl, and the women's meet at Hi-Way Recreation in Palatine Jan. 21 and 22.

USUALLY, the team that bowls just ten pins per man, per game, over average wins the tournament.

Last year, the team that bowled 11 pins per man, per game, over average, finished second. Schmidt Construction bowled 12 pins per man, per game, over average, and took home $177.

A squad that normally averages 750 each game, can be expected to take the tournament with a 2430 series, or a team with an 850 average can win everything by shooting 910 each game.

Cards' Cagers Face Rough Weekend

Maine East and Hinsdale are generally regarded now as the West Suburban conference's two classiest quintets.

Maine is heading the pack with a 5-0 mark and Hinsdale is right behind at 4-1. Hinsdale's only loss in WSC play was by five points to Maine.

It's rough enough to meet these clubs on different weekends throughout the campaign, but Arlington high's basketball Cardinals are faced with the task of catching them on successive evenings.

COACH FRANK Bohac's hardwood aggregation, standing 1-4 in the league chase, travels to Hinsdale Friday and comes home to host Maine East Saturday in their roughest twin-bill of the 1960-61 schedule.

Both West Suburban battles will be preceded by frosh-soph games at 7 p.m.

In Hinsdale's Red Devils Arlington will be meeting a club that is built around the offensive efforts of two talented forwards, 6-3 Hal Brandt and 6-2 Bob Haarlow.

HAARLOW, a junior standout, has pumped in 89 points in West Suburban play and Brandt, an all-state quarterback in football, has added 80.

Although these front-line performers have been the leaders on offense this season, Coach Larry Hoff has some other boys who can score. Center Jeff Munn, a 6-3 senior, boasts 50 in five games for an even 10 ppg mark with a high of 17 against York.

Guards Jim McAlpin and Bill Walsh are regarded as the fastest back-court men in the loop, and the duo has combined for 70 points in conference play. Walsh has 44 with a high of 16 against Glenbard West and McAlpin has 26 with a high of nine against LaGrange.

MAINE'S BLUE Demons present one of the most well-balanced scoring attacks in the conference. Junior Steve Smith, a husky 6-5 center, tops the league leaders with 80 markers in the five games but three other starters have either hit or topped 50.

Forward Don Gebbie, a 6-5 senior, has rimmed 25 baskets without a free throw for 50 points, and Bob Habetler, a 6-3 forward, boasts 64 with his top effort 19 against Riverside.

Senior Ed Petrick has chipped in with 56 and last Friday collected 15 against Downers Grove.

The only starter who hasn't shown exceptional consistency on offense is 6-1 Tom Von Bergen. The senior was blanked last week against Downers and has 31 for the league season.

COACH BERNIE Brady hasn't had or needed much scoring from his reserves although 5-10 Johnny Hanson has ten counters in relief roles.

The weekend encounters will bring to a close the first half of the West Suburban campaign. Arlington is capable of pulling an upset in either league game but would have to take both to even its season standard.

The Cardinals stand 5-7 for the 1960-61 campaign and have been bounced in their last four outings.

BILL OFFILL (left) of Willowbrook and Prospect's George Pomey both appear to be dribbling the ball in this action during the Knights' 74-42 victory last Friday evening. Prospect had little trouble recording its 14th straight decision.

Prospect in Two Weekend Cage Battles

The state-ranked Knights of Prospect high school will engage in both road and home affairs this weekend as they seek to extend the unbeaten string that reached 14 last Friday evening.

Coach Dick Kinneman's powerhouse, tabbed as the fourth best outfit in the stae in the latest wire service poll, will travel to Elmwood Park Friday for a non-loop tilt and will host Maine West Saturday in an important Interim league encounter.

Friday's hardwood outing will be preceded by a frosh-soph game at 7 p.m. with the JVs initiating action Saturday evening.

PROSPECT blasted Willowbrook 74-42 last Friday to set its season standard at 14-0 with nine games remaining before the firing starts in the crucial tourneys.

Elmwood Park, a member of the Tri-County conference, stands 3-7 for the season with victories over Thornton Fractional North, Thornton Fractional South and West Leyden.

Coach Art Glad's Tigers gave Prospect a real battle last winter before succumbing 55-51 but the squad was leveled by graduation and isn't on a par with the 1959-60 quintet.

BILL KAHLE, a 6-3 pivotman, has been one of the Tigers' most consistent scorers although the other starters have also experienced productive evenings this winter.

After suffering four straight losses, including a pair in the Fenton holiday tourney, Elmwood Park pasted Thornton Fractional North last Friday 48-35.

Prospect will tangle with a creditable Interim entry Saturday when it hosts Maine West in the PHS fieldhouse.

ALTHOUGH Gaston Freeman's Warriors have been playing off-and-on basketball this season, they've been able to come up with that impressive game against the highly-touted squads.

The Warriors gave both Blue Island and Wheaton tight battles before falling, blasted Jacksonville, and almost pulled a major upset in the Pontiac tournament against Clinton's unbeaten outfit.

The Maroons of Central Illinois, Pontiac champion with a surprise victory over Springfield's rangy Solons, had all they could do to dump Maine 65-62 in the tourney opener. With Bruce Shriver popping in 19 points the Warriors gave Clinton its toughest encounter in the rough holiday affair.

FREEMAN'S squad stands 2-1 in the Interim with a loss to Wheaton and victories over Proviso West and Glenbrook. Mike Rowlee is the team's top scorer in loop action with 44 markers in three games.

Shriver pumped in 65 points in the Warriors' four games at Pontiac with 19 against both Clinton and Jacksonville.

Bowlers Prepare for Paddock Tourney

KICKIN' IT AROUND

by BOB FRISK

THE BOWLERS ARE in the news.

Last week Therman Gibson of Detroit, a veteran kegler, hit the jackpot on a television show when he won $76,000, the biggest payoff ever recorded in the history of bowling.

Today a field of 240 men and 96 women start rolling for a record $68,150 prize fund in the 20th annual BPAA All-Star tournament in San Bernardino, Calif. To the winner in the men's division goes $10,000. To the winner in the women's class goes $5,000.

RALPH KARKOW

On the area scene Bill Cook Buick, with Tom Kouros leading the way, claimed the first half prize in the high-flying Paddock Classic men's traveling league. Steve's Restaurant topped first half play in the Paddock Women's Classic with a fancy 32-16 mark.

This weekend Paddock Publications will hold its tenth annual men's tournament at Rolling Meadows Bowl with the gals' festivities slated for Jan. 21-22 at Hi-Way Recreation in Palatine.

Up Itasca way they're still buzzin' over a remarkable achievement last week by Ralph Karkow of 306 N. Cherry st. Rolling in the River Grove Classic loop, Karkow blasted the pins for a brilliant 798 series with games of 267, 254, and 277.

The Itasca standout, who carries averages of 194 and 199 in two leagues, came in with a pretty 792 last season. In addition to the River Grove league, Ralph bowls in the Schambergers-Schlitz traveling division.

The youngsters are also making some headlines around the state. An 11-year-old in Chicago who weighs just 85 pounds recently counted games of 203, 209, and 220 for a 632 series in league competition. Marseilles, Ill. boasts a 10-year-old who has a 622 series to his credit and a 172 average.

As a closing thought while we're on the bowling beat, don't feel bad if you're having trouble gaining any consistency in your game. Al Fifer of Detroit was an in-and-outer of prime grade. He bowled a 205 game and on his very next effort, came up with a score of 53 for nine frames. Al squandered eight balls down the gutters!

THIS 'N THAT

Arlington high grad Al Kruse, runnerup in the state golf test last spring and West Suburban conference medalist for two straight years, recently finished in the runnerup spot in the intramural links tourney at the University of Arizona . . . Kruse, a frosh at Arizona, lost 1-up in 36 holes to a fraternity brother . . . On the way to the finals Al dumped the California high school champion of 1960 . . . A school noted for its golf squads, Arizona will welcome Kruse to the varsity roster when the AHS grad becomes a sophomore . . . Northwestern and Illinois have released some info on their indoor track squads and some area names are prominent in the cinder outlook . . . Bob Lockwood of Arlington is being counted on for some help in the hurdles at NU, and Dick Welty of Palatine is listed as one of the Wildcats' top soph prospects . . . Welty was runnerup in the state 440 two years ago . . . Bob Mors of Arlington Heights, state quarter-mile champion in 1958, is included as a veteran "who could help" at Illinois.

The Russian men and women Olympic gymnasts, rated the world's greatest after outstanding success in Rome, will appear in exhibition with the University of Illinois team in Huff Gymnasium at 8 p. m. Wed., Jan. 18. It will mark the only appearance by the Russian gymnasts.

Maine East's Don Gebbie, a regular forward, has yet to register a free throw in West Suburban hardwood play although he has collected 25 baskets . . . When the current prep season ends, a 17-year-old West Reading, Pa., athlete undoubtedly will be the all-time high school basketball scoring champion . . . Ron Krick, a 6-9, 225-pounder, entered his senior year needing 859 points to top the 3378 recorded by Charley Vaughn of Tamms, Ill. . . . Krick carried a 32.8 average for 78 games into the 1960-61 season and rimmed 179 in his first five engagements . . . Speaking of remarkable scoring feats, did you see where a 5-11, 155-pound Camden, Tenn. prep poured in 104 points in a basketball game last weekend? . . . Danny Boyd tallied 44 field goals and 16 free throws.

Action to Open Today

Several Area Keglers Vying For Honors in All-Star Test

Earl Nichols and Bill Radunz Jr. of Arlington Heights, Al Jordan of Roselle, Shirley Garms of Palatine, and Delores Harris of Wheeling are ready to roll in the 20th annual BPAA All-Star bowling tournament that begins today (Thursday) in San Bernardino, Calif.

A record $68,150 prize fund will be at stake in the tournament running from today, Jan. 12, to Saturday, Jan. 21, at the National Orange Show Exhibit hall in San Bernardino.

The field of 240 men and 96 women from 42 states including Alaska and Hawaii are survivors of an original field of nearly 12,000 who attempted to qualify for 304 spots, 32 bowlers having been seeded through Bowling Proprietors' assn. of America tournaments.

THE PRIZE money of $68,150 is an increase of $8,150 over last year. Top money remains at $10,000 in the men's division and $5,000 in the women's.

Harry Smith of St. Louis and Sylvia Wene of St. Louis will defend the titles they won in 1960.

CURRENTLY HOOKED up in the 20th annual BPAA All-Star bowling tourney in San Bernardino, Calif., are Earl Nichols (left) and Bill Radunz Jr., two Arlington Heights keglers who both perform in the high-flying Paddock Classic traveling league. The tournament will be held from Jan. 12-21 inclusive.

This marks the first appearance for both Nichols and Radunz of Arlington Heights. Radunz, only 18, shot a 300 game in the qualifying round for the All-Star, and Nichols, 37, was the Northwest Suburban Match Game champion in 1960. Both are members of the Paddock Classic Men's traveling league.

JORDAN, AN instructor at Rolling Meadows Bowl, is making his second appearance. Al placed 165th in the 1959 meet. Jordan's highest 1959-60 average is 196 with a high game of 298 and top series of 735.

Mrs. Garms is making her ninth All-Star appearance and has reached the finals six times. Her best showing was in 1952 when she finished second. She placed ninth a year ago.

One of the top women bowlers in the country, Shirley has won many honors. She was Chicago Match Game and singles champion during 1960. Twice she's been voted "Queen of Chicago Bowlers" and she recently finished fifth in the World's Invitational.

MRS. HARRIS, a housewife from Wheeling, is in her second All-Star test, finishing 83rd last year. Her highest 1959-60 average was 181 with a high game of 254 and high series of 630.

Contestants will bowl on one of the most expensive "sets" in history, 24 brand new lanes with completely automatic pinsetters and related equipment donated by Brunswick Corp. of Chicago.

DON CARTER of St. Louis, recent winner of his third World Invitational title in four tries, and the only four-time winner in All-Star history, is favored to regain the All-Star championship.

Mrs. Marion Ladewig, fabulous 45-year-old Grand Rapids, Mich. grandmother, who captured her second Invitational title, must be favored in the women's division, having won the All-Star seven times in 11 years. She won the Invitational, incidentally, over Carter's wife, LaVerne.

Miss Wene rolled the first 300 game in All-Star history enroute to the 1960 All-Star title, beating Mrs. Ladewig by less than one Petersen point.

BOOSTS IN prize money will also be evident in the men's and women's semi-final positions, representing 17th to 96th places in the men's and 17th to 48th in the women's.

The final hour of the grueling 10-day test in California will be aired over the full American Broadcasting Company television network Saturday night, Jan. 21.

BILL OFFILL (left) of Willowbrook and Prospect's George Pomey both appear to be dribbling the ball in this action during the Knights' 74-42 victory last Friday evening. Prospect had little trouble recording its 14th straight decision.

Cards' Cagers Face Rough Weekend

Maine East and Hinsdale are generally regarded now as the West Suburban conference's two classiest quintets.

Maine is heading the pack with a 5-0 mark and Hinsdale is right behind at 4-1. Hinsdale's only loss in WSC play was by five points to Maine.

It's rough enough to meet these clubs on different weekends throughout the campaign, but Arlington high's basketball Cardinals are faced with the task of catching them on successive evenings.

COACH FRANK Bohac's hardwood aggregation, standing 1-4 in the league chase, travels to Hinsdale Friday and comes home to host Maine East Saturday in their roughest twin-bill of the 1960-61 schedule.

Both West Suburban battles will be preceded by frosh-soph games at 7 p.m.

In Hinsdale's Red Devils Arlington will be meeting a club that is built around the offensive efforts of two talented forwards, 6-3 Hal Brandt and 6-2 Bob Haarlow.

HAARLOW, a junior standout, has pumped in 89 points in West Suburban play and Brandt, an all-state quarterback in football, has added 80.

Although these front-line performers have been the leaders on offense this season, Coach Larry Hoff has some other boys who can score. Center Jeff Munn, a 6-3 senior, boasts 50 in five games for an even 10 ppg mark with a high of 17 against York.

Guards Jim McAlpin and Bill Walsh are regarded as the fastest back-court men in the loop, and the duo has combined for 70 points in conference play. Walsh has 44 with a high of 16 against Glenbard West and McAlpin has 26 with a high of nine against LaGrange.

MAINE'S BLUE Demons present one of the most well-balanced scoring attacks in the conference. Junior Steve Smith, a husky 6-5 center, tops the league leaders with 80 markers in the five games but three other starters have either hit or topped 50.

Forward Don Gebbie, a 6-5 senior, has rimmed 25 baskets without a free throw for 50 points, and Bob Habetler, a 6-3 forward, boasts 64 with his top effort 19 against Riverside.

MAINE EAST

F	Don Gebbie	6-5
F	Bob Habetler	6-3
C	Steve Smith	6-5
G	Ed Petrick	6-2
G	Tom Von Bergen	6-1

Coach: Bernie Brady

Senior Ed Petrick has chipped in with 56 and last Friday collected 15 against Downers Grove.

The only starter who hasn't shown exceptional consistency on offense is 6-1 Tom Von Bergen. The senior was blanked last week against Downers and has 31 for the league season.

COACH BERNIE Brady hasn't had or needed much scoring from his reserves although 5-10 Johnny Hanson has ten counters in relief roles.

The weekend encounters will bring to a close the first half of the West Suburban campaign. Arlington is capable of pulling an upset in either league game but would have to take both to even its season standard.

The Cardinals stand 5-7 for the 1960-61 campaign and have been bounced in their last four outings.

Prospect in Two Weekend Cage Battles

The state-ranked Knights of Prospect high school will engage in both road and home affairs this weekend as they seek to extend the unbeaten string that reached 14 last Friday evening.

Coach Dick Kinneman's powerhouse, tabbed as the fourth best outfit in the stae in the latest wire service poll, will travel to Elmwood Park Friday for a non-loop tilt and will host Maine West Saturday in an important Interim league encounter.

Friday's hardwood outing will be preceded by a frosh-soph game at 7 p.m. with the JVs initiating action Saturday evening.

PROSPECT blasted Willowbrook 74-42 last Friday to set its season standard at 14-0 with nine games remaining before the firing starts in the crucial tourneys.

Elmwood Park, a member of the Tri-County conference, stands 3-7 for the season with victories over Thornton Fractional North, Thornton Fractional South and West Leyden.

Coach Art Glad's Tigers gave Prospect a real battle last winter before succumbing 55-51 but the squad was leveled by graduation and isn't on a par with the 1959-60 quintet.

BILL KAHLE, a member of the Tigers' most consistent scorers although the other starters have also experienced productive evenings this winter.

After suffering four straight losses, including a pair in the Fenton holiday tourney, Elmwood Park pasted Thornton Fractional North last Friday 48-35.

Prospect will tangle with a creditable Interim entry Saturday when it hosts Maine West in the PHS fieldhouse.

ALTHOUGH Gaston Freeman's Warriors have been playing off-and-on basketball this season, they've been able to come up with that impressive game against the highly-touted squads.

Coach: Gaston Freeman

The Warriors gave both Blue Island and Wheaton tight battles before falling, blasted Jacksonville, and almost pulled a major upset in the Pontiac tournament against Clinton's unbeaten outfit.

The Maroons of Central Illinois, Pontiac champion with a surprise victory over Springfield's rangy Solons, had all they could do to dump Maine 65-62 in the tourney opener.

With Bruce Shriver popping in 19 points the Warriors gave Clinton its toughest encounter in the rough holiday affair.

FREEMAN'S squad stands 2-1 in the Interim with a loss to Wheaton and victories over Proviso West and Glenbrook. Mike Rowlee is the team's top scorer in loop action with 44 markers in three games.

Shriver pumped in 65 points in the Warriors' four games at Pontiac with 19 against both Clinton and Jacksonville.

Palatine Captures Maine East Mat Title

Palatine outlasted Prospect and Maine East in a blanket, three-team finish and thereby captured the Maine East quadrangular title for the second straight year.

Snatching four individual crowns, four seconds and one third, the Pirates racked up a total of 92 points. A slim four points back in second place was Prospect while the host Blue Demons were third with 85.

Fenton placed a distant fourth with 62 points.

Maine and Prospect each matched Palatine's championship output with four apiece. The last place Bisons, blanked in the championships, managed three seconds and three third place finishes.

PROSPECT captured the first title of the quadrangular when Del Blakely blanked Maine's Don Johnson, 3-0, at 95 pounds. The win was number seven in a row for Blakely.

Ken Fabbri of Fenton edged Palatine's Mike Gluck, 8-7, for third place in that class.

Jim Nordin, Palatine's 103 pounder, earned a berth in the championship round on a forfeit but lost in the final to Dennis DeStefano of the host school, 6-0.

TOM KRAUSE of Prospect was awarded third place, also by a forfeit.

Larry Travis tripped Gary Menzies of Fenton, 2-1, to capture the 112 pound crown and thereby recorded Palatine's initial title.

Menzies reached the finals at the expense of Prospect's Lou Limauro, 4-2. Travis pinned Maine's John Peterson in 2:46 of their first round match.

LIMAURO, a sophomore who wrestled in place of the injured Dick Krause, whitewashed Peterson, 4-0, for third place.

After eliminating Prospect's Bob Trausch, 4-2, Pirate Andy Olyton blanked Mike Shriver of Fenton, 4-0, for 120 pound honors and Palatine's second straight championship.

Trausch bounced back to pin Dick Merle of Maine in 5:12 for third place.

AT 127, BRAD McCreery stopped Terry Richardson of Maine at 5:12 of the final bout for another Pirate crown. The unbeaten senior breezed past Fenton's Bruce Miller in his opener.

Wayne Zaehler of Prospect beat Miller, 4-0, in the 127 third place argument.

Doug Vaughan, Prospect 133 pounder, halted the Pirate skein momentarily by pinning John Anderson of the championship squad in 3:42.

VAUGHAN and Anderson reached the finals with respective wins over Dennis Laboda of Fenton and Maine's Mike Blodgett. Blodgett bested Laboda for third place.

Karl Knowles of Palatine narrowly outpointed Maine's Dick Jordan for the 138 pound title. Prospect's entry, Roger Owen, was pinned by Knowles in the first round but rebounded with an 8-6 win over Fenton's George Colton in the consolation bout.

A fast finish by the Knights enabled them to bypass the Blue Demons for second place. Mike Hogarty (180) and Darryll Phillips (heavyweight) took the final two titles of the evening.

HOGARTY tipped Palatine's Bill Migley, 4-2, while Phillips outpointed Pirate Bill Smith, 9-6.

Dale Greco of Fenton, beaten by Phillips in the first round, nipped Maine's Clint Koerner, 2-1, for consolation honors.

Ed Pederson of Prospect whipped Arnold Lindstrom of Palatine, 8-3, for third place in the 145 pound class.

GEORGE McCREERY, filling in for the ailing Norm Scheuttner, moved up to 154 pounds for Palatine but lost his initial match to Bob Eaton of Maine.

Mike Field of Prospect eliminated Palatine's Bill Schuh in the 165 pound division, but lost to Dennis McCabe of Maine, 10-4, for the title.

Jim Rucker of Fenton bested Schuh for third place.

Prospect's JVs Rout Willowbrook

Prospect's junior varsity basketball team won its second Interim victory of the season Friday night, trouncing Willowbrook 55-28 on the Foundry rd. court.

Coach Ted Wissen's five built a 20-10 halftime lead, then opened the spread to 37-15 at the end of three quarters to sew up the win. Wissen pulled his starters with 4:01 left in the game after they built a 47-20 cushion.

Willowbrook was in the game only in the opening period. The junior Warriors were behind by three points, 11-8, at the buzzer, but could add only two more in the second period while the junior Knights were getting nine.

Tommy Thomas led the Prospect effort with 18 points. Mike Francek got 13. Paul Pavesich had nine for Willowbrook.

Cardinals' Frosh 'A's' Trip Maine

Coach Rog Steingraber's frosh "A" basketball team at Arlington high school captured its fourth straight decision last Saturday morning with a 44-42, overtime victory over visiting Maine East.

It was the Cards' second triumph over Maine with the locals claiming a 32-25 win in that first meeting.

Arlington held a 25-20 halftime lead but Maine battled back to knot the count at the end of regulation time. The Cards tossed in eight points in the overtime.

Paul Splittorff and Jim Murray canned 13 points each for Arlington on five fielders and three free throws. Greg Buczynski collected six.

Score by quarters:

Arlington Mat Squad Handles Libertyville

Arlington's varsity wrestlers fashioned their fourth straight dual meet triumph last Saturday afternoon with an impressive 25-16 victory over a visiting Libertyville outfit.

Coach Bob Emmons' Cardinals claimed six decisions, a tie, and a pin in handling the Wildcats their second loss in ten outings.

TIM SMITH turned in a strong performance at 112 with a 5-3 conquest, but Libertyville closed the gap with a 6-0 win at 120.

Byron Duff, who gained a tie against York on Friday, turned in another creditable performance Saturday and walked off with an 11-7 win at 127. Duff rallied with five points in the final stanza.

Carrying an impressive 6-1-1 mark into the Libertyville match, Tim O'Gorman added victory number seven when he disposed of the 'Cats' Serfling 5-0 at 133.

SENIOR MIKE Koenig collected his fourth win of the campaign with an effortless 8-2 win at 138, but the visitors copped the next two bouts as Roy Woodruff and Gar Simmons both dropped tight decisions.

Hal Selleck got the Cardinals back in the point column at 165 when he blanked his opponent 6-0. Selleck is now 6-2 on the season.

Arlington's top performer recordwise, 180-pounder Rich Edelblute, easily disposed of his man in 1:45 and claimed his eighth victory. Rich boasts an 8-1 mark with his only loss in the title test of the Palatine invitational.

LIBERTYVILLE won the heavyweight match by forfeit to round out the afternoon's scoring.

Emmons passed out special praise for Duff, Smith, Edelblute, and O'Gorman for their work in recent meets and is now prepping the matmen for two battles this weekend.

The Cards will host Hinsdale Friday at 7 p.m. and travel to Maine East Saturday for a 2 p.m. test.

York's Soph Matmen Rout Arlington

A strong York frosh-soph mat squad handed Arlington its first West Suburban defeat last Friday evening.

The host Barons collected five decisions, two pins, a forfeit, and a tie in dumping the Cardinals 32-11.

Coach Julius Fliehler's Arlington entry picked up decisions at 112, 127, and 154 with a tie at 165.

Gaining the victories for the visiting Cardinals were Kendall Bond, Terry Witt and Bob Clark. Bill Hoban registered a 3-3 tie at 165.

Arlington's Soph Gymnasts Rout Hinsdale

Bob Edie won two events to pace Arlington high's frosh-soph gymnastics team to a 79½-52½ victory over Hinsdale last Friday evening.

Edie copped the high bar and still rings as Mike Karon's Cardinals gained their fourth victory of the 1960-61 season.

Bill Kelley and Don Schaefer tied for first on the parallel bars and Jim Lippert topped the Trampoline.

Recording seconds for Arlington were Rog Lindstrom in tumbling, Bob Paddock on the side horse, and Kelley on the horizontal bar and still rings.

Cards' Gymnasts Handle Hinsdale For Fourth Win

Hinsdale's Red Devils became the fourth victim of Arlington's varsity gymnasts last Friday evening when the Cardinals rolled to a 71-58 victory.

Coach Gay Hughes' defending state champions gained the top slots in five of six events with Bill Sayre heading both tumbling and Trampoline.

Sayre, the defending state titlist in tumbling, and junior Jerry Russell topped the Cardinals with 14 team points each.

Russell recorded a first on the parallel bars, third on high bar, and fourth on still rings.

Senior Larry Brousseau came home with 11 markers with seconds on the side horse and parallel bars and a sixth on the horizontal bar. Dick Wetzel topped the field on the side horse and Len Witter gained a tie for first on still rings.

York Frosh-Sophs Rout Cards, 57-23

York high's frosh-soph cagers wrapped up their fourth victory of the West Suburban basketball campaign last Friday evening with an effortless 57-23 decision over Arlington's Cardinals.

The visitors blanked the hosts in the first period and raced to a 32-11 halftime advantage.

Arlington experienced its coldest night of the campaign and failed to register a point until frosh Joe Mueller potted a jump shot with 6:20 remaining in the second quarter.

PHIL O'CONNELL paced the locals' scoring with eight points, six via the free throw line, and Tom Wilmotte chipped in with seven. No other player scored more than two points.

MAC SAYS

by G. A. McELROY

A BASEBALL CLINIC being planned by the University of Illinois at Navy Pier is an early reminder that spring is not too far away. Big league stars and coaches and a big league umpire will instruct high school coaches at this clinic a week from Saturday. High school players may not attend. There is a state rule which declares ineligible for a year any high school player who attends a coaching clinic.

The North Suburban Conference has adopted the excellent baseball scheduling idea of Tom Frederick, Barrington Athletic Director. In order to reduce playing dates in the spring and allow for bad weather the schedule is reduced from 14 to 10 dates by the playing by each team of four Saturday doubleheaders. The grouping of schools for doubleheaders is Woodstock, McHenry, Crystal Lake, and Dundee organized as the west group and Zion, Libertyville, Palatine, and Barrington, the east group. Home and home individual games will be played between schools in the same group while play between members of different groups, involving in most cases greater travel, will be scheduled as Saturday doubleheaders. In case of rain or wet grounds games will, if possible, be shifted to the opposite site or if postponed will be played on the next open date. With no games scheduled during the period of the state district tournaments there should be little trouble in playing a complete schedule without a recurrence of the problem of last year when some schools had to play 4 games in the final week. The new plan makes impossible a situation where one pitcher tries to hurl all the league games. It is a real step forward.

THREE ILLINOIS MEMBERS of the Yale University undefeated football team are listed as honors students in a report we received recently. Mike Pyle, captain of the team, from New Trier and Dick Wisner from Palatine were listed among the upper 25% of their classes in scholarship and Tom Pappas of Oak Park was named in the upper 10%. Wisner ranked near the top of his graduating class at Palatine high and was a National Honor Society member. At Yale he was also a member of the varsity baseball team last spring as a sophomore. Wisner is majoring in economics.

MIKE BERTOLETTE so badly injured a knee in helping Grant High of Fox Lake beat McHenry in the semi-finals of the Grayslake holiday tourney that he is lost to the Bulldogs for the remainder of the season. The loss of the flashy guard came just before the crucial game with Warren for the conference lead this past week. Warren was the winner 57-55 and takes over as Northwest Conference leader.

Arlington's Frosh Matmen Win, 43-13

In a meet featured by ten pins in 12 bouts Arlington high's frosh wrestlers rolled over Palatine last Thursday, 43-13.

Chuck Harrington's young Cardinals claimed nine victories, eight via pins, in picking up their second decision of the 1960-61 campaign.

Palatine registered two pins and a decision for its 13 points with Butch Mummert, Jim Koeppl, and Rich Burmeister the only Pirate victors.

Boasting pins for the Arlington unit were Bob Conti, Larry Taylor, John Hermes, John Johnson, Mel Van Sky, Hugh Smeed, and Rog Stoeckel.

Miner 49ers, Hawks Capture Tourney Crowns

The Miner 49ers and Hawks reign as champions in the two divisions of the Arlington Heights Park District's second annual holiday basketball tournament.

Miner rolled to three straight wins in the seventh and eighth grade bracket with a 44-40 conquest of South in the title tilt.

George Schneider tossed in 12 points and Rick Mader and Tom Hamilton chipped in with 10 and nine respectively for the champions.

MINER REACHED the championship game with a 54-11 win over the Round Heads and a 45-35 conquest of Our Lady of the Wayside.

The Hawks claimed their second straight crown in fifth and sixth grade play with a 14-12 win over Wayside. Doug Fink and Pat Martin each scored six points for the champs. Gregory hit eight for the Waysiders.

A 17-11 victory over Wayside B and a forfeit win enabled the Hawks to reach the final game. Wayside A claimed a forfeit and 28-4 decision over the Vikings.

Jamison of South pumped in 50 points in four games to take scoring honors in the seventh and eighth grade tourney, and Martin of the Hawks netted 15 in three tilts to top the younger class.

Arlington Cards Edge New Trier In Gymnastics

Arlington kept its unbeaten record intact but not without some anxious moments Tuesday afternoon in a varsity gymnastics match with New Trier of the Suburban league.

Coach Gay Hughes' Cardinals had to battle all the way before recording a 67-65 triumph over the visiting Indians. It was the fifth victory in six outings this winter for Arlington with only a tie marring its otherwise perfect dual meet slate.

The Cards picked up three individual firsts with Dick Wetzel on the side horse, Jerry Russell on the parallel bar, and Bill Sayre in tumbling and held their biggest advantage in tumbling with a 14-8 score.

Sayre added a second on the Tramp to his first and Russell was also second on rings and fourth on the high bar.

Palatine Captures Maine East Mat Title

Palatine outlasted Prospect and Maine East in a blanket, three-team finish and thereby captured the Maine East quadrangular title for the second straight year.

Snatching four individual crowns, four seconds and one third, the Pirates racked up a total of 92 points. A slim four points back in second place was Prospect while the host Blue Demons were third with 85.

Fenton placed a distant fourth with 62 points.

Maine and Prospect each matched Palatine's championship output with four apiece. The last place Bisons, blanked in the championships, managed three seconds and three third place finishes.

PROSPECT captured the first title of the quadrangular when Del Blakely blanked Maine's Don Johnson, 3-0, at 95 pounds. The win was number seven in a row for Blakely.

Ken Fabbri of Fenton edged Palatine's Mike Gluck, 8-7, for third place in that class.

Jim Nordin, Palatine's 103 pounder, earned a berth in the championship round on a forfeit but lost in the final to Dennis DeStefano of the host school, 6-0.

TOM KRAUSE of Prospect was awarded third place, also by a forfeit.

Larry Travis tripped Gary Menzies of Fenton, 2-1, to capture the 112 pound crown and thereby recorded Palatine's initial title.

Menzies reached the finals at the expense of Prospect's Lou Limauro, 4-2. Travis pinned Maine's John Peterson in 2:46 of their first round match.

LIMAURO, a sophomore who wrestled in place of the injured Dick Krause, whitewashed Peterson, 4-0, for third place.

After eliminating Prospect's Bob Trausch, 4-2, Pirate Andy Olyton blanked Mike Shriver of Fenton, 4-0, for 120 pound honors and Palatine's second straight championship.

Trausch bounced back to pin Dick Merle of Maine in 5:12 for third place.

AT 127, BRAD McCreery stopped Terry Richardson of Maine at 5:12 of the final bout for another Pirate crown. The unbeaten senior breezed past Fenton's Bruce Miller in his opener.

Wayne Zaehler of Prospect beat Miller, 4-0, in the 127 third place argument.

Doug Vaughan, Prospect 133 pounder, halted the Pirate skein momentarily by pinning John Anderson of the championship squad in 3:42.

VAUGHAN and Anderson reached the finals with respective wins over Dennis Laboda of Fenton and Maine's Mike Blodgett. Blodgett bested Laboda for third place.

Karl Knowles of Palatine narrowly outpointed Maine's Dick Jordan for the 138 pound title. Prospect's entry, Roger Owen, was pinned by Knowles in the first round but rebounded with an 8-6 win over Fenton's George Colton in the consolation bout.

A fast finish by the Knights enabled them to bypass the Blue Demons for second place. Mike Hogarty (180) and Darryll Phillips (heavyweight) took the final two titles of the evening.

HOGARTY tipped Palatine's Bill Migley, 4-2, while Phillips outpointed Pirate Bill Smith, 9-6.

Dale Greco of Fenton, beaten by Phillips in the first round, nipped Maine's Clint Koerner, 2-1, for consolation honors.

Ed Pederson of Prospect whipped Arnold Lindstrom of Palatine, 8-3, for third place in the 145 pound class.

GEORGE McCREERY, filling in for the ailing Norm Scheuttner, moved up to 154 pounds for Palatine but lost his initial match to Bob Eaton of Maine.

Mike Field of Prospect eliminated Palatine's Bill Schuh in the 165 pound division, but lost to Dennis McCabe of Maine, 10-4, for the title.

Jim Rucker of Fenton bested Schuh for third place.

Prospect's JVs Rout Willowbrook

Prospect's junior varsity basketball team won its second Interim victory of the season Friday night, trouncing Willowbrook 55-28 on the Foundry rd. court.

Coach Ted Wissen's five built a 20-10 halftime lead, then opened the spread to 37-15 at the end of three quarters to sew up the win. Wissen pulled his starters with 4:01 left in the game after they built a 47-20 cushion.

Willowbrook was in the game only in the opening period. The junior Warriors were behind by three points, 11-8, at the buzzer, but could add only two more in the second period while the junior Knights were getting nine.

Tommy Thomas led the Prospect effort with 18 points. Mike Francek got 13. Paul Pavesich had nine for Willowbrook.

Cardinals' Frosh 'A's' Trip Maine

Coach Rog Steingraber's frosh "A" basketball team at Arlington high school captured its fourth straight decision last Saturday morning with a 44-42, overtime victory over visiting Maine East.

It was the Cards' second triumph over Maine with the locals claiming a 32-25 win in that first meeting.

Arlington held a 25-20 halftime lead but Maine battled back to knot the count at the end of regulation time. The Cards tossed in eight points in the overtime.

Paul Splittorff and Jim Murray canned 13 points each for Arlington on five fielders and three free throws. Greg Buczynski collected six.

Score by quarters:

Tough at Line

Dick Miller of Wisconsin hit 29 straight free throws in Big Ten play in the 1955-56 season for a conference record.

Arlington's varsity wrestlers fashioned their fourth straight dual meet triumph last Saturday afternoon with an impressive 25-16 victory over a visiting Libertyville outfit.

Coach Bob Emmons' Cardinals claimed six decisions, a tie, and a pin in handling the Wildcats their second loss in ten outings.

TIM SMITH turned in a strong performance at 112 with a 5-3 conquest, but Libertyville closed the gap with a 6-0 win at 120.

Byron Duff, who gained a tie against York on Friday, turned in another creditable performance Saturday and walked off with an 11-7 win at 127. Duff rallied with five points in the final stanza.

Carrying an impressive 6-1-1 mark into the Libertyville match, Tim O'Gorman added victory number seven when he disposed of the 'Cats' Serfling 5-0 at 133.

SENIOR MIKE Koenig collected his fourth win of the campaign with an effortless 8-2 win at 138, but the visitors copped the next two bouts as Roy Woodruff and Gar Simmons both dropped tight decisions.

Hal Selleck got the Cardinals back in the point column at 165 when he blanked his opponent 6-0. Selleck is now 6-2 on the season.

Arlington's top performer recordwise, 180-pounder Rich Edelblute, easily disposed of his man in 1:45 and claimed his eighth victory. Rich boasts an 8-1 mark with his only loss in the title test of the Palatine invitational.

LIBERTYVILLE won the heavyweight match by forfeit to round out the afternoon's scoring.

Emmons passed out special praise for Duff, Smith, Edelblute, and O'Gorman for their work in recent meets and is now prepping the matmen for two battles this weekend.

The Cards will host Hinsdale Friday at 7 p.m. and travel to Maine East Saturday for a 2 p.m. test.

York Frosh-Sophs Rout Cards, 57-23

York high's frosh-soph cagers wrapped up their fourth victory of the West Suburban basketball campaign last Friday evening with an effortless 57-23 decision over Arlington's Cardinals.

The visitors blanked the hosts in the first period and raced to a 32-11 halftime advantage.

Arlington experienced its coldest night of the campaign and failed to register a point until frosh Joe Mueller potted a jump shot with 6:20 remaining in the second quarter.

PHIL O'CONNELL paced the locals' scoring with eight points, six via the free throw line, and Tom Wilmotte chipped in with seven. No other player scored more than two points.

MAC SAYS

by G. A. McELROY

A BASEBALL CLINIC being planned by the University of Illinois at Navy Pier is an early reminder that spring is not too far away. Big league stars and coaches and a big league umpire will instruct high school coaches at this clinic a week from Saturday. High school players may not attend. There is a state rule which declares ineligible for a year any high school player who attends a coaching clinic.

The North Suburban Conference has adopted the excellent baseball scheduling idea of Tom Frederick, Barrington Athletic Director. In order to reduce playing dates in the spring and allow for bad weather the schedule is reduced from 14 to 10 dates by the playing by each team of four Saturday doubleheaders. The grouping of schools for doubleheaders is Woodstock, McHenry, Crystal Lake, and Dundee organized as the west group and Zion, Libertyville, Palatine, and Barrington, the east group. Home and home individual games will be played between schools in the same group while play between members of different groups, involving in most cases greater travel, will be scheduled as Saturday doubleheaders. In case of rain or wet grounds games will, if possible, be shifted to the opposite site or if postponed will be played on the next open date. With no games scheduled during the period of the state district tournaments there should be little trouble in playing a complete schedule without a recurrence of the problem of last year when some schools had to play 4 games in the final week. The new plan makes impossible a situation where one pitcher tries to hurl all the league games. It is a real step forward.

THREE ILLINOIS MEMBERS of the Yale University undefeated football team are listed as honors students in a report we received recently. Mike Pyle, captain of the team, from New Trier and Dick Wisner from Palatine were listed among the upper 25% of their classes in scholarship and Tom Pappas of Oak Park was named in the upper 10%. Wisner ranked near the top of his graduating class at Palatine high and was a National Honor Society member. At Yale he was also a member of the varsity baseball team last spring as a sophomore. Wisner is majoring in economics.

MIKE BERTOLETTE so badly injured a knee in helping Grant High of Fox Lake beat McHenry in the semi-finals of the Grayslake holiday tourney that he is lost to the Bulldogs for the remainder of the season. The loss of the flashy guard came just before the crucial game with Warren for the conference lead this past week. Warren was the winner 57-55 and takes over as Northwest Conference leader.

Arlington's Frosh Matmen Win, 43-13

In a meet featured by ten pins in 12 bouts Arlington high's frosh wrestlers rolled over Palatine last Thursday, 43-13.

Chuck Harrington's young Cardinals claimed nine victories, eight via pins, in picking up their second decision of the 1960-61 campaign.

Palatine registered two pins and a decision for its 13 points with Butch Mummert, Jim Koeppl, and Rich Burmeister the only Pirate victors.

Boasting pins for the Arlington unit were Bob Conti, Larry Taylor, John Hermes, John Johnson, Mel Van Sky, Hugh Smeed, and Rog Stoeckel.

Miner 49ers, Hawks Capture Tourney Crowns

The Miner 49ers and Hawks reign as champions in the two divisions of the Arlington Heights Park District's second annual holiday basketball tournament.

Miner rolled to three straight wins in the seventh and eighth grade bracket with a 44-40 conquest of South in the title tilt.

George Schneider tossed in 12 points and Rick Mader and Tom Hamilton chipped in with 10 and nine respectively for the champions.

MINER REACHED the championship game with a 54-11 win over the Round Heads and a 45-35 conquest of Our Lady of the Wayside.

The Hawks claimed their second straight crown in fifth and sixth grade play with a 14-12 win over Wayside. Doug Fink and Pat Martin each scored six points for the champs. Gregory hit eight for the Waysiders.

A 17-11 victory over Wayside B and a forfeit win enabled the Hawks to reach the final game. Wayside A claimed a forfeit and 28-4 decision over the Vikings.

Jamison of South pumped in 50 points in four games to take scoring honors in the seventh and eighth grade tourney, and Martin of the Hawks netted 15 in three tilts to top the younger class.

Arlington Cards Edge New Trier In Gymnastics

Arlington kept its unbeaten record intact but not without some anxious moments Tuesday afternoon in a varsity gymnastics match with New Trier of the Suburban league.

Coach Gay Hughes' Cardinals had to battle all the way before recording a 67-65 triumph over the visiting Indians. It was the fifth victory in six outings this winter for Arlington with only a tie marring its otherwise perfect dual meet slate.

The Cards picked up three individual firsts with Dick Wetzel on the side horse, Jerry Russell on the parallel bar, and Bill Sayre in tumbling and held their biggest advantage in tumbling with a 14-8 score.

Sayre added a second on the Tramp to his first and Russell was also second on rings and fourth on the high bar.

Prospect Rolls Past Willowbrook Squad

by TOM McSHANE

Willowbrook high school's basketball Warriors experienced three fleeting minutes of glory Friday night in a gymnasium on Foundry rd.

The Warriors, with a 2-7 record as they took the floor, headed the mighty Prospect Knights for the opening 155 seconds of an Interim league encounter, then saw their hopes for the upset of the year dashed under the weight of a Knight blitzkrieg. Prospect won easily, 74-42.

Willowbrook pulled away to a 4-0 lead in the opening minute of the battle, and exchanged another bucket with the Knights in the next 60 seconds. The Warrior players were rejoicing openly, smiling and clapping their hands, as they raced back to defend after Bill Brookhart made it 6-2.

THEN Prospect's Fred Lussow hit from 15 feet to make it 6-4. With 155 seconds gone, George Pomey tied it at six apiece. As the clock beat for the 195th time, the same Pomey hit from 20 feet, and the pleasant Warrior dream became a nightmare.

Prospect added two more before Willowbrook could strike back, and then the Knights edged steadily to an 18-11 lead at the buzzer.

In the second quarter Prospect started slowly, building its lead to 24-15 in the first three minutes. Then the skies opened again as the Knights rammed home nine straight points, gave the Warriors two and left the court at intermission with a 33-17 lead.

THE ATTACK continued after the locker room session. Prospect kicked off the third quarter with an eight-point burst that left the haples Warriors 24 points out at 41-17. The Knights kept pouring it on, scoring three baskets in one 20-second stretch, as they moved to a 55-30 lead at the quarter's end.

Coach Kick Kinneman's reserves played most of the final quarter, adding 19 more points to the Knight column while holding Willowbrook to 12.

The final score was 74-42, a far cry from the Warrior dream.

The victory, the 14th straight for the Knights, kept them entrenched in the top spot in the Interim standings.

PROSPECT, displaying its fine team balance, had five men in double figures. Bill Zadel topped the list with 17. Pomey followed with 12. Lussow and Dick Palmer got 11, and Reserve Bob Glaser had 10 in his best performance of the season.

Bill Borneman led Willowbrook with 14. Bill Offill had 11.

Faculty Seeks Cage Contests

Palatine's faculty basketball squad is looking for games with other faculty cage quintets.

Anyone interested is asked to please contact Gary Clendenny at FL 9-1935.

Red Heads, Trotters In Cage Headliner

Moore's All-American Red Heads, one of the greatest professional girl's basketball teams ever assembled, invade Palatine high gym Saturday evening for what promises to be one of the most exciting evenings of the current cage campaign.

Providing the opposition for the internationally reknowned Red Heads will be the Northwest Trotters, an all-men's free lance outfit in this area.

The Red Heads were organized in 1936 by "Ole" Olson, former coach, owner and star of "Olson's" Terrible Swedes, and his wife.

MRS. OLSON operated a chain of beauty salons in the Ozark area near Cassville, Mo. Even in those years, girl's basketball enjoyed a great deal of popularity and several of the women employed by Mrs. Olson decided to form a team.

Two of those originators were true redheads, but with the aid of red dye, an all-Red Head squad was formed.

In 1955, Orwell Moore purchased the All-American Red Heads and transfered their base of operations to Caraway, Ark.

THE RED HEADS have been featured by such publications as Life, Look, Colliers, Sporting News, Sports Life, Pic, Argosy and Newsweek and have appeared on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town" television show.

The championship female quintet has played in every state and throughout Canada, Mexico and the Philippines. An around-the-world tour is also currently in the planning stage.

Since 1954, the Red Heads have won at least 100 games each season. Playing only first-flight male teams, they racked up 134 victories in 1959.

FACING THE task of containing these female wonders will be Trotters Bob Lockwood of Palatine, Chuck Hopkinson of Arlington Heights, and Bill Brown, Dan Lowy and Roy Dandryn, all of Park Ridge.

A special show consisting of fancy passing, dribbling, foul shooting, trick shooting, ball balancing and juggling will be featured at halftime.

In support of the main attraction will be a preliminary knock - down - drag - out battle pitting the Palatine Lions Club against the Palatine Fire Department.

REPRESENTING the Lions, who are sponsoring the attraction, will be "Sticks" Oakley, Lynn Braver, "Feed" Meek, "Bones" Van Wolvelear, Doc Beatty, "Big Jim" Neely, Bob Hollinger, Hawk Anderson and "Whip" Wipperfurth.

Fire Department cagers include "Cider Bill" Vogt, "Stretch" Helms, "Moose" Fooster, "Hoops" Korber, "Snuffy" Rhode, "Hose" Freeman, "Buckets" Busch, "Legs" Ohlrich, "4-11" Bergman, "Sparks" Smith, "Fireball" Paske and "Dead-Eye" Langer.

The first game will begin at 7 p.m. Admission for adults will be $1.25; children will be admitted for 50 cents.

DROPPING IN A two-pointer on a layup is Arlington high's Jim Clabaugh (34) at outset of fourth period last Friday evening in the Cards' West Suburban test with York. Clabaugh's basket gave Arlington a 49-47 lead but the visitors battled back and claimed a 57-55 victory. On defense for York is Bob Rudolph (33) with the Cards' Ross Retterer (52) looking on.

Cards' Mat Squad Tops York, 21-20

Rich Edelblute's 4-0 decision at 180 gave Arlington the points it needed to insure victory last Friday evening in a tight varsity mat battle at York high school.

Coach Bob Emmons' Cardinals were on top 18-15 going into the 180-pound test and needed a pin or decision to wrap up their second straight West Suburban triumph.

Edelblute counted two points in the first period and a pair in the third stanza for his seventh victory of the season. Although the Cards lost the heavyweight battle on a pin, they still recorded a 21-20 team triumph.

York gained the 95-pound decision to open the meet, but Arlington's Bob Hoehle turned in a neat 7-0 victory at 103 for his third conquest of the 1960-61 campaign.

TIM SMITH registered a 2-0 win at 112, claiming the two points in the final period, and both Ken Adams and Byron Duff were involved in ties.

Arlington's Tim O'Gorman fashioned his sixth win of the season over York's Ron Paulson, and All-WSC matman last season. O'Gorman dumped Paulson 4-1 at 133.

Mike Koenig picked up two Arlington points with a tie at 138, but the Cards dropped the next two bouts before soph Hal Selleck handled his 165-pound opponent 6-3 to give the visitors an 18-15 lead.

Edelblute then handled Wiersema to give Arlington its second league triumph and third victory of the current campaign.

The summaries:

Prospect High Matmen Stop West Leyden

Prospect never trailed last Friday afternoon as it wrapped up a 24-14 varsity wrestling victory over a host West Leyden squad.

Coach Dick Mudge's Knights copped the first two bouts and clinched the meet when Mike Field recorded a 6-1 win at 165 pounds.

DEL BLAKELY rolled to his fifth straight win with a 6-5 decision at 95, and Tom Krause gave the Knights a 6-0 lead with a 4-0 victory at 103.

West Leyden claimed the 112 pound prize as Prospect's soph Lou Limauro, working in the varsity alignment for the first time, fell 4-0.

Capt. Bob Trausch won easily 11-0 at 120 but Leyden topped 127. Wayne Zaehler, another newcomer to the PHS lineup, registered an impressive 4-2 triumph at 133.

THE HOSTS topped 138 before Prospect put on its move that netted three straight decisions. Ed Pederson, Ron Aukamp, and Mike Field got the wins with Field's effort giving Prospect an insurmountable 21-9 lead.

West Leyden took a forfeit at 180, but the Knights' Darryl Phillips concluded the afternoon's festivities with an effortless 9-3 win in the heavyweight class.

The summaries:

Prospect 24, West Leyden 14
95 pounds—Blakely (P) beat Cecchi (WL), 6-5

Prospect Frosh Cagers Handle Libertyville

Prospect high's frosh "A" basketball squad rolled to its fourth straight victory Wed., Jan. 4, with a tight, 41-39 victory over Libertyville.

Don Neubert tossed in 12 markers to top Prospect with Bob Gewecke adding nine. Tom McClellan and Dave White collected seven each.

Prospect's frosh "Bs" edged Libertyville, 43-42, as Bob Robertshaw dumped in 14 points.

York Tips Cardinals In Conference Clash

GARY BRODNAN

Arlington high's Cardinals, battling to snap a three game losing skein and seeking a higher position in the West Suburban ladder, were just seconds away from achieving both goals last Friday evening when a 6-2 senior from York stepped in to settle the issue.

With 1:05 remaining in the loop battle Charley Adams drilled a shot from the key to give York a 56-55 yead, its first lead of a hectic fourth period and an advantage it never relinquished.

An Arlington shot fell off with 49 seconds left and that was the locals' last crack at the basket. Adams added a free throw with two seconds remaining to set the final count at 57-55 and give York its second West Suburban decision.

IT WAS A disappointing finish for an Arlington outfit that had played creditable basketball. Coach Frank Bohac's quintet never trailed by more than five points and was on top of the visitors for a good part of the encounter.

Sophomores Chuck Close and Gary Brodnan carried the Cardinals' offensive attack with 34 of the team's 55 markers. Both boys hit their season highs with Chuck canning 19 and Gary 15.

With Close contributing five markers on a layup, jumper from the side, and free throw Arlington raced off to an 11-4 lead with 4:32 remaining in the first period.

YORK BATTLED back and pulled ahead at the 1:41 mark on a two-pointer by Lee MacCallum, but Close's basket with 12 seconds to go gave the Cardinals a 13-12 lead at the end of one stanza.

The two teams battled back and forth in the second quarter with the Dukes moving out to a three-point lead only to have the Cards claim leads at 21-20 and 23-22. Close's jump shot from the side sent the Cards into the dressing room at the intermission trailing by only one, 26-25.

Adams connected on two fielders at the outset of the third period as York gained its biggest margin of the game, 30-25. Close rimmed a jump, Ross Retterer hit from the side, and Jim Clabaugh counted from the free throw line to knot the count at 30-all with 6:06 remaining.

YORK CLIMBED on top again, but the Cards fought back and delivered a flurry toward the end of the third stanza that sent them ahead 42-39 with 2:12 remaining.

Brodnan played the key role in this surge although Skip Witt's hook put the locals on top by one. Clabaugh banged one home from 15-feet to push Arlington off to its three-point lead.

Jump shots from the side by Close and outside the key by Brodnan enabled Arlington to hold a slim 46-45 lead going into the deciding quarter.

ARLINGTON never trailed in the final period until Adams connected from out front. Bohac's crew held a four point advantage with 5:41 remaining and was on top by three with 1:45 left.

A jump ball with 22 seconds showing on the clock went to York and that was the game. Adams tossed in his free throw with two seconds to play and although Arlington did gain possession of the ball, it couldn't get off a desperation shot.

Arlington played without its second leading scorer as Bob Jacobsen was sidelined with illness, and York didn't use its leading point-producer, Bob Rudolph, in the first half. Rudolph played the final two segments and wound up with nine markers.

Prospect's Frosh Units Win Again!

Don Neubert rimmed 27 points, the highest single game output by a Prospect frosh cager this season, to pace the unbeaten Knights to a 54-47 victory over Glenbrook last Saturday morning.

For the second straight game Coach Larry Wyllie's "A" quintet had to recover from a halftime deficit to record the victory. Glenbrook held a 23-21 lead at the intermission.

Neubert hit 18 of his points in the final half as Prospect pulled away from the hosts. Dave White chipped in with nine markers for the local frosh unit that has now one five straight games.

In the frosh "B" battle Prospect had little trouble registering a 44-29 decision. Ron Moehling collected 16 and Al Koehler tossed in 14 for the Knights.

Score by quarters:

Prospect	13	8	15	18—54
Glenbrook	11	12	8	16—47

Arlington In Frosh Mat Win

Arlington's frosh matmen rolled to their third straight victory Saturday morning with an impressive 26-22 victory over a visiting Maine East outfit.

The young Cards fell behind 9-0 after three bouts, rebounded to pull ahead 26-9, then held on as the Blue Demons wrapped up the final three matches.

Chuck Harrington's Arlington crew collected four pins and two decisions for its morning's work. Larry Taylor, John Hermes, John Johnson, and Mel Van Sky copped the pins with Joe Gebhardt and Hugh Smeed claiming the decisions.

The summaries:

Arlington 26, Maine East 22

JVs Win Two More

Arlington's unbeaten junior-varsity cagers rolled to their fourth and fifth straight victories in recent outings with conquests of Maine East and Notre Dame.

Coach Norm Patberg's Cardinals bumped Maine on Saturday, 45-39, and routed Notre Dame Monday, 63-49.

Presenting a balanced scoring attack with Don Kolstad standing out with his play under the boards, the Cardinals topped Maine for the second time this season.

A 51-35 victor over the Blue Demons in their first meeting, Arlington was handicapped with the absence of 6-4 Rusty Blix who had been used in the league tilt on Friday.

Bob Laughlin's outstanding defensive play and Kolstad's 19 points paced the Cards to their victory Monday.

Faculty Seeks Cage Contests

Palatine's faculty basketball squad is looking for games with other faculty cage quintets.

Anyone interested is asked to please contact Gary Clendenny at FL 9-1935.

Red Heads, Trotters In Cage Headliner

Moore's All-American Red Heads, one of the greatest professional girl's basketball teams ever assembled, invade Palatine high gym Saturday evening for what promises to be one of the most exciting evenings of the current cage campaign.

Providing the opposition for the internationally reknowned Red Heads will be the Northwest Trotters, an all-men's free lance outfit in this area.

The Red Heads were organized in 1936 by "Ole" Olson, former coach, owner and star of "Olson's" Terrible Swedes, and his wife.

MRS. OLSON operated a chain of beauty salons in the Ozark area near Cassville, Mo. Even in those years, girl's basketball enjoyed a great deal of popularity and several of the women employed by Mrs. Olson decided to form a team.

Two of those originators were true redheads, but with the aid of red dye, an all-Red Head squad was formed.

In 1955, Orwell Moore purchased the All-American Red Heads and transfered their base of operations to Caraway, Ark.

THE RED HEADS have been featured by such publications as Life, Look, Colliers, Sporting News, Sports Life, Pic, Argosy and Newsweek and have appeared on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town" television show.

The championship female quintet has played in every state and throughout Canada, Mexico and the Philippines. An around-the-world tour is also currently in the planning stage.

Since 1954, the Red Heads have won at least 100 games each season. Playing only first-flight male teams, they racked up 134 victories in 1959.

FACING THE task of containing these female wonders will be Trotters Bob Lockwood of Palatine, Chuck Hopkinson of Arlington Heights, and Bill Brown, Dan Lowy and Roy Dandryn, all of Park Ridge.

A special show consisting of fancy passing, dribbling, foul shooting, trick shooting, ball balancing and juggling will be featured at halftime.

In support of the main attraction will be a preliminary knock - down - drag - out battle pitting the Palatine Lions Club against the Palatine Fire Department.

REPRESENTING the Lions, who are sponsoring the attraction, will be "Sticks" Oakley, Lynn Braver, "Feed" Meek, "Bones" Van Wolvelear, Doc Beatty, "Big Jim" Neely, Bob Hollinger, Hawk Anderson and "Whip" Wipperfurth.

Fire Department cagers include "Cider Bill" Vogt, "Stretch" Helms, "Moose" Fooster, "Hoops" Korber, "Snuffy" Rhode, "Hose" Freeman, "Buckets" Busch, "Legs" Ohlrich, "4-11" Bergman, "Sparks" Smith, "Fireball" Paske and "Dead-Eye" Langer.

The first game will begin at 7 p.m. Admission for adults will be $1.25; children will be admitted for 50 cents.

DROPPING IN A two-pointer on a layup is Arlington high's Jim Clabaugh (34) at outset of fourth period last Friday evening in the Cards' West Suburban test with York. Clabaugh's basket gave Arlington a 49-47 lead but the visitors battled back and claimed a 57-55 victory. On defense for York is Bob Rudolph (33) with the Cards' Ross Retterer (52) looking on.

Cards' Mat Squad Tops York, 21-20

Rich Edelblute's 4-0 decision at 180 gave Arlington the points it needed to insure victory last Friday evening in a tight varsity mat battle at York high school.

Coach Bob Emmons' Cardinals were on top 18-15 going into the 180-pound test and needed a pin or decision to wrap up their second straight West Suburban triumph.

Edelblute counted two points in the first period and a pair in the third stanza for his seventh victory of the season. Although the Cards lost the heavyweight battle on a pin, they still recorded a 21-20 team triumph.

York gained the 95-pound decision to open the meet, but Arlington's Bob Hoehle turned in a neat 7-0 victory at 103 for his third conquest of the 1960-61 campaign.

TIM SMITH registered a 2-0 win at 112, claiming the two points in the final period, and both Ken Adams and Byron Duff were involved in ties.

Arlington's Tim O'Gorman fashioned his sixth win of the season over York's Ron Paulson, and All-WSC matman last season. O'Gorman dumped Paulson 4-1 at 133.

Mike Koenig picked up two Arlington points with a tie at 138, but the Cards dropped the next two bouts before soph Hal Selleck handled his 165-pound opponent 6-3 to give the visitors an 18-15 lead.

Edelblute then handled Wiersema to give Arlington its second league triumph and third victory of the current campaign.

The summaries:

Arlington 21, York 20

Prospect High Matmen Stop West Leyden

Prospect never trailed last Friday afternoon as it wrapped up a 24-14 varsity wrestling victory over a host West Leyden squad.

Coach Dick Mudge's Knights copped the first two bouts and clinched the meet when Mike Field recorded a 6-1 win at 165 pounds.

DEL BLAKELY rolled to his fifth straight win with a 6-5 decision at 95, and Tom Krause gave the Knights a 6-0 lead with a 4-0 victory at 103.

West Leyden claimed the 112 pound prize as Prospect's soph Lou Limauro, working in the varsity alignment for the first time, fell 4-0.

Capt. Bob Trausch won easily 11-0 at 120 but Leyden topped 127. Wayne Zaehler, another newcomer to the PHS lineup, registered an impressive 4-2 triumph at 133.

THE HOSTS topped 138 before Prospect put on its move that netted three straight decisions. Ed Pederson, Ron Aukamp, and Mike Field got the wins with Field's effort giving Prospect an insurmountable 21-9 lead.

West Leyden took a forfeit at 180, but the Knights' Darryl Phillips concluded the afternoon's festivities with an effortless 9-3 win in the heavyweight class.

The summaries:

Prospect 24, West Leyden 14

Prospect Frosh Cagers Handle Libertyville

Prospect high's frosh "A" basketball squad rolled to its fourth straight victory Wed., Jan. 4, with a tight, 41-39 victory over Libertyville.

Don Neubert tossed in 12 markers to top Prospect with Bob Gewecke adding nine. Tom McClellan and Dave White collected seven each.

Prospect's frosh "Bs" edged Libertyville, 43-42, as Bob Robertshaw dumped in 14 points.

York Tips Cardinals In Conference Clash

by BOB FRISK

Arlington high's Cardinals, battling to snap a three game losing skein and seeking a higher position in the West Suburban ladder, were just seconds away from achieving both goals last Friday evening when a 6-2 senior from York stepped in to settle the issue.

With 1:05 remaining in the loop battle Charley Adams drilled a shot from the key to give York a 56-55 yead, its first lead of a hectic fourth period and an advantage it never relinquished.

An Arlington shot fell off with 49 seconds left and that was the locals' last crack at the basket. Adams added a free throw with two seconds remaining to set the final count at 57-55 and give York its second West Suburban decision.

IT WAS A disappointing finish for an Arlington outfit that had played creditable basketball. Coach Frank Bohac's quintet never trailed by more than five points and was on top of the visitors for a good part of the encounter.

Sophomores Chuck Close and Gary Brodnan carried the Cardinals' offensive attack with 34 of the team's 55 markers. Both boys hit their season highs with Chuck canning 19 and Gary 15.

With Close contributing five markers on a layup, jumper from the side, and free throw Arlington raced off to an 11-4 lead with 4:32 remaining in the first period.

YORK BATTLED back and pulled ahead at the 1:41 mark on a two-pointer by Lee MacCallum, but Close's basket with 12 seconds to go gave the Cardinals a 13-12 lead at the end of one stanza.

The two teams battled back and forth in the second quarter with the Dukes moving out to a three-point lead only to have the Cards claim leads at 21-20 and 23-22. Close's jump shot from the side sent the Cards into the dressing room at the intermission trailing by only one, 2€-25.

Adams connected on two fielders at the outset of the third period as York gained its biggest margin of the game, 30-25. Close rimmed a jump, Ross Retterer hit from the side, and Jim Clabaugh counted from the free throw line to knot the count at 30-all with 6:06 remaining.

YORK CLIMBED on top again, but the Cards fought back and delivered a flurry toward the end of the third stanza that sent them ahead 42-39 with 2:12 remaining.

Brodnan played the key role in this surge although Skip Witt's hook put the locals on top by one. Clabaugh banged one home from 15-feet to push Arlington off to its three-point lead.

Jump shots from the side by Close and outside the key by Brodnan enabled Arlington to hold a slim 46-45 lead going into the deciding quarter.

GARY BRODNAN

ARLINGTON never trailed in the final period until Adams connected from out front. Bohac's crew held a four point advantage with 5:41 remaining and was on top by three with 1:45 left.

A jump ball with 22 seconds showing on the clock went to York and that was the game. Adams tossed in his free throw with two seconds to play and although Arlington did gain possession of the ball, it couldn't get off a desperation shot.

Arlington played without its second leading scorer as Bob Jacobsen was sidelined with illness, and York didn't use its leading point-producer, Bob Rudolph, in the first half. Rudolph played the final two segments and wound up with nine markers.

Prospect's Frosh Units Win Again!

Don Neubert rimmed 27 points, the highest single game output by a Prospect frosh cager this season, to pace the unbeaten Knights to a 54-47 victory over Glenbrook last Saturday morning.

For the second straight game Coach Larry Wyllie's "A" quintet had to recover from a halftime deficit to record the victory. Glenbrook held a 23-21 lead at the intermission.

Neubert hit 18 of his points in the final half as Prospect pulled away from the hosts. Dave White chipped in with nine markers for the local frosh unit that has now one five straight games.

In the frosh "B" battle Prospect had little trouble registering a 44-29 decision. Ron Moehling collected 16 and Al Koehler tossed in 14 for the Knights.

Arlington In Frosh Mat Win

Arlington's frosh matmen rolled to their third straight victory Saturday morning with an impressive 26-22 victory over a visiting Maine East outfit.

The young Cards fell behind 9-0 after three bouts, rebounded to pull ahead 26-9, then held on as the Blue Demons wrapped up the final three matches.

Chuck Harrington's Arlington crew collected four pins and two decisions for its morning's work. Larry Taylor, John Hermes, John Johnson, and Mel Van Sky copped the pins with Joe Gebhardt and Hugh Smeed claiming the decisions.

The summaries:

Arlington 26, Maine East 22
95 pounds—Gadwell (M) beat Moreau (A), 4-3
103—Jeloty (M) beat Conti (A), 2-0
112—Derneac (M) beat Yates (A), 2-1

JVs Win Two More

Arlington's unbeaten junior-varsity cagers rolled to their fourth and fifth straight victories in recent outings with conquests of Maine East and Notre Dame.

Coach Norm Patberg's Cardinals bumped Maine on Saturday, 45-39, and routed Notre Dame Monday, 63-49.

Presenting a balanced scoring attack with Don Kolstad standing out with his play under the boards, the Cardinals topped Maine for the second time this season.

A 51-35 victor over the Blue Demons in their first meeting, Arlington was handicapped with the absence of 6-4 Rusty Blix who had been used in the league tilt on Friday.

Bob Laughlin's outstanding defensive play and Kolstad's 19 points paced the Cards to their victory Monday.

Gals to Roll Jan. 21-22 At Hi-Way

At least fifty-five teams are expected to enter the Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap women's bowling tournament at Hi-Way Recreation in Palatine Jan. 21 and 22 with first place money expected to gross over $110. Second place should mean over $70.

First place teams of all local women's kegling loops as of New Year's eve were eligible for this year's tourney, with last minute entries already surpassing the previous record of 50 teams. Winning ladies will take home five individual trophies, plus the large traveling team award.

Complete list of competing teams, leagues, starting alleys and times, and handicaps will be published in next week's paper. Here's a list of squads entered thus far, with a few more to be added:

SATURDAY 1:00 Shift—The Mulligans, Dog Robbers, Muriel Mundy, Rein Tile, Johnson Construction, In the Mood, Roughnecks.

SATURDAY 3:40 Shift—Sanitary Market, Dolls, A. & W. Food Shop, Mt. Prospect Jeweler's, Conn Shell Station, Margaret's Beauty Salon.

SUNDAY 12:30 Shift—Lane Janes, Andy's Oil, Thomas Watch, Van Ru Credit, Stop Inn Niles, Sugar 'N Spice, Mel's Market, Ka Hill Recording, Pilot Fuel Oil, Vivian's Hair Stylist.

SUNDAY 3:10 Shift—Clip 'N Curl, Peacock, Wrens, Victor Trucking, Lauterburg & Oehler, Herdrich's Variety, Keefer's, Schaefer Fashion, Della's Beauty Shop, Anets Bros.

SUNDAY 5:50 Shift—Joe's Pizza, DePue Insurance, Lorraine Anne, Lohr's Pharmacy, Behlke Appliance, Chabans, Geils Funeral Home, Mt. Prospect Hardware, Keefers, Foxgloves.

SUNDAY 8:30 Shift—Melody Music Studio, Katydids, North Shore Rambler Wheeling, Steve's Restaurant, Varble Trophies, Prairie Center Dairy, Strikes, Ally Kats, Lauterburg & Oehler, Mell & Paul's.

Norge Ski Club Hosts Jumping Tourney Sunday

The Norge Ski Club's 56th annual ski jumping tournament at Fox River Grove Sunday, Jan. 15, matches the ranking American performers against outstanding contestants from the Orient and Europe.

Two Japanese jumpers, Kiyotaka Sakai and Yukio Kasaya, made their first appearance in this country in the Eau Claire, Wis., tournament on Sunday, January 8.

Torbjorn Yggeseth, who competed for the Norwegian team in the Olympic Winter Games last year at Squaw Valley, is an exchange student at Wenatchee, Wash., and will wear his homeland's colors at Fox River Grove.

YGGESETH'S excellent record in European competition before coming to this country influenced Norway's skiing officials to "draft" him for the Olympics, the first time that country, regarded as the cradel of ski jumping, made an absentee selection.

He will renew competition with the American Olympic team, which will compete in the Norge meet. Yggeseth finished fifth at Squaw Valley, highest placing for the Norwegian team, with Ansten Samuelstuen riding close on his heels in seventh place to lead the U. S.

Cole Lenzi's Annual Tourney Opens January 20

Cole Lenzi's 25th annual 3-day Individual Jackpot handicap and scratch bowling tournament will be held Jan. 20-21-22 at Lenzi Recreation, Route 66 and East ave., four miles south of La Grange, Ill. The three-day meet for American Bowling Congress sanctioned league bowlers will accept post entries. Bowlers will be permitted to enter twice each day, but may only cash once in the regular prize list.

GAMES SATURDAY (Second Round)
at Hi-Way Recreation, Palatine

Bill Cook Buick vs. Casablanca
Moyle Construction vs. Cook County Mobile Homes
Jeffery Lanes vs. Timroth Plumbing
Pro Sport Center vs. Bill Bond's Mens Wear

Bill Cook Buick met the challenge and won. Its prize is the first half championship of the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

The challenge came from Cook County Mobile Homes as the No. 1 and 2 teams battled it out in their position round match Saturday night at Ten Pin in Barrington.

Cook County Mobile Homes, based at River-Rand in Des Plaines, complicated things by taking the first game by 10 pins, but Bill Cook Buick, representing Bowlway in Elgin, rebounded to win the second game by 100 pins and assure itself of a title tie. This set the stage for the final game.

BILL COOK Buick needed the final game to clinch the title. It met the challenge and won. From the fourth frame on, Bill Cook Buick was in complete charge.

It was then that the Automen began to string strikes. Anchor man Tom Kouros of Barrington Woods, who paced the champions, and John Seidel of Palatine each scored a turkey and Jim Perna of Rolling Meadows and Dave Catherwood of Arlington Heights recorded doubles.

And when it looked like Cook County Mobile Homes might catch up, Whitey Hefferan of Elk Grove Village, Catherwood and Perna converted splits in the seventh, eighth and ninth frames, respectively, to help Bill Cook rack up 50 marks and a 975-913 triumph.

KOUROS TOOK individual honors. Besides the turkey, he finished with a four bagger for a 222 game. And that was his low game for the night. Before then, Kouros, the only kegler in the league to average 200 or better -- he had 201 -- rolled games of 235 and 233 for a 690 series. That was high series for the night among all contestants.

Bill Bond's Mens Wear of Rolling Meadows was the only team able to move up in the standings as a result of its position round match. Two wins over Tommy Thomas' Casablanca five boosted the Country Lanes team of Lake Zurich from fourth into a second place tie with Cook County Mobile Homes.

The 2938 series by Bill Bond's was high in league play and only a 939-935 win in the middle game saved Casablanca from dropping all three contests.

EARL NICHOLS of Arlington Heights and George Radke of Mundelein were the chief thorns in the side of Casablanca. Nichols had a 631 series with every game 209 or better. Radke had a 604 triplicate including a 214 final game.

Timroth Plumbing of Des Plaines finished just one game out of second but this area was so clogged with teams that Timroth, which bowls out of Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights, had to settle for fifth place despite winning a pair from Pro Sport Center of Mt. Prospect.

Bill Radunz of Arlington Heights was the mainstay in Timroth's two wins. His 221 and 264 games were the high points as he totaled 674 for the three games. No teammate nor foe came within 100 pins of him.

In the final match, Jeffery Lanes of Wheeling defeated Moyle Construction twice to drop the Ten Pin based team deeper into the cellar. Buck Perkins of Woodstock paced Jeffery with a 614 series and Casper DeWitz of Barrington was high for Moyle Construction with a 591 triplicate

Sims Bowl (835-796-893—2524) beat Northfield Bowl (884-757-804—2445), 2-1.

PAIRINGS SATURDAY
at Beverly Lanes, Arlington Heights

Sims Bowl vs. Morton Pontiac
Northfield Bowl vs. River - Rand Bowl
Steve's Restaurant vs. Vernon Hills Restaurant

Bowling on its home Jeffery Lanes in Wheeling, Steve's Restaurant belted Morton Pontiac three times as Morton of Arlington Heights went into the battle just one game behind Steve's Restaurant.

And if Vernon Hills Restaurant of Lake Zurich entertained any thought of a title, it too went out the window when the Country Lanes team was upset twice by River-Rand Bowl of Des Plaines.

STEVE'S Restaurant's captain, Delores Harris of Wheeling, finished the night in grand style with a 247 game to give her a 603 series. Both game and series were high for the league for the night. Her 247 game also gave Steve's a 987 game, which was team high for the year and a 120-pin victory.

Before that, Steve's Restaurant had a much tougher time winning the first two en route to a 32-16 first half record and knocking Morton Pontiac's record back to 28-20. Delores Harris wasn't the only star for Steve's as Dona Reynolds of Northbrook and Janice Crovetti of Highwood bowled 565 and 563 series, respectively.

Vernon Hills Restaurant bowled its good game at the wrong time, losing two but outpinning River-Rand. Even so, its one victory enabled the Lake Zurich team to finish second with a 29-19 record.

JACKIE MOORE of Niles with a 200 effort and Peggy Sparks of Rolling Meadows with 196 captured the opening game for River-Rand and a 192 by Alice Ulrich of Chicago headed River-Rand's second triumph as both teams sagged in the scoring column. Then Marge Calkins of Lake Zurich bowled 221 and Bonnie Kuhn of Mundelein 201 to save Vernon Hills from a whitewash.

Northfield Bowl lost two games to last place Sims Bowl as Ruth Beyer of Palatine rolled a noticeable 570 series, including games of 206 and 213.

Next Saturday the second round will get under way with the girls bowling at 6:30 p.m. at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights.

2nd Session Of Classes Open Saturday

The second session of the Arlington Heights Park Districts' winter program of Tumbling and Trampoline instruction will start Saturday morning, January 14. Because of the large registration in the first session, classes will be held at both Recreation and Pioneer Parks during the second session.

Mike Karon, frosh-soph gymnastics coach at Arlington high will instruct the classes at Recreation Park. Karon conducted the Park Districts' summer session of Tumbling and Trampoline classes.

Dick Ohl will conduct the classes at Pioneer Park.

The classes will be held on Saturday morning, starting at 9 a.m. for the 6 to 8 year olds, from 10 to 11 a.m. for the 9-to-13 year olds and from 11 to 12 noon for the advanced students. The classes are limited to 30 students and there is a $2 registration fee for the eight lessons.

Because this type of activity is considered to be the best for developing strong bodies, the Park District urges all parents to encourage their children to partici- CL 3-0620 to register. pate in this program. Call

Norge Ski Club Hosts Jumping Tourney Sunday

The Norge Ski Club's 56th annual ski jumping tournament at Fox River Grove Sunday, Jan. 15, matches the ranking American performers against outstanding contestants from the Orient and Europe.

Two Japanese jumpers, Kiyotaka Sakai and Yukio Kasaya, made their first appearance in this country in the Eau Claire, Wis., tournament on Sunday, January 8.

Torbjorn Yggeseth, who competed for the Norwegian team in the Olympic Winter Games last year at Squaw Valley, is an exchange student at Wenatchee, Wash., and will wear his homeland's colors at Fox River Grove.

YGGESETH'S excellent record in European competition before coming to this country influenced Norway's skiing officials to "draft" him for the Olympics, the first time that country, regarded as the cradel of ski jumping, made an absentee selection. He will renew competition with the American Olympic team, which will compete in the Norge meet. Yggeseth finished fifth at Squaw Valley, highest placing for the Norwegian team, with Ansten Samuelstuen riding close on his heels in seventh place to lead the U. S.

Cole Lenzi's Annual Tourney Opens January 20

Cole Lenzi's 25th annual 3-day Individual Jackpot handicap and scratch bowling tournament will be held Jan. 20-21-22 at Lenzi Recreation, Route 66 and East ave., four miles south of La Grange, Ill. The three-day meet for American Bowling Congress sanctioned league bowlers will accept post entries. Bowlers will be permitted to enter twice each day, but may only cash once in the regular prize list.

Bill Cook Buick Captures 1st Half Crown in Classic

Bill Cook Buick met the challenge and won. Its prize is the first half championship of the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

The challenge came from Cook County Mobile Homes as the No. 1 and 2 teams battled it out in their position round match Saturday night at Ten Pin in Barrington.

Cook County Mobile Homes, based at River-Rand in Des Plaines, complicated things by taking the first game by 10 pins, but Bill Cook Buick, representing Bowlway in Elgin, rebounded to win the second game by 100 pins and assure itself of a title tie. This set the stage for the final game.

BILL COOK Buick needed the final game to clinch the title. It met the challenge and won. From the fourth frame on, Bill Cook Buick was in complete charge.

It was then that the Automen began to string strikes. Anchor man Tom Kouros of Barrington Woods, who paced the champions, and John Seidel of Palatine each scored a turkey and Jim Perna of Rolling Meadows and Dave Catherwood of Arlington Heights recorded doubles.

And when it looked like Cook County Mobile Homes might catch up, Whitey Hefferan of Elk Grove Village, Catherwood and Perna converted splits in the seventh, eighth and ninth frames, respectively, to help Bill Cook rack up 50 marks and a 975-913 triumph.

KOUROS TOOK individual honors. Besides the turkey, he finished with a four bagger for a 222 game. And that was his low game for the night. Before then, Kouros, the only kegler in the league to average 200 or better -- he had 201 -- rolled games of 235 and 233 for a 690 series. That was high series for the night among all contestants.

Bill Bond's Mens Wear of Rolling Meadows was the only team able to move up in the standings as a result of its position round match. Two wins over Tommy Thomas' Casablanca five boosted the Country Lanes team of Lake Zurich from fourth into a second place tie with Cook County Mobile Homes.

The 2938 series by Bill Bond's was high in league play and only a 939-935 win in the middle game saved Casablanca from dropping all three contests.

EARL NICHOLS of Arlington Heights and George Radke of Mundelein were the chief thorns in the side of Casablanca. Nichols had a 631 series with every game 209 or better. Radke had a 604 triplicate including a 214 final game.

Timroth Plumbing of Des Plaines finished just one game out of second but this area was so clogged with teams that Timroth, which bowls out of Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights, had to settle for fifth place despite winning a pair from Pro Sport Center of Mt. Prospect.

Bill Radunz of Arlington Heights was the mainstay in Timroth's two wins. His 221 and 264 games were the high points as he totaled 674 for the three games. No teammate nor foe came within 100 pins of him.

In the final match, Jeffery Lanes of Wheeling defeated Moyle Construction twice to drop the Ten Pin based team deeper into the cellar. Buck Perkins of Woodstock paced Jeffery with a 614 series and Casper DeWitz of Barrington was high for Moyle Construction with a 591 triplicate

Steve's Restaurant Cops 1st Half Title

Let it be said the Steve's Restaurant of Wheeling deserves the first half championship of the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League that it earned Saturday night.

Bowling on its home Jeffery Lanes in Wheeling, Steve's Restaurant belted Morton Pontiac three times as Morton of Arlington Heights went into the battle just one game behind Steve's Restaurant.

And if Vernon Hills Restaurant of Lake Zurich entertained any thought of a title, it too went out the window when the Country Lanes team was upset twice by River-Rand Bowl of Des Plaines.

STEVE'S Restaurant's captain, Delores Harris of Wheeling, finished the night in grand style with a 247 game to give her a 603 series. Both game and series were high for the league for the night. Her 247 game also gave Steve's a 987 game, which was team high for the year and a 120-pin victory.

Before that, Steve's Restaurant had a much tougher time winning the first two en route to a 32-16 first half record and knocking Morton Pontiac's record back to 28-20. Delores Harris wasn't the only star for Steve's as Dona Reynolds of Northbrook and Janice Crovetti of Highwood bowled 565 and 563 series, respectively.

Vernon Hills Restaurant bowled its good game at the wrong time, losing two but outpinning River-Rand. Even so, its one victory enabled the Lake Zurich team to finish second with a 29-19 record.

JACKIE MOORE of Niles with a 200 effort and Peggy Sparks of Rolling Meadows with 196 captured the opening game for River-Rand and a 192 by Alice Ulrich of Chicago headed River-Rand's second triumph as both teams sagged in the scoring column. Then Marge Calkins of Lake Zurich bowled 221 and Bonnie Kuhn of Mundelein 201 to save Vernon Hills from a whitewash.

Northfield Bowl lost two games to last place Sims Bowl as Ruth Beyer of Palatine rolled a noticeable 570 series, including games of 206 and 213.

Next Saturday the second round will get under way with the girls bowling at 6:30 p.m. at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights.

2nd Session Of Classes Open Saturday

The second session of the Arlington Heights Park Districts' winter program of Tumbling and Trampoline instruction will start Saturday morning, January 14. Because of the large registration in the first session, classes will be held at both Recreation and Pioneer Parks during the second session.

Mike Karon, frosh-soph gymnastics coach at Arlington high will instruct the classes at Recreation Park. Karon conducted the Park Districts' summer session of Tumbling and Trampoline classes.

Dick Ohl will conduct the classes at Pioneer Park.

The classes will be held on Saturday morning, starting at 9 a.m. for the 6 to 8 year olds, from 10 to 11 a.m. for the 9-to-13 year olds and from 11 to 12 noon for the advanced students. The classes are limited to 30 students and there is a $2 registration fee for the eight lessons.

Because this type of activity is considered to be the best for developing strong bodies, the Park District urges all parents to encourage their children to partici- CL 3-0620 to register. pate in this program. Call

VIRGINIA TERRACE

Veneta Kellogg, Joanne Herndon, Linda Thompson, Joan McGinnis, Mary Massa, Kay Platte, Lena Duss, Ann Cardinell and Mary Margaret Francis, Arlington Heights, were guests of Eugenia Stevens, 1716 W. Olive, December 28, when she hosted a surprise baby shower for Dolores Bracht, 1337 N. Wilke. Unable to attend the affair, highlighted by Christmas-stork decorations and a buffet service, were Patricia Craig and Ruth Rollefson.

Laurie, daughter of Pat and Elm Lechelt, 1247 N. Race, 9 January 1, celebrated her birthday with close friend, Susan Shields, December 29, when Pat took the girls into Chicago for lunch at the Country Store restaurant and shopping for several of Laurie's gifts. To make the day a complete holiday, the girls were treated to a viewing of "Swiss Family Robinson" and dinner out before heading for home.

Lena and Lee Duss, 1322 N. Race, and their son, Doug, spent the holidays in the home of Lena's mother, Mrs. William Schubert, Ft. Mason, Iowa. Hectic, but never to be forgotten, was the reunion of the family Christmas eve in Mrs. Schubert's home, meaning that all seven of her sons and daughters and their respective families were present for the festivities.

DUE TO ILLNESS, the 14th birthday of Doug, January 3, was celebrated quietly at home with his parents.

Mary Ellen and Eugene Van de Merkt, 1231 N. Wilke, became grandparents January 8, when their daughter and son-in-law, Judy and Harold Pease, heralded the arrival of a daughter, Shirley Kathleen, 7 pounds 8 ounces.

The holidays were enjoyed by Bess and Richard Reese, 1301 N. Illinois, in the home of Bess' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kellon Clifton, Grayson, Ky., who, in turn, were delighted with the visit of their granddaughters, Mary Lynn, Susan Lee and Jean Marie. The Reeses also visited other relatives and many old friends.

Jean Marie, one December 30, was honored at a family dinner party.

Because the excitement of the holidays was just beginning to ebb away, the fourth birthday of John, son of Phyllis and Milton Formhals, 1401 N. Chicago, was celebrated quietly at a family dinner party.

A welcome is extended to Gen and Jesse Galloway, 1111 N. Wilke, who began the new year by moving into their first home New Year's eve. They and their children, Catherine, 3, and Michael, 1, will attend Arlington Heights Evangelical Free church. When settled in their new home, Gen hopes to find more time to devote to her hobby of water color and oil painting, while Jesse, after working hours at the Arlington Fender and Body shop, enjoys indulging in his hobbies of hunting, fishing and photography.

A SURPRISE luncheon was held Wednesday for Connie McBride, 1206 N. Race, who will soon leave the Terrace, at Old Orchard country club. Friends wishing her much luck and happiness in her new home were from Arlington Heights, Ridge Park, Mt. Prospect, Palatine and Rockford. Special guest was Connie's mother, Mrs. Stephen Love, Chicago. A gift was presented to Connie as a remembrance.

The 16th birthday of John, son of Virginia and Dean Arnold, 1410 N. Race, was celebrated at a family dinner party January 5. The following Saturday John was treated to dinner in Chicago.

It's been a hectic pace for Joyce and Bob Anderson, 1234 N. Yale, the past few weeks, with one of the highlights being the holiday get together at home December 28, with neighbors the Bill Borlands, Bill Heises, Bud Guderleys, Dave Pendletons, Taft Lowells and the Chet Giulianis, Sherwood, present. The John Gavels were missed at this soiree.

Next in line was the fourth birthday of their son, Mark, January 4, who was honored at a family party. Beside his sisters, Kris Ann and Karen, his grandparents, Mrs. Ebba Anderson, Schiller Park, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Streich, Mt. Prospect, and good friends Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nelson, Schiller Park, were present.

SATURDAY afternoon the Andersons entertained Mark's playmates at a party. Center of attraction for his sisters and Timmy Borland, Nancy and Tommy Ostler, Wayne Heise, Janet and Cindy Pendleton, Kay and Reid Lowell, Gary Gabel, Jeff Gilson and Jane Giuliani, Sherwood, being the choo-choo train cake.

Card playing, dancing, toasting in the New Year, topped off with a buffet supper, was the way Marlene and Dave Pendleton, Doris and John Gabel and John's sister, Jo, welcomed in 1961 in the home of Hazel and Taft Lowell, 1246 N. Yale.

Candice, 7 January 5, was guest of honor last Saturday at a party given by her parents, Anne and Bill Cardinell, 1710 Olive, for her schoolmates, Mary Ballard, Marian Ellworth, Margaret Currelli and Shelley Trainor, brother, Billy, and his friend, Kenny Massa. Illness precluded the attendance of Mary Kay Roser, Celine Scully and Diane Cooper.

That evening Candy's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cardinell, and great aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Cardinell, all of Chicago, were present for a share of the birthday cake and ice cream.

Evelyn and Al Schmitt, 1321 N. Illinois, enjoyed having as their guests New Year's eve Terrace neighbors, Eleanor and John Whipple and Charlene and Leslie Bang, as well as Charlene's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanus, Dunhurst Heights.

BUSINESS in their home state of New York provided a wonderful 3-week holiday for Pat and Bill Ross, 1252 N. Chicago, and their children, Billy and Cindy. Enroute to the home of Pat's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McNeill, Bay Ridge, N. Y., the Rosses stopped off at Ft. Dix, N. J., to spend several hours with former Terrace neighbors, Martha and Chuck Dillman, who send regards to their friends here. Pat reports their whirl at home included luncheons, dinner parties, holiday get togethers with relatives and old friends, as well as specific highlights, such as being in the audience of the Jack Paar show, watching the video taping of "Meet the Press" and a visit to other television studios, Billy's visit to the stock exchange, taking the children to the famed Museum of Natural History and celebrating their 12th wedding anniversary December 26 by having dinner at "Leoni's" with old friends. Also, Billy's ninth birthday, also December 26, was highlighted by the surprise appearance of cake and ice cream in the various homes of former playmates, and his special treat of sharing the anniversary dinner with his parents.

News Of Prospect Meadows

Prospect Meadows Womens auxiliary will meet Thursday evening, Jan. 26, in the field house. Guest speaker will be a doctor who will show a film sponsored by the American Cancer society.

Congratulations are being extended to Pat and Joseph Phillippe, 440 Bob-o-link rd., on the birth of a son, Christoher Gerard, December 8 in Resurrection hospital. Christopher weighed 8 pounds 7 ounces. The other children are Carol, 5, Catherine, 4, Michael, 3, and Patrick, 2.

Monday afternoon Pat Phillippe's luncheon guests were Mrs. Caryle Umbenstock and her infant daughter, Mary, Mundelein.

Jo Nolan, 613 Oriole lane, entertained her 500 card club at a Christmas party Thursday evening. Attending the party and playing cards were Mrs. A. Goldke, Mrs. D. Goldke, Mrs. M. Saar, Mrs. E. Wagner, Mrs. G. Johnson and Miss Myrtle Laterburg, Arlington Heights, Mrs. W. Miller and Mrs. D. Magiel, Barrington, Mrs. Marie Rizzi, Mt. Prospect, Vi Toner, Betty Halabrin and Betty Wagner.

Saturday evening Marguerite and Ron Dejaeghere, 605 Rand road, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Byron Williams of Wilmette, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hardisty and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Casselle, Arlington Heights.

SUNDAY evening dinner guests of Vi and Tony Toner, 617 Oriole lane, were Vi's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Gladson, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert North, Chicago.

Jan and Bob Scott and Anne and Dave Swanson went ice skating Sunday night at Lyons park.

The grandmothers club met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Hattie Walz, 625 Bunting lane. Attending the meeting were Mrs. Myrtle Stickrod, Mrs. Orvilla Daley, Mrs. Martha Melvin, Mrs. Anne Leichsenring, Mrs. Helena Woodruff, Mrs. Pearl Jost, Mrs. Janet Nye and Mrs. Edna Vartanian, Arlington Heights.

Wednesday evening Pat and John Wrath, 405 Bob-o-link rd., and Pat's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Schweitzer, Northbrook, celebrated their 12th and 19th wedding anniversaries, respectively, by dining at Landl's restaurant, Morton Grove. Sunday evening Miss Helen Van Laere and Miss Marge Hogan, Chicago, were the Wraths' dinner guests.

Peggy and Skip Czech, 420 Larkdale, played the game "Clue" with Lee and Edward Butler, Mount Prospect Saturday night.

Betty Halabrin, 616 Oriole lane, attended a club meeting Wednesday afternoon in Arlington Heights, after which the members had luncheon at Villa Venice. (AM

Top Soprano Charms Audience at Concert

by JOAN GRISELL

Substituting on short notice for scheduled Beverly Bower, attractive young lyric-soprano Doris Yarick sang Sunday evening to an audience of nearly a thousand members of Community Concerts association.

She was very ably accompanied at the piano by George Lawner, assistant conductor of the Chicago Lyric Opera. In lieu of printed programs, Lawner presented brief notes as he announced most of the evening's selections.

The opening English songs of the eighteenth century were sung pleasantly, almost informally, with a warm, lovely voice and an easy manner. The Mozart differed little in spirit and style.

AN unintentional hoarseness sounded slightly in the lower tones of the first of the lovely Mendelssohn and Wolf songs, the Giannini, and the first Puccini aria, but the timbre of the high and full tones when controlled, was principally rich and sweet. Sensitive dynamics were most apparent in Mimi's "Addio" and the closing Musetta's "Waltz," which latter role she has portrayed with acclaim during the recent Chicago Lyric Opera season.

In "The Stork's Message," with its assisting programmatic accompaniment, Miss Yarick's expressive interpretation seemed to come alive for the evening; Micaela's aria from Carmen contrasted in a dramatic atmosphere of changed mood, its tone register full and beautiful.

Miss Yarick's diction is clear and unaffected, French seeming more in keeping at present with her interpretations than German.

The first of the impressionistic De Bussy songs contained a delightful surprise in her rendition — beautiful limpid phrases of vivid color hung like suspended jewels, before the applause.

RACHMAININOFF'S "Lilacs," with its prediction of fortune to be told, seemed almost a trademark for her purple satin gowned concert impression — comely, feminine, a study in light rather than in depth, as a sun-flecked pool may flow to its future in a powerful moving river.

An innovation for listeners were the five love songs written for her by Warren Martin of New York. The songs themselves (on first hearing) as varied as those of Schubert, Purcell and LaForge, fit her voice and abilities perhaps most charmingly of all the evenings entertaining fare.

Encores were "And this is my Beloved" from Kismet and Gershwin's "Summertime." (ACM

Manducation; mastication; chewing; eating. "His noisy manducation at the table was very annoying"

Intervention; act of coming between by way of hindrance; interference. "The two men would have come to blows, had it not been for the officer's intervention."

PTA Annual Card Party Is Planned

The Arlington Heights PTA annual card party will be held Thursday, Feb. 9, at 8 p.m., at both South junior high and Miner junior high schools.

As in the past, bridge, canasta and pinochle will be offered. Prizes and refreshments are included with the price of the tickets, which will soon be available from room mothers.

All are invited to form their own groups or come unattached and be seated by the hostesses. (A

Patton ave.; Mrs. Glenn Phillips, 1311 W. Oakton; Mrs. William Reinhardt, 1414 N. Illinois ave.; Mrs. Daniel S. Servins, 1420 Yale ct.

THE CHAIRMEN urged every family to read the leaflet which the volunteer marcher will leave at the door. In addition to containing information about Cerebral Palsy, the leaflet gives a vital Civil Defense message. The message, which can be clipped out and placed in a wallet, tells how to detect warning sounds of an attack, the best way to take cover and the emergency Conelrad radio number.

Almost a million homes in the four county area will be canvassed on Sunday, January 15, said general chairman Mrs. Warren G. McPherson. She stated, "Our large number of volunteers - 40,000 - is indicative of the concern which is felt for the Cerebral Palsied. We, of United Cerebral Palsy, are gratified that so many persons are willing to donate their time and efforts. We promise that the donations which they collect will continue to be used to the best advantage in making the lives of the Cerebral palsied happier and healthier.

The 53 minute march, so named because a child is born every 53 minutes with cerebral palsy, to be held on Sunday, January 15, climaxes the annual United Cerebral Palsy drive which began December 27. (A14

Auxiliary Gets YMCA Kitchen Ready for Open House

YOU THINK YOU had a lot of dishes to wash during the Christmas holidays? Then try counting all the pieces of tableware needed to serve 200 people, and that's what these women are washing for the new Northwest Suburban YMCA's kitchen. There is no cafeteria in the building, but the new 'Y' is equipped to serve catered meals to YMCA activity groups and many civic organizations who will use the facilities for meetings and special events. Shown on the kitchen assembly line are, left to right, Mrs. Stanley C. Amren of Mt. Prospect as "dishwasher," Miss Helen Coryell of the 'Y' staff as "rinser" and Mrs. John Arndt of Mt. Prospect as "dryer." Mrs. Amren and Mrs. Arndt are members of the auxiliary, and Miss Coryell is women's director at the 'Y.' A group of women from the auxiliary will also serve as guides this Sunday for the open house of the new building. Tours will be in progress from 1 to 3 p.m. and from 4 to 6 p.m., with a dedication ceremony at 3 o'clock. (S

UNPACKING BOXES of dishes, silverware, pots and pans and all the extras to complete a table service for 200 are Mrs. Stephen Jurco, left, and Mrs. Robert Bukowski, right, both of Arlington Heights and both members of Northwest Suburban YMCA Women's auxiliary. The recently-formed auxiliary has volunteered hours and hours of service during the past weeks to help the 'Y' staff prepare for the open house on Sunday at the new 'Y' building, located on Northwest hwy. near Mt. Prospect rd. Women from the auxiliary have also been busy as 'Y' office volunteers, folding, inserting and sealing thousands of mailing pieces, all under direction of Mrs. Bukowski. The auxiliary is a service group for women interested in making the new 'Y' a successful center of family activities. All women from this area are welcome to join. (S

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

Books for Children

Dear Peg:

Of all the books we received this Christmas, and we all received some—from Mrs. Conder came "Fish and Be Damned" for Bob and "Party Flowers" for me, a wonderful guide to seasonal flower arrangements and for each child a book that would interest him or her—the books that the girls received from their Grandparents were the most unusual.

Both Megan and Bridget love to read—a tribute to their first grade teacher who along with teaching her class to read also seems to engender in the children a desire to read. They spend a great deal of time at the library and always come home loaded down with the maximum number of books each may take out. (Our only problem is getting the books back—too often we could have bought the books for what the fine costs!)

Bridget's book from Grandpa and Grandma is called "Along Came a Dog," by Meindert DeJong. It's a delightful little story of the unusual relationship between a dog and a hen. During an ice storm the little red hen's toes are frozen rendering her crippled and easy prey for any of the other animals who might want to hurt her. The big black dog who comes to live at the farm wants nothing more than to love his master and protect the little hen—which he does in several dramatic incidents in the book. The many lovely illustrations add a great deal to the book.

For Megan, Grandma selected a book of poems for young people by Edna St. Vincent Millay. A small volume, it contains several long poems, a group of sonnets and some of the loveliest nature poems I've ever read. Of the group of amusing little selections this one caught Megan's fancy:

"All the grown-up people say,
"What those ugly thistles?
Musn't touch them! Keep away!
Prickly! Full of bristles!'
Yet they never make me bleed
Half so much as roses!
Must be purple is a weed,
And pink and white is posies.

The illustrations are by Joseph Paget-Fredricks. In his delicate little drawings he has caught the elfin quality of the poetry.

My love,
Patty

Area Clubs to Hear Patricia Clafford

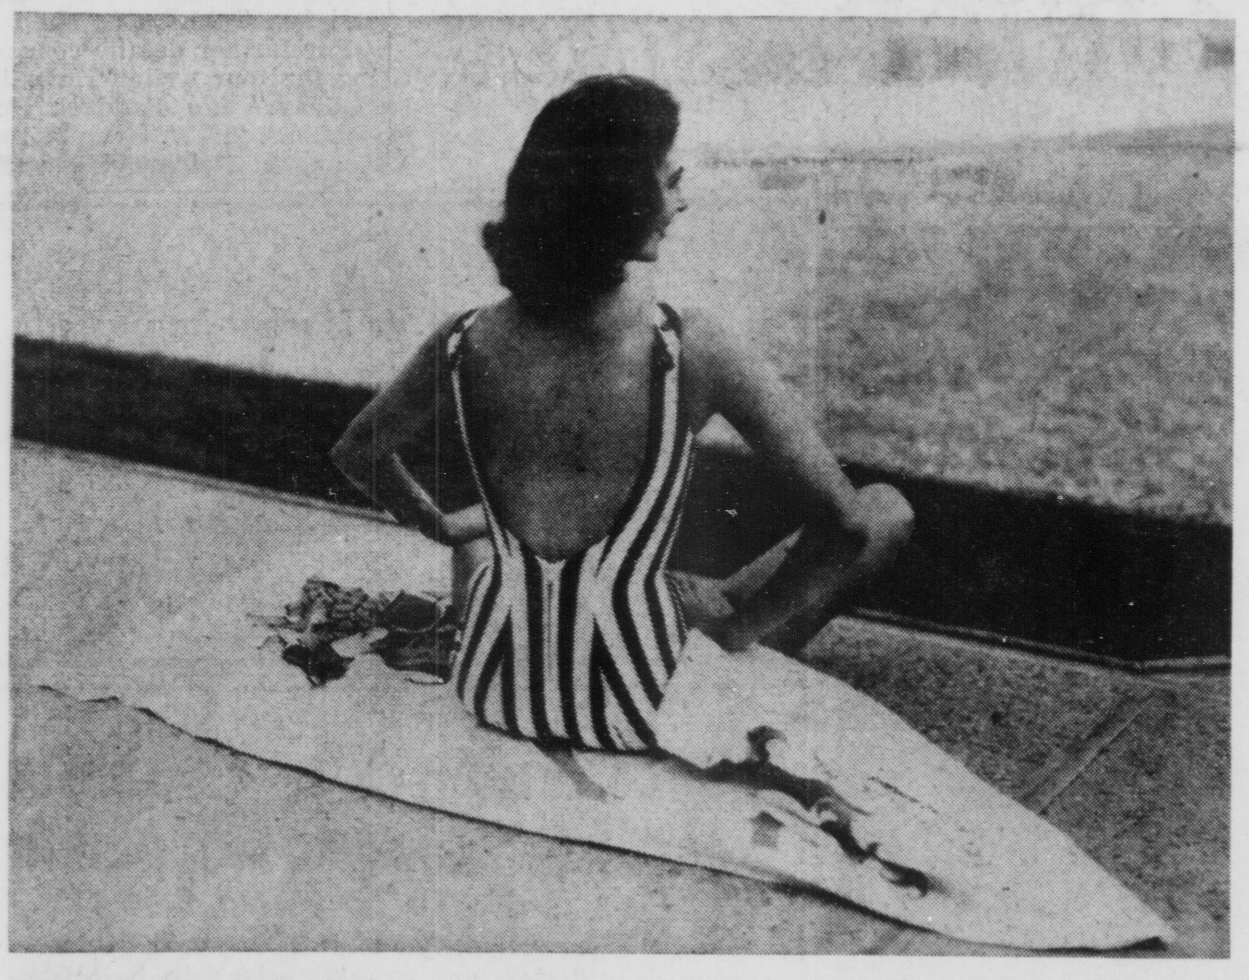
MRS. CLAFFORD

Mrs. Patricia Clafford, noted author, lecturer and book reviewer, will be making appearances before two local groups next week. January 16, she will be speaking to members of the Mothers Club of Notre Dame high school for boys on "Make Personality Work for You." This meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The following Thursday, Jan. 19, she will be reviewing "The Net of Gold" by Alice Ekert-Rotholz for members of St. Raymond's Catholic Women's club in the parish hall, Mt. Prospect.

MRS. CLAFFORD is an honorary member of the Women's Literary Club of Chicago, a member of the Poet's Forum, the Iota Sigma Epsilon Journalists society, Medill school of Journalism, Northwestern university, and has recently received the sorority's 1959-60 award of merit in the field of writing.

Mrs. Clafford, who makes numerous radio and TV appearances, is currently chairman for 1960-61 of TV and radio for Chicago branch of the National Society of Arts and Letters. (S



MARINA DEL MAR takes a cool, elasticized sharkskin in crisp, woven stripes and shapes it into the resort season's slimmest sheath. Mitred stripes belittle the waistline and lead to a long, narrow silhouette with keynote simplicity. The same emphatic stripes frame a deep oval plunge at the back which Marina Del Mar designs for serious sunning, and of course, dramatic exits. The California designer's suits will soon be available in local stores.

Sorority Activities

PANHELLENIC

Panhellenic members and their guests from the northwest suburbs are meeting for luncheon today, Jan. 12, at 1 p.m. in the Colonial restaurant, Morton Grove.

Special guests of the group will be Mr. and Mrs. Alexander M. Harley of Park Ridge, who will entertain the sorority women and their friends with movies and comments about Budapest and their recent European trip.

ANY member of a National Panhellenic conference sorority living in Des Plaints, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, Arlington Heights or surrounding area is invited to join the Northwest Suburban Panhellenic association.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Local Tri Delts will meet Wednesday Jan. 18, at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. James L. Bradshaw, 426 Wisner, Park Ridge. Dessert and the business meeting will follow the program which will feature Mrs. Edward Olsen, a teacher in the Park Ridge schools, who with her family, spent eight months last year in Central Africa.

Co-hostesses are Mrs. Clifford Cooper and Mrs. Roger Steele, HE 9-0326.

DELTA ZETA

The monthly meeting for Delta Zeta alumnae of the northwest suburban area will be held January 16th at 8:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Richard Doyle III, 104 S. Albert, Mt. Prospect.

The program for the evening will be given by Mrs. John Clapper, Delta Zeta from Park Ridge. She and her husband are publishers of the magazine Pack-O-Fun and she will speak on "Things To Do with your Children at Home."

Reservations may be made through Mrs. Henry Korff, CL 3-3972, or Mrs. Briard Strout, CL 5-4736. (S

BETA SIGMA PHI

The January 4 meeting of Lambda Delta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held in the home of Mrs. William Valiant of Prospect Heights. On the program was a talk, "How Is Your Conversation," given by Mrs. Marvin Wemken and Mrs. Frank Wiedl.

The next meeting, January 18, is scheduled for the home of Mrs. Norman Fletcher of Palatine, when a silent auction will take place.

AAUW to Hear Anthropologist

Anthropologist Lucille N. Kaplan, recipient of the AAUW Fellowship for advanced study, will speak today, Jan. 12, to members of the Arlington Heights branch of the American Association of University Women. The group will meet at 8 p.m. for a half hour coffee in the meeting room of Lauterburg and Oehler. Miss Kaplan's talk, illustrated with colored slides, will follow.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Clayton Silvertsen, Mrs. Melvin Shepherd and Mrs. Charles Sauter. Any qualified women who wish to affiliate with the branch may contact Mrs. Gerald Teletzke, membership chairman, at CLearbrook 9-4116 for information. (S

Groom's Mother Travels Here from South America

A trip from her home in Bagota, Colombia, South America brought Mrs. Joseph Davila to witness the marriage of her son, Maurice Davila of Mt. Prospect, to Miss Eileen DiValerio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mario L. DiValerio, 8 N. School, Mt. Prospect. The wedding took place October 22 in St Ferdinand church, Chicago, at 3 p.m. with Fr. Guistolise officiating.

The double ring service was followed by a reception in the Oak Park Arms hotel where Mrs. Davila and the bride's parents greeted 200 guests.

Four attendants in royal blue satin gowns and carrying bouquets of chrysanthemums and pompons preceded Miss DeValerio down the aisle. They were Mrs. William Torres as matron of honor and the Misses Marilyn LaBrillo, Joyce Jacbum and Diane Cola as bridesmaids. All were of Chicago.

THE BRIDE'S gown was of chantilly lace with beaded neckline and tiered skirt ending in a chapel train. Her hand-rolled fingertip veil was attached to a beaded crown and she carried orchids and stephanotis. Mr. DiValerio gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's mother chose a silk organza and lace sheath with a corsage of hybrid orchids while the bridegroom's mother chose an avocado lace-tiered sheath with corsage of white orchids.

WILLIAM Torres of Chicago was best man and ushers were Herman Contueras of Chicago, Patrick Scalzith of Chicago and Donald DeVale of River Forest.

The newlyweds, now living in Mt. Prospect, honeymooned at the Villa Moderne for one week. The bride was graduated from Arlington high school and also attended Elmhurst college. Her bridegroom hurst college. Her bridegroom, son of the late Joseph Davila, a lawyer with the U.S. embassy, attended Chicago Technical college and is now with Photopress Inc. (S

Infant Welfare Is Marking 50th Year

Wednesday, Feb. 1, will be a busy day for women of Chicago's suburbs who devote their time and energy to working for the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago. For on that day, the woman's auxiliary will hold its annual meeting at 2:30 p.m. in the Bernard Shaw room of the Sherman hotel, where the president of each of the society's 51 centers will report on the year's work.

The day will come to a gala climax when the women join their husbands and the men and women of the board of directors of the Infant Welfare for cocktails and the 50th anniversary dinner in the Grand Ballroom of the hotel.

THE THREE Paddock area centers will be represented at the board meeting by their presidents, Mrs. William Hunter of Mt. Prospect, Mrs. Charles J. Foxgrover Jr. of Palatine, and Mrs. William H. Ball of Arlington Heights. Other members of all three area centers are planning on joining the group for the dinner, at which an attendance of 1400 is expected. (S

Parents of Deaf To Hear Panel

A panel of teenagers, all deaf, will discuss their past education, present school standings and social activities as well as their future educational plans February 1, when the Parents Group of the Deaf from the north and northwest suburbs meets at 8 p.m. in the Glenview public library.

The panel which includes a Mt. Prospect boy, will be chairmaned by a teacher from Bell school, Chicago.

Following the program, the business meeting will be conducted and will include reports on the group's activities regarding teacher recruitment and public education. Anyone interested is invited. The group is affiliated with the Alexander Graham Bell association in Washington, D. C. (S

Quite Contrary by Mary

Film Fan Fizzles Again

YEARS AND YEARS AGO, when I was a child, I was a movie addict. I was such an addict that I didn't care what I saw just as long as I had my eyes glued to the silver screen. Just to show how tasteless my taste in movies was, I saw "The Crusades" with Henry Wilcoxen and Loretta Young when she was a child, six times.

Throughout the years, it has remained in my mind as one of the best movies of all time. Until just recently when some writer of authority wrote that Henry Wilcoxen was probably the worst actor to ever hit Hollywood and how smart it was of him to take up directing. In such a way are our childish illusions shattered.

As I aged, my taste in cinema became a wee bit more discriminating. I didn't just go to the movies. I looked first to see what was playing, then I went to the movies. During the last few years I have narrowed this procedure down to just looking to see what was playing. Then I let the children go to the movies.

However, about once a year I get an itch to remove my little beady eyes from the TV and go see how movies made in the last decade differ from those made four score and seven years ago. I start looking in the amusement section picking out likely prospects. When I finally narrow the field down to about three, I start waiting for them to hit the suburban theaters. Never would I venture into the big city just for a movie.

So, what happened last year? I stood in line for a half an hour in the cold waiting to see a picture. I was surrounded with small ones, mine and friends of mine. I saw "Sleeping Beauty" which was not exactly my idea of the picture of the year.

So, what happened this year? I stood in line in the cold for a half an hour surrounded with my own young. It was mighty cold. The movie was "Cinderfella" with that gay blade Jerry Lewis at the helm. It is not exactly my idea of the picture of THIS year either. Well, maybe next year.

During an ice storm the little red hen's toes are frozen rendering her crippled and easy prey for any of the other animals who might want to hurt her. The big black dog who comes to live at the farm wants nothing more than to love his master and protect the little hen—which he does in several dramatic incidents in the book. The many lovely illustrations add a great deal to the book.

For Megan, Grandma selected a book of poems for young people by Edna St. Vincent Millay. A small volume, it contains several long poems, a group of sonnets and some of the loveliest nature poems I've ever read. Of the group of amusing little selections this one caught Megan's fancy:

"All the grown-up people say,
"What those ugly thistles?
Musn't touch them! Keep away!
Prickly! Full of bristles!'
Yet they never make me bleed
Half so much as roses!
Must be purple is a weed,
And pink and white is posies.

The illustrations are by Joseph Paget-Fredricks. In his delicate little drawings he has caught the elfin quality of the poetry.

My love,
Patty

Sorority Activities

PANHELLENIC

Panhellenic members and their guests from the northwest suburbs are meeting for luncheon today, Jan. 12, at 1 p.m. in the Colonial restaurant, Morton Grove.

Special guests of the group will be Mr. and Mrs. Alexander M. Harley of Park Ridge, who will entertain the sorority women and their friends with movies and comments about Budapest and their recent European trip.

ANY member of a National Panhellenic conference sorority living in Des Plaints, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, Arlington Heights or surrounding area is invited to join the Northwest Suburban Panhellenic association.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Local Tri Delts will meet Wednesday Jan. 18, at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. James L. Bradshaw, 426 Wisner, Park Ridge. YOU THINK YOU had a lot of dishes to wash during the Christmas holidays? Then try counting all the pieces of tableware needed to serve 200 people, and that's what these women are washing for the new Northwest Suburban YMCA's kitchen. There is no cafeteria in the building, but the new 'Y' is equipped to serve catered meals to YMCA activity groups and many civic organizations who will use the facilities for meetings and special events. Shown on the kitchen assembly line are, left to right, Mrs. Stanley C. Amren of Mt. Prospect as "dishwasher," Miss Helen Coryell of the 'Y' staff as "rinser" and Mrs. John Arndt of Mt. Prospect as "dryer." Mrs. Amren and Mrs. Arndt are members of the auxiliary, and Miss Coryell is women's director at the 'Y.' A group of women from the auxiliary will also serve as guides this Sunday for the open house of the new building. Tours will be in progress from 1 to 3 p.m. and from 4 to 6 p.m., with a dedication ceremony at 3 o'clock. (S

UNPACKING BOXES of dishes, silverware, pots and pans and all the extras to complete a table service for 200 are Mrs. Stephen Jurco, left, and Mrs. Robert Bukowski, right, both of Arlington Heights and both members of Northwest Suburban YMCA Women's auxiliary. The recently-formed auxiliary has volunteered hours and hours of service during the past weeks to help the 'Y' staff prepare for the open house on Sunday at the new 'Y' building, located on Northwest hwy. near Mt. Prospect rd. Women from the auxiliary have also been busy as 'Y' office volunteers, folding, inserting and sealing thousands of mailing pieces, all under direction of Mrs. Bukowski. The auxiliary is a service group for women interested in making the new 'Y' a successful center of family activities. All women from this area are welcome to join. (S

A trip from her home in Bagota, Colombia, South America brought Mrs. Joseph Davila to witness the marriage of her son, Maurice Davila of Mt. Prospect, to Miss Eileen DiValerio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mario L. DiValerio, 8 N. School, Mt. Prospect. The wedding took place October 22 in St Ferdinand church, Chicago, at 3 p.m. with Fr. Guistolise officiating.

The double ring service was followed by a reception in the Oak Park Arms hotel where Mrs. Davila and the bride's parents greeted 200 guests.

Four attendants in royal blue satin gowns and carrying bouquets of chrysanthemums and pompons preceded Miss DeValerio down the aisle. They were Mrs. William Torres as matron of honor and the Misses Marilyn LaBrillo, Joyce Jacbum and Diane Cola as bridesmaids. All were of Chicago.

THE BRIDE'S gown was of chantilly lace with beaded neckline and tiered skirt ending in a chapel train. Her hand-rolled fingertip veil was attached to a beaded crown and she carried orchids and stephanotis. Mr. DiValerio gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's mother chose a silk organza and lace sheath with a corsage of hybrid orchids while the bridegroom's mother chose an avocado lace-tiered sheath with corsage of white orchids.

WILLIAM Torres of Chicago was best man and ushers were Herman Contueras of Chicago, Patrick Scalzith of Chicago and Donald DeVale of River Forest.

The newlyweds, now living in Mt. Prospect, honeymooned at the Villa Moderne for one week. The bride was graduated from Arlington high school and also attended Elmhurst college. Her bridegroom hurst college. Her bridegroom, son of the late Joseph Davila, a lawyer with the U.S. embassy, attended Chicago Technical college and is now with Photopress Inc. (S

Infant Welfare Is Marking 50th Year

Wednesday, Feb. 1, will be a busy day for women of Chicago's suburbs who devote their time and energy to working for the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago. For on that day, the woman's auxiliary will hold its annual meeting at 2:30 p.m. in the Bernard Shaw room of the Sherman hotel, where the president of each of the society's 51 centers will report on the year's work.

The day will come to a gala climax when the women join their husbands and the men and women of the board of directors of the Infant Welfare for cocktails and the 50th anniversary dinner in the Grand Ballroom of the hotel.

THE THREE Paddock area centers will be represented at the board meeting by their presidents, Mrs. William Hunter of Mt. Prospect, Mrs. Charles J. Foxgrover Jr. of Palatine, and Mrs. William H. Ball of Arlington Heights. Other members of all three area centers are planning on joining the group for the dinner, at which an attendance of 1400 is expected. (S

A panel of teenagers, all deaf, will discuss their past education, present school standings and social activities as well as their future educational plans February 1, when the Parents Group of the Deaf from the north and northwest suburbs meets at 8 p.m. in the Glenview public library.

The panel which includes a Mt. Prospect boy, will be chairmaned by a teacher from Bell school, Chicago.

Following the program, the business meeting will be conducted and will include reports on the group's activities regarding teacher recruitment and public education. Anyone interested is invited. The group is affiliated with the Alexander Graham Bell association in Washington, D. C. (S

Quite Contrary by Mary

Film Fan Fizzles Again

YEARS AND YEARS AGO, when I was a child, I was a movie addict. I was such an addict that I didn't care what I saw just as long as I had my eyes glued to the silver screen. Just to show how tasteless my taste in movies was, I saw "The Crusades" with Henry Wilcoxen and Loretta Young when she was a child, six times.

Throughout the years, it has remained in my mind as one of the best movies of all time. Until just recently when some writer of authority wrote that Henry Wilcoxen was probably the worst actor to ever hit Hollywood and how smart it was of him to take up directing. In such a way are our childish illusions shattered.

As I aged, my taste in cinema became a wee bit more discriminating. I didn't just go to the movies. I looked first to see what was playing, then I went to the movies. During the last few years I have narrowed this procedure down to just looking to see what was playing. Then I let the children go to the movies.

However, about once a year I get an itch to remove my little beady eyes from the TV and go see how movies made in the last decade differ from those made four score and seven years ago. I start looking in the amusement section picking out likely prospects. When I finally narrow the field down to about three, I start waiting for them to hit the suburban theaters. Never would I venture into the big city just for a movie.

So, what happened last year? I stood in line for a half an hour in the cold waiting to see a picture. I was surrounded with small ones, mine and friends of mine. I saw "Sleeping Beauty" which was not exactly my idea of the picture of the year.

So, what happened this year? I stood in line in the cold for a half an hour surrounded with my own young. It was mighty cold. The movie was "Cinderfella" with that gay blade Jerry Lewis at the helm. It is not exactly my idea of the picture of THIS year either. Well, maybe next year.

Luau Feast Climaxes 'Hawaiian Holiday'

Looking for relief from tension?

Then fly to Hawaii as a member of Paddock Publications' two week "Hawaiian Holiday," and let yourself go at a luau, or native feast.

Northwest Orient Airlines, which will fly the tour party to Honolulu via its famous Royal Aloha Service, reports that a luau usually is a colorful climax to a Hawaiian vacation. It features unusual food and beverages, a whole roast pig, and Hawaiian, Samoan and Tahitian entertainment.

MEN guests wear bright Aloha shirts. The women go native in Hawaiian muumuus, sarongs, holomus or holokus. Everyone wears fragrant leis, or floral necklaces. They sit on mats on the floor for the feast, with the food arranged artfully on mats decorated with Island greenery, candles, pineapples and bananas. No knives or forks or spoons are allowed. Everything is eaten with the fingers.

Preparations for a luau begin early in the afternoon. A large pig is filled with hot coals and placed in an "imu," or ground oven. It's covered with hot coals, rock salt, ti leaves, water-soaked sacks and dirt.

SOME six-hours later it's taken up - crisp and delicious, with a slightly smoked flavor. It's displayed briefly to the guests before it's taken away for carving, and a full-blooded Hawaiian sings an ancient chant over it. Yams and bananas are baked with it.

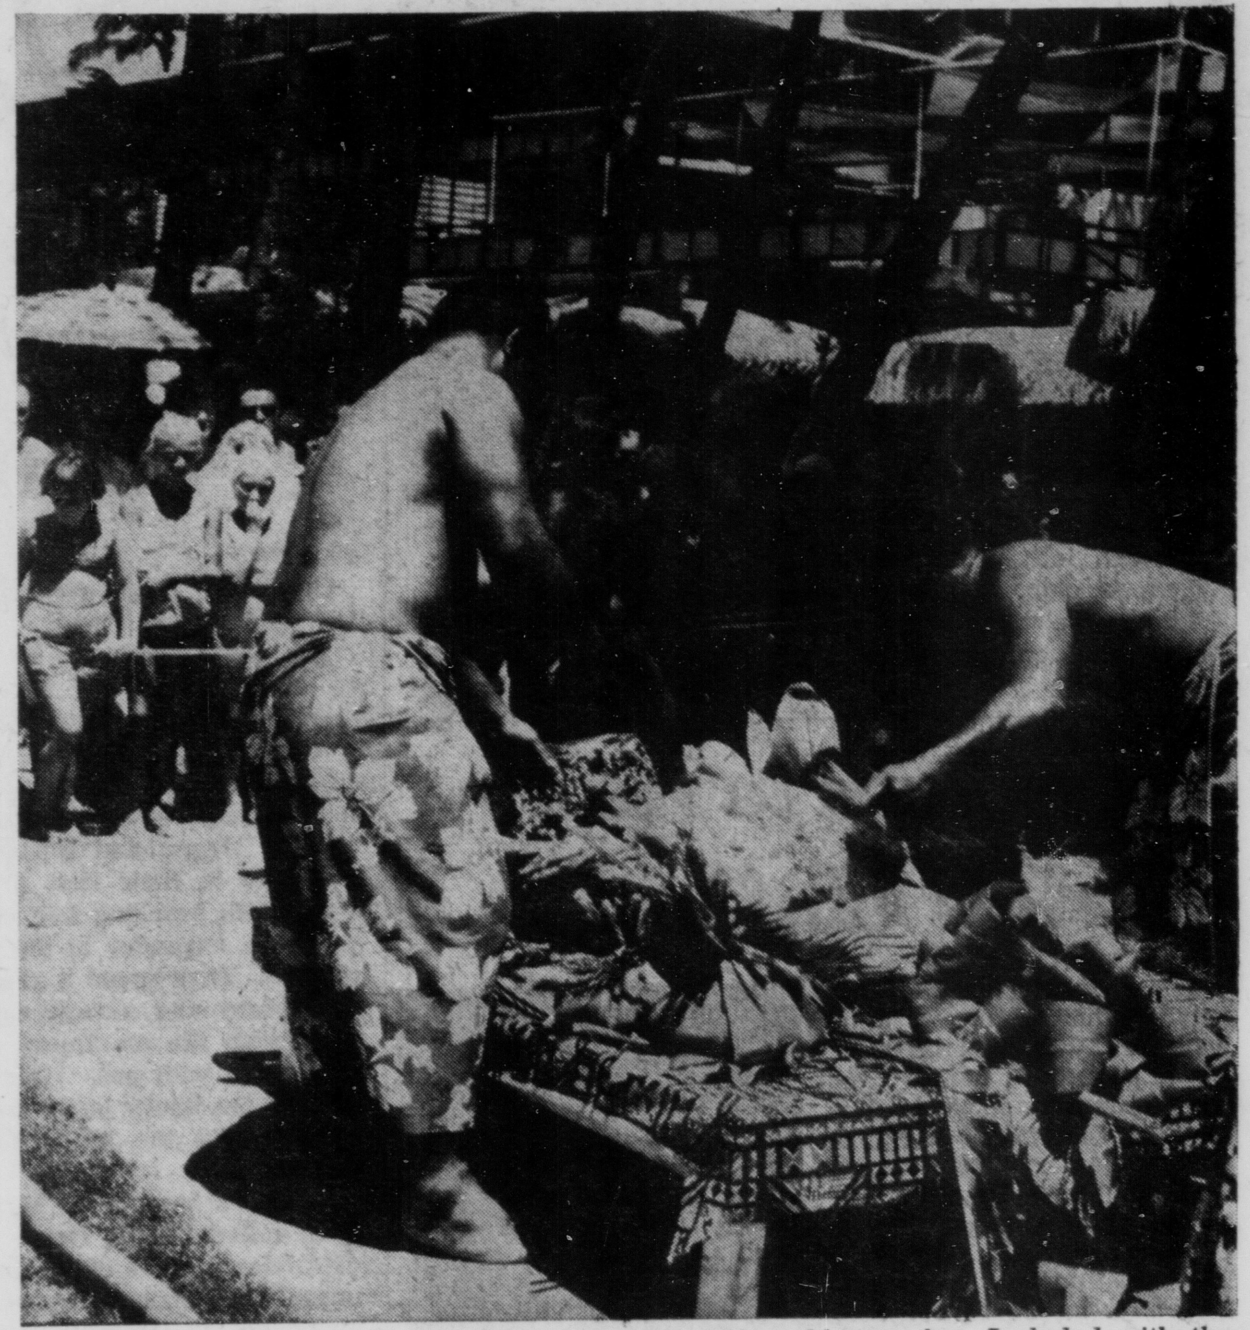
The rest of the menu includes chicken cooked in coconut milk, "lomi lomi" salmon, which is raw salmon "massaged" with onions and tomatoes, and "laulau," bits of salmon, beef and pork steamed in ti leaves.

For a relish, there's "poi," the mainstay of the Island people. Tourists usually compare it with slightly rancid library paste. It's made by pounding the taro - much like a potato - with water until it becomes a gluey consistency that can be slurped by finger.

Dessert is chilled coconut pudding, plus huge slices of fresh pineapple. Strong Kona coffee completes the repast. And by this time the surfeited guests welcome the large napkin soaked in hot water for washing hands and faces.

Hula girls steal the show as far as entertainment goes. Other performers stage flashy Samoan sword dances and fast Tahitian numbers.

For further details concerning the tour write "Hawaiian Holiday," c/o Paddock Publications, 217 W. Campbell st., Arlington Heights, Ill. (Soc



A HAWAIIAN LUAU is a great occasion for festivities and feasting. The pig (puaa) is pictured after removal from the underground oven (imu) which had been heated with red-hot rocks. Included with the pig were yams, bananas, fowl, fish or many other delicacies. (Soc

Judith Ann Kading Is Bride of Bill Russow

(Community Camera (S

An Arlington high school romance was culminated November 5 in Community Church of Rolling Meadows when Miss Judith Ann Kading, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kading, 2205 Campbell, Rolling Meadows, became the bride of William Raymond Russow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Russow of Greenwood rd., Palatine.

The candlelight, double ring service took place at 7 p.m. with Rev. William Herman officiating. Organist was Jeanette Kubajak and soloist was Jack Staley. His selections were "Because You're Mine," "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love." Baskets of gladioli decorated the altar for the ceremony.

The bride, wearing a short gown fashioned with chantilly lace bodice with three quarter sleeves and an organza skirt, chose her cousin, Miss Carol Schueler of Itasca, as her only attendant. Miss Schueler's dress was of blue organza. Pink roses completed her ensemble. The bride's ensemble was completed with a seed pearl headpiece and elbow-length veil and bouquet of white roses and ivy.

THE BRIDE'S mother chose a brown sheath with matching accessories while the bridegroom's mother chose a winter white suit with lavender accessories. Both mothers had orchid corsages.

Fred Wemlinger of Arlington Heights was best man and ushering was the groom's brother, Robert Russow of Palatine.

A reception in the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. William Schueler, followed the service. Seventy-five guests were in attendance.

BOTH YOUNG people were graduated from Arlington high school. The bride is now a dental assistant in Rolling Meadows and the bridegroom is with Illinois Bell Telephone Co. The newlyweds are now residing at 120 N. Plum Grove rd., Palatine.

Luau Feast Climaxes 'Hawiian Holiday'

Looking for relief from tension?

Then fly to Hawaii as a member of Paddock Publications' two week "Hawaiian Holiday," and let yourself go at a luau, or native feast.

Northwest Orient Airlines, which will fly the tour party to Honolulu via its famous Royal Aloha Service, reports that a luau usually is a colorful climax to a Hawaiian vacation. It features unusual food and beverages, a whole roast pig, and Hawaiian, Samoan and Tahitian entertainment.

MEN guests wear bright Aloha shirts. The women go native in Hawaiian muumuus, sarongs, holomus or holokus. Everyone wears fragrant leis, or floral necklaces. They sit on mats on the floor for the feast, with the food arranged artfully on mats decorated with Island greenery, candles, pineapples and bananas. No knives or forks or spoons are allowed. Everything is eaten with the fingers.

Preparations for a luau begin early in the afternoon. A large pig is filled with hot coals and placed in an "imu," or ground oven. It's covered with hot coals, rock salt, ti leaves, water-soaked sacks and dirt.

SOME six-hours later it's taken up - crisp and delicious, with a slightly smoked flavor. It's displayed briefly to the guests before it's taken away for carving, and a full-blooded Hawaiian sings an ancient chant over it. Yams and bananas are baked with it.

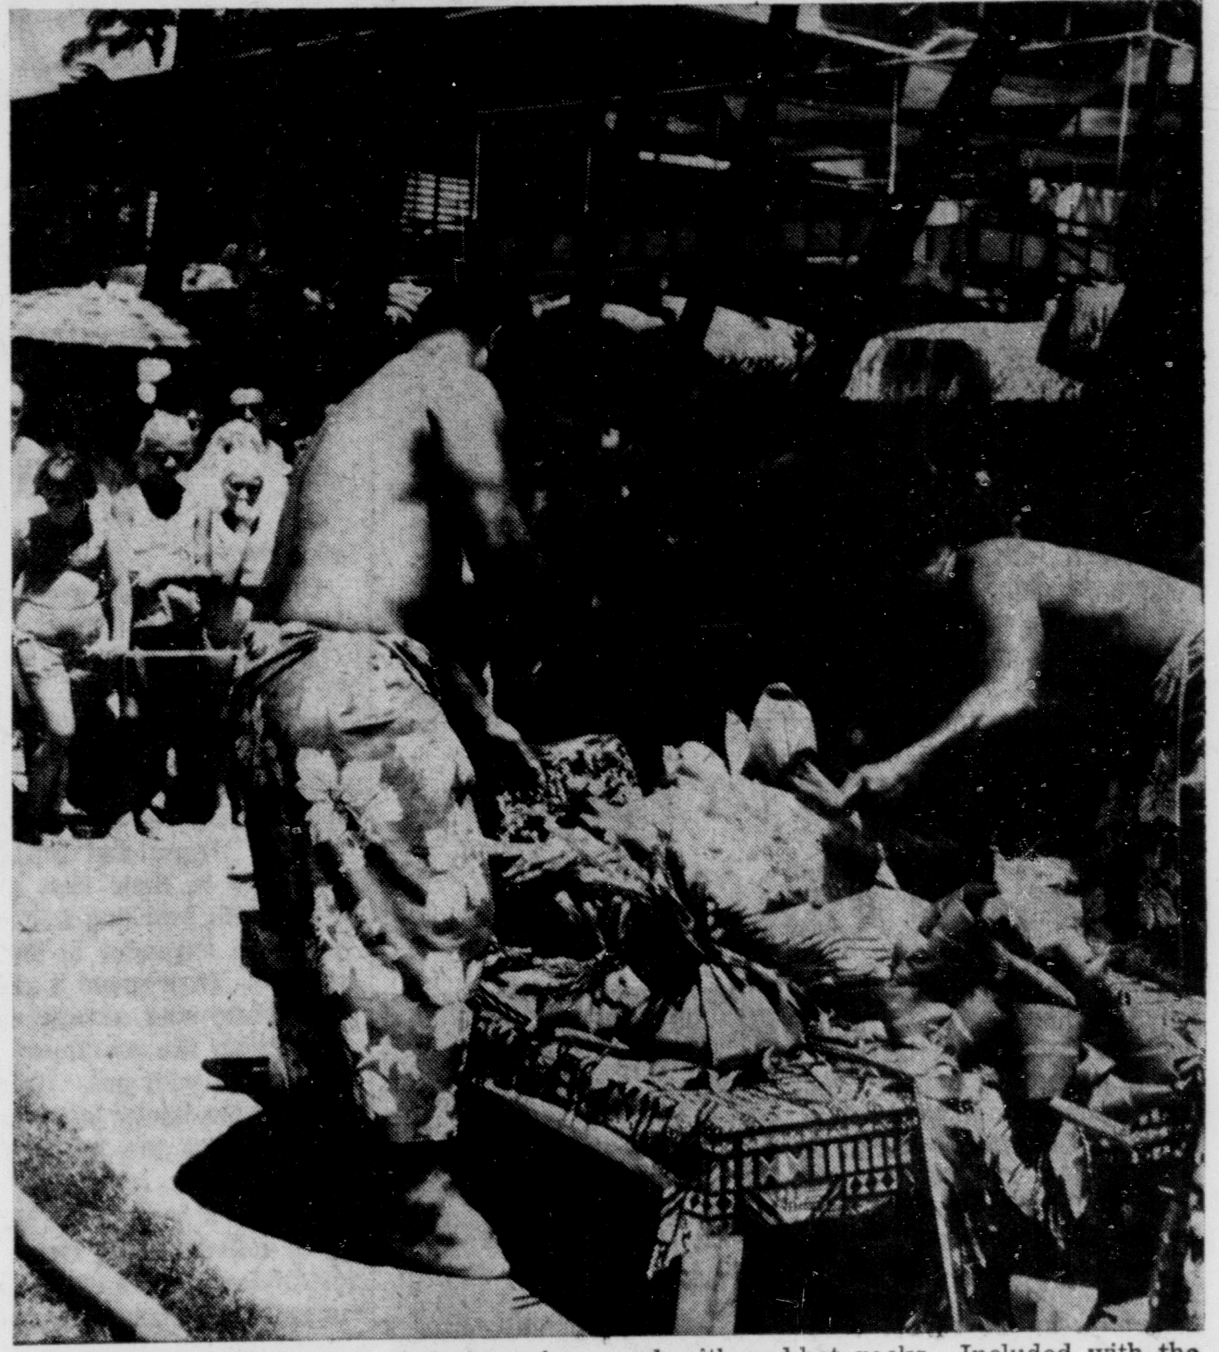
The rest of the menu includes chicken cooked in coconut milk, "lomi lomi" salmon, which is raw salmon "massaged" with onions and tomatoes, and "laulau," bits of salmon, beef and pork steamed in ti leaves.

For a relish, there's "poi," the mainstay of the Island people. Tourists usually compare it with slightly rancid library paste. It's made by pounding the taro - much like a potato - with water until it becomes a gluey consistency that can be slurped by finger.

Dessert is chilled coconut pudding, plus huge slices of fresh pineapple. Strong Kona coffee completes the repast. And by this time the surfeited guests welcome the large napkin soaked in hot water for washing hands and faces.

Hula girls steal the show as far as entertainment goes. Other performers stage flashy Samoan sword dances and fast Tahitian numbers.

For further details concerning the tour write "Hawaiian Holiday," c/o Paddock Publications, 217 W. Campbell st., Arlington Heights, Ill. (Soc



A HAWAIIAN LUAU is a great occasion for festivities and feasting. The pig (puaa) is pictured after removal from the underground oven (imu) which had been heated with red-hot rocks. Included with the pig were yams, bananas, fowl, fish or many other delicacies. (Soc

Judith Ann Kading Is Bride of Bill Russow

(Community Camera (S

An Arlington high school romance was culminated November 5 in Community Church of Rolling Meadows when Miss Judith Ann Kading, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kading, 2205 Campbell, Rolling Meadows, became the bride of William Raymond Russow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Russow of Greenwood rd., Palatine.

The candlelight, double ring service took place at 7 p.m. with Rev. William Herman officiating. Organist was Jeanette Kubajak and soloist was Jack Staley. His selections were "Because You're Mine," "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love." Baskets of gladioli decorated the altar for the ceremony.

The bride, wearing a short gown fashioned with chantilly lace bodice with three quarter sleeves and an organza skirt, chose her cousin, Miss Carol Schueler of Itasca, as her only attendant. Miss Schueler's dress was of blue organza. Pink roses completed her ensemble. The bride's ensemble was completed with a seed pearl headpiece and elbow-length veil and bouquet of white roses and ivy.

THE BRIDE'S mother chose a brown sheath with matching accessories while the bridegroom's mother chose a winter white suit with lavender accessories. Both mothers had orchid corsages.

Fred Wemlinger of Arlington Heights was best man and ushering was the groom's brother, Robert Russow of Palatine.

A reception in the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. William Schueler, followed the service. Seventy-five guests were in attendance.

BOTH YOUNG people were graduated from Arlington high school. The bride is now a dental assistant in Rolling Meadows and the bridegroom is with Illinois Bell Telephone Co. The newlyweds are now residing at 120 N. Plum Grove rd., Palatine.

Patricia Hall Repeats Vows with Chicagoan

A winter-time wedding was solemnized December 3 at 3:30 p.m., in St. Philip Episcopal church, Palatine, when Patricia Ann Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred M. Hall of Arlington Heights, became the bride of Alfred Benavides Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Benavides Sr., of Chicago. Rev. Sheldon B. Foote of St. Philip's conducted the single ring service.

The altar of the church was decorated for the ceremony with vases of white baby mums, white snaps and white carnations. Mr. Hall gave his daughter in marriage.

(Community Camera

The bride was attired in a gown of white, floral-patterned, chantilly lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice and long sleeves, the sabrina neckline edged with natural scallops of the lace. The full bell skirt swept back into a chapel train. Her 3-tier veil of silk illusion cascaded from a pearl and crystal coronet and she carried a colonial nosegay bouquet of lily of the valley, white sweetheart roses and white carnations.

MISS YVONNE De Busman of Arlington Heights was maid of honor and Miss Mary Ann Hassil of Arlington Heights was bridesmaid.

They were attired alike in emerald green, taffeta gowns fashioned with little jackets over the fitted bodices; the bubble skirts accented the tiny waistlines with flat bows in front. Small hats of matching green taffeta and finished with tulle veils were worn to complete their ensembles. They carried colonial nosegay bouquets of deep pink carnations.

Ronald Deahr of New York City was best man and the ushers were John Post of Arlington Heights and George Gschwindt of Palatine.

THE BRIDE'S mother chose a dress of blue lace with pink accessories and a corsage of pink, sweetheart roses. The groom's mother, unable to attend due to illness, was sent a duplicate corsage of the bride's mother's.

A reception and dinner were held at Campbell's Hearthstone restaurant, Palatine, for 65 guests.

The bride is employed by St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance co., Chicago, and the groom is employed by Continental Electric Construction Corp., Chicago.

The young couple will reside in Chicago.

Constance Weiser, First To Marry in New Church

White poinsettias and green garlands were the decorations December 31 for the first wedding to be held in the new St. Simon Episcopal church. Bride and groom in the Christmastime wedding were Miss Constance Weiser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Walter Weiser, 1021 N. Illinois, Arlington Heights, and P. Porcher Gregg of Virginia Beach, Va., son of Mrs. Percy Porcher of Florence, S. C.

Officiating at the service was Rev. Samuel N. Keys with Mrs. Robert L. Howard as organist. Mr. Weiser gave his daughter in marriage.

FOR HER marriage, the bride chose a wool costume of avocado green with a white orchid corsage. Her two sisters, Mrs. Andrew M. Toth of South Bend and Miss Carol Ann Weiser of Arlington Heights, were her only attendants.

Thomas Ashby Gregg was his brother's best man and ushers were Andrew M. Toth of South Bend and Robert L. Howard of Arlington Heights.

The 8 a.m. service was followed by a wedding breakfast at O'Hare inn for the immediate family, after which the newlyweds left on a 2-week Jamaican honeymoon. After January 15, they will be residing at 215 73rd st., Virginia Beach.

The bride was graduated from Purdue university and is a former airline stewardess and home economist with the National Live Stock and Meat Board, Chicago. Mr. Gregg was graduated from North Carolina State college and is associated with the engineering firm of Baldwin and Gregg, Norfolk. (S

Mount Prospect Newlyweds Have Log Cabin Honeymoon

(Jenart Studio S

A log cabin deep in the north woods near Eagle River, Wis. was the honeymoon spot chosen by a Mt. Prospect couple, Miss Janice Lea Threadgill and Roy R. Peterson, who were married October 1 in Prospect Heights Community church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wainwright E. Threadgill, 604 N. Elmhurst rd., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Peterson, 212 S. Albert st.

The candlelight, double ring service was performed at 3 p.m. by Rev. Robert F. Klepper amid a setting of white gladioli and mums with palms. The church pews were marked with evergreen sprays and white satin bows. Soloist was Huey Ulbert of Chicago, who sang "Because," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" and "The Lord's Prayer." Organist was Mrs. F. R. Foster.

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, chose a dress fashioned with chantilly lace bodice and silk organza skirt. The neckline was scalloped and edged with pearls and long sleeves came to points at the wrists. Her fingertip veil was of silk illusion net and the scalloped edges were hand-rolled. The veil was held in place with a crown of pearls and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and white mums to complete her ensemble.

The bride's attendants included her two sisters, Linda and Toni. Others in the group were Mrs. Robert Horton of Battle Creek, Mich. as matron of honor and Miss Judi Eggert of Mt. Prospect as maid of honor. Linda was bridesmaid and Toni, the flower girl. Mrs. Horton's and Miss Eggert's gowns were of cream beige silk organza, designed similar to the bride's gown, and their flowers were rust and yellow mums.

THE bride's sisters' gowns were of nile green silk organza and were fashioned identically to the honor attendants' gowns. Their flowers were also yellow and rust mums, Toni carrying hers in a basket.

Best man was Robert Kist of Prospect Heights and groomsmen were Rusty Bunn and Terry Harrison, also of Prospect Heights. Head usher was E. C. Mott of Chicago, grandfather of the bride, and ushers were the bride's uncles, C. E. Mott and Milton Kawfield, both of Des Plaines, and the groom's cousin, Wayne Priest of Chicago.

TWO HUNDRED guests attended the reception in the church following the service and 70 the 6 o'clock dinner in the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Threadgill received in a sheath of beige brocade satin with corsage of gardenias and rust mums, while Mrs. Peterson received in a sheath of nile green brocade satin with corsage of cream and brown orchids.

One of the guests of honor at the reception was the bride's great - aunt, Mrs. Claire Straith, who flew here from her home in Detroit to attend the wedding festivities.

The bride attended Prospect high school and Burnham school of beauty culture in Chicago. Mr. Peterson attended Arlington high school and is now in the army air force, stationed at Truax field, Madison, where he and his bride are now residing.

Mount Prospect Newlyweds Have Log Cabin Honeymoon

(Jenart Studio S

A log cabin deep in the north woods near Eagle River, Wis. was the honeymoon spot chosen by a Mt. Prospect couple, Miss Janice Lea Threadgill and Roy R. Peterson, who were married October 1 in Prospect Heights Community church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wainwright E. Threadgill, 604 N. Elmhurst rd., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Peterson, 212 S. Albert st.

The candlelight, double ring service was performed at 3 p.m. by Rev. Robert F. Klepper amid a setting of white gladioli and mums with palms. The church pews were marked with evergreen sprays and white satin bows. Soloist was Huey Ulbert of Chicago, who sang "Because," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" and "The Lord's Prayer." Organist was Mrs. F. R. Foster.

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, chose a dress fashioned with chantilly lace bodice and silk organza skirt. The neckline was scalloped and edged with pearls and long sleeves came to points at the wrists. Her fingertip veil was of silk illusion net and the scalloped edges were hand-rolled. The veil was held in place with a crown of pearls and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and white mums to complete her ensemble.

The bride's attendants included her two sisters, Linda and Toni. Others in the group were Mrs. Robert Horton of Battle Creek, Mich. as matron of honor and Miss Judi Eggert of Mt. Prospect as maid of honor. Linda was bridesmaid and Toni, the flower girl. Mrs. Horton's and Miss Eggert's gowns were of cream beige silk organza, designed similar to the bride's gown, and their flowers were rust and yellow mums.

THE bride's sisters' gowns were of nile green silk organza and were fashioned identically to the honor attendants' gowns. Their flowers were also yellow and rust mums, Toni carrying hers in a basket.

Best man was Robert Kist of Prospect Heights and groomsmen were Rusty Bunn and Terry Harrison, also of Prospect Heights. Head usher was E. C. Mott of Chicago, grandfather of the bride, and ushers were the bride's uncles, C. E. Mott and Milton Kawfield, both of Des Plaines, and the groom's cousin, Wayne Priest of Chicago.

TWO HUNDRED guests attended the reception in the church following the service and 70 the 6 o'clock dinner in the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Threadgill received in a sheath of beige brocade satin with corsage of gardenias and rust mums, while Mrs. Peterson received in a sheath of nile green brocade satin with corsage of cream and brown orchids.

One of the guests of honor at the reception was the bride's great - aunt, Mrs. Claire Straith, who flew here from her home in Detroit to attend the wedding festivities.

The bride attended Prospect high school and Burnham school of beauty culture in Chicago. Mr. Peterson attended Arlington high school and is now in the army air force, stationed at Truax field, Madison, where he and his bride are now residing.

'Vacation to Far North' Is in Store for Juniors

SEATED ON a dog sled on the frozen Arctic ocean are, left to right, Suzy and Cathy Vodicka with their father, Leo Vodicka, all of Palatine, and their Eskimo guide. This northern-most point on the North American continent was reached by the Vodicka family last June during a 6-week vacation in the far north. Mrs. Vodicka will show slides of the trip to the Palatine Junior Woman's club meeting Tuesday evening in Oak Street school, Palatine. (S

A "Vacation in the Far North" will be presented in slides and story to the Junior Womans club of Palatine at its Tuesday evening meeting, emitting the spirit of wanderlust of the Leo Vodicka family of Palatine. Mrs. Vodicka will tell of the unusual trip north during which she and her family camped from their station wagon along the route.

The Literature and Drama department of the club, under direction of Mrs. Bentley Buxton, will present Mrs. Vodicka in her travelogue. The meeting begins at 8 p. m. in the cafeteria of Oak Street school; Mrs. Ronald Ragnetti as hostess.

THE VODICKAS experienced a feeling of pioneering as they traveled north from Glacier National park to Dawson Creek, Canada, where the Alcan Highway begins. A 119-mile trip, via narrow gauge railroad, from Whitehorse, Canada, to Skagway, Alaska, took six hours. By contrast, a 538-mile trip via plane from Fairbanks took them quickly to Point Barrow, an Eskimo village which is the farthest north that man can go on the North American continent.

All of these exciting experiences will be illustrated by slides taken during the 6-week trip.

Alumnae Meets

The Florence Crittenton Anchorage in Chicago will host the women of Clipped Wings, United Air Lines Stewardess Alumnae, Inc. at a noon luncheon on Thursday, Jan. 19. The luncheon in the dining room of the residence has become an annual event for the Florence Crittenton Anchorage staff and the Clipped Wings members to better acquaint the former stewardesses with the work of the Anchorage.

After luncheon there will be a tour of the home and adjacent thrift shop which Clipped Wings has assisted during the year with donations of sale items and by having members take turns in working in the shop. Florence Crittenton Anchorage is a special philanthropy of the Chicago chapter of the United Air Lines alumnae group in addition to the national philanthropy which aids mentally retarded children. Members also raise funds for the home and send gifts to the residents at Christmas time.

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. Just how is one supposed to eat an olive? Should the entire olive be put into the mouth at once, or should one take only small bites out of it while holding it in the fingers?

A. It's all right to put a very small stuffed olive into the mouth whole. But a larger stuffed one should be eaten in two bites. And a plain olive is held in the fingers, and pieces bitten off around the stone.

Q. Is it considered good manners always to look directly at a person while he or she is talking with you?

A. You are, of course, expected to show attention to what he is saying by looking at him. However, this does not have to be a fixed or hypnotic kind of stare.

The Way We See It

Northwest Suburbs Welcome New YMCA

One of the area's most urgently needed facilities will open its doors to the public Sunday, Jan. 15 with the dedication of the Northwest Suburban YMCA.

The $1 million structure on Northwest hwy., just east of Mt. Prospect, stands as a monument to seven years of hard work, planning, and fund raising on the part of many public spirited citizens and "Y" personnel.

Unlike most monuments, however, this one will throb with human activity as area residents representing all ages of both sexes avail themselves of the plant's many facilities and programs.

The structure is truly impressive with its spacious outdoor-indoor swimming pool, large gymnasium, four handball courts, rooms for crafts, exercise, and other recreation facilities, modern kitchen, and businessmen's club. Also impressive is the list of activities planned which bears out chairman of the board of directors Stanley C. Amren's statement that "There'll be something just right for every member of the family."

The new YMCA, the only one between Park Ridge and Elgin, will particularly help fill the void for area youngsters in their middle teens. Too old for Little League and other organized activities, this age group has often been hardput to find outlets for its energy outside of school activities.

In addition to athletic activities, the "Y" will sponsor co-ed social events aimed at the high school set, such as dances and parties.

For some area communities, those that have sprung up in the past few years and are without park districts or recreational facilities, the YMCA will serve an obvious need.

For the older communities, the "Y" will take the pressure off of overtaxed programs, swamped in recent years by residents of newer, neighboring communities.

Open to all regardless of faith, race, nationality, or social status, the YMCA charges an extremely modest annual membership fee for use of its facilities.

It is opening with a $94,000 deficit and will undoubtedly conduct area fund drives in the future. Northwest suburban residents could contribute their money to no more worthy cause.

New Sanitary District Is Commendable Local Effort

Political appeals often ask the voter to guard with zeal his local government, its institutions and its independence, against the encroachments of remote bureaucracies.

There is great merit in these appeals. Generally, the public gets more value for its dollar from school boards, municipalities and other local governments than it does from agencies in Springfield or Washington. This is chiefly because the public knows in detail what is happening on the local level, and furthermore has the opportunity to rule in referendums.

The founders of our country recognized that some areas, such as defense and diplomacy, cannot be handled by local governments. The powers of central government have grown through the years, and may be expected to keep growing. Some Democrats support every such tendency, while some Republicans oppose them all. But each must be considered on its merits.

In our own neighborhood, the creation of the North Elmhurst Sanitary district is an example of local initiative at its best. The people in this semi- rural area are providing themselves with a sanitary system financed by taxes and fees approved by themselves, and run by a board of trustees who are their neighbors. Construction will begin soon and the system should be operating by the end of the year.

We hope the project thrives. The evidence says that no one can do this job better than the 500 North Elmhurst families themselves. Of course, the community is blessed with a number of people who are willing to get out and work for the common good. They provide the most important ingredient in making homespun democracy work.

County Tax Commission Proposal Has Real Merit

A proposal to create a county tax comission will reportedly be submitted to this year's General Assembly by Cook County Commissioner William Erickson of Evanston.

While we have yet to see the proposed legislation spelled out in detail, we are in accord that the county's current methods of assessing, collecting, and processing taxes needs overhauling.

As things stand now, county tax functions are spread among the offices of the assessor, the county clerk, the auditor, the department of central services, the board of tax appeals, and the treasurer's office.

To further complicate matters, elected township assessors and collectors are technically deputies of their county counterparts, but actually act with a good deal of independence.

The end result is a dispersion of responsibility that slows tax collections and consequently distribution of receipts, requiring some suburban communities to issue tax anticipation warrants.

Another merit of consolidating county tax functions is the savings that would be effected through better use of fewer personnel.

A Living Monument

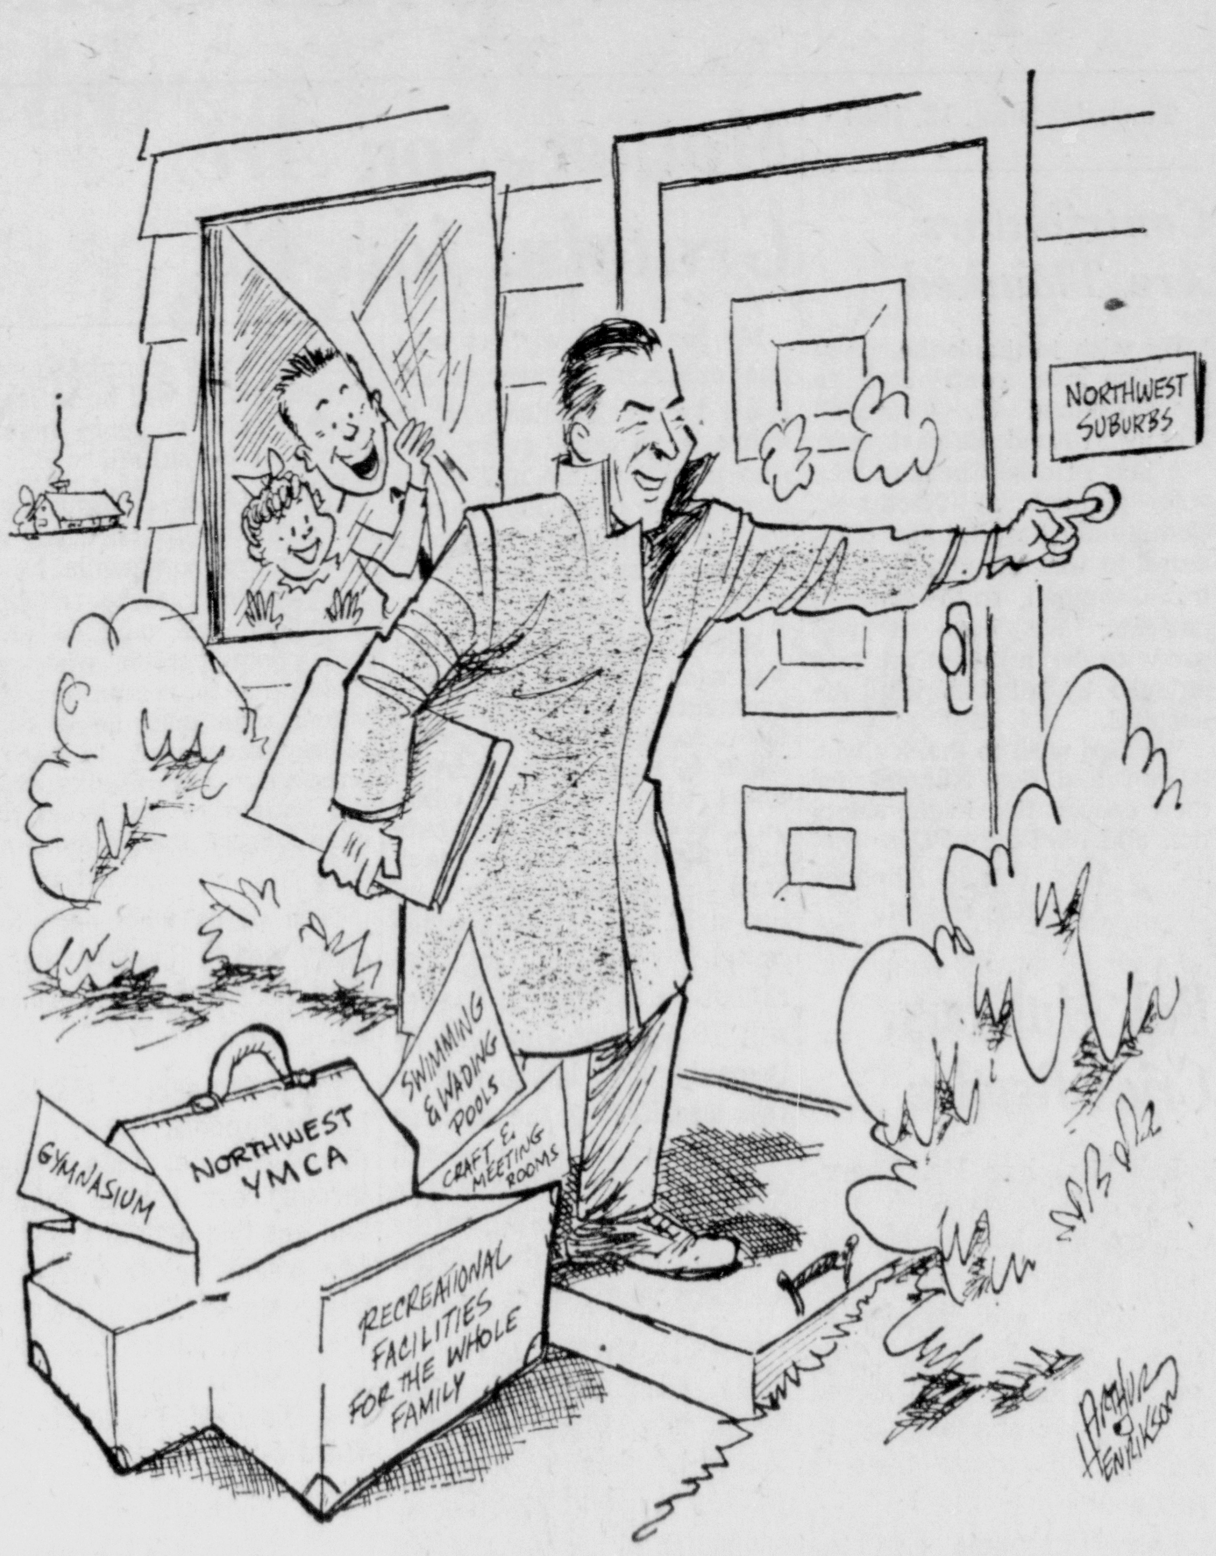
It was with deep regret that northwest suburbanites last week mourned the passing of Dr. Carl A. Starck of Palatine. His practice spanned three generations and an immense territory. He traveled country roads by carriage, sleigh, automobile to deliver babies, stitch cuts, set bones, and write prescriptions.

Dr. Starck was 80 when he died. Since he hung out his shingle in 1904, horses have been replaced with internal combustion engines and rutted roads and open fields have become laced with a network of highways.

In the day of the specialist and office-hours-only M.D., Dr. Starck was a reminder of the traditional general practitioner who was supposed to know all cures at all times and anywhere.

Friends of the late doctor have established a memorial fund to continue the service that Dr. Starck performed so ably. Roy L. LaLonde of Palatine has agreed to receive donations for this fund. We hope that some of the mothers and fathers, children and grandchildren of the 4,000 babies delivered by Dr. Starck will make this fund a reality. The man whose name it will bear deserves to have a living monument to his work.

'Mom! Dad! Look Who's Here!!'



The Volunteering Spirit

Gentle Fund-Raisers Probed in New Study

by MARTIN E. MARTY

The volunteering spirit is old and widespread in America, we are reminded by Richard Carter in his new book "The Gentle Legions" (Doubleday, $4.50).

This 'probing study of the national voluntary health organizations' is a critical tribute to some modern versions of this spirit.

Every day and night of the year we all profit from the fact that there are volunteer firemen and police assistants guarding our safety; every week we profit from the volunteering in schools, churches. Only when near-tragedy strikes are we conscious of the ongoing work of the health organizations, as we enter hospitals and profit from their researches.

ONLY, THAT is, except when they knock on our doors for funds. Mr. Carter reminds us that these gentle legions do not exist for fund-raising but instead they raise funds for existence.

His chronicle of the rise and fall of the major movements: the Red Cross, Christmas seals, Polio and cancer and heart crusades, and the attention paid to less known diseases is always lively, journalistic, and ordinarily quite fair.

After a rather sloppy historical chapter he immerses himself, without any muckraking spirit, in the controversial causes written about so much today.

HE ADMITS most of the charges against the organizations: their costs are too high, they are too self-sufficient and competitive, etc. But his report is basically positive, a tribute to the legions of gentleness. He makes the non-volunteers, the stay-at-homes uneasy in their by-passing complacence.

Most readers of this useful book will approach it with one question in mind. They may enjoy the accounts of how the Red Cross has sought to disprove accounts GIs render of "how they paid for free services;" they will puzzle over the enduring popularity of the Christmas seal (it makes other agencies "sob with envy") and they will certainly be moved to admire the volunteers. But the big question remains, voluntaries or united funds.

For once I will drop any fearless pose. I am neither well enough informed nor uncowardly enough to tackle this debate. Carter, I think, in his enthusiasm for competition and 'free enterprise' sees too much of The Big Brother in big industry's support of United Funds.

LET THE reader who wishes to take sides read the book.

I want to take a gentler tack, and remind everyone of the book's main theme: despite the duplication, waste, folly, and all the rest of the health organizations at their worst, at their middle and at their best they are doing our work. May the legions of support for them (and United Funds?) increase.

There's the doorbell, right now! According to Carter's calendar it must be March of Dimes—one of the most successful of all.

Newspaper's Importance Is Stressed

The weekly or daily newspaper of any American community provides an index of problems to which the community school might well address itself, writes Clifford P. Archer, editor of "Improvement of Rural Life," a publication just released by the National Education Association.

Archer, professor of education at the University of Minnesota, finds that the reports, coming from all parts of the world, recognize that the school has a responsibility for educational leadership and for cooperative action centered around community problems.

Among them he cites traffic and home accidents, inadequate fire and police protection, overcrowded schools, water shortages, juvenile delinquency caused by lack of adequate guidance and recreational services, problems of taxation, housing and zoning, social services, and efforts to meet the needs of handicapped children.

Operation Abolition

Committee Is Under Attack

by WILLIAM DULANEY

A film entitled "Operation Abolition" is making the rounds in the northwest suburbs as well as other parts of the nation. It is being shown to clubs, municipal employees, reserve units, and in some instances to students.

A product of the House committee on un-American activities, the movie purports to show that student protests against the committee's hearings in San Francisco last May were inspired and led by Communists.

Mounting evidence indicates that the techniques employed in editing and narrating the film is perhaps a last ditch effort by the un-American activities committee to save itself from growing public opinion and revulsion against its star chamber tactics that differ little from those employed in Communist countries.

IN LAST week's issue of The Christian Century, a highly respected Protestant magazine, there was published a report by a Methodist minister to the National Council of Churches. It noted: "By manipulating their scissors the producers managed to change the chronology of events so that acts that did not happen consecutively are shown as if there had been a casual relationship between them—a relationship that did not exist."

The report concluded by noting that the committee's chief investigator for the west coast publicly admitted on a television program that the movie as edited contains inaccuracies and distortions.

A growing number of legislators, newspapers, and others whose loyalty to this country is beyond question, are increasingly concerned with the un-American activities of the un-American activities committee.

NOT SUBJECT to the restraints of fairness and impartiality which we impose upon our judiciary, the committee has through innuendo and a penchant for headline grabbing, repeatedly abridged the rights guaranteed citizens under the Constitution.

Persons called before the committee are not given the opportunity to cross-examine their accusers, nor are they allowed to introduce witnesses on their behalf without consent of the committee.

Commenting on the inquisitional techniques employed by the committee, U. S. Rep. James Roosevelt in an address delivered before the House of Representatives on April 25 said:

"We have become accustomed to think of those whom it (the committee) subpoenas or labels as victims rather than witnesses. Endlessly they are dragooned before the committee and accused. Secret sources, arrogance, rudeness, defamation, and the threat of prosecution either for perjury or contempt if they do not seek the refuge of silence are the constant ingredients of this degrading spectacle."

IN URGING abolition of the un-American activities committee and transfer of its functions to the regular House Judiciary committee, Rep. Roosevelt noted that he would no doubt be called a dupe or unwitting "handmaiden" of Communism.

While some have spoken out against the committee, there are no doubt many others who, while concerned with its excesses, have kept quiet for fear of being labeled unpatriotic or at worst, a Communist.

In these times of taut nerves and cold war maneuvers, it's admittedly difficult to be against something that's against Communism. One might pause, however, to recall that some of our bloodiest tyrants, past and present, rose to power under the pretext of saving their countries from Communism.

New Interstate Roadways Open

Nearly 9,600 miles or more than 23 per cent of the 41,000 mile National System of Interstate Highways, are now open to traffic. Construction is under way on another 4,600 miles.

Federal Highway Administrator B. D. Tallamy also announced that Illinois has 408 miles open to traffic and construction is under way on another 178 miles.

Top-Level Study Report

University Should Broaden Interest in World Affairs

American universities and colleges face an historic educational opportunity in the field of world affairs that calls for the pioneering of new educational traditions and the sustained participation of our best academic talent.

An urgent need is to enlarge the contribution of our institutions of higher education to this nation's understanding and competence in international matters and toward helping the developing countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America to extend and strengthen their own educational systems.

This is a central theme of a report being issued today by a top-level committee that includes three university presidents, a Cabinet officer, a United States Senator, two presidents of major foundations, and two leaders of American industry. Their study was financed by a grant from the Ford Foundation.

THE REPORT, "The University and World Affairs," calls upon American institutions of higher education to show new leadership and sustained initiative in meeting their expanding responsibilities as centers of learning and service.

It likewise urges greater support from the federal government, state governments, business and the foundations to the universities in the international educational tasks on which they are or should be engaged.

The Committee on the University and World Affairs was constituted by the Ford Foundation as an ad hoc, independent group, in response to a request by the Secretary of State, to study the participation of American universities in international education, research and technical assistance. The committee report is being made available without charge to educators and to interested persons in business, government, the foundations and other fields.

The study focussed on the role of the university, with its diversified resources for teaching, research, and consultation. The report, however, points out that colleges throughout the country share in the opportunity and responsibility to perform many of the educational asks in world affairs.

"The American university," says the report, "is caught in a rush of events that shakes its traditions of scholarship and tests its ability to adapt and grow."

THE COMMITTEE recognizes that "In the post-war years American universities, responding to the nation's new involvement in world affairs, have taken on many new and expanded activities. These include new courses on Asia, Africa and the Soviet Union, and the United States relations with them; research on economic, political and social development of the newly independent nations; foreign students in large numbers; and special overseas projects to help build and strengthen educational institutions in other countries."

Nevertheless, the committee goes on to say, "The universities' response so far has been largely sporadic and unplanned."

An important innovation urged by the committee is the creation of a new and voluntary mechanism for inter-university cooperation for the purpose of providing the nation with greater educational leadership. "What is especially needed," says the report, "is a new organization, based upon American universities and colleges, but able to take into account broad national needs. It would provide a mechanism through which universities and colleges can consider together educational planning, the development and employment of educational competence in world affairs, and the systematic cumulation and appraisal of growing educational experience in world affairs. It would facilitate communication for these same ends with agencies of government, business and foundations in the United States, and with the institutions of other nations."

The report points out that our federal government must rely on American universities for planning and carrying out important educational projects in the international field and for training a large proportion of the administrators, diplomats and technicians who serve abroad. "In a field of educational activity that vitally concerns our foreign relations and is dependent for its adequacy upon substantial federal government support, the national interest both justifies government support and requires that government determine the policies under which government itself participates," the committee observes.

While thus recognizing the legitimate role of government leadership, the report goes on to say, "Universities cannot be expected to serve as mere agents of government . . . . They must be granted autonomy and long-term assurance of adequate financing needed if they are to perform the tasks supported by government in a manner befitting their educational function and purpose."

AS TO government measures that would be helpful in bringing about more effective cooperation with universities, the committee says, "In the federal government, the up-grading of educational competence at all levels is indispensable and overdue."

The Way We See It

Northwest Suburbs Welcome New YMCA

One of the area's most urgently needed facilities will open its doors to the public Sunday, Jan. 15 with the dedication of the Northwest Suburban YMCA.

The $1 million structure on Northwest hwy., just east of Mt. Prospect, stands as a monument to seven years of hard work, planning, and fund raising on the part of many public spirited citizens and "Y" personnel.

Unlike most monuments, however, this one will throb with human activity as area residents representing all ages of both sexes avail themselves of the plant's many facilities and programs.

The structure is truly impressive with its spacious outdoor-indoor swimming pool, large gymnasium, four handball courts, rooms for crafts, exercise, and other recreation facilities, modern kitchen, and businessmen's club. Also impressive is the list of activities planned which bears out chairman of the board of directors Stanley C. Amren's statement that "There'll be something just right for every member of the family."

The new YMCA, the only one between Park Ridge and Elgin, will particularly help fill the void for area youngsters in their middle teens. Too old for Little League and other organized activities, this age group has often been hardput to find outlets for its energy outside of school activities.

In addition to athletic activities, the "Y" will sponsor co-ed social events aimed at the high school set, such as dances and parties.

For some area communities, those that have sprung up in the past few years and are without park districts or recreational facilities, the YMCA will serve an obvious need.

For the older communities, the "Y" will take the pressure off of overtaxed programs, swamped in recent years by residents of newer, neighboring communities.

Open to all regardless of faith, race, nationality, or social status, the YMCA charges an extremely modest annual membership fee for use of its facilities.

It is opening with a $94,000 deficit and will undoubtedly conduct area fund drives in the future. Northwest suburban residents could contribute their money to no more worthy cause.

New Sanitary District Is Commendable Local Effort

Political appeals often ask the voter to guard with zeal his local government, its institutions and its independence, against the encroachments of remote bureaucracies.

There is great merit in these appeals. Generally, the public gets more value for its dollar from school boards, municipalities and other local governments than it does from agencies in Springfield or Washington. This is chiefly because the public knows in detail what is happening on the local level, and furthermore has the opportunity to rule in referendums.

The founders of our country recognized that some areas, such as defense and diplomacy, cannot be handled by local governments. The powers of central government have grown through the years, and may be expected to keep growing. Some Democrats support every such tendency, while some Republicans oppose them all. But each must be considered on its merits.

In our own neighborhood, the creation of the North Elmhurst Sanitary district is an example of local initiative at its best. The people in this semi- rural area are providing themselves with a sanitary system financed by taxes and fees approved by themselves, and run by a board of trustees who are their neighbors. Construction will begin soon and the system should be operating by the end of the year.

We hope the project thrives. The evidence says that no one can do this job better than the 500 North Elmhurst families themselves. Of course, the community is blessed with a number of people who are willing to get out and work for the common good. They provide the most important ingredient in making homespun democracy work.

County Tax Commission Proposal Has Real Merit

A proposal to create a county tax comission will reportedly be submitted to this year's General Assembly by Cook County Commissioner William Erickson of Evanston.

While we have yet to see the proposed legislation spelled out in detail, we are in accord that the county's current methods of assessing, collecting, and processing taxes needs overhauling.

As things stand now, county tax functions are spread among the offices of the assessor, the county clerk, the auditor, the department of central services, the board of tax appeals, and the treasurer's office.

To further complicate matters, elected township assessors and collectors are technically deputies of their county counterparts, but actually act with a good deal of independence.

The end result is a dispersion of responsibility that slows tax collections and consequently distribution of receipts, requiring some suburban communities to issue tax anticipation warrants.

Another merit of consolidating county tax functions is the savings that would be effected through better use of fewer personnel.

A Living Monument

It was with deep regret that northwest suburbanites last week mourned the passing of Dr. Carl A. Starck of Palatine. His practice spanned three generations and an immense territory. He traveled country roads by carriage, sleigh, automobile to deliver babies, stitch cuts, set bones, and write prescriptions.

Dr. Starck was 80 when he died. Since he hung out his shingle in 1904, horses have been replaced with internal combustion engines and rutted roads and open fields have become laced with a network of highways.

In the day of the specialist and office-hours-only M.D., Dr. Starck was a reminder of the traditional general practitioner who was supposed to know all cures at all times and anywhere.

Friends of the late doctor have established a memorial fund to continue the service that Dr. Starck performed so ably. Roy L. LaLonde of Palatine has agreed to receive donations for this fund. We hope that some of the mothers and fathers, children and grandchildren of the 4,000 babies delivered by Dr. Starck will make this fund a reality. The man whose name it will bear deserves to have a living monument to his work.

The Volunteering Spirit

Gentle Fund-Raisers Probed in New Study

by MARTIN E. MARTY

The volunteering spirit is old and widespread in America, we are reminded by Richard Carter in his new book "The Gentle Legions" (Doubleday, $4.50).

This 'probing study of the national voluntary health organizations' is a critical tribute to some modern versions of this spirit.

Every day and night of the year we all profit from the fact that there are volunteer firemen and police assistants guarding our safety; every week we profit from the volunteering in schools, churches. Only when near-tragedy strikes are we conscious of the ongoing work of the health organizations, as we enter hospitals and profit from their researches.

ONLY, THAT is, except when they knock on our doors for funds. Mr. Carter reminds us that these gentle legions do not exist for fund-raising but instead they raise funds for existence.

His chronicle of the rise and fall of the major movements: the Red Cross, Christmas seals, Polio and cancer and heart crusades, and the attention paid to less known diseases is always lively, journalistic, and ordinarily quite fair.

After a rather sloppy historical chapter he immerses himself, without any muckraking spirit, in the controversial causes written about so much today.

HE ADMITS most of the charges against the organizations: their costs are too high, they are too self-sufficient and competitive, etc.

But his report is basically positive, a tribute to the legions of gentleness. He makes the non-volunteers, the stay-at-homes uneasy in their by-passing complacence.

Most readers of this useful book will approach it with one question in mind. They may enjoy the accounts of how the Red Cross has sought to disprove accounts GIs render of "how they paid for free services;" they will puzzle over the enduring popularity of the Christmas seal (it makes other agencies "sob with envy") and they will certainly be moved to admire the volunteers. But the big question remains, voluntaries or united funds.

For once I will drop any fearless pose. I am neither well enough informed nor uncowardly enough to tackle this debate. Carter, I think, in his enthusiasm for competition and 'free enterprise' sees too much of The Big Brother in big industry's support of United Funds.

LET THE reader who wishes to take sides read the book.

I want to take a gentler tack, and remind everyone of the book's main theme: despite the duplication, waste, folly, and all the rest of the health organizations at their worst, at their middle and at their best they are doing our work. May the legions of support for them (and United Funds?) increase.

There's the doorbell, right now! According to Carter's calendar it must be March of Dimes—one of the most successful of all.

Newspaper's Importance Is Stressed

The weekly or daily newspaper of any American community provides an index of problems to which the community school might well address itself, writes Clifford P. Archer, editor of "Improvement of Rural Life," a publication just released by the National Education Association.

Archer, professor of education at the University of Minnesota, finds that the reports, coming from all parts of the world, recognize that the school has a responsibility for educational leadership and for cooperative action centered around community problems.

Among them he cites traffic and home accidents, inadequate fire and police protection, overcrowded schools, water shortages, juvenile delinquency caused by lack of adequate guidance and recreational services, problems of taxation, housing and zoning, social services, and efforts to meet the needs of handicapped children.

Operation Abolition

Committee Is Under Attack

by WILLIAM DULANEY

A film entitled "Operation Abolition" is making the rounds in the northwest suburbs as well as other parts of the nation. It is being shown to clubs, municipal employees, reserve units, and in some instances to students.

A product of the House committee on un-American activities, the movie purports to show that student protests against the committee's hearings in San Francisco last May were inspired and led by Communists.

Mounting evidence indicates that the techniques employed in editing and narrating the film is perhaps a last ditch effort by the un-American activities committee to save itself from growing public opinion and revulsion against its star chamber tactics that differ little from those employed in Communist countries.

IN LAST week's issue of The Christian Century, a highly respected Protestant magazine, there was published a report by a Methodist minister to the National Council of Churches. It noted: "By manipulating their scissors the producers managed to change the chronology of events so that acts that did not happen consecutively are shown as if there had been a casual relationship between them—a relationship that did not exist."

The report concluded by noting that the committee's chief investigator for the west coast publicly admitted on a television program that the movie as edited contains inaccuracies and distortions.

A growing number of legislators, newspapers, and others whose loyalty to this country is beyond question, are increasingly concerned with the un-American activities of the un-American activities committee.

NOT SUBJECT to the restraints of fairness and impartiality which we impose upon our judiciary, the committee has through innuendo and a penchant for headline grabbing, repeatedly abridged the rights guaranteed citizens under the Constitution.

Persons called before the committee are not given the opportunity to cross-examine their accusers, nor are they allowed to introduce witnesses on their behalf without consent of the committee.

Commenting on the inquisitional techniques employed by the committee, U. S. Rep. James Roosevelt in an address delivered before the House of Representatives on April 25 said:

"We have become accustomed to think of those whom it (the committee) subpoenas or labels as victims rather than witnesses. Endlessly they are dragooned before the committee and accused. Secret sources, arrogance, rudeness, defamation, and the threat of prosecution either for perjury or contempt if they do not seek the refuge of silence are the constant ingredients of this degrading spectacle."

IN URGING abolition of the un-American activities committee and transfer of its functions to the regular House Judiciary committee, Rep. Roosevelt noted that he would no doubt be called a dupe or unwitting "handmaiden" of Communism.

While some have spoken out against the committee, there are no doubt many others who, while concerned with its excesses, have kept quiet for fear of being labeled unpatriotic or at worst, a Communist.

In these times of taut nerves and cold war maneuvers, it's admittedly difficult to be against something that's against Communism. One might pause, however, to recall that some of our bloodiest tyrants, past and present, rose to power under the pretext of saving their countries from Communism.

New Interstate Roadways Open

Nearly 9,600 miles or more than 23 per cent of the 41,000 mile National System of Interstate Highways, are now open to traffic. Construction is under way on another 4,600 miles.

Federal Highway Administrator B. D. Tallamy also announced that Illinois has 408 miles open to traffic and construction is under way on another 178 miles.

Top-Level Study Report

University Should Broaden Interest in World Affairs

American universities and colleges face an historic educational opportunity in the field of world affairs that calls for the pioneering of new educational traditions and the sustained participation of our best academic talent.

An urgent need is to enlarge the contribution of our institutions of higher education to this nation's understanding and competence in international matters and toward helping the developing countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America to extend and strengthen their own educational systems.

This is a central theme of a report being issued today by a top-level committee that includes three university presidents, a Cabinet officer, a United States Senator, two presidents of major foundations, and two leaders of American industry. Their study was financed by a grant from the Ford Foundation.

THE REPORT, "The University and World Affairs," calls upon American institutions of higher education to show new leadership and sustained initiative in meeting their expanding responsibilities as centers of learning and service.

It likewise urges greater support from the federal government, state governments, business and the foundations to the universities in the international educational tasks on which they are or should be engaged.

The Committee on the University and World Affairs was constituted by the Ford Foundation as an ad hoc, independent group, in response to a request by the Secretary of State, to study the participation of American universities in international education, research and technical assistance. The committee report is being made available without charge to educators and to interested persons in business, government, the foundations and other fields.

The study focussed on the role of the university, with its diversified resources for teaching, research, and consultation. The report, however, points out that colleges throughout the country share in the opportunity and responsibility to perform many of the educational asks in world affairs.

"The American university," says the report, "is caught in a rush of events that shakes its traditions of scholarship and tests its ability to adapt and grow."

THE COMMITTEE recognizes that "In the post-war years American universities, responding to the nation's new involvement in world affairs, have taken on many new and expanded activities. These include new courses on Asia, Africa and the Soviet Union, and the United States relations with them; research on economic, political and social development of the newly independent nations; foreign students in large numbers; and special overseas projects to help build and strengthen educational institutions in other countries."

Nevertheless, the committee goes on to say, "The universities' response so far has been largely sporadic and unplanned."

An important innovation urged by the committee is the creation of a new and voluntary mechanism for inter-university cooperation for the purpose of providing the nation with greater educational leadership. "What is especially needed," says the report, "is a new organization, based upon American universities and colleges, but able to take into account broad national needs. It would provide a mechanism through which universities and colleges can consider together educational planning, the development and employment of educational competence in world affairs, and the systematic cumulation and appraisal of growing educational experience in world affairs. It would facilitate communication for these same ends with agencies of government, business and foundations in the United States, and with the institutions of other nations."

The report points out that our federal government must rely on American universities for planning and carrying out important educational projects in the international field and for training a large proportion of the administrators, diplomats and technicians who serve abroad. "In a field of educational activity that vitally concerns our foreign relations and is dependent for its adequacy upon substantial federal government support, the national interest both justifies government support and requires that government determine the policies under which government itself participates," the committee observes.

While thus recognizing the legitimate role of government leadership, the report goes on to say, "Universities cannot be expected to serve as mere agents of government.... They must be granted autonomy and long-term assurance of adequate financing needed if they are to perform the tasks supported by government in a manner befitting their educational function and purpose."

AS TO government measures that would be helpful in bringing about more effective cooperation with universities, the committee says, "In the federal government, the up-grading of educational competence at all levels is indispensable and overdue."

Woman Claims 'Speed Trap' In Schaumburg Arrest Case

Although I never miss reading "Letters to the Fence Post," I never thought I would be writing one myself, but something happened one evening to upset me and I know I will feel better if I do write.

About 10 p.m. on December 15, my husband and I were driving along Golf road toward Meacham, having been to Elgin Christmas shopping. The speed limit is 50 mph. between Roselle road and Old Plum Grove road, which is a distance of one mile.

As we stopped at the stop sign at Roselle, we saw a car parked back some 900 feet, which we later learned was the Schaumburg police. About three-quarters along Hoffman Estates we saw a car behind us, never getting closer than 1000 or 1200 feet. We checked our speedometer at that time and we were going 53 mph.

JUST AS WE were opposite the "End Speed Zone" sign, a red flash and siren started from the rear. We thought it was an ambulance and pulled over to wait for it to pass. We were surprised to have the squad from the village of Schaumburg pull up behind us and have Officer Eckberg come to our car.

He informed us we were doing 67 mph and asked Gordon, my husband, to go back to the squad car with him while he wrote out a ticket. I got out of the car and went back beside my husband. I explained to both Officers Eckberg and Petke that we knew there was ar car behind us and had checked our speedometer. Both officers were very rude to me and kept saying: "Lady, go back and get in your car."

I explained to them that I didn't feel they were close enough to us or followed us long enough to get a fair clock, and also asked them if Golf Road were in the village of Schaumburg.

They ignored all questions that I put to them and repeated: "Lady, go get in your car." I asked if I did not have the right to ask a legitimate question and to receive a civil answer; they ignored me.

WE FELT that even though we did not receive a fair deal from the officers, we would surely have an opportunity to be heard in court. My husband had to appear on December 24, at 10 a.m. and he pleaded innocent. Judge Ewen asked for an explanation and when my husband related exactly what occurred, Judge Ewen said: "I find you guilty as charged," and charged us $21. I asked if I might say something and the judge permitted it, although I feel that he did not even listen to me.

If it had been I who received the speeding ticket, I would never have paid it (even though it would have meant spending Christmas away from my husband and five children) when I know honestly we were not speeding.

When men who call themselves officers of the law will give motorists a ticket for speeding when they are not speeding, what is to prevent them from saying that one did not stop at a stop sign, etc.?

It seems that a private citizen has no rights whatsoever—it's your word against the officer's. I was taught to respect officers of the law, but how can one respect them after an incident such as this?

IN COURT WE noticed that the people who had been given tickets were not residents of Schaumburg, but rather from Palatine or elsewhere. Even if we had been speeding, which we were not, what jurisdiction does the village of Schaumburg have over Golf road?

If it were the Hoffman Estates police, I should understand their concern, but the Schaumburg officers were so far from their village, it is obvious it is a speed trap and whether you're speeding or not, they're out to get you.

Contributors Are Thanked

We wish to thank the many families who contributed to the Wayland E. Campbell Memorial Fund the past year.

A large Horse Chestnut tree was planted at Northwest Community hospital and dedicated to the memory of Doctor Campbell from grateful patients. We hope it will grow to be a beautiful tree enjoyed by all who visit the hospital.

We also wish to thank Chas. Klehm and Son Nursery for their cooperation in the selection and planting of this tree.

Bah Humbug, Cries Reader

Bah! Humbug Mr. Ebenezer Scrooge Peterson.

You are looking on the outward appearance of Christmas. You are looking at houses gaily decorated inside and out but have you looked at the heart of the house to find out why they have a pagan tree.

Each Christmas Eve the Christ child is born again in the form of that lowly pagan tree and as Mary dressed her Babe in swaddling clothes so is the tree in our house. The Wise Men brought gifts to the Child, who was the Hope of the World, are not our children this hope. As Christ was sacrificed and nailed to the Cross, is not our once lovely alive tree sacrificed to the incinerator.

It is you, Mr. Peterson who has succumbed to the Commercialism of Christmas.

Mother, Son Are Grateful for Aid

My son and I wish to take this opportunity through the Paddock Publications to thank each and every one who took the time and effort through the busy holiday season to write and encourage my son who has been critically ill.

Every letter and every card was such a source of encouragement and renewal of faith to him to get well. While I was there several times when the mail came in, I was able to see his face light up as he opened each card for me to read to him. His sight has not returned completely as yet, and we cannot be sure yet if it ever will 100 per cent. However, he is making slow but sure progress considering the seriousness of his illness, and will continue to do so I am sure as long as people remember him and these cards and few lines continue coming to him.

THE DOCTORS say he is doing good considering the length of his illness, and even though he feels and looks the picture of health now, his coordination to his feet and left hand has not completely returned, and it will be at least three weeks or more before they can be sure it will.

His need for continued encouragement is needed almost more now while he is recuperating and rehabilitating himself, and to each and every person who can find time to remember this young man until he is completely recovered, to each I personally say thanks from the bottom of my heart and deep sincere thanks from my son.

Both of us wish each and every one a healthy, happy New Year and God bless you all.

In closing special thanks to Lucile Paddock who first discovered of his plight through our church bulletin and got this article printed a few weeks before Christmas which started the ball rolling.

Lt. Walter Tett Earns PTA Praise

To President and Trustees of the Village of Bensenville:

This is a very special letter of commendation regarding Lt. Walter Tett.

Recently at the Blackhawk Junior High Fun Fair, we were wholly responsible for the money. I appealed to the police department to send a man from 7:30 p.m. until we banked the receipts.

EARLIER THAN we had anticipated, Lt. Walter Tett arrived in complete uniform — neat, smiling; but very official looking. At that hour we had a sizable crowd and because of his presence they were very orderly. From that moment we felt very confident. He very patiently stayed with us during the hectic counting and re-counting. The money was finally deposited at the bank at 11 p.m. This officer more than likely was giving us his protection on his night off.

When we asked him about the fee, he answered, "I am glad to help because you need me, and there is absolutely no fee."

NOT ONLY did this officer give us his protection and confidence, but he gave it pleasantly and freely.

Gentlemen, because complaints come to your attention, we wanted you to receive this compliment for one of your Police department.

Thank you, sincerely.

Radio Operators Receive Rebuttal

I have just read the letter written by William Barnett about the poor amateur radio operators not being understood, and I would like to let him know how it feels to live between two amateur radio operators.

Let me ask him if he has ever sat down to relax and had to listen to a one-sided conversation between a razor and food mixer, or has an electric drill been put in his neighbor's driveway that made so much noise after 9 or 10 o'clock that he had to close the doors and windows on that side of the house. Does he have an electric train operated by an adult civilized person going in and out of this driveway all night long, the conversation so loud you can hear both people talking?

LAST SUMMER our children were put to bed after 9:30 or 10 o'clock, because if they went to bed at their usual time they were awakened, anyway.

Almost all of the electrical devices he listed are used during the day when very few men are home. At our house anytime after 6:30 on week days you are not sure you will be able to watch TV. The weekends are an all-day thing and it is almost a sure bet you cannot watch anything at night if it is on channel 2 or 5.

This has been going on for more than a year, and I have not done anything about it because one of our neighbors is a nice guy about it when you tell him, but when you are asked to let them know when they bother your set and they tell you: your TV set is old (ours' is about two years); it's the weather; airplanes are doing it; why don't you try to adjust your set.

NOW YOU tell us it is our fault, the manufacturer's fault we cannot watch TV in our home. Oh yes, I was told that the Amateur Radio Operator is protected by the law and there is nothing to do about it.

You ask "should a private citizen be required to subject himself to the abuse of other private citizens as well as officials, etc.?" What makes the ARO always right and us who just want to sit at home and watch TV wrong?

You talk about the manufacturers cutting corners—what about the corners you cut that are so expensive you don't mind cutting them?

By the way, we have a filter on our set.

Firemen, Operator Earn Appreciation

I sometimes get weary reading so many complaints from people who write to the Fence Post. I, for a change, have not a complaint, but a thank you for the telephone operator and Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights fire departments.

While I am unhappy that circumstances have caused me to have to write about the subject of a fire, I am happy to be able to say that though the experience was dreadful, it did give our whole family a knowledge that expert, experienced and understanding help is near in time of real need.

OUR HOME was gutted by fire the day after Christmas to such an extent that we will be out of our home for at least 12 more weeks while it is being rebuilt.

When we discovered fire in our basement at about 4 p.m., I immediately went to the phone, dialed "operator" and asked her to get the fire department. I then dropped the phone, grabbed the baby and ran next door. I called the operator again to check if my message had been taken care of. I was assured it was and that the fire department was on its way. The operator told me that she would remain on the line to handle any calls as long as there was an emergency.

She did just that during the entire time, calling any number we gave to her. We certainly want to thank that operator, whoever she is. She was living up to the saying we hear so much—a friend is just as near as your phone.

THE PROSPECT Heights and Mount Prospect fire departments arrived within minutes after the call and within seconds of each other.

They were wonderful. They did their work in a very efficient way. The insurance company stated it was amazed that we had such an extensive fire, yet, because of the way the property and furnishings were protected the loss was less than it could have been.

There was no indiscriminate breaking of windows or doors or unnecessary damage to furnishings.

I hope other people do not have to go through the terrible experience of a fire as we did to make them wake up to the fact that our fire departments and the telephone company are truly efficient friends in time of need.

I feel a little thanks for things others do for us, even though in the line of duty, can go a long way.

BEYOND THE call of actual duty, the firemen even saved our dog who had gone back into the burning house in fright. They rescued her and gave her oxygen because she had been overcome by the smoke.

Writing this letter is the only way we know to let those who helped us know how grateful we are. It is also a way to let others know that they should be grateful.

May we say "thank you" publically to all the firemen and to the telephone operator? We are truly grateful to you.

Union Spokesman To Inform Faculty

As a teacher in Township High School District 214, I feel I must attempt to correct some erroneous assumptions in the letter "Classroom Teacher Morale Very Low." Although I am chairman of the policy and welfare committee, I am not now speaking in that capacity but as a classroom teacher. However, it was through the policy and welfare committee that the contact with the American Federation of Teachers was made.

A representative of the AFT is not coming to district 214 to organize us nor are we "seeking union affiliation." This meeting is one of three which will be held. The other two will be meetings with the IEA (Illinois Education Association) and the NEA (National Education Association). The time is being given to these three organizations to enable them to discuss with us their aims and goals in education. I do not feel that it is right to construe the votes of some people who are willing to listen to the AFT's goals as being necessarily votes to organize a union. I personally know several people who voted to allow the AFT equal time with the NEA and IEA but have never considered joining the AFT.

If the letter of Thursday, December 22, 1960, has helped to arouse interest and participation in your high schools, well and good. It is a big organization with a big budget, many facilities and numerous employees. It is a good organization but as in anything there is room for improvement most of which cost money for the taxpayers. I feel the administration is aware of most of these problems and that the relations between teachers and administration are not strained.

Woman Claims 'Speed Trap' In Schaumburg Arrest Case

Although I never miss reading "Letters to the Fence Post," I never thought I would be writing one myself, but something happened one evening to upset me and I know I will feel better if I do write.

About 10 p.m. on December 15, my husband and I were driving along Golf road toward Meacham, having been to Elgin Christmas shopping. The speed limit is 50 mph. between Roselle road and Old Plum Grove road, which is a distance of one mile.

As we stopped at the stop sign at Roselle, we saw a car parked back some 900 feet, which we later learned was the Schaumburg police. About three-quarters along Hoffman Estates we saw a car behind us, never getting closer than 1000 or 1200 feet. We checked our speedometer at that time and we were going 53 mph.

JUST AS WE were opposite the "End Speed Zone" sign, a red flash and siren started from the rear. We thought it was an ambulance and pulled over to wait for it to pass. We were surprised to have the squad from the village of Schaumburg pull up behind us and have Officer Eckberg come to our car.

He informed us we were doing 67 mph and asked Gordon, my husband, to go back to the squad car with him while he wrote out a ticket. I got out of the car and went back beside my husband. I explained to both Officers Eckberg and Petke that we knew there was ar car behind us and had checked our speedometer. Both officers were very rude to me and kept saying: "Lady, go back and get in your car."

I explained to them that I didn't feel they were close enough to us or followed us long enough to get a fair clock, and also asked them if Golf Road were in the village of Schaumburg.

They ignored all questions that I put to them and repeated: "Lady, go get in your car." I asked if I did not have the right to ask a legitimate question and to receive a civil answer; they ignored me.

WE FELT that even though we did not receive a fair deal from the officers, we would surely have an opportunity to be heard in court. My husband had to appear on December 24, at 10 a.m. and he pleaded innocent. Judge Ewen asked for an explanation and when my husband related exactly what occurred, Judge Ewen said: "I find you guilty as charged," and charged us $21. I asked if I might say something and the judge permitted it, although I feel that he did not even listen to me.

If it had been I who received the speeding ticket, I would never have paid it (even though it would have meant spending Christmas away from my husband and five children) when I know honestly we were not speeding.

When men who call themselves officers of the law will give motorists a ticket for speeding when they are not speeding, what is to prevent them from saying that one did not stop at a stop sign, etc.?

It seems that a private citizen has no rights whatsoever—it's your word against the officer's. I was taught to respect officers of the law, but how can one respect them after an incident such as this?

IN COURT WE noticed that the people who had been given tickets were not residents of Schaumburg, but rather from Palatine or elsewhere. Even if we had been speeding, which we were not, what jurisdiction does the village of Schaumburg have over Golf road?

If it were the Hoffman Estates police, I should understand their concern, but the Schaumburg officers were so far from their village, it is obvious it is a speed trap and whether you're speeding or not, they're out to get you.

Contributors Are Thanked

We wish to thank the many families who contributed to the Wayland E. Campbell Memorial Fund the past year.

A large Horse Chestnut tree was planted at Northwest Community hospital and dedicated to the memory of Doctor Campbell from grateful patients. We hope it will grow to be a beautiful tree enjoyed by all who visit the hospital.

We also wish to thank Chas. Klehm and Son Nursery for their cooperation in the selection and planting of this tree.

Bah Humbug, Cries Reader

Bah! Humbug Mr. Ebenezer Scrooge Peterson.

You are looking on the outward appearance of Christmas. You are looking at houses gaily decorated inside and out but have you looked at the heart of the house to find out why they have a pagan tree.

Each Christmas Eve the Christ child is born again in the form of that lowly pagan tree and as Mary dressed her Babe in swaddling clothes so is the tree in our house. The Wise Men brought gifts to the Child, who was the Hope of the World, are not our children this hope. As Christ was sacrificed and nailed to the Cross, is not our once lovely alive tree sacrificed to the incinerator.

It is you, Mr. Peterson who has succumbed to the Commercialism of Christmas.

Mother, Son Are Grateful for Aid

My son and I wish to take this opportunity through the Paddock Publications to thank each and every one who took the time and effort through the busy holiday season to write and encourage my son who has been critically ill.

Every letter and every card was such a source of encouragement and renewal of faith to him to get well. While I was there several times when the mail came in, I was able to see his face light up as he opened each card for me to read to him. His sight has not returned completely as yet, and we cannot be sure yet if it ever will 100 per cent. However, he is making slow but sure progress considering the seriousness of his illness, and will continue to do so I am sure as long as people remember him and these cards and few lines continue coming to him.

THE DOCTORS say he is doing good considering the length of his illness, and even though he feels and looks the picture of health now, his coordination to his feet and left hand has not completely returned, and it will be at least three weeks or more before they can be sure it will.

His need for continued encouragement is needed almost more now while he is recuperating and rehabilitating himself, and to each and every person who can find time to remember this young man until he is completely recovered, to each I personally say thanks from the bottom of my heart and deep sincere thanks from my son.

Both of us wish each and every one a healthy, happy New Year and God bless you all.

In closing special thanks to Lucile Paddock who first discovered of his plight through our church bulletin and got this article printed a few weeks before Christmas which started the ball rolling.

Vehicle Tax Hearing Set

We wish to call to the attention of the residents of Wood Dale that an objection has been raised to the petition recently brought around in regard to the vehicle tax raise and referendum.

The objection has been filed by the police magistrate of Wood Dale, Donald Mock, as a private citizen, in the county court of DuPage county in Wheaton and the hearing is to be held Monday, Jan. 16, at 9 a.m., at this location.

If at all possible, please be in attendance at this hearing.

Lt. Walter Tett Earns PTA Praise

To President and Trustees of the Village of Bensenville:

This is a very special letter of commendation regarding Lt. Walter Tett.

Recently at the Blackhawk Junior High Fun Fair, we were wholly responsible for the money. I appealed to the police department to send a man from 7:30 p.m. until we banked the receipts.

EARLIER THAN we had anticipated, Lt. Walter Tett arrived in complete uniform — neat, smiling; but very official looking. At that hour we had a sizable crowd and because of his presence they were very orderly. From that moment we felt very confident. He very patiently stayed with us during the hectic counting and re-counting. The money was finally deposited at the bank at 11 p.m. This officer more than likely was giving us his protection on his night off.

When we asked him about the fee, he answered, "I am glad to help because you need me, and there is absolutely no fee."

NOT ONLY did this officer give us his protection and confidence, but he gave it pleasantly and freely.

Gentlemen, because complaints come to your attention, we wanted you to receive this compliment for one of your Police department.

Thank you, sincerely.

Reader Raps Trash, Trivia

Please cancel my subscription to the Mount Prospect Herald immediately.

The article on the front page of the December 22 issue, concerning Dick Hauff, whether written facetiously or as a newsworthy incident, was in execrable taste, and is the culmination for us of several years of exasperation in looking for news in your paper, and finding only trash and trivia.

Radio Operators Receive Rebuttal

I have just read the letter written by William Barnett about the poor amateur radio operators not being understood, and I would like to let him know how it feels to live between two amateur radio operators.

Let me ask him if he has ever sat down to relax and had to listen to a one-sided conversation between a razor and food mixer, or has an electric drill been put in his neighbor's driveway that made so much noise after 9 or 10 o'clock that he had to close the doors and windows on that side of the house. Does he have an electric train operated by an adult civilized person going in and out of this driveway all night long, the conversation so loud you can hear both people talking?

LAST SUMMER our children were put to bed after 9:30 or 10 o'clock, because if they went to bed at their usual time they were awakened, anyway.

Almost all of the electrical devices he listed are used during the day when very few men are home. At our house anytime after 6:30 on week days you are not sure you will be able to watch TV. The weekends are an all-day thing and it is almost a sure bet you cannot watch anything at night if it is on channel 2 or 5.

This has been going on for more than a year, and I have not done anything about it because one of our neighbors is a nice guy about it when you tell him, but when you are asked to let them know when they bother your set and they tell you: your TV set is old (ours' is about two years); it's the weather; airplanes are doing it; why don't you try to adjust your set.

NOW YOU tell us it is our fault, the manufacturer's fault we cannot watch TV in our home. Oh yes, I was told that the Amateur Radio Operator is protected by the law and there is nothing to do about it.

You ask "should a private citizen be required to subject himself to the abuse of other private citizens as well as officials, etc.?" What makes the ARO always right and us who just want to sit at home and watch TV wrong?

You talk about the manufacturers cutting corners—what about the corners you cut that are so expensive you don't mind cutting them?

By the way, we have a filter on our set.

Firemen, Operator Earn Appreciation

I sometimes get weary reading so many complaints from people who write to the Fence Post. I, for a change, have not a complaint, but a thank you for the telephone operator and Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights fire departments.

While I am unhappy that circumstances have caused me to have to write about the subject of a fire, I am happy to be able to say that though the experience was dreadful, it did give our whole family a knowledge that expert, experienced and understanding help is near in time of real need.

OUR HOME was gutted by fire the day after Christmas to such an extent that we will be out of our home for at least 12 more weeks while it is being rebuilt.

When we discovered fire in our basement at about 4 p.m., I immediately went to the phone, dialed "operator" and asked her to get the fire department. I then dropped the phone, grabbed the baby and ran next door. I called the operator again to check if my message had been taken care of. I was assured it was and that the fire department was on its way. The operator told me that she would remain on the line to handle any calls as long as there was an emergency.

She did just that during the entire time, calling any number we gave to her. We certainly want to thank that operator, whoever she is. She was living up to the saying we hear so much—a friend is just as near as your phone.

THE PROSPECT Heights and Mount Prospect fire departments arrived within minutes after the call and within seconds of each other.

They were wonderful. They did their work in a very efficient way. The insurance company stated it was amazed that we had such an extensive fire, yet, because of the way the property and furnishings were protected the loss was less than it could have been.

There was no indiscriminate breaking of windows or doors or unnecessary damage to furnishings.

I hope other people do not have to go through the terrible experience of a fire as we did to make them wake up to the fact that our fire departments and the telephone company are truly efficient friends in time of need.

I feel a little thanks for things others do for us, even though in the line of duty, can go a long way.

BEYOND THE call of actual duty, the firemen even saved our dog who had gone back into the burning house in fright. They rescued her and gave her oxygen because she had been overcome by the smoke.

Writing this letter is the only way we know to let those who helped us know how grateful we are. It is also a way to let others know that they should be grateful.

May we say "thank you" publically to all the firemen and to the telephone operator? We are truly grateful to you.

Union Spokesman To Inform Faculty

As a teacher in Township High School District 214, I feel I must attempt to correct some erroneous assumptions in the letter "Classroom Teacher Morale Very Low." Although I am chairman of the policy and welfare committee, I am not now speaking in that capacity but as a classroom teacher. However, it was through the policy and welfare committee that the contact with the American Federation of Teachers was made.

A representative of the AFT is not coming to district 214 to organize us nor are we "seeking union affiliation." This meeting is one of three which will be held. The other two will be meetings with the IEA (Illinois Education Association) and the NEA (National Education Association). The time is being given to these three organizations to enable them to discuss with us their aims and goals in education. I do not feel that it is right to construe the votes of some people who are willing to listen to the AFT's goals as being necessarily votes to organize a union. I personally know several people who voted to allow the AFT equal time with the NEA and IEA but have never considered joining the AFT.

If the letter of Thursday, December 22, 1960, has helped to arouse interest and participation in your high schools, well and good. It is a big organization with a big budget, many facilities and numerous employees. It is a good organization but as in anything there is room for improvement most of which cost money for the taxpayers. I feel the administration is aware of most of these problems and that the relations between teachers and administration are not strained.

Jim Phillips' Review

Top Children's Show Is Credit to Theatre

by JIM PHILLIPS

Village Theatre's "Rapunzel and the Witch" proved two things last Sunday afternoon:

1) if your name happens to be Rapunzel, you'd better not let your hair grow any longer than a short pony-tail, or you'll be in for a heck of a lot of trouble; and 2) there's quality children's theater being done right under our (and our children's) noses.

UNDER THE competent direction of Mary Tindall, "Rapunzel" managed to lick quite a few problems: it could have been murdered by overacting (children's theater style); the character of the witch could have overshadowed the other characters, (one of the warnings author Jack Melanos gives); and the production itself could have bogged down in pace, resulting in an audience of fidgety children. None of the above problems were present.

The story of Rapunzel is almost as involved as Wagner's Operatic Ring Cycle. Otto and wife Margot, played by Al Wilcox and Kay Hawley, are going to have a baby. Due to the fact that hubby Otto tries to please his pregnant wife's appetite by stealing radishes from a witch's garden, said witch (Bob Hawley) puts him on the spot—it's either become a tree or hand over the baby when it's born.

Needless to say, the baby girl named Rapunzel (Jo Duro) becomes the witch's property. This is great for the witch because she has been told by an enchanted stone that one way to get all the power in the universe is to make another witch. By the way, the witch also has a magic chain around her neck, which, if taken, means curtains for the old bat.

Well, Rapunzel doesn't like the idea of being a junior partner in the potion department, so she puts up a fuss. The witch punishes her by putting her in a high tower. The only way to get up to her is by climbing her long golden braids.

BY THIS time, there's a prince wandering around (John Lobenhofer). He's out to get the witch for what she did to his folks, the King and Queen (Bob and Betty Randolph)—(they were turned into a tree and plant respectively!). The prince can best be described as a combination hero, lover, and witch-hunter—a sort of fairy tale edition of Josh Randall. Anyway, the prince gets tricked by the witch, the witch gets tricked by the prince and Rapunzel, the magic chain (remember the chain?) is taken from the neck of the witch, a spell or two is cast, and before you know it, there's the "happily-ever-after." (Whew!).

Involved plot or not, the performance of Rapunzel was effective— the kids loved it.

Bob Hawley's witch was particularly good. He proved that no woman could have played the part without band aids, track shoes, and an oxygen tank! He was a delightful cross between an Actor's Studio Bela Lugosi and a tower-climbing children's version of the Hunchback of Notre Dame—yet, he wasn't overly fierce or monster-like, thanks, in part, to a good makeup job.

Al Wilcox and Kay Hawley as Otto and Margot, were effective, although at times, I thought I heard a little Swedish dialect coming from "Otto."

Jo Duro's Rapunzel was sweet, sugary and smooth. The scenes devoted to her momentary transformation to junior witch were vocally excellent. She has a fine technique for voice-changing. I'd like to see her do a villainous female sometime—there are plenty of those parts around in today's stage offerings.

JOHN LOBENHOFER was a little slow in developing the hero-type characterization of the prince—but when he got going, he proved well-suited to the part.

Bob and Betty Randolph—well, what can you say about a tree and a plant?—their voices were good,—a little muffled at times, but good.

Red Pownall was an awesome enchanted stone (you do remember the stone, don't you?) because of the technical excellence of the microphone and speaker set-up.

"Rapunzel" is not an easy play to produce or direct, but this production proved that it can be done well, from the colorful sets to the acting. The most demanding thing about this particular run, was the three-shows-in-a-row bit. The actors didn't have much of a rest between performances. Perhaps the nicest compliment to their abilities was the fact that some patrons came from 60 miles away to see the show, and that the over-all crowds were good last Sunday.

Jim Phillips' Review

Top Children's Show Is Credit to Theatre

by JIM PHILLIPS

Village Theatre's "Rapunzel and the Witch" proved two things last Sunday afternoon:

1) if your name happens to be Rapunzel, you'd better not let your hair grow any longer than a short pony-tail, or you'll be in for a heck of a lot of trouble; and 2) there's quality children's theater being done right under our (and our children's) noses.

UNDER THE competent direction of Mary Tindall, "Rapunzel" managed to lick quite a few problems: it could have been murdered by overacting (children's theater style); the character of the witch could have overshadowed the other characters, (one of the warnings author Jack Melanos gives); and the production itself could have bogged down in pace, resulting in an audience of fidgety children. None of the above problems were present.

The story of Rapunzel is almost as involved as Wagner's Operatic Ring Cycle. Otto and wife Margot, played by Al Wilcox and Kay Hawley, are going to have a baby. Due to the fact that hubby Otto tries to please his pregnant wife's appetite by stealing radishes from a witch's garden, said witch (Bob Hawley) puts him on the spot—it's either become a tree or hand over the baby when it's born.

Needless to say, the baby girl named Rapunzel (Jo Duro) becomes the witch's property. This is great for the witch because she has been told by an enchanted stone that one way to get all the power in the universe is to make another witch. By the way, the witch also has a magic chain around her neck, which, if taken, means curtains for the old bat.

Well, Rapunzel doesn't like the idea of being a junior partner in the potion department, so she puts up a fuss. The witch punishes her by putting her in a high tower. The only way to get up to her is by climbing her long golden braids.

BY THIS time, there's a prince wandering around (John Lobenhofer). He's out to get the witch for what she did to his folks, the King and Queen (Bob and Betty Randolph)—(they were turned into a tree and plant respectively!). The prince can best be described as a combination hero, lover, and witch-hunter—a sort of fairy tale edition of Josh Randall. Anyway, the prince gets tricked by the witch, the witch gets tricked by the prince and Rapunzel, the magic chain (remember the chain?) is taken from the neck of the witch, a spell or two is cast, and before you know it, there's the "happily-ever-after." (Whew!).

Involved plot or not, the performance of Rapunzel was effective— the kids loved it.

Bob Hawley's witch was particularly good. He proved that no woman could have played the part without band aids, track shoes, and an oxygen tank! He was a delightful cross between an Actor's Studio Bela Lugosi and a tower-climbing children's version of the Hunchback of Notre Dame—yet, he wasn't overly fierce or monster-like, thanks, in part, to a good makeup job.

Al Wilcox and Kay Hawley as Otto and Margot, were effective, although at times, I thought I heard a little Swedish dialect coming from "Otto."

Jo Duro's Rapunzel was sweet, sugary and smooth. The scenes devoted to her momentary transformation to junior witch were vocally excellent. She has a fine technique for voice-changing. I'd like to see her do a villainous female sometime—there are plenty of those parts around in today's stage offerings.

JOHN LOBENHOFER was a little slow in developing the hero-type characterization of the prince—but when he got going, he proved well-suited to the part.

Bob and Betty Randolph—well, what can you say about a tree and a plant?—their voices were good,—a little muffled at times, but good.

Red Pownall was an awesome enchanted stone (you do remember the stone, don't you?) because of the technical excellence of the microphone and speaker set-up.

"Rapunzel" is not an easy play to produce or direct, but this production proved that it can be done well, from the colorful sets to the acting. The most demanding thing about this particular run, was the three-shows-in-a-row bit. The actors didn't have much of a rest between performances. Perhaps the nicest compliment to their abilities was the fact that some patrons came from 60 miles away to see the show, and that the over-all crowds were good last Sunday.

Capsule Comment: "Funzel with Rapunzel"

Cambridge Club Is For Men

The Cambridge club is the athletic club for men at the Northwest Suburban YMCA.

Club members will enjoy a private locker room and a private lounge that will be air conditioned and equipped with television.

Included in the club privileges will be the use of a steam room, violet ray, infrared heat lamp, electric heat cabinet, exercise rooms with every kind of exercise device, a golf driving net, and handball privileges on four of Chicago's finest courts.

OF COURSE, the gym and the swimming pool and all the regularly scheduled men's activities will be available for club members as well as some classes especially for businessmen. A full-time masseur will be on duty to serve club members.

Physical fitness testing will be given special emphasis for Cambridge Club members by physical director, Art Holland. The tests will include strength, agility and heart response to exercise. The test scores will be rated on a scale according to the age of the individual.

At the Catlow Friday

IN THIS SCENE from "Butterfield 8", Elizabeth Taylor tells Lawrence Harvey that she is aware that his wife is returning to town. The film version of John O'Hara's dynamic novel opens Friday at the Catlow Theatre in Barrington. Since this attraction is recommended for adults only, the Catlow has scheduled a special matinee for children on Sunday, Jan. 15.

Artist Leads Way in Seeking 'Integrity'

by LUCILE ERNST

I wonder if onyone else was lucky enough to have caught an interview on TV with Salvador Dali. It was several years ago but remains undimmed in my memory. Of course, Dali is like that.

Sometime during the interview Dali confided his unique approach to romance. He didn't explain why, but when the time came to ask the girl to be his wife, he daubed axle grease all over himself and scattered feathers on top. Attired thus and armed with good intentions, he proposed.

WHAT was interesting was the reaction to this story. There wasn't much. Mild amusement, yes, but no open mouthed shock or lifted eyebrows.

Now don't mistake what I'm saying. I have an enormous respect for Dali. He is probably one of the finest craftsmen alive. I have even more respect for his intuitive and firm grasp of public reaction. Daubing axle grease and feathers on one to enhance a magic moment was good for laughs and comment in the thirties, but it simply cuts no ice in the sixties.

SALVADOR is no man to rest on his laurels. His next statement was the real shocker. "I have never in all my years of marriage," he stated flatly, "been unfaithful to my wife." If you think this is not the most highly unconventional statement he could have made, try it at a party sometime.

Add for flavor that you believe infidelity is a lack of honor and integrity and that marriage is sacred. The embarrassed silence that follows could be no deeper if you admitted that you had recently committed an axe murder. You get the impression that it is all right if you want to be stuffy, but the least you can do is be discreet about it.

Isn't it strange that an artist using sheer instinct could know that the pendulum has swung full scale from rigid Victorian standards while sociologists with all their surveys can't figure out why there aren't more nonconformists. The truth of it is there is little left with which we can conform.

THE VICTORIANS didn't have to be rich or brilliant to be well thought of. They needed only to be respectable. This was easy to do. There was a rigid pattern of decent behavior. Ladies didn't do this and gentlemen didn't do that. Follow the rules and you were in. This also allowed someone to break the rules and be nonconformist. It was pleasant for 'rebellious children too. They could dent a few rules, feel a little wicked, and not ruin their lives.

Our literary men noticed that while Victorians shot for the stars, they sometimes fell short and were less than honorable. For fifty years writers have pounded home the message. Good people are not always good, bad people are not always bad. The sin lies in being a hypocrite.

SO HERE we are today. Nice housewives talk like truckdrivers. It is quite all right to cheat and lie. Anything goes. There are only a few rules to conform to. We must bathe once a day, shave regularly, wear decent ties, make enough money anyway you can, and be a watered down Christian of sorts.

Actually, there is nothing wrong with these standards. It is a little silly not to conform to them. People who won't are beatniks. They bathe, won't wear a tie, don't care about money, and take up Buddhism. Being a beatnik is not only uncomfortable but not nearly as perceptive as Dali's form of nonconformity. A true artist is instinctively aware of his own times and reflects the future.

If Dali is right, and I suspect he is, the pendulum has already started to swing back to a realization that uncompromising honor and integrity aren't such bad standards. They aren't anything to be ashamed of either. Come to think of it, about the only place the word "integrity" is used is in the Arts.

Welcome Menu Change: Chuck Steak Marinade, Fruit Salad

SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING

Cooked indoors or out, the Chuck Wagon Pepper Steak we are featuring today is elegant dinner fare.

The recipe has been shared with us by Mrs. Harold L. Henson of Rolling Meadows, who explained: "I only acquired this recipe this summer, but we liked it so much that it quickly became a family favorite and I have made it many times since."

The "steak" used for this recipe is a thick round bone chuck roast which is placed in an herb-flavored marinade for several hours. Crushed peppercorns are pounded into the steak before grilling.

THE marinade tenderizes as well as flavors this savory chuck roast, and the peppercorns give it added spice.

"We like it medium," said Mrs. Henson, "so we grill it for 45 minutes. The steak is sliced diagonally one-half inch thick, and is crispy on the outside yet juicy and pink inside."

As accompaniments for this pepper steak, Mrs. Henson serves baked potatoes with sour cream, lima beans and a tossed salad. She prefers a light dessert because the dinner is quite rich. This is indeed delicious company fare!

Another favorite recipe which has been in Mrs. Henson's family for many years is a Waldorf Delight Salad.

"THIS SALAD is such a confirmed favorite with my family that we make it for all holidays, birthdays and other special occasions during the year. It is especially nice during the fall and winter season when the apples are particularly good," commented this capable cook.

Along with diced apples, this appealing salad includes chopped lettuce, diced pineapple and banana, chopped celery and nuts. It is all tossed together with a pineapple-flavored mayonnaise dressing.

Mr. and Mrs. Henson, who live at 3402 Fremont ave., moved from Bloomington to Rolling Meadows three years ago. They have three children: Bruce, 7, Brooke, 5, and Brenda, 3.

Mr. Henson is a teacher at Prospect Heights high school and Mrs. Henson is a member of the faculty wives group.

CHUCK WAGON PEPPER STEAK

1 3 to 3½ pound round bone arm chuck roast cut 2 inches thick

2 teaspoons unseasoned meat tenderizer

2 tablespoons instant minced onion

2 teaspoons thyme

1 teaspoon marjoram

1 bay leaf, crushed

1 cup wine vinegar

½ cup olive oil or salad oil

3 tablespoons lemon juice

¼ cup peppercorns coarsely crushed or 2 tablespoons bottled cracked pepper

Sprinkle meat evenly on both sides with tenderizer. Pierce deeply with a fork and place in a shallow baking pan.

Mixe instant onion, thyme, marjoram, bay leaf, vinegar, salad oil and lemon juice and pour over and around meat. Let stand at room temperature three hours, turning the meat every half hour to marinate.

When ready to grill, remove meat from marinade. Pound half of the crushed peppercorns evenly into each side of the roast.

Grill to a rich brown, setting about six inches from the hot coals or oven flame.

Grill for 15 minutes on each side for rare. Grill for 25 minutes on one side and 20 on the other for medium.

Cut diagonally, one-half inch thick slices to serve. Serves 4 to 6.

WALDORF DELIGHT SALAD

2 red aples, diced with peelings on

½ cup chopped lettuce

½ cup diced pineapple

½ cup chopped nuts

1 large banana, diced

½ cup finely chopped celery

Combine ingredients and mix with the following dressing:

2 tablespoons mayonnaise

1 tablespoon pineapple juice

1 teaspoon sugar

Pinch of salt

Blend ingredients well. Pour over fruits and toss. Serve on lettuce cups. Serves 4. (SH

YOUNG BRUCE HENSON looks on approvingly as his mother, Mrs. Harold L. Henson of Rolling Meadows, prepares the family's favorite salad, Waldorf Delight. This tempting salad, which combines several fruits with a pineaple-flavored mayonnaise dressing, is particularly appealing during the fall and winter months when apples are in season. Also shared with readers this week is Mrs. Henson's Chuck Wagon Pepper Steak, marinated in oil and herbs. (SH

America's Favorite Pie Takes On New Tanginess

If you are looking for a really distinctive variation of America's favorite dessert, apple pie, one that has exciting taste appeal, let blue cheese and dairy sour cream give the always popular treat an elegant touch.

You'll find the subtle sharpness of the delicately-marbled blue cheese is in complete harmony with sweetened, lightly spiced sour cream. In combination they accentuate the goodness of sliced apples to make a surprisingly fine pie filling.

This is the kind of attractive, open-faced pie to serve for Sunday dinner and for parties.

BLUE CHEESE APPLE PIE

Pastry for single 8-inch pie shell

4 to 5 large baking apples, pared and cored

2/3 cup sugar

¼ teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg

2 tablespoons flour

½ cup dairy sour cream

½ cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 3 ounces)

Slice apples thin and arrange in pastry lined pie plate. Mix remaining ingredients together. Pour mixture evenly over the apples. Bake at 375 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes.

Roll out any remaining pastry and cut designs with cookie cutter. Bake them on a cookie sheet in hot oven for 10 minutes. Place cutouts on top of baked pie. Serve pie slightly warm. (SH

Re-Insulation Cuts Heating Costs

Your home may be full of "turn of the century" charm—but inadequately insulated so that your fuel bills are astronomical. Even if your home was built comparatively recently, attic insulation may have settled or be insufficient to give you full value for your fuel dollar. What to do? First, check to see whether insulation is adequate. Here are a few points to consider:

1. How thick is your present insulation? Three to four inches is recommended for greatest economy.
2. Are there "blank spaces" around pipes, wiring or cross-braces? Uninsulated areas let heat escape like air from a tire leak.
3. Does present insulation reach all the way to the eaves? Open spaces under the eaves are another "escape hatch" for heat.
4. Has insulation separated from attic joists? Gaps between the joists and improperly installed insulation may be another source of waste.

Having determined that present insulation is inadequate—what's next? A quick inexpensive and easy way to remedy the situation is simply to pour one of the vermiculite fill insulations, such as Zonolite, over the existing material. A free-flowing, fireproof mineral, vermiculite fills voids and brings insulation up to the proper fuel-saving level—and protects the underlying material as well.

"So easy a child could do it" is literally true in using this lightweight material. Just open the bag and pour—the difference will be reflected in your next fuel bill, and in the comfort of your home, as well./

New 900 calorie food drink that really tastes good!

Borden's ready dietᵀ

For dieters, a full day's balanced nutrition but only 900 calories... natural dairy-fresh taste!

Weight conscious people often find it hard to stick to a diet which lacks taste appeal or leaves them feeling deprived. The Borden Company, with over a century of experience in the field of nutrition, brings dieters a delicious fresh food drink.

Borden's ready diet offers advantages in nutritional balance . . . in convenience . . . in economy . . . in taste.

Ready to drink. There's no measuring or mixing, diluting or dissolving. Just pour and enjoy. Scientific blending keeps Borden's ready diet from separating, from tasting grainy or thick. (Really tastes great hot or cold.)

Counted calories...scientifically balanced nourishment. A quart provides or exceeds amounts of all essential nutrients recommended by National Research Council* for an adult's daily supply of vitamins, minerals, proteins. It actually gives an adult twice the required amount of high-quality milk protein.

Feel confident ready diet will provide you with all essential nutrients as its low calorie content helps you burn up excess body fat as energy.

Helps quiet that hunger feeling. This delicious full-bodied chocolate or vanilla food drink offers important nutritional values in balanced formulation. Contains no drugs . . . has no after-taste.

Always consult your doctor before starting a reducing program, especially if you've a history of kidney, heart, blood vessel disorders or other abnormal conditions.

AN IMPORTANT STATEMENT BY BORDEN'S

Borden's ready diet, being presented to the medical profession and the public, was developed according to these objectives:

1. To build our product on the concept of scientifically balanced nutrition—including high quality milk protein with proportioned indispensable amino acids.

2. To provide in a 900 calorie food drink all the important nutrients for which recommended dietary allowances* and minimum daily adult requirements have been established.†

3. To make and market ready diet in strict adherence to the standard of quality and ethics long associated with the Borden name.

†Many other valuable milk nutrients are present in ready diet for which no recommended dietary allowances* and minimum daily requirements have been established.

FLORIDA TEMPLE oranges have skins that zip off like tangerines and the sections open easily for "out-of-hand" eating. They make a healthful dessert when served with cheeses such as the pictured: Gruyere, hickory smoked Cheddar, baby Gouda and Roquefort. (SH

In these calorie counting days we're apt to feel almost guilty each time we eat dessert and yet a fine meal just isn't complete without the final course. Even those who are not weight conscious have learned to aim for the utmost nutritive value in the foods they eat.

The most sophisticated and yet wise dessert is styled after the elegant European custom of fruit and cheese served with demi-tasse. During the winter months Temple oranges are a perfect choice. This variety of Florida orange is easily peeled, its skin resembling that of a tangerine.

EACH PLUMP section can be easily plucked for simple "out-of-hand" eating. Temples have a naturally sweet, aromatic flavor, earning them acclaim as the "world's finest eating orange." Like other Florida citrus, Temples are a rich source of daily-needed vitamin C and other nutrients and yet are calorically low.

Cheese flavors blend smartly with that of oranges and the varieties available are infinite. Gruyere, Gouda or Edam, Blue or Roquefort, smoked Cheddar or any of the process cheeses are delightful with fruit and crackers.

There's lots of room for experiment to find which types family and friends enjoy most. Although cheese has a relatively high caloric count, most of the calories are those of nourishing protein. Carbohydrate content is low and vitamins B and A high.

Get in the good health habit and serve Temple oranges and cheese for dessert or at snacktime. Florida Temples are fruit bowl favorites too, so tempt the hungry in your house with them, rather than refreshments offering little health value. (SH

Week's Best food buys

Normal seasonal supplies are slowly filling most major food channels, punctuated here and there by cost-price variances that continue to reflect hold-over problems of short work weeks, some weather factors and a short term meat cutters labor dispute in the east.

The University of Illinois consumer service weekly survey of metropolitan area food markets notes that most consumer market buys, for the week ending January 14, will be based on the following general developments:

Depressed lamb costs on slightly higher supplies, steady to wider ranging quotes respectively on limited pork and beef supplies.

Fryers little changed, stewing hens up slightly, and turkey bargains limited to inventory adjustments. Eggs are slightly lower on limited buyer purchases in the commercial and breaker trades.

WEATHER, including more rain in the southwest, severely limits many perishable produce values, although markets from all directions -- except Cuba -- at strong to higher prices. Tomatoes (expected in great abundance) and lettuce are rated as the top values, followed by carrots which on weather reports are expected to fall by the value wayside shortly.

Processed foods -- owing to higher pricing orange concentrate -- start the year a full 4.9 index points above the comparable period of a year ago.

Against this market pattern, the U of I bargain buy list is confined to a relatively few selections. Bargain meats are lamb leg roasts and shoulder roasts, fresh pork butts and smoked picnics, beef rump and sirloin tip roasts; produce bargains are tomatoes, lettuce, carrots, cabbage, potatoes, grapefruit, tangerines and apples.

FROM A PRICING viewpoint, even though lamb moved slightly higher at retail, it had been in the cellar. Emerging now from its long period of sag, it rates as a market value. Higher climbing pork prices have been stopped. Beef is stronger but the trade expects better supplies shortly.

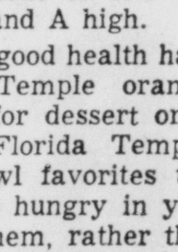
Lamb -- retail quotes in most stores range more widely this week. Leg roasts are a prevalent 55-69 cents, shoulder roasts 39-49 cents, rib chops 79 cents - $1.09, loin chops 89 cents - $1.29, and shoulder chops quote quite widely from a pivotal point of 75 cents.

Pork -- although sometimes quoted lower selectively by stores, prevailing tags show rib roasts 49-55 cents, loin end roasts 59-65 cents, center cut chops 95-98 cents, fresh butts are slightly lower but pivot around 49 cents as do spare ribs. Hams for the most part have lost their interest. Smoked picnics are 39 cents generally and sometimes lower, smoked butts are commonly 79 cents. The bacon market is stronger again this week, but for the second consecutive week holds its 69 cents retail on first line brands and 55-59 cents on second lines.

BEEF -- SOME promotional opportunities selectively by stores, but generally blade cut chuck pot roasts show 55-59 cents, round bone roasts 69-75 cents, first four rib cut roasts 79 cents competitively, rougher cuts 69 cents. Steaks are generally steady, top quotes of $1.09 showing on sirloins, $1.29 on porterhouse and 95 cents on round. Ground beef is mostly 59 cents but can be found lower.

There is general inactivity in the poultry segment of the market. Fryers provide a few potential bargain buys under the 39 cents level. Stewing hens quote competitively 45 cents and turkeys range 49-55 cents. Eggs are in good supply with the market "bottoming" irregularly to lower as buyers limit purchases to their immediate needs. This reflects in the consumer retail channels at a lower 59-67 cents range for grade A large. (SH

FOOD FOR THOUGHT



by Edward Rentz

Teaching children something about cooking can be a "fun part" of their training. Even a young son should be taught to familiarize himself in the kitchen for someday he may have to fend for himself on the stove.

Interest in cooking can be acquired if the first attempt is candy. A simple recipe is best as children lose interest quickly. Measuring utensils should be explained. Then the children should proceed with Mother supervising.

After the children have made a few different kinds of candy, it might be a good idea to let them try their hand at something a little harder like making a meat loaf for a special dinner for Dad. Then, of course, package cakes and cookies are good to learn oven techniques.

Steaks are generally steady, top quotes of $1.09 showing on sirloins, $1.29 on porterhouse and 95 cents on round. Ground beef is mostly 59 cents but can be found lower.

There is general inactivity in the poultry segment of the market. Fryers provide a few potential bargain buys under the 39 cents level. Stewing hens quote competitively 45 cents and turkeys range 49-55 cents. Eggs are in good supply with the market "bottoming" irregularly to lower as buyers limit purchases to their immediate needs. This reflects in the consumer retail channels at a lower 59-67 cents range for grade A large. (SH

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Edward Rentz

Teaching children something about cooking can be a "fun part" of their training. Even a young son should be taught to familiarize himself in the kitchen for someday he may have to fend for himself on the stove.

Interest in cooking can be acquired if the first attempt is candy. A simple recipe is best as children lose interest quickly. Measuring utensils should be explained. Then the children should proceed with Mother supervising.

After the children have made a few different kinds of candy, it might be a good idea to let them try their hand at something a little harder like making a meat loaf for a special dinner for Dad. Then, of course, package cakes and cookies are good to learn oven techniques.

Prices Paid for Farmland Declined in 1960

Prices paid for farm land have declined somewhat in much of Illinois during the past year, a University of Illinois land economist reports.

From a survey made among farm land appraisers, brokers and professional farm managers, Charles L. Stewart has found that prices for privately sold land were down about 14 per cent in central Illinois and about 10 per cent in northern Illinois. Scattered reports show a smaller drop in the southern part of the state. Since the end of September, when the survey was completed, Stewart has noted some evidence of increased interest in buying land.

The decline amounted to about $65 to $70 an acre in central Illinois and $30 to $42 in northern Illinois.

HIGHLY productive land sold at auction seemed to bring lower prices than that sold in private sales, Stewart reports. Some east-Central Illinois auctions showed "shockingly" low prices. Auction sales were handicapped in some cases by unfortunate choice of time and place and by reservations of rights by owners, the land economist believes.

Some private sales were made on long-time contracts at lower interest rates than most lenders would make. This helped to maintain land prices on such private sales.

Some Illinois areas reported little or no slump in prices. Some river-valley land that had a higher yield potential and was protected from overflow or clearable at reasonable cost attracted buyers from higher priced areas.

Several reasons were given for the land price slump. Some believe it was due partly to fewer non-farm investors buying land. Others cited high taxes and interest. Others credited high returns from other investments. Some reported the uncertainty farmers felt about raising funds to buy land as a reason for the drop at auction sales. Low and possibly declining net incomes of farm operators were also given as a reason.

Stewart retired from his position as professor of land economics in September 1959 and during the past year has served as a special consultant on a land appraisal research project. (Fm

List Topics for Jan. 18 Vegetable Growers School

The Cook county vegetable growers' school will convene at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday, Jan. 18 at 2120 E. Northwest hwy., Arlington Heights.

From 9:30 to 10 a. m. R. Alden Miller, of the Downers Grove Experiment station, will discuss "Chemical Weed Control." From 10 to 11 a. m. the "Importance of Soil Management" will be given by Charles Arnold, department of horticulture, University of Illinois college of agriculture.

A disease control review will be presented from 11 to 11:30 a. m. by M. B. Linn, of the U. of I.'s college of agriculture plant pathology department.

SESSIONS AFTER lunch will begin at 1 p. m. when W. H. Luckmann, Illinois Natural history survey, will speak on "Latest Developments in Insect Control." At 1:30 p. m. Neal D. Sanborn and A. D. Caldwell from the United States department of agriculture, will discuss "Tomato Grading."

A summary will be presented from 2 to 2:30 p. m. by Joe Vandemark, vegetable extension specialist from the U. of I. college of agriculture.

Two subjects will be discussed at sessions Thursday, Jan. 19. The operation and policy of the Food and Drug administration will be presented from 10 to 11:30 a. m. From 1 to 3 p. m. recent developments in farm labor will be discussed.

Down On The Farm

with Your Farm Adviser

CARL F. MEES

A University of Illinois farm economist points out that in the fiscal year ended last June 30 the United States exported $4½ billion worth of farm products.

Soybean production has taken only one big jump in the past five years. That was in 1958. The last two crops have been smaller than the 1958 crop. This is the first time since 1937 that soybean producers have gone two years without setting a new record.

A study of all cash and noncash costs required to produce corn on 37 grain farms in central Illinois during 1959 shows an average cost of 94 cents a bushel. The average yield was 82 bushels an acre. This cost included a 4 per cent interest charge on current appraised land values. Labor was valued at slightly more than $1.00 an hour. These figures show that high yields and wise marketings are needed for corn farmers to make a profit.

FARMERS wanting to know the potential earning power of their farms can find out by enrolling in their local Farm Bureau Farm Management association for the coming year. Not only can they find out the potential, but they can check on the progress they have made toward their established financial goals. It is time now to enroll in the 1961 project.

Farm record studies still show that a farm operator should gross at least $10,000 annually if he expects the net farm income to provide most of the family living expenses. On rented farms this amount should be at least $20,000 if shared 50-50 with the landowner. This kind of production will likely require between 12 and 24 months of labor, depending on production efficiencies.

The export of U. S. feed grains to western Europe in 1960-61 may fall below last year's level. Larger crops of feed grains and of low-quality feed wheat in these countries will lessen the demand for U. S. feed grains.

ON THE other hand, exports of U. S. wheat to western European nations are running ahead of last season. These exports are especially desirable because they usually are sold for dollars.

Only exterior-type plywood is recommended for farm buildings. This is true for both indoor and outdoor uses because of the high relative humidity usually found in livestock shelters.

Pigs farrowed in January and February require extra care because of cold weather and confinement. Provide clean quarters at farrowing time. Also provide additional heat if possible. Farrowing crates or stalls are the best way to reduce death loss, but guard rails also help. Provide a source of iron so that pigs will not become anemic. Above all, watch your pigs closely so that you can spot problems early and correct them before losses are large. Large litters are necessary for profitable hog operations.

Nutritionists to Evaluate Animal Lack of Vitamin A

A panel of leading animal nutritionists will thoroughly evaluate the puzzling vitamin A deficiency problem during the University of Illinois Nutrition conference, February 1 and 2.

As many livestock men and feed dealers know, the problem concerns cattle that develop vitamin A deficiency symptoms even though their rations supply adequate carotene, the precursor of vitamin A.

This panel scrutinizes the problem from several different angles in an attempt to better understand it. B. Connor Johnson, U. of I. animal biochemist, will describe vitamin A's role in the animal body. George E. Mitchell, University of Kentucky, will discuss vitamin A deficiency under feedlot conditions.

G. S. Smith, U. of I. beef cattle research man, will attack the problem from another angle: the possible effects of high nitrate silage on vitamin A in the body.

W. H. Pfander from the University of Missouri will discuss chronic nitrate toxicity and its possible relationship with vitamin A deficiencies.

The program will begin February 1 at 1:30 p.m. in the Clark House. H. M. Scott, U. of I. poultry nutritionist, is the first speaker scheduled. His talk covers interesting changes in the amino acid requirements of chicks.

A talk by Illinois' D. E. Becker should interest hog producers and feed manufacturers alike. Becker will report how various preparations of grain affect its utilization by hogs.

Swine researcher A. H. Jensen's talk will also catch the attention of hog men. His talk concerns the feeding and nutritional considerations of "disease-free" hogs.

Dr. Albert Tannenbaum, a leader in the field of cancer research, will discuss nutrition in relation of how cancer begins. He is director of cancer research at Michael Reese hospital, Chicago.

Although the conference is planned primarily for feed and nutrition personnel, anyone may attend. A $6.00 registration fee will be charged to help cover costs of the out-of-town speakers and the manual of proceedings.

Expert To Explain Soil Survey Use At Conservation Meet

Dr. Lindo J. Bartelli, in charge of soil survey work in Illinois, will tell members of the North Cook county Soil Conservation district how soil survey information can be used in urban development January 27.

Illustrating his talk with colored slides, Dr. Bartelli will also discuss the use of survey information in tax evaluation. The talk will be part of a presentation the United States Soil Conservation service worker made before the Academy for the Advancement of Science in New York City.

The annual conservation district meeting January 27, will be held at the Schaumburg Lutheran school, Schaumburg rd., east of Roselle rd., at 7:30 p. m.

AT A BUSINESS meeting that night district chairman William Brough will conduct an election of officers. Brief reports on the accomplishments of the district will also be given.

Directors whose terms have expired are Brough, and Paul Sweningson Jr., both of Barrington township. Those elected to the positions will serve a two-year term.

Candidates to serve will be selected by nominating committee members Henry Eichholz, Fred Kramer, and Xavier Schmid.

Other board members are Eichholz, Maine township, Rudolph Liska Jr., Palatine township, and M. J. Thompson, Barrington township.

Eddie Wiegt, Mt. Prospect, will be recognized at the meeting for presenting the conservation exhibit judged best at the 1960 county fair.

Complete Automatic Beef Feeder To Be Installed At U. of I. This Winter

University of Illinois agricultural engineers plan to carry feed automation to the limit this winter at their new, completely automatic beef feeding installation.

Agricultural engineer Don Daum said the main purpose behind the automatic feeding set-up is to fit components from many different manufacturers into a single working unit.

He said there are many pieces of automatic equipment on the market. But, to date, little has been done to fit these pieces into a compact, automatic feed handling unit.

Key to the U. of I. feeding system is a commercial silo unloader controlled by an automatic timer and modified to deliver silage at a uniform rate.

UNDER THE new feeding system, silage is stored in a concrete stave silo, grain in a self-unloading bin, and protein supplement in a hopper-bottom bin.

Pneumatic pressure switches govern the flow of grain and supplement into an automatic blender-grinder and deliver the ground concentrates by auger to a storage bin over the silage conveyor.

At this point, two automatic time clocks take control of the feed handling operation. One clock selects the time of day of the feeding period. The other controls the length of the feeding period.

The clocks have direct control over a vibrator feed meter located under the concentrate bin. They also control silage unloading and delivery equipment.

Taking its clue from the automatic clocks, the vibrator feed meter meters the correct amount of concentrate mixture into the silage as it moves by auger conveyor from the silo to the feed bunk.

In the feedlot, an experimental bunk distributor can be set to dump the material on either side of the bunk.

The new beef feeding system was first operated in January 1960 feeding silage only. The system has been modified during the summer and is probably in for some more minor changes now that researchers are trying it out in a full-scale feeding program this winter. (FM

Market Predictions Benefit More than Injure Farmers

By L. H. SIMERL

This is the big season for farm outlook statements — forecasts of production, marketings and prices. Many farmers find this information interesting and useful for planning their farming operations. Other farmers believe that publishing such information hurts them. They feel that buyers of farm products use the information to "beat down" prices they pay to farmers. Some of these farmers say that the collection and publication of production estimates and price forecasts should be prohibited.

I once knew a dealer in farm products who admitted that he sometimes used official production estimates to "beat down the farmer." Some other dealers may follow similar practices. We should note, however, that this dealer was not buying either livestock or grain. The product that he bought was a minor one for which market information is not commonly available to farmers.

THE BEST markets exist, we believe, where both buyers and sellers are well informed about current and prospective supplies and prices. If one side is poorly informed, the other side may take advantage of it. Most of our farmers are well informed. The buyer must also be well informed. Otherwise he will not be in business very long.

Let us suppose, for purposes of discussion, that the government stopped publishing production estimates and market reports. Both sides—producers and buyers—would lose valuable information. But the farmers would probably lose more than the buyers. Each farmer would know only what he, and possibly a few neighbors, had on hand and were producing. Each farmer could not know what farmers in other communities, states and regions were producing, nor what was being produced in other countries.

BUT HOW about the buyers? We all know that the big meat packers have offices and men all over the country. They would gather information about livestock from every state and most communities. They might even exchange information. The big grain companies, too, have offices—eyes and ears—in all major producing areas. Several of them also have offices and representatives in many foreign lands. The dealers would have information not only about crop and livestock production, but also about rates of consumption and price movements both in the United States and in other countries.

When processors lack accurate information about prospective supplies, the farmer often suffers financially. For example, in the fall of 1955 marketings of livestock were much larger than had been expected. Meat packers and retailers were not prepared to handle the big volume that farmers sent to market. They had to hire extra, inefficient help. They had to pay time-and-a-half and double-time wages to get the meat out. Prices for hogs dropped to under $11 a hundred pounds, and choice steers at Chicago to below $19. If the packers and retailers had had more accurate information about what they would have to handle, they could have trained more workers and carried on more effective meat promotion programs. This would have helped to support livestock prices.

In summary, official market information may sometimes be used to the disadvantage of farmers, but the lack of such information would, we believe, be more injurious to farmers than to the buyers of farm products. (Fm

Winter Short Course To Run Feb. 6 - March 17

For young farmers who cannot regularly attend college, the University of Illinois will again offer its winter short course in agriculture.

The short course will run from February 6 to March 17, Cook County Farm Adviser Carl F. Mees said.

According to Mees, anyone 18 or over may attend. When they come to the Urbana campus they should expect to engage in six weeks of discussions and laboratory sessions about current developments in farm problems and techniques. They will also have opportunity to take in any number of extracurriculum campus activities ranging from music to sports.

There is a wide range of courses to choose from, including livestock production and management, crop production, farm machinery and equipment, agricultural marketing, and a new entry this year, a course on agricultural policy and farm programs.

For more information, write to Short Course Supervisor, 104 Mumford hall, University of Illinois, Urbana. (Fm

Expert To Explain Soil Survey Use At Conservation Meet

Dr. Lindo J. Bartelli, in charge of soil survey work in Illinois, will tell members of the North Cook county Soil Conservation district how soil survey information can be used in urban development January 27.

Illustrating his talk with colored slides, Dr. Bartelli will also discuss the use of survey information in tax evaluation. The talk will be part of a presentation the United States Soil Conservation service worker made before the Academy for the Advancement of Science in New York City.

The annual conservation district meeting January 27, will be held at the Schaumburg Lutheran school, Schaumburg rd., east of Roselle rd., at 7:30 p. m.

AT A BUSINESS meeting that night district chairman William Brough will conduct an election of officers. Brief reports on the accomplishments of the district will also be given.

Directors whose terms have expired are Brough, and Paul Sweningson Jr., both of Barrington township. Those elected to the positions will serve a two-year term.

Candidates to serve will be selected by nominating committee members Henry Eichholz, Fred Kramer, and Xavier Schmid.

Other board members are Eichholz, Maine township, Rudolph Liska Jr., Palatine township, and M. J. Thompson, Barrington township.

Eddie Wiegt, Mt. Prospect, will be recognized at the meeting for presenting the conservation exhibit judged best at the 1960 county fair.

Complete Automatic Beef Feeder To Be Installed At U. of I. This Winter

University of Illinois agricultural engineers plan to carry feed automation to the limit this winter at their new, completely automatic beef feeding installation.

Agricultural engineer Don Daum said the main purpose behind the automatic feeding set-up is to fit components from many different manufacturers into a single working unit.

He said there are many pieces of automatic equipment on the market. But, to date, little has been done to fit these pieces into a compact, automatic feed handling unit.

Key to the U. of I. feeding system is a commercial silo unloader controlled by an automatic timer and modified to deliver silage at a uniform rate.

UNDER THE new feeding system, silage is stored in a concrete stave silo, grain in a self-unloading bin, and protein supplement in a hopper-bottom bin.

Pneumatic pressure switches govern the flow of grain and supplement into an automatic blender-grinder and deliver the ground concentrates by auger to a storage bin over the silage conveyor.

At this point, two automatic time clocks take control of the feed handling operation. One clock selects the time of day of the feeding period. The other controls the length of the feeding period.

The clocks have direct control over a vibrator feed meter located under the concentrate bin. They also control silage unloading and delivery equipment.

Taking its clue from the automatic clocks, the vibrator feed meter meters the correct amount of concentrate mixture into the silage as it moves by auger conveyor from the silo to the feed bunk.

In the feedlot, an experimental bunk distributor can be set to dump the material on either side of the bunk.

The new beef feeding system was first operated in January 1960 feeding silage only. The system has been modified during the summer and is probably in for some more minor changes now that researchers are trying it out in a full-scale feeding program this winter. (FM

Market Predictions Benefit More than Injure Farmers

By L. H. SIMERL

This is the big season for farm outlook statements — forecasts of production, marketings and prices. Many farmers find this information interesting and useful for planning their farming operations. Other farmers believe that publishing such information hurts them. They feel that buyers of farm products use the information to "beat down" prices they pay to farmers. Some of these farmers say that the collection and publication of production estimates and price forecasts should be prohibited.

I once knew a dealer in farm products who admitted that he sometimes used official production estimates to "beat down the farmer." Some other dealers may follow similar practices. We should note, however, that this dealer was not buying either livestock or grain. The product that he bought was a minor one for which market information is not commonly available to farmers.

THE BEST markets exist, we believe, where both buyers and sellers are well informed about current and prospective supplies and prices. If one side is poorly informed, the other side may take advantage of it. Most of our farmers are well informed. The buyer must also be well informed. Otherwise he will not be in business very long.

Let us suppose, for purposes of discussion, that the government stopped publishing production estimates and market

BUT HOW about the buyers? We all know that the big meat packers have offices and men all over the country. They would gather information about livestock from every state and most communities. They might even exchange information. The big grain companies, too, have offices—eyes and ears—in all major producing areas. Several of them also have offices and representatives in many foreign lands. The dealers would have information not only about crop and livestock production, but also about rates of consumption and price movements both in the United States and in other countries.

When processors lack accurate information about prospective supplies, the farmer often suffers financially. For example, in the fall of 1955 marketings of livestock were much larger than had been expected. Meat packers and reports. Both sides—producers and buyers—would lose valuable information. But the farmers would probably lose more than the buyers. Each farmer would know only what he, and possibly a few neighbors, had on hand and were producing. Each farmer could not know what farmers in other communities, states and regions were producing, nor what was being produced in other countries.

retailers were not prepared to handle the big volume that farmers sent to market. They had to hire extra, inefficient help. They had to pay time-and-a-half and double-time wages to get the meat out. Prices for hogs dropped to under $11 a hundred pounds, and choice steers at Chicago to below $19. If the packers and retailers had had more accurate information about what they would have to handle, they could have trained more workers and carried on more effective meat promotion programs. This would have helped to support livestock prices.

In summary, official market information may sometimes be used to the disadvantage of farmers, but the lack of such information would, we believe, be more injurious to farmers than to the buyers of farm products. (Fm

Winter Short Course To Run Feb. 6 - March 17

For young farmers who cannot regularly attend college, the University of Illinois will again offer its winter short course in agriculture.

The short course will run from February 6 to March 17, Cook County Farm Adviser Carl F. Mees said.

According to Mees, anyone 18 or over may attend. When they come to the Urbana campus they should expect to engage in six weeks of discussions and laboratory sessions about current developments in farm problems and techniques. They will also have opportunity to take in any number of extracurriculum campus activities ranging from music to sports.

There is a wide range of courses to choose from, including livestock production and management, crop production, farm machinery and equipment, agricultural marketing, and a new entry this year, a course on agricultural policy and farm programs.

For more information, write to Short Course Supervisor, 104 Mumford hall, University of Illinois, Urbana. (Fm

New Health Care Insurance Plan For John Hancock

"Proof that private industry is well able and anxious to provide for the health care needs of the public is indicated by the immense new strides made by our insurance companies," asserted Arnold Schuettpelz District Manager for the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company.

Schuettpelz made the statement this week in announcing a new lifetime hospital expense policy, the latest in a series of improvements introduced by his company's personal health insurance department.

The John Hancock's new hospital expense "50," providing surgical benefits and up to 50 days of hospital benefits on each illness, now extends the company's maximum age of issue from 60 to 75. Guaranteed renewable on a lifetime basis, it is designed particularly for senior citizens, and is also geared to supplement existing hospital and surgical coverage. While the new policy calls for lower rates and benefits, it avoids a reduction in benefits for hospital confinements after age 65—in contrast to previously issued policies, Schuettpelz clarified.

"The program is, of course, subject to approval by the respective state insurance departments," he emphasized.

THE HANCOCK representative also announced a number of liberalizations of benefits in other John Hancock Hospital Expense policies, including coverage of certain hospital expenses for outpatient cases.

Along with these innovations, application forms have been streamlined and expanded so as to make the coverage effective sooner, Schuettpelz continued.

"Though only three years old, the personal health insurance department has progressed to keep pace with the rapidly expanding demands for this protection," he concluded. (BB

Savings and Loan Associations Set New Growth Records in 1960

Spectacular growth of the savings and loan industry in Chicago and Cook county suburbs passed another milestone in 1960 when total savings in the 215 insured institutions topped the $4 billion mark, it is announced by Charles F. Detrick, president of the Cook County council of insured savings associations.

Reaching new heights as the year came to a close, the industry's latest upward surge is a "striking testimonial to the popularity of the insured savings associations," said Detrick.

THE NEW RECORD marked the quadrupling of savings placed in these associations during the last 8 years and represented an increase of more than $450,000,000 over the savings total on December 31, 1959.

At this pace, savings should double within the next 10 years, crossing the $8 billion mark sometime in 1969 or 1970, Detrick estimated. A pre-war figure of $80,500,000 was reported in 1939 and an early post-war total of $391,000,000 in 1946.

"This is convincing evidence that more and more persons feel the best place to accumulate a 'nest egg' is at an insured savings and loan association," added Detrick. "This is a concrete example of how the public feels about our institutions."

By September of 1958 savings had climbed to $3 billions and now have shot past $4 billions.

AS A RESULT of this growth, the 215 insured associations now serve more than 1,800,000 savings accounts and supply over two-thirds of the home financing in the Chicago region, Detrick reported. Ten years ago the associations had less than half that many accounts and, as recently as 15 years ago, they had only about 300,000 accounts.

"Increasing popularity of savings the 'savings and loan way' has had much to do with setting these records," Detrick declared. "This, coupled with the fact that each account is insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance corporation, shows the public enthusiasm engendered by the insured savings industry."

"Thousands of persons who never saved anything before join the ranks of savers each year. There is nothing like a savings account to give a person a feeling of security and self-assurance. Often-times the opening of a savings account means the turning point in a person's life."

Most associations have made save-by-mail plans so simple that today just a few seconds time is required to send savings on their way to a safe repository. Postage-paid envelopes are often provided for sending your check or money order and pass book to one's favorite association. The receipted pass book is sent back by return mail. Many associations also speed up transactions with drive-in windows where a saver can transact his business without leaving his car.

New Health Care Insurance Plan For John Hancock

"Proof that private industry is well able and anxious to provide for the health care needs of the public is indicated by the immense new strides made by our insurance companies," asserted Arnold Schuettpelz District Manager for the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company.

Schuettpelz made the statement this week in announcing a new lifetime hospital expense policy, the latest in a series of improvements introduced by his company's personal health insurance department.

The John Hancock's new hospital expense "50," providing surgical benefits and up to 50 days of hospital benefits on each illness, now extends the company's maximum age of issue from 60 to 75. Guaranteed renewable on a lifetime basis, it is designed particularly for senior citizens, and is also geared to supplement existing hospital and surgical coverage. While the new policy calls for lower rates and benefits, it avoids a reduction in benefits for hospital confinements after age 65—in contrast to previously issued policies, Schuettpelz clarified.

"The program is, of course, subject to approval by the respective state insurance departments," he emphasized.

THE HANCOCK representative also announced a number of liberalizations of benefits in other John Hancock Hospital Expense policies, including coverage of certain hospital expenses for outpatient cases.

Along with these innovations, application forms have been streamlined and expanded so as to make the coverage effective sooner, Schuettpelz continued.

"Though only three years old, the personal health insurance department has progressed to keep pace with the rapidly expanding demands for this protection," he concluded.

Savings and Loan Associations Set New Growth Records in 1960

Spectacular growth of the savings and loan industry in Chicago and Cook county suburbs passed another milestone in 1960 when total savings in the 215 insured institutions topped the $4 billion mark, it is announced by Charles F. Detrick, president of the Cook County council of insured savings associations.

Reaching new heights as the year came to a close, the industry's latest upward surge is a "striking testimonial to the popularity of the insured savings associations," said Detrick.

THE NEW RECORD marked the quadrupling of savings placed in these associations during the last 8 years and represented an increase of more than $450,000,000 over the savings total on December 31, 1959.

At this pace, savings should double within the next 10 years, crossing the $8 billion mark sometime in 1969 or 1970, Detrick estimated. A pre-war figure of $80,500,000 was reported in 1939 and an early post-war total of $391,000,000 in 1946.

"This is convincing evidence that more and more persons feel the best place to accumulate a 'nest egg' is at an insured savings and loan association," added Detrick. "This is a concrete example of how the public feels about our institutions."

By September of 1958 savings had climbed to $3 billions and now have shot past $4 billions.

AS A RESULT of this growth, the 215 insured associations now serve more than 1,800,000 savings accounts and supply over two-thirds of the home financing in the Chicago region, Detrick reported. Ten years ago the associations had less than half that many accounts and, as recently as 15 years ago, they had only about 300,000 accounts.

"Increasing popularity of savings the 'savings and loan way' has had much to do with setting these records," Detrick declared. "This, coupled with the fact that each account is insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance corporation, shows the public enthusiasm engendered by the insured savings industry."

"Thousands of persons who never saved anything before join the ranks of savers each year. There is nothing like a savings account to give a person a feeling of security and self-assurance. Often-times the opening of a savings account means the turning point in a person's life."

Most associations have made save-by-mail plans so simple that today just a few seconds time is required to send savings on their way to a safe repository. Postage-paid envelopes are often provided for sending your check or money order and pass book to one's favorite association. The receipted pass book is sent back by return mail. Many associations also speed up transactions with drive-in windows where a saver can transact his business without leaving his car.

Montgomery Ward Announces 'Compact' 1961 Catalog

A new type of catalog is being mailed by Montgomery Ward to approximately 6,000,000 American families this week, Miss Mary Baier, manager of the Arlington Heights store, and Mrs. William Sundblad, manager of Mount Prospect Montgomery Ward catalog store, announced today.

It represents the culmination of five years of planning and an investment of $9,000,000 in specially-engineered new printing processes and presses, these managers said.

Wards has changed its 1961 catalog to a "compact" size that measures 8 x 11 inches as compared with last year's larger 9 x 13 inch size.

"THE NEW Montgomery Ward catalog was planned to be a brilliantly illustrated modern shopping guide," according to Paul M. Hammaker, president of Wards. "Each reader, while relaxing at home, can visually tour through the many colorful shops of one of the nation's largest 'stores,' seeing displays and descriptions of more than 100,000 different merchandise items."

Merchandise in the new book ranges from decorative waterfalls for the home to a built-in pressure gauge on hand-operated tire pumps; from engine parts for a 1907 Model T to accessories and parts for today's imported and compact cars.

New products being offered for the first time include a golf ball guaranteed not to cut during actual play, a new self-shifting transmission for bicycles and new fabrics of dacron jersey, pima-mist and mohair-weave Fiberglass.

ALTHOUGH farm equipment no longer is listed in Wards general catalogs, readers may clip out and send in a coupon to obtain the specialized farm catalog. Coupons also are included for Wards other special merchandise catalogs featuring toys, cameras, garden supplies, outdoor sports equipment, heating and air conditioning supplies and frozen meats. A home planning guide and a manual of home decorating hints and materials listings also are available at Wards.

A personal letter to customers from the president of the company, a tradition of early catalogs, is featured in the new 1961 catalog, stating: "This catalog is printed on brand new presses in which our printers have invested over $9 million. One result is more accurate color reproductions to help you in making your selections. Also, this new Ward catalog is easier to hold and fits into your bookcase or telephone table for handy reference."

Zenith Radio Announces New Product

Zenith Radio corporation announced its newest hearing aid,, the "Envoy," that was described as setting a record in miniaturization for instruments of its type.

Announcement of the aid which weighs only one ounce with miniature mercury battery and is five per cent smaller than any conventional aid previously produced by the company, was made by E. M. Kinney, Zenith vice president and general manager of its hearing aid division.

"Without sacrificing acoustical performance, our sound engineers created a fully transistorized hearing aid in a unique design to match today's fashions and accessories, both for men and women," Kinney said.

"Not only will the new tapered lines of the 'Envoy' appeal to active had of hearing persons, but its very design will offer added wearing comfort," he added. "Women will be able to wear the lightweight unit comfortably in their hair, while men will be able to fasten it under their tie by means of a matching tie-clip or wear it in their shirt pocket." (BB

Attended IEA Annual Meet

Walter J. Molo Jr., 101 Kankakee lane, Roselle, attended the 107th annual meeting of the Illinois Education association in the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, December 27-29, 1960.

The representative assembly of the association, consisting of over 600 delegates, representing approximately 60,000 members, considered basic problems in school finance, state aids, state revenue reform, state board of education, an appointive superintendent of public instruction, further school district reorganization, and other subjects.

IN ADDITION, the assembly considered problems directly related to the profession, such as higher training and certification requirements, increased minimum salary and sick leave requirements, higher standards for professional membership, retirement amendments, and more rigid application of the association's own code of ethics.

Molo is principal of Whittier Elementary school, Northlake.

New Ford Agency Set for Opening

Jim Kelly, president and new owner of Jim Kelly Ford, Inc., Elgin, announced this week that he will hold the grand opening at his Ford agency Saturday and Sunday.

Arrangements are being made to have key executives of the Ford Motor co. on hand for the occassion. It was confirmed this week that the auto maker will bring from Detroit several unusual displays for public viewing.

Among the special guests of Jim Kelly will be social, civic and political leaders from Elgin and the Fox Valley area.

AS IS traditional with grand openings, Jim Kelly is sponsoring a contest which is open to all adults. The first two prizes are an all-expense paid vacation for as many as four persons and the use of the Ford "camper". Third prize is a $500.00 Stromberg-Carlson stereo console set. There will be other prizes. Registration is the only entry requirement.

The Ford "camper" is a complete, motorized, self contained traveling unit with living quarters designed to accommodate a family of four. It has its own water supply, a refrigerator, stove, oven, lights, heat dinette and clothes closet. The winners may take their vacation anytime until September 21. (BB

New Ford Agency Set for Opening

Jim Kelly, president and new owner of Jim Kelly Ford, Inc., Elgin, announced this week that he will hold the grand opening at his Ford agency Saturday and Sunday.

Arrangements are being made to have key executives of the Ford Motor co. on hand for the occassion. It was confirmed this week that the auto maker will bring from Detroit several unusual displays for public viewing.

Among the special guests of Jim Kelly will be social, civic and political leaders from Elgin and the Fox Valley area.

AS IS traditional with grand openings, Jim Kelly is sponsoring a contest which is open to all adults. The first two prizes are an all-expense paid vacation for as many as four persons and the use of the Ford "camper". Third prize is a $500.00 Stromberg-Carlson stereo console set. There will be other prizes. Registration is the only entry requirement.

The Ford "camper" is a complete, motorized, self contained traveling unit with living quarters designed to accommodate a family of four. It has its own water supply, a refrigerator, stove, oven, lights, heat dinette and clothes closet. The winners may take their vacation anytime until September 21. (BB

De Young to Teach YMCA Learning Class

Roger De Young, 203 Crest, Elk Grove, will teach a 10-week course in "Spring Landscape Planning" as part of the Central YMCA Learning for Living winter program at 19 S. LaSalle st., Chicago, Mondays, 7:40 to 9:00 p.m., starting January 23.

De Young, who holds degrees in floriculture and horticulture from the University of Illinois and has had wide experience in landscaping, has designed the course to help people stretch the landscaping budget. The class which will meet for ten Monday sessions will study planning, buying and planting for dramatic effects and continuous bloom.

THE COURSE will be one of 260 Learning for Living classes available at the loop center, this winter. Other classes are scheduled in fields of art, music, theater, mathematics, science, history, psychology, philosophy, seven foreign languages, sports and dance.

Many of the courses include tickets to concerts or theater, dinners at famous restaurants or visits to consulates or to industrial enterprises.

Learning for Living also offers Highlight Tours to Europe, the Orient and around the world.

Registration for all classes and trips is now in progress at Central YMCA, 19 S. LaSalle st. For further information, call CEntral 6-8600. (BB

Edison B. Stine Marks 35 Years

EDISON B. STINE

Edison B. Stine, 111 S. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, observed his 35th year anniversary with the Public Service Company January 4. He is credit supervisor in the division general service department at the utility's Northbrook headquarters.

Stine has held supervisory posts in customer accounting and credit work for the past 25 years. He began with the company in 1926, working in Oak Park, Evanston and Highland Park, respectively, before transferring to Northbrook in 1931. He was appointed division credit supervisor in 1944, following previous service as division cashier.

STINE AND his wife, Johanna, have resided in Arlington Heights for the past 20 years. They have a son, Bruce, who attends college, and a daughter, Ruth Ann, who is a student at the local high school.

Stine is a member of the local Lions club. His hobbies are fishing and photography. (BB

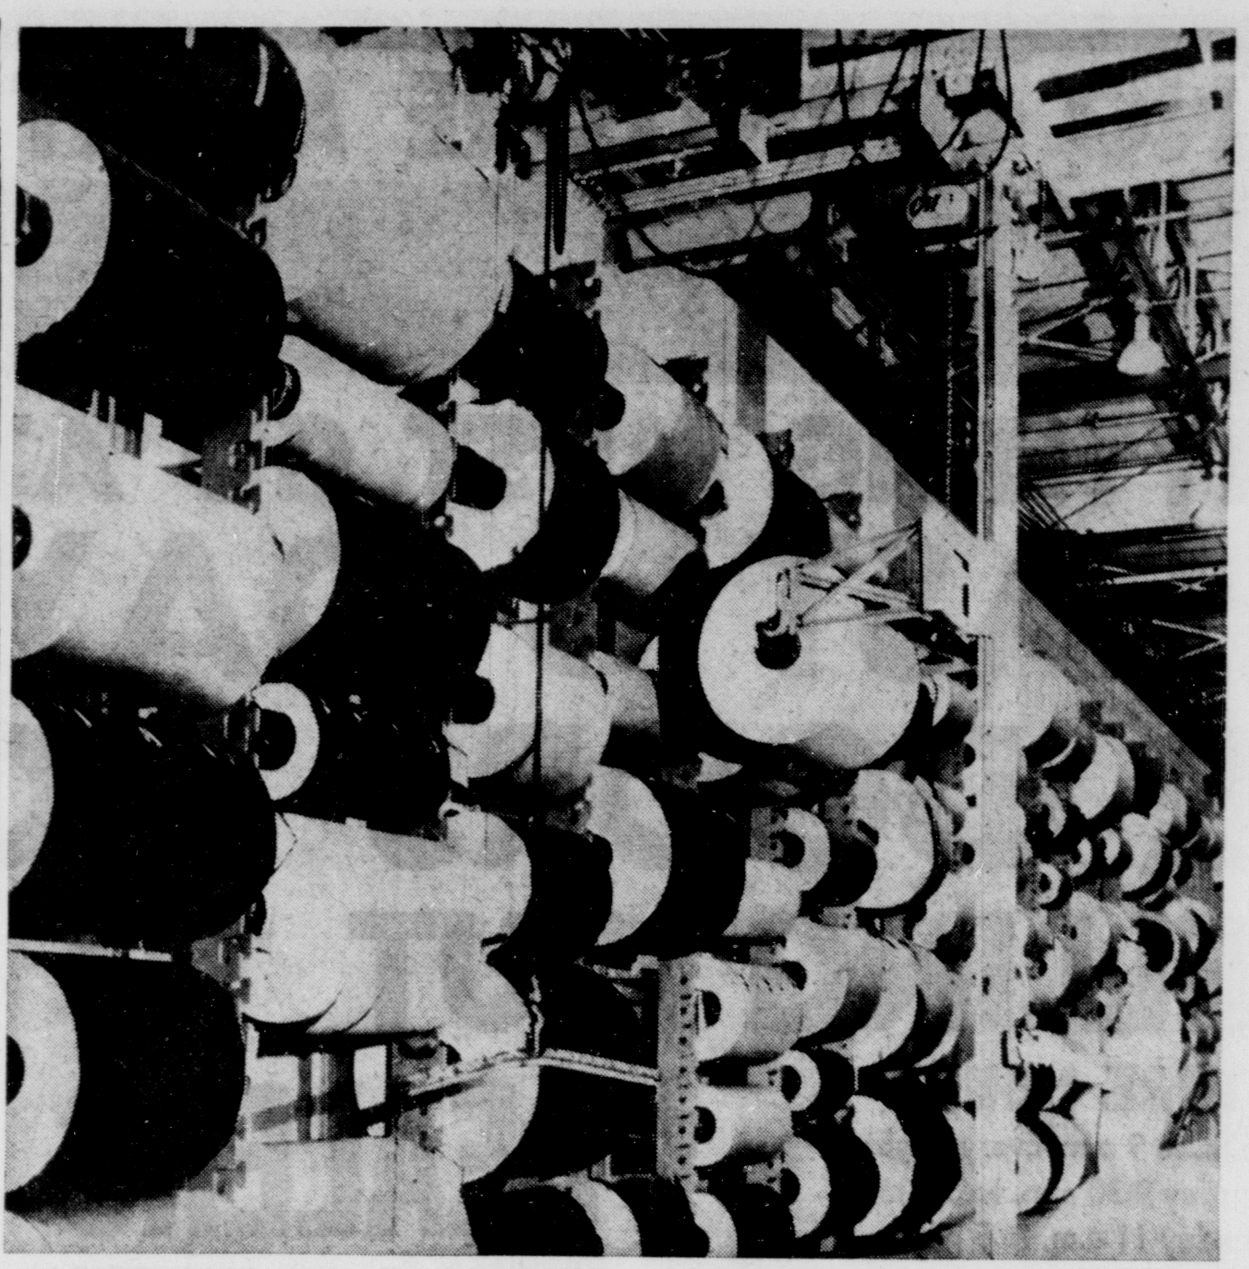
Bruce B. Wallace Is Plant Manager

BRUCE B. WALLACE

Bruce B. Wallace, 7N570 Garden ave., Roselle, has been appointed to the newly-created position of plant manager of B. H. Bunn company, Chicago, a designer and manufacturer of semi-automatic package tying machines.

The appointment, made by Richard Bunn, vice president, was effective January 1. Wallace was formerly with Barnes and Reinecke, Chicago, where he held the position of project engineer for three years.

"The B. H. Bunn company is fortunate in obtaining the services of Mr. Wallace," said Bunn, "especially when we're entering a period that should bring considerable growth to the packaging industry. His experience and knowledge in production engineering and machine design will be of great help to the Bunn organization. (BB



LOOKING LIKE giant rolls of household paper toweling, the 296 rolls of sensitized diazo copying paper lining this wall, 168 feet long, at the Charles Bruning company, Mount Prospect, are ready for cutting, stacking, and packaging into 1400 different sizes of sheets and rolls. The coated paper, used widely throughout the business world to make fast, sharp copies of everything from the business letter to bills of lading, is made in various thicknesses and in as many as seven colors. Bruning has giant diazo paper coating facilities in four different locations in the U.S. and in Canada. Considering that a single Bruning automatic coater can process 14 acres of paper per day, the total tonnage of paper used by American business is staggering. (BB

Market Checkers Vie for Prizes

Some 3,000 super market checker cashiers employed in more than 400 stores in Illinois and Indiana will be extra courteous and efficient this month and next as they compete for the title of Midwestern Region Checker of the Year.

The winner will get a shot at the crown of International Checker of the Year at final competitions to be held in Chicago May 7-10 among 10 U. S. and Canadian regions.

TWENTY retail chains and independents are among the region companies who have checkers qualifying as candidates in the sixth annual cash-register derby, sponsored by Super Market Institute and the National Cash Register company as a means of recognizing the contribution of the hard-working checkout personnel to retail food distribution.

Sone of the stores will ask customers to help them select their candidate for regional and national honors — others will pick a company winner by means of performance tests and "mystery shoppers."

The grand prize winner will be named at coronation ceremonies May 10 during the 24th annual convention of Super Market Institute in Chicago. The 1961 Checker of the Year will win a number of prizes, topped by a tour of the Hawaiian Islands as guests of the Dole corp. Two runners-up will win vacations at the Hollywood Beach hotel, Hollywood, Florida. (BB

MEMO From BILL COOK BUICK

Our Used Car Creed

"When we sell New automobiles we act as a retailer, selling merchandise that bears another name and reputation. But when we sell USED cars, we take on some of the responsibility of a manufacturer.

"The various Used cars that we sell are no longer warranted by the original makers. In effect, they bear OUR name.

"We have succeeded as a merchant of re-conditioned automobiles with the honesty of our products and our methods.

"We can't afford to jeopardize our reputation by selling merchandise we cannot offer with pride and confidence.

"Our USED cars must be honestly re-conditioned to give us the benefit of a product that will create the right kind of word-of-mouth advertising."

MEMO From BILL COOK BUICK

Our Used Car Creed

"When we sell New automobiles we act as a retailer, selling merchandise that bears another name and reputation. But when we sell USED cars, we take on some of the responsibility of a manufacturer.

"The various Used cars that we sell are no longer warranted by the original makers. In effect, they bear OUR name.

"We have succeeded as a merchant of re-conditioned automobiles with the honesty of our products and our methods.

"We can't afford to jeopardize our reputation by selling merchandise we cannot offer with pride and confidence.

"Our USED cars must be honestly re-conditioned to give us the benefit of a product that will create the right kind of word-of-mouth advertising."

Faulty Brakes Blamed in Accident

Northwest suburban area motorists welcomed the new year with a minimum of serious accidents, District 3 state police records show.

Among the more serious accidents in the past week, however, state police:

—On Friday, Jan. 6, cited Ray Myers, 34, of 1322 Wilson ave., Carpentersville, for faulty brakes after the car he was driving east on Illinois 68 rammed into the rear of another car stopped for a school bus, sending it into a third car in front of it.

The mishap occurred at Illinois 68 and Grove ave. in Palatine township a quarter mile east of U. S. 14. Driver of the second car, John F. Zimmer, 51, of 17 E. Dundee rd., Barrington, was taken to Northwest Community hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in the crash.

Driver of the first car, which had also stopped for the school bus, was identified as Richard R. Houswerth, 44, of 8 Alan dr., Algonquin. Damage to the three vehicles was estimated at $950.

—ON THE SAME date, Edward R. Mahoney, 42, of 223 W. Wayne pl., Wheeling, was charged with following too closely after the car he was driving west on Illinois 72 ran into the rear of an auto slowing for traffic at Wolf rd. Driver of the other car, Theophile T. Thibault, 47, of Box 295, Lincoln ln., Roselle, was shaken up in the crash and was to see his own doctor. Damage to the vehicles was figured at $350.

—On Thursday, Jan. 5, Patricia R. Carberry, of 320 Raupp, Buffalo Grove, was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way following a mishap at U. S. 12 and Central rd. in Wheeling township. Police said she was making a right hand turn onto Central rd. from U. S. 12 and was struck by a car headed west on Central rd. driven by John R. Schultz, 35, of 3710 Knollwood, Glenview. Miss Carberry suffered injuries which were treated at Northwest Community hospital. Damage to the vehicles was figured at $600.

—On the same date, Eugene M. Murawski, 37, of 1000 N. Rand, Arlington Heights, was charged with driving too fast for conditions after he was headed north on U. S. 12, applied his brakes and skidding into the rear of a car attempting a left hand turn a half a mile west of Euclid ave. in Wheeling township. Driver of the other car was identified as Charles R. Pedersen, 25, of 911 E. Miner, Arlington Heights. Murawski was shaken up in the mishap. Damage to the vehicles was estimated at around $950.

—On Wednesday, Jan. 4, John G. Goscinski, 21, of 3 N. Edward st., Mt. Prospect, was charged with improper lane usage after he was traveling east on Central rd. and attempted to turn left into a service station some two miles west of U. S. 45, colliding with a car going west driven by Sam V. Geati, 22, of 1117 W. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights. Geati suffered bruises, and was to see his own physician. Damage to the vehicles was figured at $1,000.

—ON MONDAY, Jan. 2, police cited Bernard A. LaBuda, 39, of 3239 N. Central Park, Chicago, for driving under the influence of alcohol and improper lane usage after he was going east on Illinois 72, and, attempting to stop for traffic ahead, swerved into a car going west in the opposite lane near the Soo Line tracks three-and-a-half miles west of U. S. 45.

Driver of the other car was Dixie L. Folden, of 13 Walnut st., Arlington Heights. There were no injuries. Damage to the vehicles was figured at $400.

Chaplin Hearing Slated for March

A week in March is the earliest the third public hearing can be held on County Commissioner Charles F. Chaplin's year old campaign to rezone 319 acres of unincorporated land in Northfield township.

The January and February hearing dates of the County Zoning Board are booked solidly, according to its secretary, Walter Popjoy, who also is a member of the board.

ON CHAPLIN'S motion, the County Board tossed the case back to the zoning board following an opinion from the state's attorney's office that all property owners had not been properly notified of the last hearing in August.

The area involved lies south of Dundee road and is surrounded on three sides by the village limits of Northbrook.

Chaplin wants the territory rezoned so that no home may be constructed on a lot any smaller than a half acre. Present zoning, in effect since early 1960, permits construction of homes on lots containing at least 10,000 [illegible]re feet, about a quarter-acre.

THE ZONING [illegible] has recommended approval of Chaplin's rezoning campaign. He is being fought by owners of some of the property involved. (B8

beautifully,
safely
cleaned

Luscious wraps of man-made "furs" now provide every wardrobe with the bloom of luxury. These synthetic furs, like natural furs, require special cleaning techniques. At L'Nor Cleaners, all the gentleness, care and know-how of master furrier and other approved methods are lavished on them. Using methods recognized by leading manufacturers, as well as the National Institute of Dry Cleaning, L'Nor provides the safest, gentlest, cleaning available anywhere.

CARE NOTE: Clean frequently to avoid excessive soiling, hang coat on coat hanger when not worn, and give the same fine care and consideration that you give your regular fur coat. Beautifully refreshed Borgana-type coats are returned to you in transparent plastic bags, at no additional cost.

Faulty Brakes Blamed in Accident

Northwest suburban area motorists welcomed the new year with a minimum of serious accidents, District 3 state police records show.

Among the more serious accidents in the past week, however, state police:

—On Friday, Jan. 6, cited Ray Myers, 34, of 1322 Wilson ave., Carpentersville, for faulty brakes after the car he was driving east on Illinois 68 rammed into the rear of another car stopped for a school bus, sending it into a third car in front of it.

The mishap occurred at Illinois 68 and Grove ave. in Palatine township a quarter mile east of U. S. 14. Driver of the second car, John F. Zimmer, 51, of 17 E. Dundee rd., Barrington, was taken to Northwest Community hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in the crash.

Driver of the first car, which had also stopped for the school bus, was identified as Richard R. Houswerth, 44, of 8 Alan dr., Algonquin. Damage to the three vehicles was estimated at $950.

—ON THE SAME date, Edward R. Mahoney, 42, of 223 W. Wayne pl., Wheeling, was charged with following too closely after the car he was driving west on Illinois 72 ran into the rear of an auto slowing for traffic at Wolf rd. Driver of the other car, Theophile T. Thibault, 47, of Box 295, Lincoln ln., Roselle, was shaken up in the crash and was to see his own doctor. Damage to the vehicles was figured at $350.

—On Thursday, Jan. 5, Patricia R. Carberry, of 320 Raupp, Buffalo Grove, was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way following a mishap at U. S. 12 and Central rd. in Wheeling township. Police said she was making a right hand turn onto Central rd. from U. S. 12 and was struck by a car headed west on Central rd. driven by John R. Schultz, 35, of 3710 Knollwood, Glenview. Miss Carberry suffered injuries which were treated at Northwest Community hospital. Damage to the vehicles was figured at $600.

—On the same date, Eugene M. Murawski, 37, of 1000 N. Rand, Arlington Heights, was charged with driving too fast for conditions after he was headed north on U. S. 12, applied his brakes and skidding into the rear of a car attempting a left hand turn a half a mile west of Euclid ave. in Wheeling township. Driver of the other car was identified as Charles R. Pedersen, 25, of 911 E. Miner, Arlington Heights. Murawski was shaken up in the mishap. Damage to the vehicles was estimated at around $950.

—On Wednesday, Jan. 4, John G. Goscinski, 21, of 3 N. Edward st., Mt. Prospect, was charged with improper lane usage after he was traveling east on Central rd. and attempted to turn left into a service station some two miles west of U. S. 45, colliding with a car going west driven by Sam V. Geati, 22, of 1117 W. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights. Geati suffered bruises, and was to see his own physician. Damage to the vehicles was figured at $1,000.

—ON MONDAY, Jan. 2, police cited Bernard A. LaBuda, 39, of 3239 N. Central Park, Chicago, for driving under the influence of alcohol and improper lane usage after he was going east on Illinois 72, and, attempting to stop for traffic ahead, swerved into a car going west in the opposite lane near the Soo Line tracks three-and-a-half miles west of U. S. 45.

Driver of the other car was Dixie L. Folden, of 13 Walnut st., Arlington Heights. There were no injuries. Damage to the vehicles was figured at $400.

Chaplin Hearing Slated for March

A week in March is the earliest the third public hearing can be held on County Commissioner Charles F. Chaplin's year old campaign to rezone 319 acres of unincorporated land in Northfield township.

The January and February hearing dates of the County Zoning Board are booked solidly, according to its secretary, Walter Popjoy, who also is a member of the board.

ON CHAPLIN'S motion, the County Board tossed the case back to the zoning board following an opinion from the state's attorney's office that all property owners had not been properly notified of the last hearing in August.

The area involved lies south of Dundee road and is surrounded on three sides by the village limits of Northbrook.

Chaplin wants the territory rezoned so that no home may be constructed on a lot any smaller than a half acre. Present zoning, in effect since early 1960, permits construction of homes on lots containing at least 10,000 [illegible] feet, about a quarter-acre.

THE ZONING [illegible] recommended approval of Chaplin's rezoning campaign. He is being fought by owners of some of the property involved. (B8

beautifully,

Luscious wraps of man-made "furs" now provide every wardrobe with the bloom of luxury. These synthetic furs, like natural furs, require special cleaning techniques. At L'Nor Cleaners, all the gentleness, care and know-how of master furrier and other approved methods are lavished on them. Using methods recognized by leading manufacturers, as well as the National Institute of Dry Cleaning, L'Nor provides the safest, gentlest, cleaning available anywhere.

CARE NOTE: Clean frequently to avoid excessive soiling, hang coat on coat hanger when not worn, and give the same fine care and consideration that you give your regular fur coat. Beautifully refreshed Borgana-type coats are returned to you in transparent plastic bags, at no additional cost.
